every year there are changes but 1971 brought special changes. change came in the form of new ideas, new businesses, and a new look.

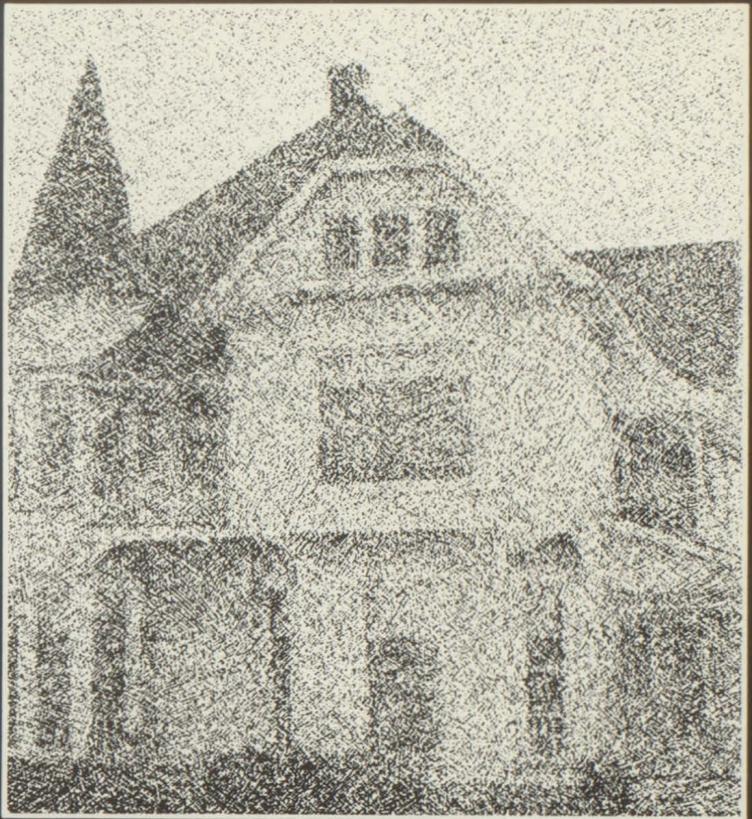

different faces came from japan, new jersey, missouri, gary, and chicago.

area vocational students were from frankton, alexandria, tipton, madison-grant, and shelbyville. along with willkie high students the total enrollment was 825.

hair styles and fashions were varied among e.h.s. students. garb expressed the individual. mini, midi, maxi, leather, fringe, and long hair. all related to our earlier heritage.

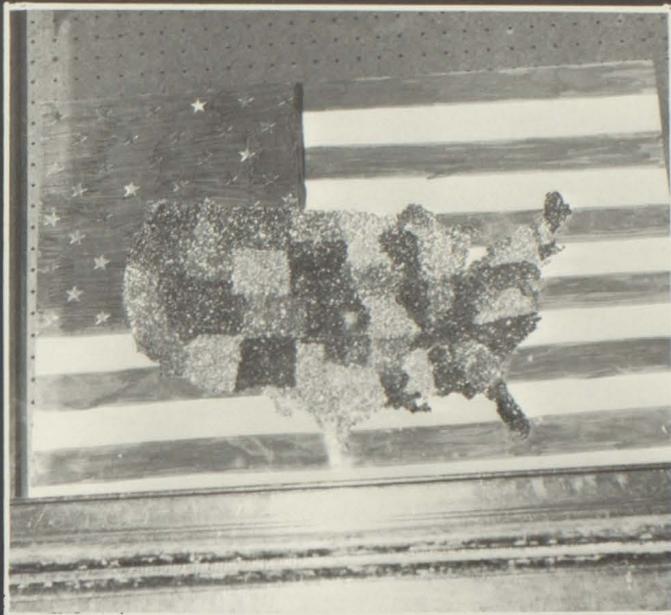

new businesses and homes were built in elwood. modernization and relocation were done by some firms. businesses offered jobs for e.h.s. students and places to shop for local citizens. the drive-ins on both ends of the big 1 provided places to congregate. new homes and businesses contrasted with the old and showed the feats of progress.

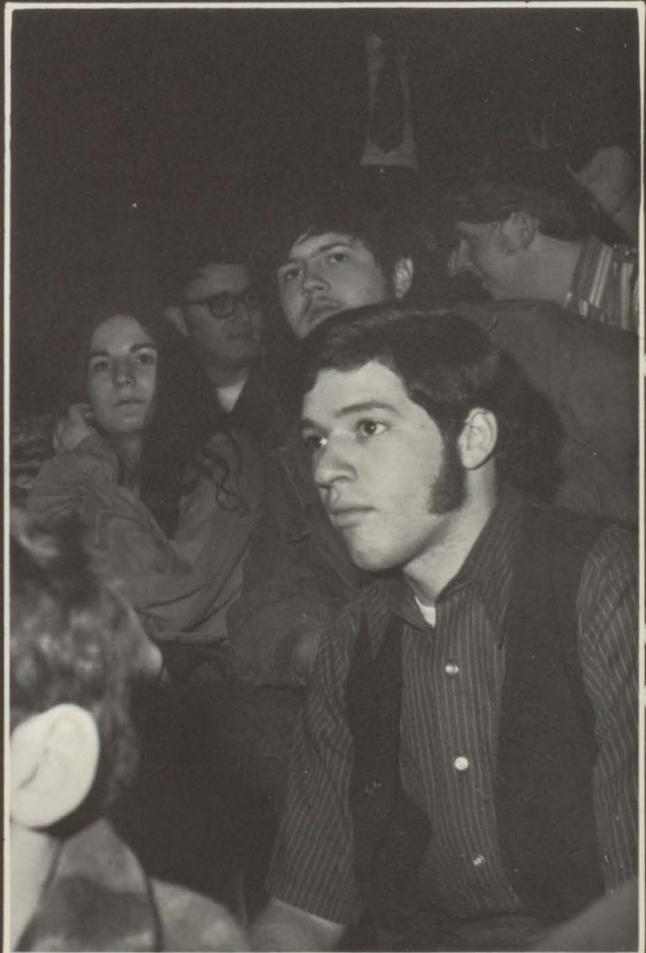

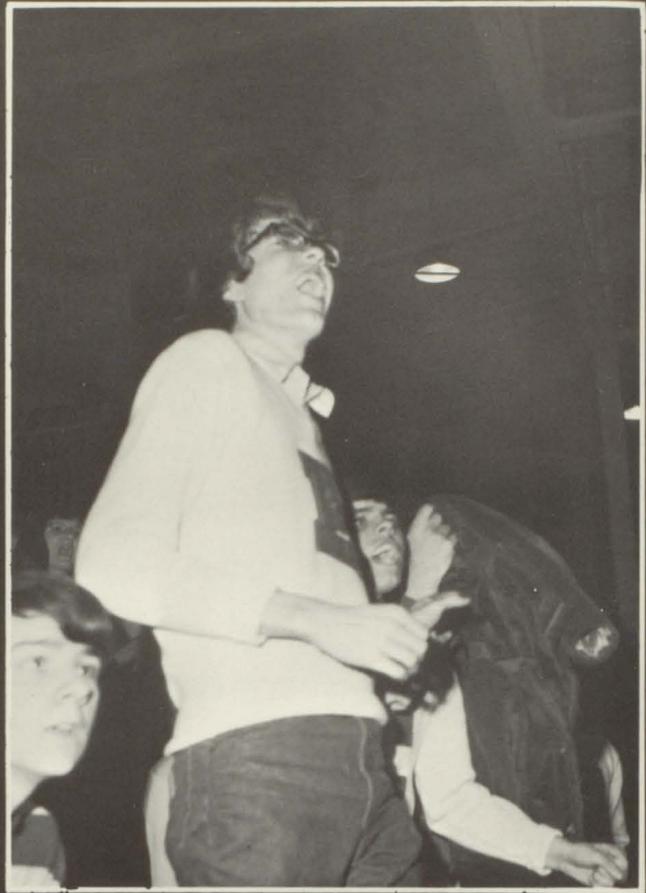

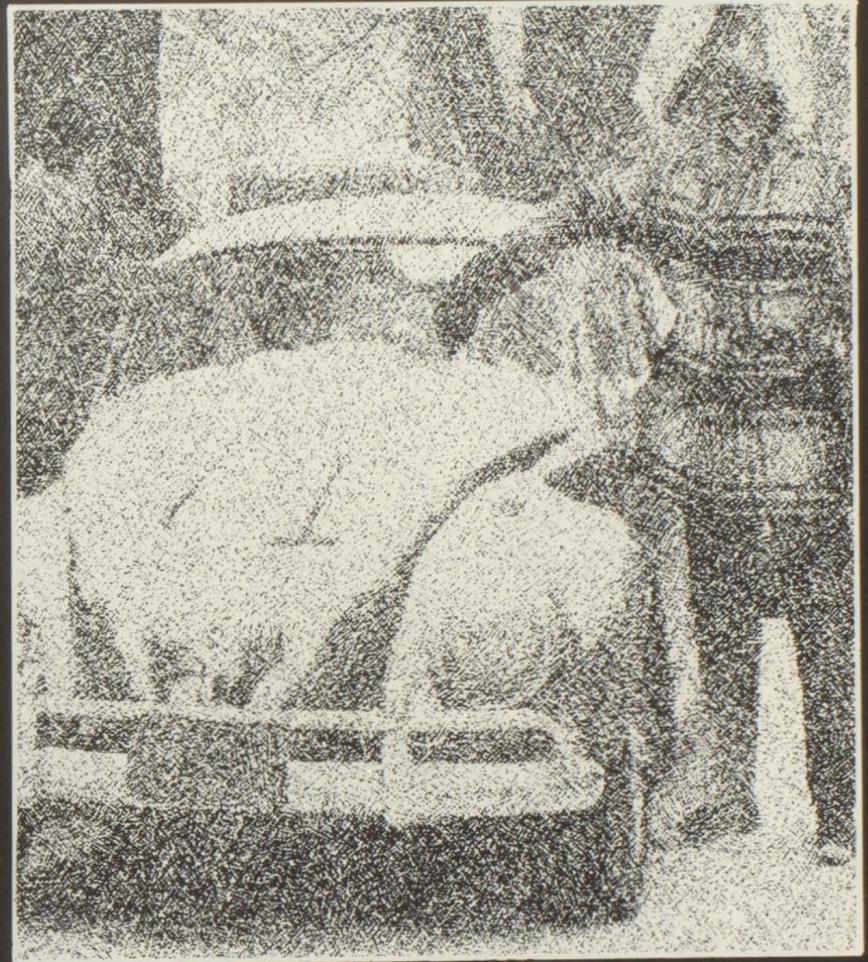

elwood and willkie high are a part of the world. involvement with our world changed ideas and attitudes. creeping into existence were feelings of apathy vs. spirit, patriotism vs. non-conformity. personality showed through with individual tastes, concern, and personal happiness. these ideas appear new to our generation and some are new, but a majority of these ideas have been around since the beginning of time.

Special Lights, Spirited Music, Peppy Routines: Varieties 1970.

The 1970 Varieties was the usual favorite and successful show. Directed by Clifford Brugger, the band began with the flashy "Mus-tang March", and was followed by "Carnival in Venice", a trumpet solo by Band Captain Kris Knauer. Pantherettes delighted the audience with "Hey Big Spender", "Getting to Know You", and "Button Up Your Overcoat". The Willkie Choir and Swing Choir sang several numbers. Dance Band soloists were Penny Williams, Pete Wingrove, LuAnn Tanzilli, and Tim Edgell.

The Marx Brothers section, emceed by Connie Parker and Greg Cole, featured soloists Carmen Garcia and JoAnn VanWinkle, the "Bits and Pieces Band", and the Kaleidoscopes.

Other show numbers included the Junior High Choir, the band's flute players, french horn players, Tom Moser at the organ, Linda Leonard singing "Somewhere My Love", the top ten twirlers, and Vicki Huff and Jerry Hoffman in a scene from Camelot.

Majorettes thrilled the audience with the reminder of "Button Up Your Overcoats."

Swinging to "The King and I" are majorettes Pam Poynter and Candy Gootee.

With a monologue JoAnn VanWinkle expresses the problems of a little girl.

Playing along to "Fiddler on the Roof" are Mr. Brugger, Jack Miller, and Ted King.

Announcers were C. Parker and G. Cole.

Presenting "C'est La Vie" is Carmen Garcia.

Instruments, Batons, and Voices Released Talent at Spring Sing.

At Spring Sing the choir presented a medley of Cole Porter numbers and the Swing Choir went modern with "Aquarius" and "Let the Sunshine In."

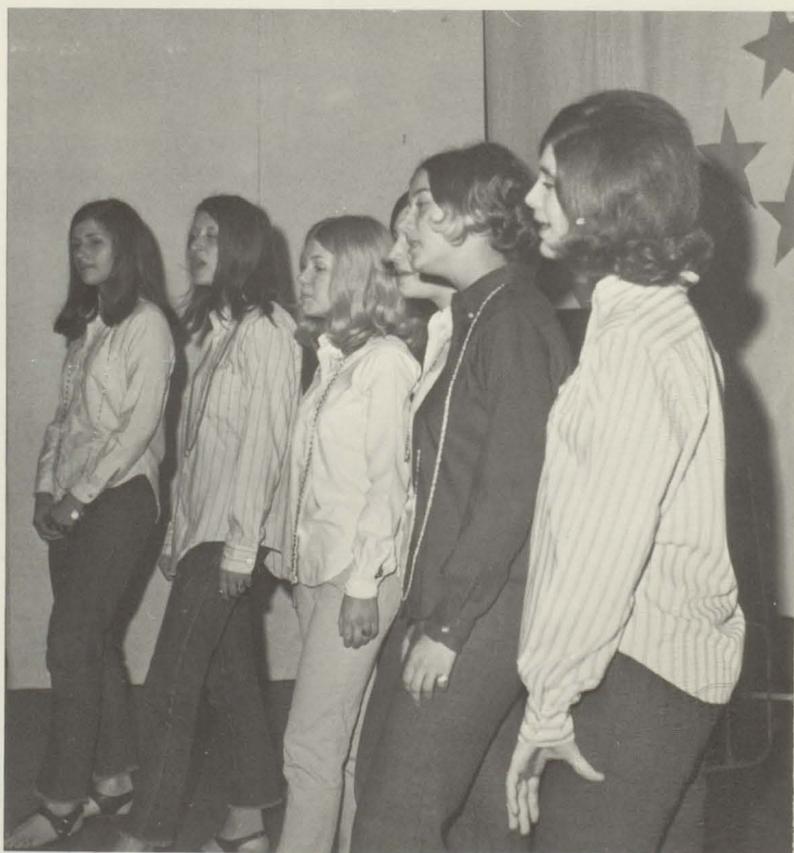

Featured soloists were Connie Durm with "Moonglow", Linda Leonard with "Where Can I Go?" and "Good Morning, Starshine", and Jerry Hoffman with "I Can't Help Falling in Love With You". The duet by Peggy Weismiller and John Fitzpatrick was "All I Have to Do Is Dream."

Singing groups were the Velveteens, the Kaleidoscopes, the Counterpoints, and Renner's Kids.

The Dance Band featured saxophonist Pete Wingrove in "Tequila" and Pennie Williams in "Sweet Georgia Brown." Tim Edgell presented a drum solo and Bob Peters and Ted King played the duet "Theme from the Apartment."

Dance band members Nola Rittenhouse and Nancy Norris display their saxophone talent.

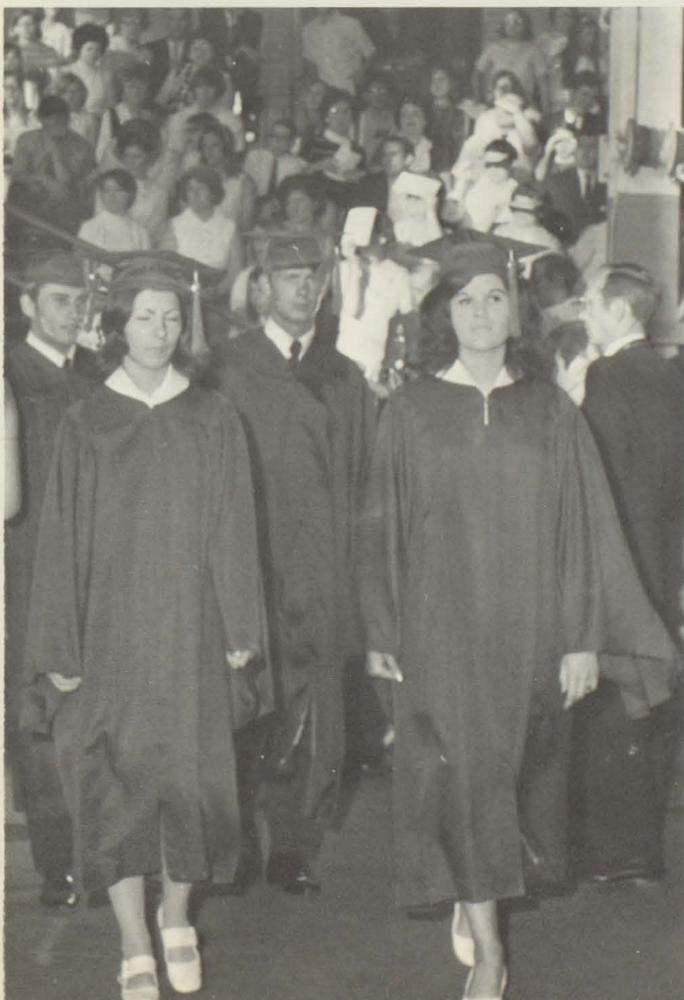

A popular group around Willkie was the Velveteens who sang several selections.

Caps, Gowns, and Diplomas Started a New Facet of Life for Seniors.

Almost 200 Seniors listened intently to the commencement address by Senator Vance Hartke.

Marching to "Pomp and Circumstance" are Jill Benedict and Judy Blankenship.

The Class of 1970, in navy caps and gowns, entered the gym to "Pomp and Circumstance". The honor students were distinctive with gold tassels on their caps. Senator Vance Hartke, in his address, emphasized the role of the graduates in the years ahead.

As they received their diplomas, they showed mixed emotions about this important step.

Joyfully Shari Albers received her long-awaited diploma.

Flowers, Candles, and Soft Music
Enhanced the Romantic Scene
at the 1970
Prom.

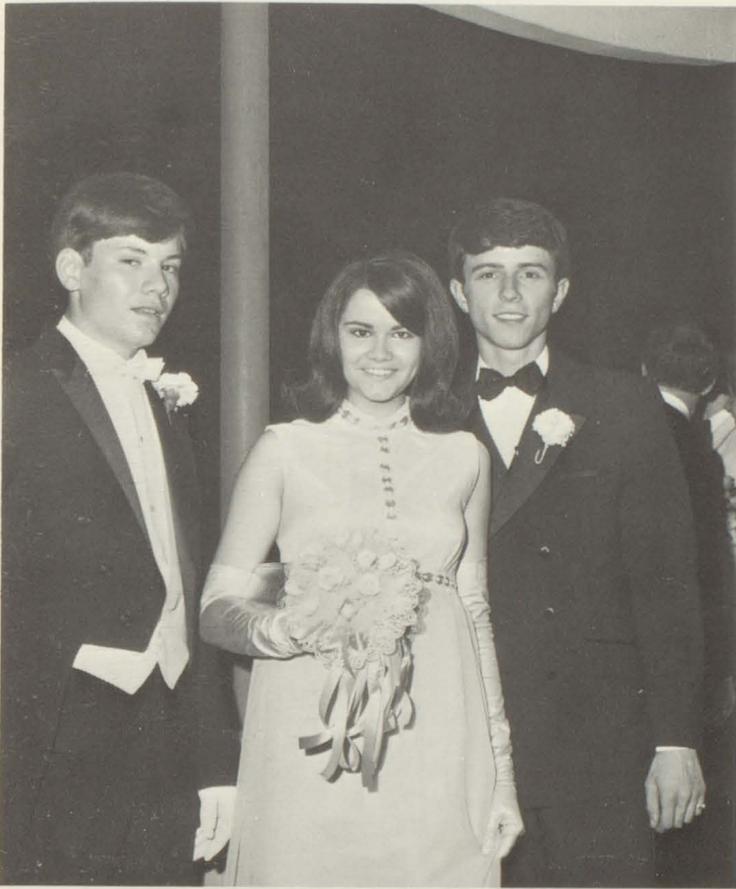

Carmen Garcia, with the Queen's roses, was waiting for the winner.

Surprised and beaming with joy, Pennie Williams received her official crown from Dan Prieshoff.

Modern music by the Gib Gentry Band enlivened "An Affair to Remember".

Doorman Steve Mengelt greeted guests Kathy Low and Greg Cole as well as many others.

As the theme implied, the Junior-Senior Prom was truly "An Affair to Remember" by many. Prom-goers entered into an array of flowers which lined the sides and ceiling of the corridor, the entrance to the enchanting world of fountains and fantasy.

Prom-goers danced to romantic music, and enjoyed refreshments at candlelit tables adorned with colorful tablecloths. The guests were served by freshman girls dressed in semi-formals.

Climaxing the evening's activities was the crowning of Pennie Williams as the Queen of the 1970 Prom. Dan Prieshoff, Junior Class president, crowned the queen and presented each girl in the court with a gift. The Queen's throne was a rose-covered swing, suspended in a garden of flowers and fountains on either side.

The after-prom dance at the Elwood Country Club was sponsored by the city's service clubs.

The Queen and her court were Peggy Weismiller, Peggy Updegraff, Pennie Williams, Connie Parker, and Leatha Long.

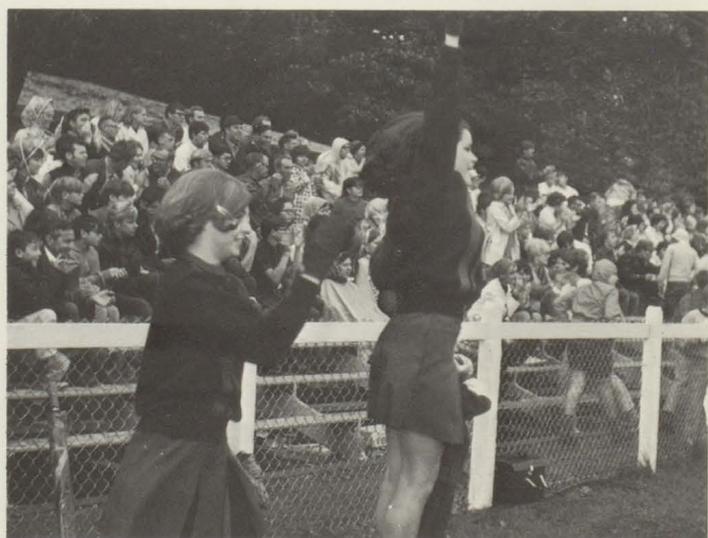

Rain, Tensions, a

Marked
Homecoming
1970.

Panther Don Smith is slipping loose with the ball from the Tiger tackles.

Crowning of 1970 Homecoming Queen Miss LeAnn Harting highlighted festivities.

Neither rain nor mud could daunt spirits. Kathy Low and Vicki Huff lead the cheers.

Good tips to Bruce Ball from Coach Moore.

September 26th marked the 1970 Homecoming. Rain cancelled what would have been the best parade ever, but did not stop a respectable game against the Alexandria Tigers. They held a 6-point advantage over the Panthers. But the local team rallied in the second half with Don Powell's touchdown. Elwood failed to get the extra point, leaving the score 6--6 at the end.

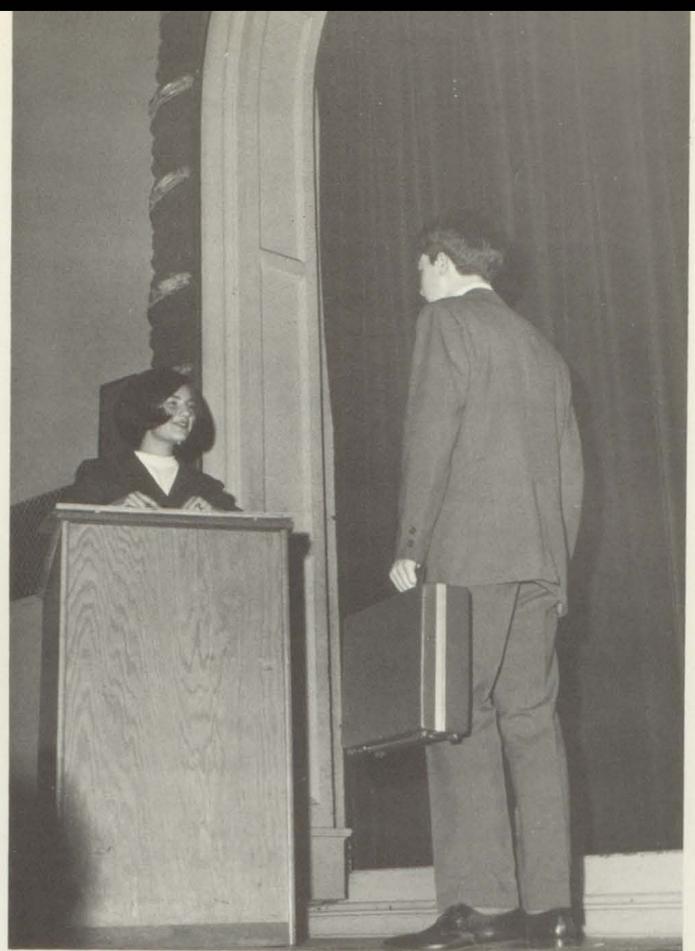

At halftime, minus the Panther Band providing background music due to the rain-soaked field, the crowning of the queen took place. The five queen candidates, Jenny Gough, LeAnn Harting, Janet Murphy, Cathy Richardson, and JoAnn VanWinkle, were presented. Miss LeAnn Harting was crowned by 1970 Queen Miss Sandy Fakes.

Shivering, and waiting the final word, are Homecoming Queen hopefuls JoAnn, Cathy, Janet, LeAnn, Jenny, 1969 Queen Sandy, and escorts.

Suspense, Action and Drama Involved.

"Flight into Danger", the junior class play, was presented April 21-22, 1970. At the opening, preparations for a chartered airplane flight were being made. Later the captain and co-captain, as well as several passengers, were stricken with food poisoning. The fate of the passengers lay in the hands of the stewardess and one passenger who tried to land safely. But the plane was guided by the ground director from the control tower.

When illness struck, the captain was trying to find a doctor among the passengers.

Actors, Laughter, and Spotlights Created Play.

"The Perfect Idiot" entertained the audiences November 19-20, 1970. The play centered around the boy-genius who was disliked by other students. Through bribery to help the star athlete pass, he began to make himself more popular. Finally the play ended in a fun-filled climax. Director--Mr. Sempsrott, Student director--Kathy Pike, Cast--B. Green, C. Richardson, B. Courtney, M. Tancey, D. Beeman, P. Clouser, C. Garcia, A. Kane, J. VanWinkle, A. Leisure, M. Summers, K. Low, K. Reynolds, B. Williams, P. Widmeyer.

Behind any play are committees. The stage crew is preparing the living room scene.

The psychiatrist and soap manufacturer exchange opinions about the perfect idiot.

Academics

There are many ingredients for success in today's world, but among those most important stands academic excellence. Education, an absolute necessity in today's world has always been the purpose of Willkie High School. Through academics the backbone of our school the student is prepared for a future.

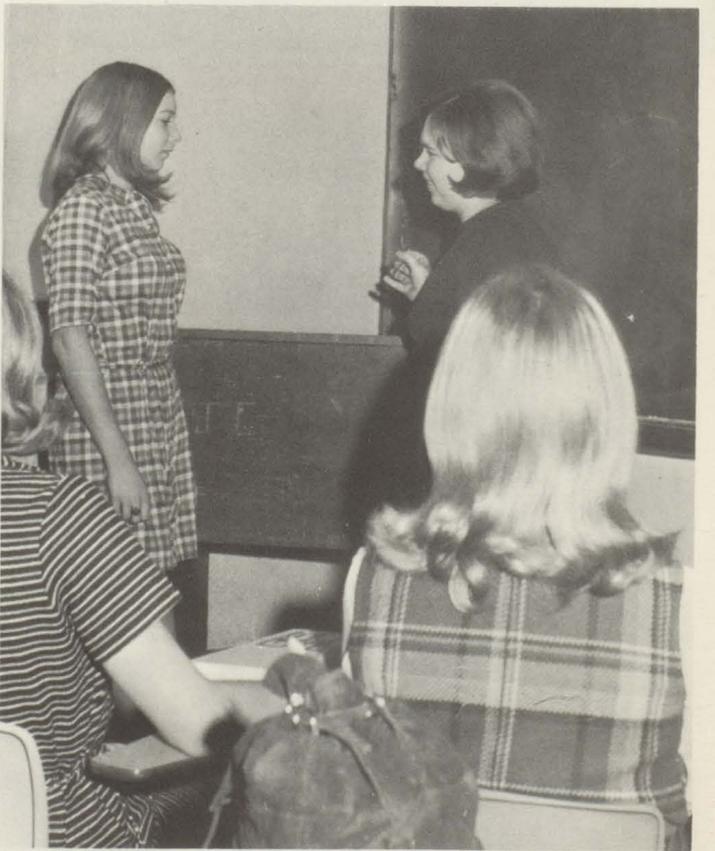

The Megaphone dummy was put together by H. Kelich, M. Tancey, L. Savage, L. Kane.

In an original skit D. Piirto got in the way of C. Walters and P. Hankley's fight.

Group theme grading was done by J. Davis, B. Whisler, T. Conwell, S. Rodriguez.

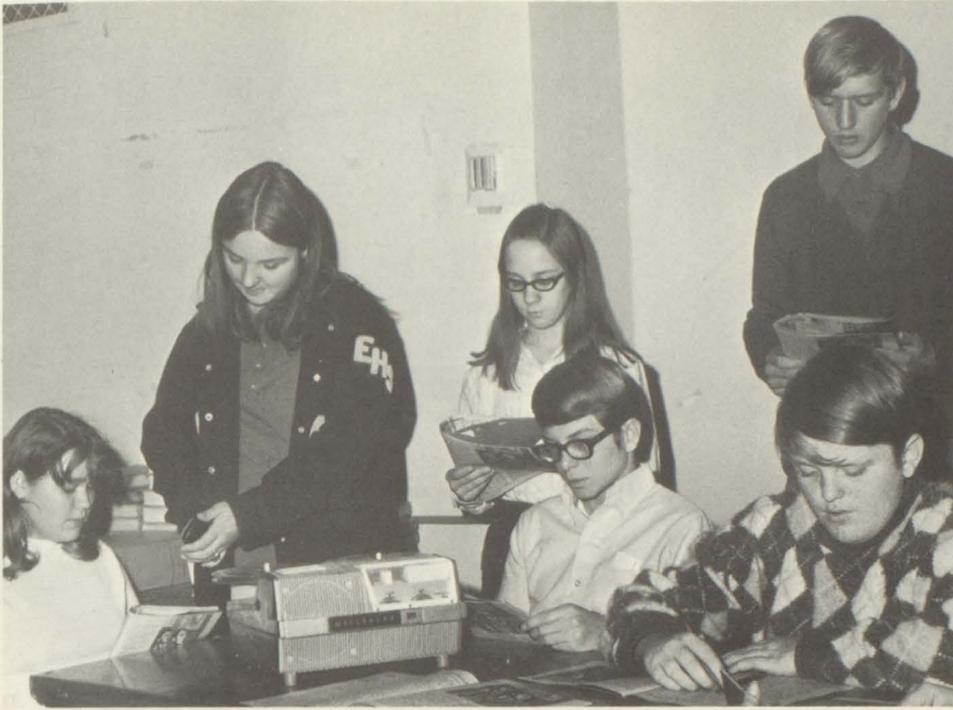

In speech class A. Leisure could not convince K. Kiefer to buy her product.

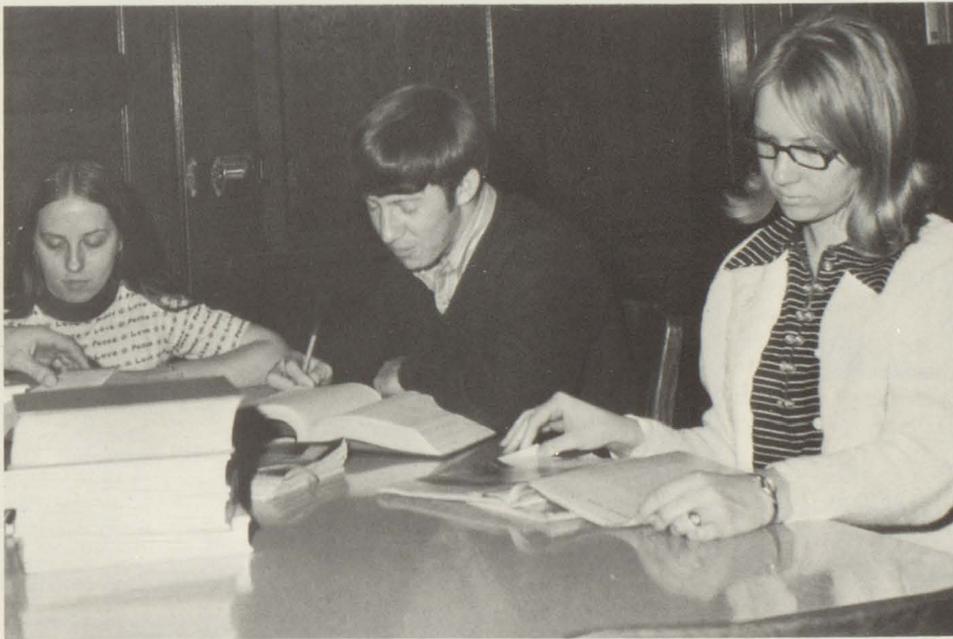

Skills and Appreciation Developed in English.

The English department has been organized with the purpose of helping the students learn their language in order to write, speak, and think clearly and to read with insight.

The classes offered are English and American literature, grammar, journalism, speech, honors English, advanced composition. Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors were required to take grammar the first semester and literature the second semester. Seniors may take honors English and advanced composition.

Tape recording a play in English were V. Snider, D. Eib, J. Abbott, D. Karch, A. Jackson, and C. Ploughe.

Term paper research forced Marilyn Pedro, Tom Oldag, and Jean Pearson to the library.

Films, movies, panel discussions, and records are used to widen the scope of the classes. Students may find themselves writing short stories and plays. Juniors get to do their first term papers on any topic they choose.

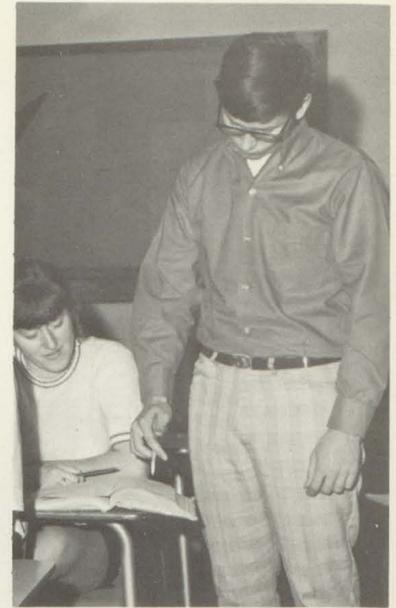

The journalism class edits the Megaphone and the Willkie High World, and prepares news for the broadcast over WBMP.

In conclusion Dave Durm pointed out his views.

This geometry bulletin board was done by Emma and Debbie.

Senior math students T. Shepard and A. Baugher

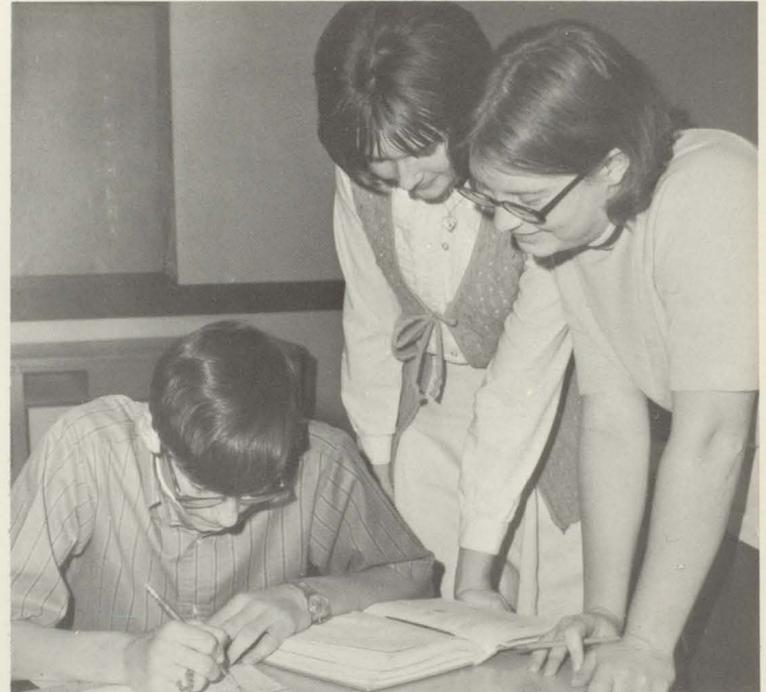

New book means homework for M. Slayton.

New Math Books Updated the Courses

Almost every day one uses mathematical knowledge. The math courses offered were at a level for each student -- general math, beginning and advanced algebra, geometry, and senior math. Geometry classes used an overhead projector for proving theorems and drawing geometrical figures. Math equipment was measuring devices, the blackboard, and "pounds" of chalk.

Tom Oldag and Jerry Bomholt took part in the annual Franklin College math contest. Jerry placed 21st in 100 contestants.

L. Doan and M. Frye help A. Davenport.

Figuring out a problem were Gary and Terry.

The country for study is shown by K. Low, K. Reynolds, P. Clouser, K. Seright.

Personality trait analysis interested Linda Sullivan and Kim Slocum.

Continuing tradition, D. Elsworth constructed a medieval manor.

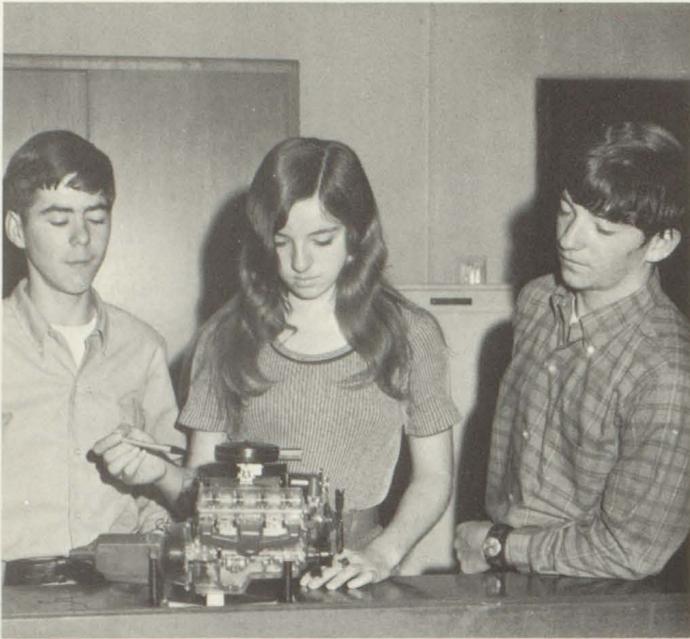

Social Studies Courses Looked into the Past and Toward the Future

This year of national elections proved very interesting for many social studies students. They became involved in discussions on Vietnam, social conditions, and other government issues which showed the concerns of youth.

A speaker from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare told of social problems and proposed solutions.

Classes offered in this department were world history, U.S. history, geography, sociology, psychology, civics, and economics. Group projects, panel discussions, term papers, and individual reports and projects were all part of the activity.

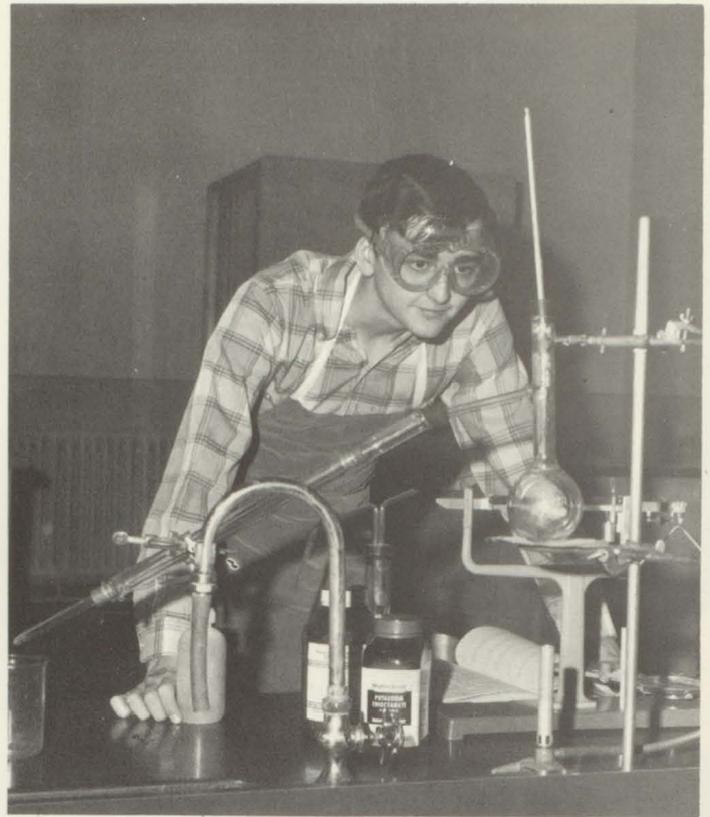

Explaining an internal combustion engine to B. Weaver and D. Buis was P. Wilson.

Science Courses Laid the Foundations for the Scientific World

The science-minded students enrolled in classes in physics, chemistry, physical science, and general and advanced biology. The classes made use of film loops, film strips, films, and overhead projectors to further explain the topic discussed.

Physics, physical science, and chemistry consisted of text work and experiments. General and advanced biology used the text and did dissections, lab practicals, and microscope work. Special projects were rock collections, leaf collections, research papers, and the planting of trees. Tim Garner worked on building a laser.

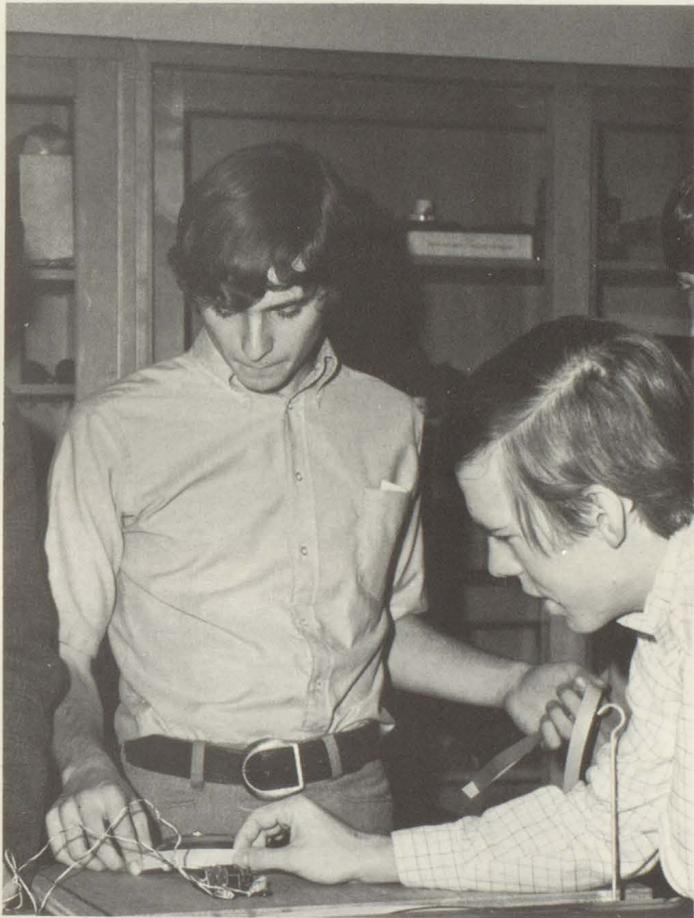

Fractional distillation of petroleum was measured by Chemist Ron Gill.

Biology of pond water was observed by Tom Oldag in advanced biology.

Accurate answers on a slide rule were read by JoAnn VanWinkle and Mark Kelley.

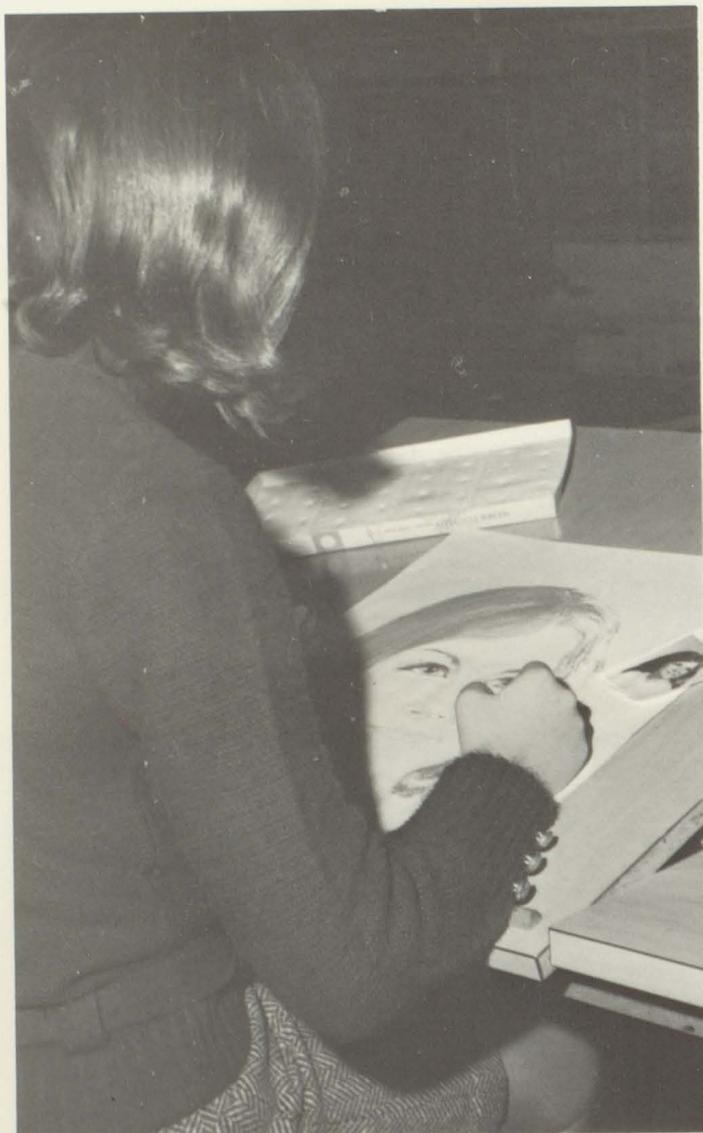

Experimenting for frequency were Hal Shepard and Kim Shaw.

Amused at the dissection of the frog were Brenda Dudley and Vicki Freund.

Weighing and recording loss of water were Vida Mutchler and Mike Gardner.

A chalk sketch of Kathy Bambrough was a project of Carolyn Updike.

Expressing her creativity in modern art was Sandy Parker.

Student Gerald Hughes made his contribution to the art room in a poster.

Art Demanded Creativity of Student

An attempt was made in the art classes at Willkie to develop creative thinkers. The first-year art students experienced drawing and design of still life, tempera paintings of drawings, lettering, commercial design.

The second-year students enjoyed drawing, design, composition, watercolor painting, block printing.

Third-year students went on to drawing and composition, acrylic painting, silk screening, and other projects.

Lettering and numbering in an ancient style was Dwight Gross.

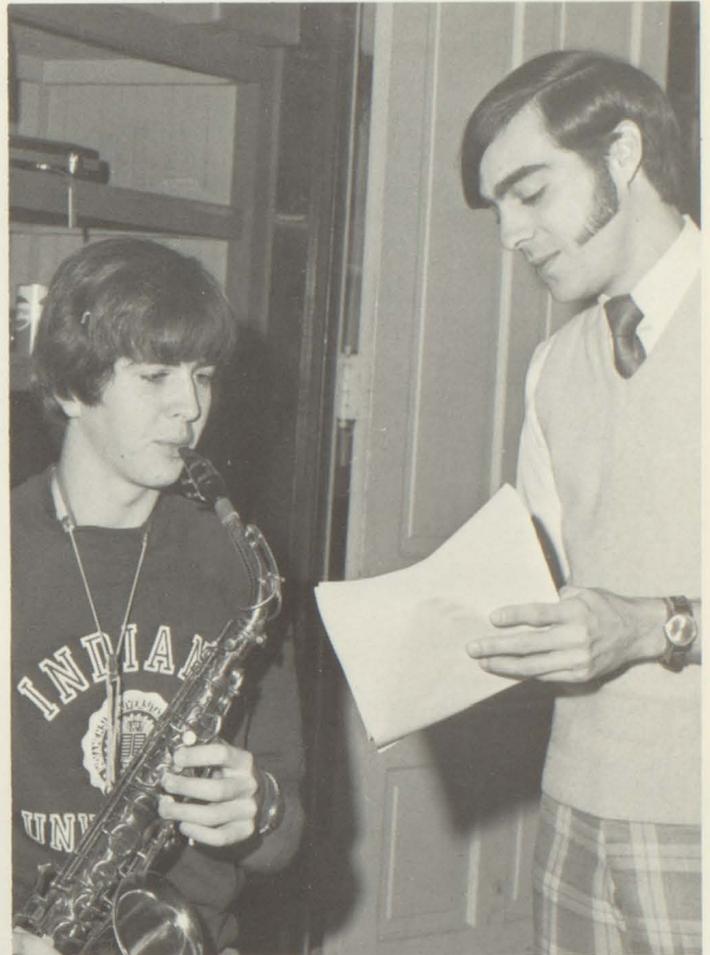

Classic and rock were studied in music appreciation as shown by these three.

A solemn piece of music meant hard work for members of the choir.

Moving to contemporary music meant not only work but also fun.

Private instrumental lessons were given by Mr. Parente to student Jeff Leathers.

Music Was Studied in Every Phase

Music was studied in all phases at Willkie High School. Music classes were choir, music appreciation, band, and private lessons.

The choir prepared special numbers for the Spring Sing, Sing out for Servicemen, Variety Show, and songs for some convocations.

Music appreciation classes listened and studied every form of music and learned about composers and their style of music.

The band prepared half-time shows for basketball and football games, and prepared for parades.

Private lessons were for students wishing to further their musical talent.

French art is observed.

M. Magers and C. Pace used card games to learn words.

Foreign Languages Broke Communication Barrier

One of the most useful and interesting subjects is the studying of the language and customs of a country.

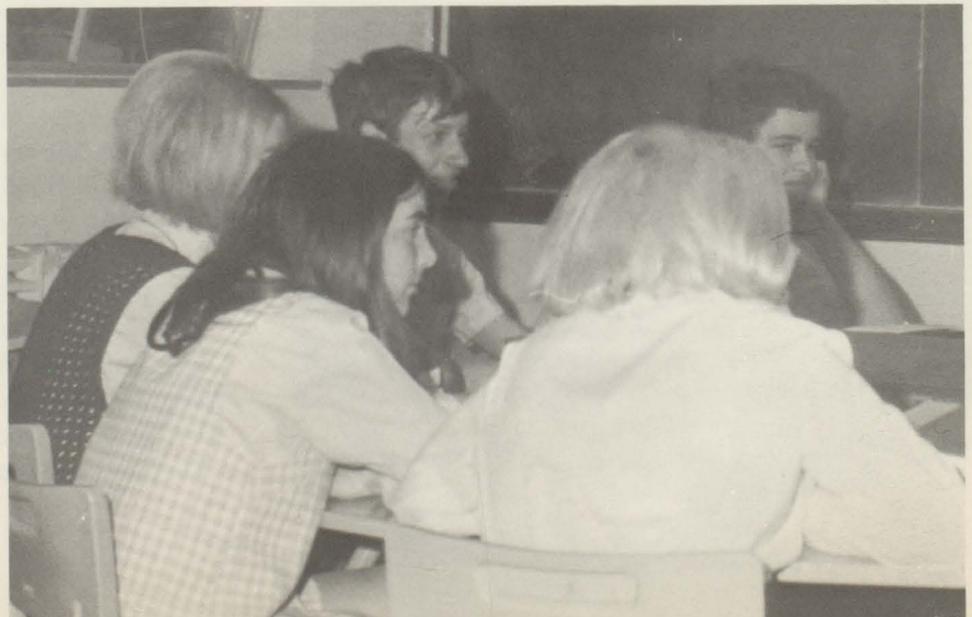

Spanish, the language of our Latin American friends, was offered for three years at Willkie. Spanish I and II students used the consolette for lessons; filmstrips to show customs of Mexico, South America, and Spain, a tape recorder for vocabulary words; and Spanish conversations. Third-year students read Spanish magazines and newspapers, held discussions, and gave skits for other Spanish classes.

French is often considered one of the most beautiful languages. Students learned to tell time in French, listened to records that went along with the magazine to which they subscribed, gave short skits, prepared reports on French history and famous Frenchmen, studied French paintings and other French accomplishments.

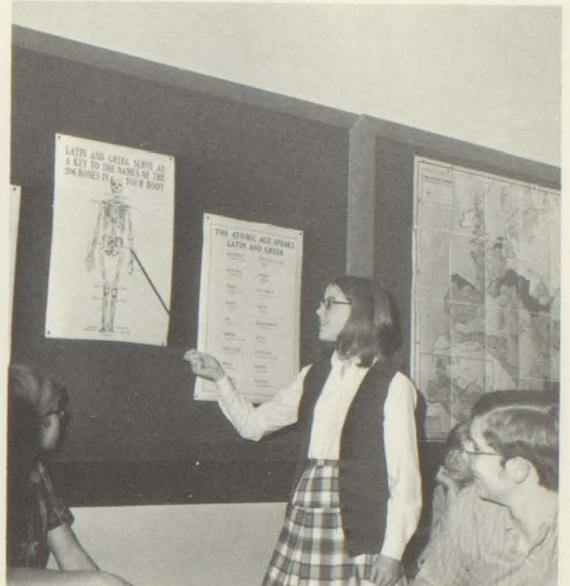

A dictionary broke the language barrier for D. Miller, B. Burton.

Spanish III students had discussions on major topics.

Reading French magazines were Gary Johnson, Don Smith, and Jeff Fihe.

Latin names for bones were given by Christy Davies.

Before a quiz Cindy Smith studied her French verbs.

Listening to tape on the suzette helped in Latin for J. Jackson, T. Davis, P. Davis.

Latin is considered the basis for many foreign languages. Latin students benefited from filmstrips in Latin showing historical background and pictures for teaching vocabulary. The consolette was used frequently to present the lessons and then students used what they had heard.

Hitting a volleyball across the net is Susan Armstrong.

First aid skills are practiced on Clare Williams.

Summer P.E. classes enjoyed days at the pool.

Team competition in sports is used in boys' P.E.

Physical Ability Measured in P.E.

Physical education was a break from academic work. There were such activities as volleyball, soccer, folk dancing, wrestling. P.E. was also offered in summer school and the classes included swimming, softball, and tennis.

The P.E. teachers also taught health. The purpose of the class was to provide facts about the body and the workings of the mind which may, in some small way, prepare the students for adulthood.

Project posters by Debbie Frazier, Karen Brewer, and Brenda Carroll get final touches.

Before taking off for a summer drive, Angela Waymire gives a nervous smile.

Warning posters are an annual project.

Possible engine problems are pointed out to Jackie Walters by Mr. Hicks.

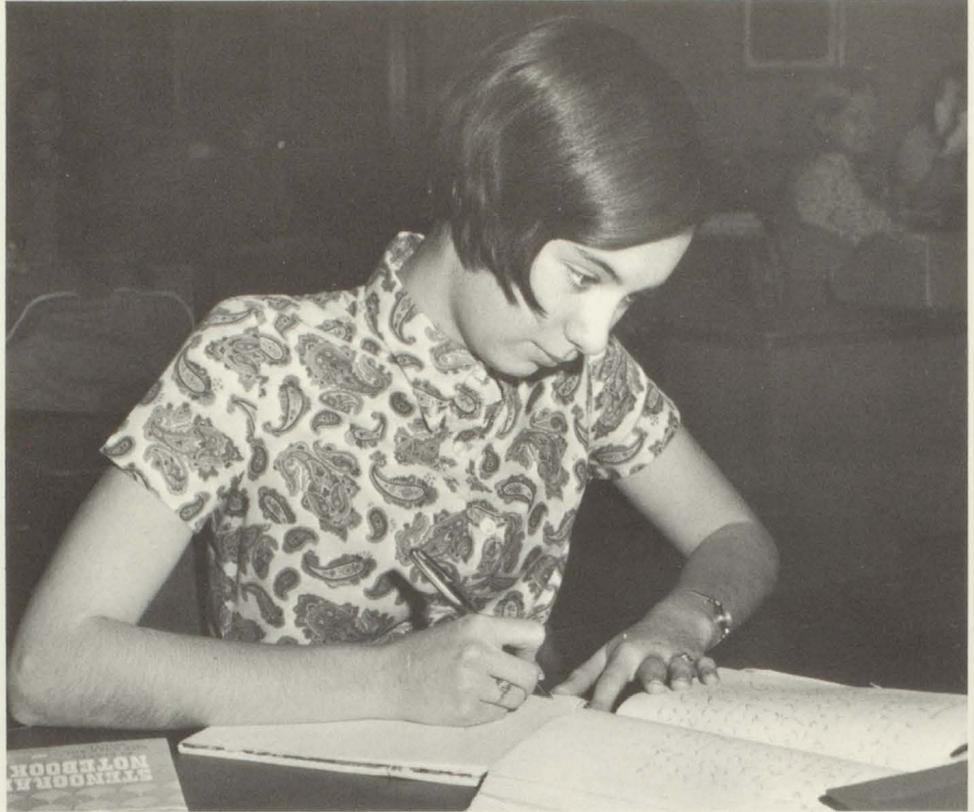

Narcotics, Driver's Ed Are Appreciated Now

Driver's education, an elective, is offered in the regular year and in summer school to those at least 15 years old. In addition to learning the fundamentals of operating an automobile, students were informed of laws for safe driving, and the parts of an automobile and how they operate.

Narcotics classes had interesting discussions, viewed films, and made posters. Filmstrips and many small books and pamphlets were given by the State Board of Health. A highlight of the year was a trip to a local drug store to stress the importance of strict drug control.

Working on a bookkeeping manual was Jeanie Hobson.

A shorthand lesson was started by Carolyn McClain.

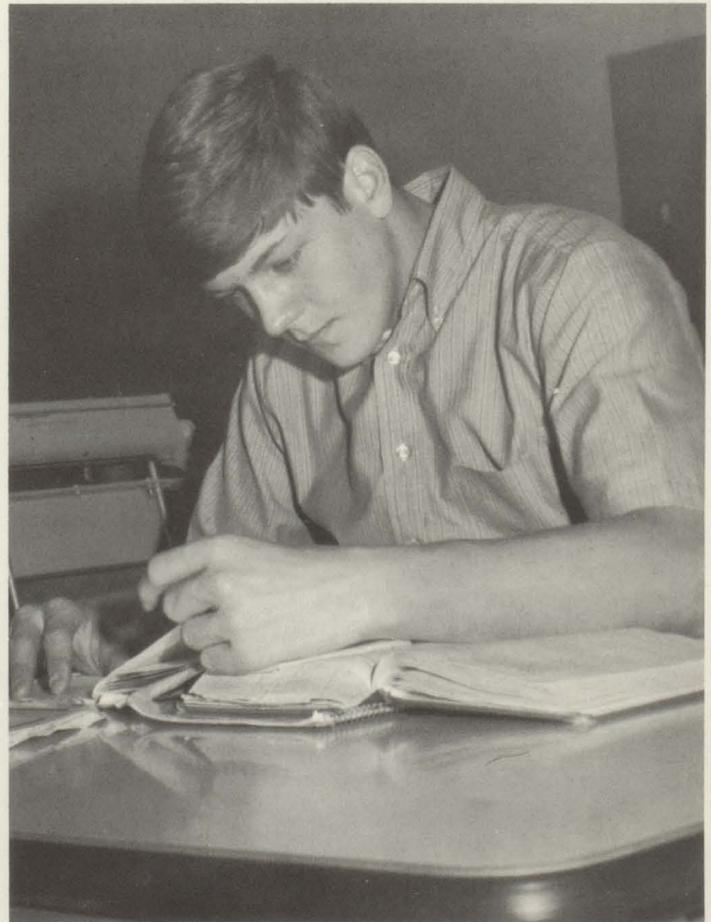

E.H.S. Students Learned Business Practices

Business classes at the high school and vocational school trained business-minded students in office work.

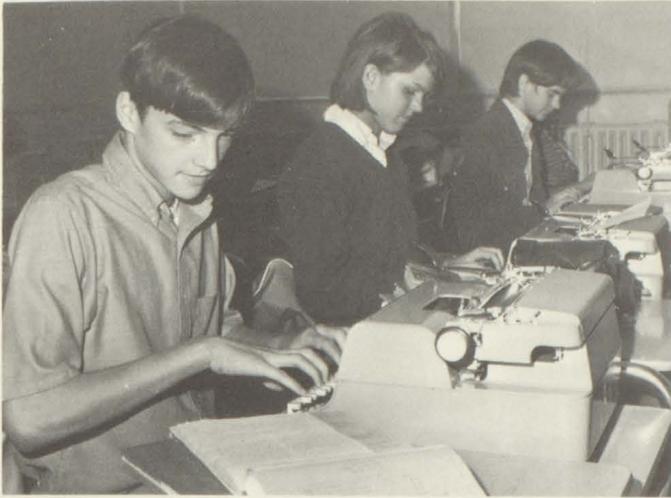

General business gives the student a good start in the business world by teaching him the fundamentals of business.

Business math was an important class for business students. This class teaches everything from figuring deductions on paychecks to reading the stock market.

Business typing was helpful to everyone. This course teaches students how to type and then how to apply this skill to typing in business. Students could then further their typing skills by taking advanced typing, in which they aimed for more speed with accuracy.

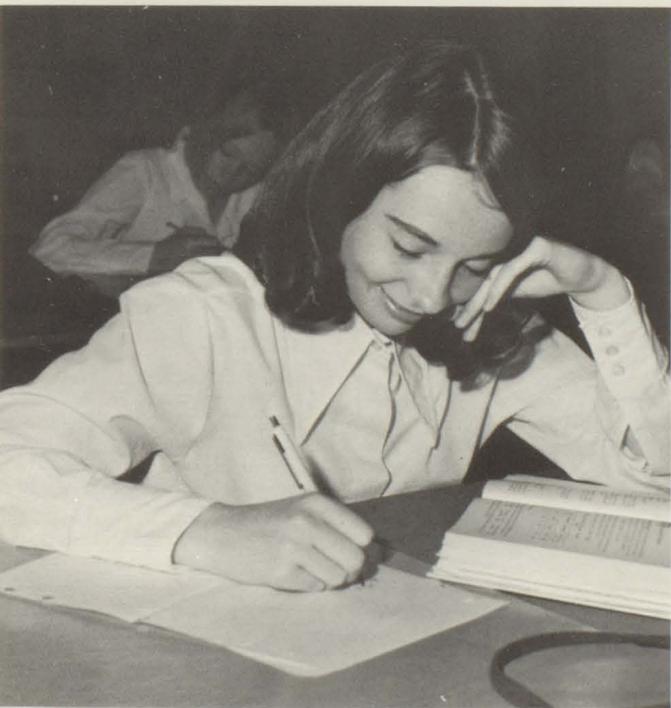

In bookkeeping student Rusty Loy closed the entries for the day.

Typing were T. Giselbach, P. Smith, D. Long

Finishing his workbook was J. Pierce.

Checking her assignment for the day in business math was Diane Shepard.

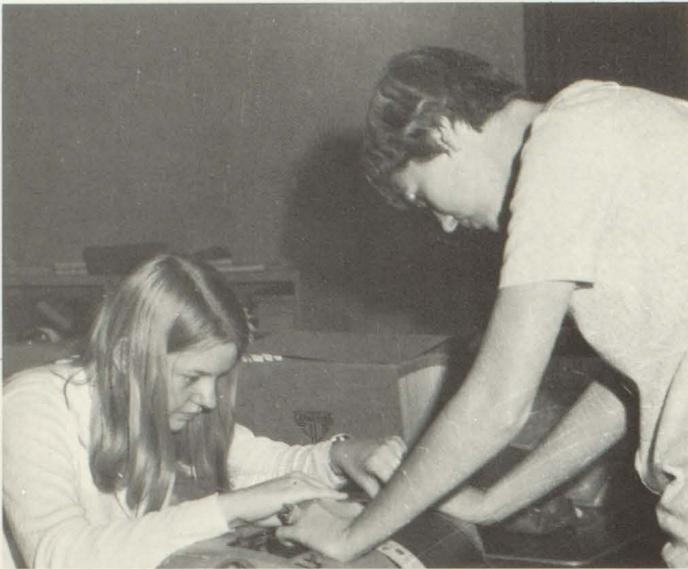

Sophomore Mary Jo Alley concentrated on her business typing.

Shorthand was a must for future secretaries. This class teaches the fundamentals of shorthand with speed and accuracy.

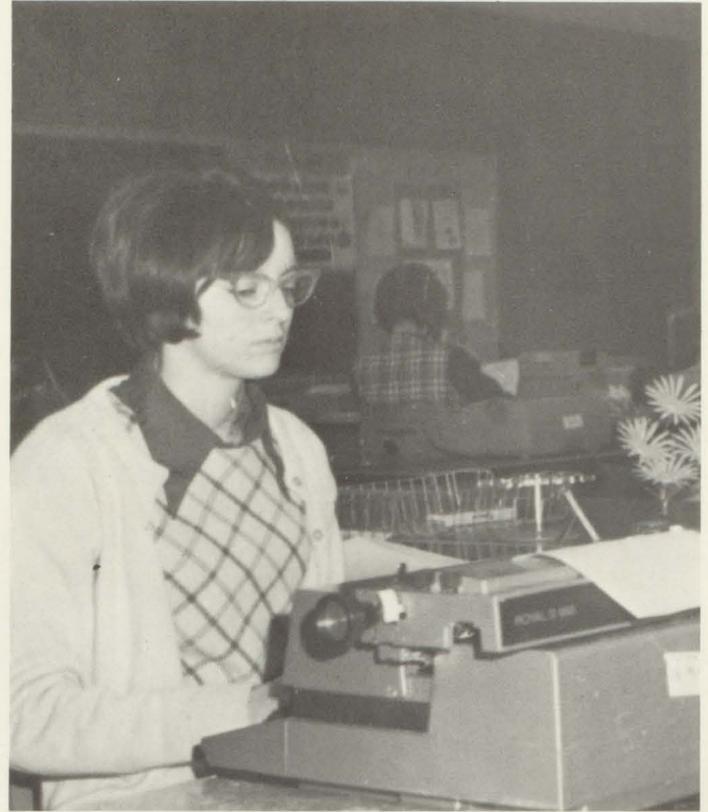

Recordkeeping was an advanced form of bookkeeping. Bookkeeping with the help of visual aids and practice sets was like real bookkeeping setups.

Two other classes were office machines and office procedures. These were one-semester classes and this was the first year office machines had been a separate class. Office machines taught the student how to use the calculating machines such as the ten-key and rotary calculator, duplicating machines, and dictating machines.

Office procedures carried out the training a little farther by explaining when and how to use these machines to one's advantage.

Setting the margins on a selectric IBM typewriter were L. Budd and P. Clouser.

Typing a master was a tedious skill for Secretary Wanda Green.

VST and VCT Involves Actual Office Machines

V.S.T.-V.C.T. was a three-hour lab for seniors in which they experienced real office activities. They learned to produce acceptable work of various kinds for faculty members and local businesses, and to meet deadlines, an important need in offices.

Through the lab the students improved their skills in shorthand, typing, bookkeeping, duplicating of all types, and other office procedures.

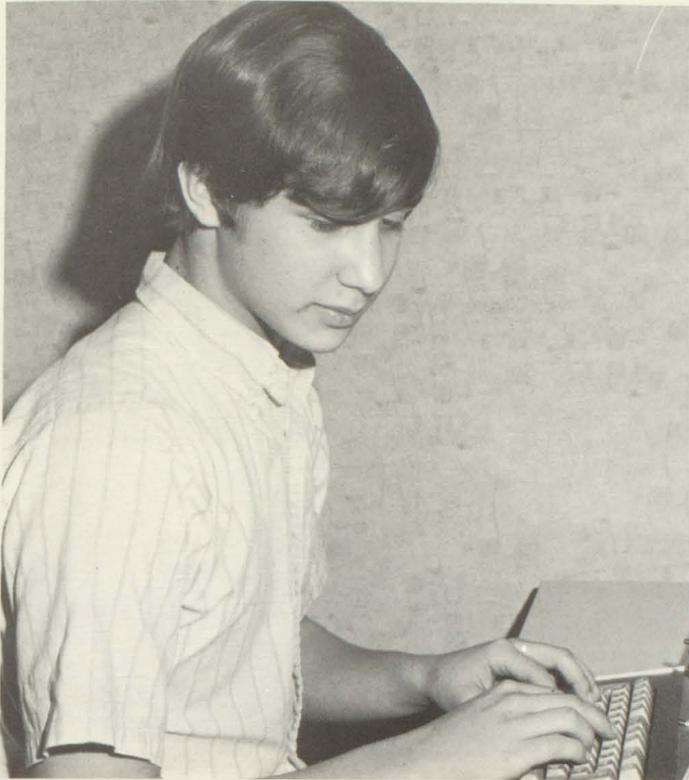

Each student did research on a particular firm or business, gathering data on the history, products, and services rendered. They read books or articles on new business trends each week.

Field trips included Mercy Hospital, Small's, R.C.A., a Marion bank, and the finance center in Indianapolis.

The class actively participated in O.E.A., a co-curricular organization for office labs. The club had many money-making and civic projects. The students also attended the regional leadership conference and state and national conventions.

Placing a roll of paper in the adding machine were Judy French and Mrs. Barnett.

Operating the key punch which makes holes in computer cards was T. Williams.

B. Rinker, M. Salinas, and S. Stokes collected cards from sorting machine.

Hammersplits were set by Lanetta Smith and Sandi Coston.

Computers Came and Brought Changes

Data processing is a relatively new field of science and is in its second year in Elwood Schools. Vocational data processing is a three-hour course for beginners, and computer science is a three-hour lab for post-graduates or second-year students and was offered for the first time this year. The new computer system of attendance was through data processing. These classes used the computer to put grades on report cards and to do class scheduling.

New equipment for the department was the computer, card reach punch, and disk storage drive.

Field trips included the data processing center, Citizens Banking Company at Marion, State Farm Mutual Company in Indianapolis.

The students participated in state and national OEA data processing contests and leadership events.

An amdod half-tone negative is produced by Tom Barmes and Joe Arehart in the dark room.

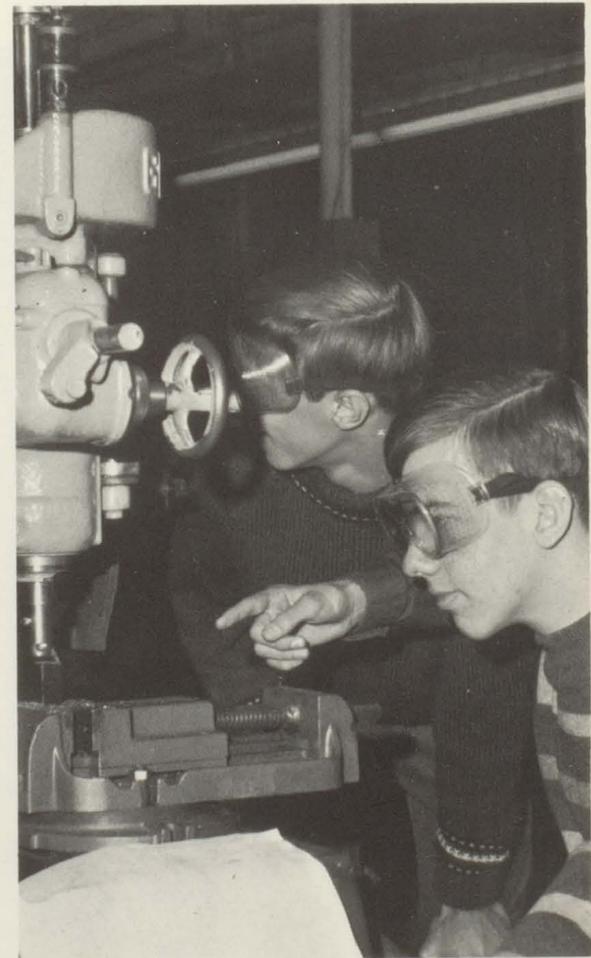

A wooden bowl is turned on the lathe for H. Gross's project.

Printing students G. Hughes, H. King, C. Faulstich are working on the automatic printing press.

Home mechanics is the I.A. course open to girls.

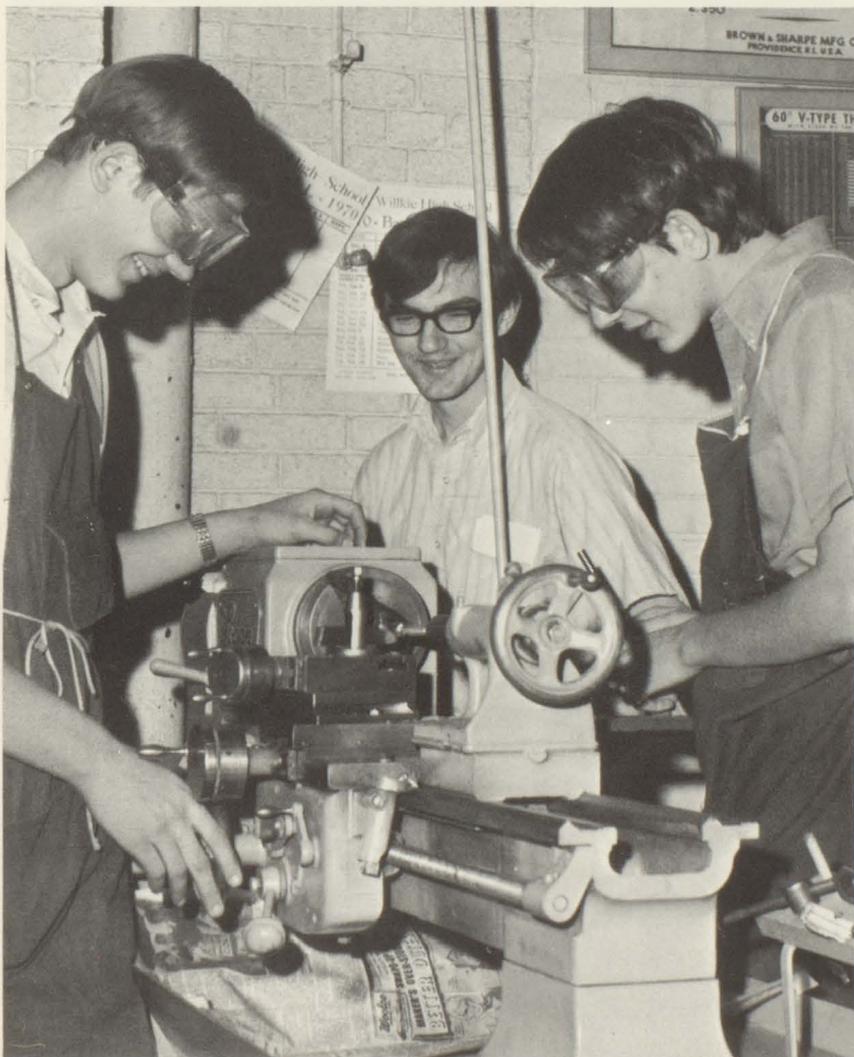

Industrial Arts boys are squaring stock on a vertical end mill.

Truing edges on a joiner is D. Rodriguez while J. Casas and R. Brown watch.

Woodworking projects of Eugene Creamer and Jerry Rogers are sanded to a finish.

A metal lathe is turning projects of Gary Burchette, Mark Brown, and Jim Davis.

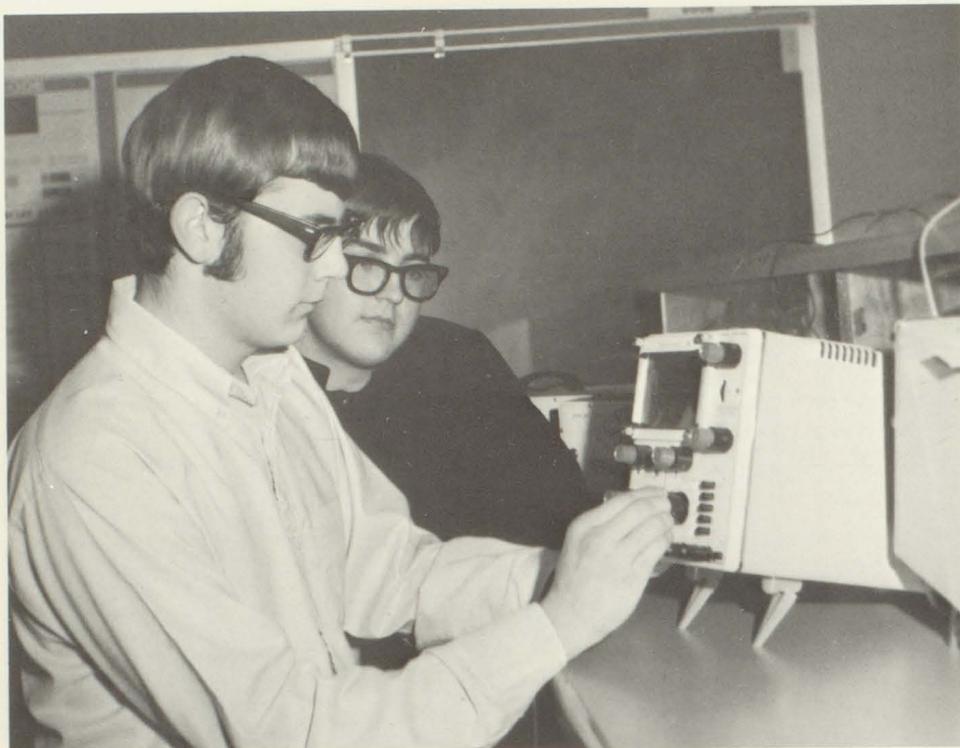

Vocational Interests Explored in IA

At Willkie High School the industrial arts course helps in the understanding and development of knowledge for the vocation of industrial arts.

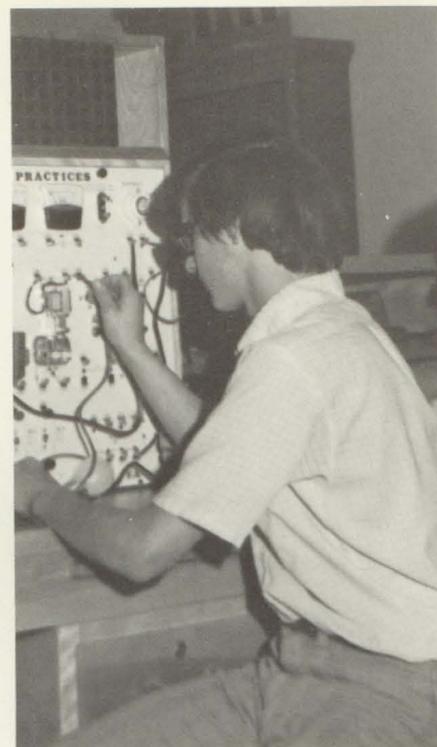

The classes are beginning and advanced woods, mechanical drawing, I.A. math, printing, blueprint reading, drafting, and home mechanics.

Instructional areas are in the high school building as well as in the vocational building.

Almost every project in this department is done on an individual basis, and instruction is given likewise.

Frequency measurements are tested on the machine by Bob Kolacki and Dave Caldwell

An electrical relay experiment interests M. Fetting.

Electrical Procedures Are Mastered

Electronics is becoming one of America's most important and demanding fields. Courses that are offered at the vocational school are basic electricity, electronics, and vocational electronics.

In the classroom are discussion and theory explanation. In a well-equipped laboratory experiments and the general functions of electricity are performed.

Field trips to Indiana Bell Telephone and Delco Radio, and speakers as Bob Frazee helped to show how demanding the electronics field is.

Three vocational electronics students conduct a high voltage (15,000 volts) lab on the Jacob's ladder.

Helping roof the new house before winter are B. Thornberry, D. Rodriguez, and R. Niccum.

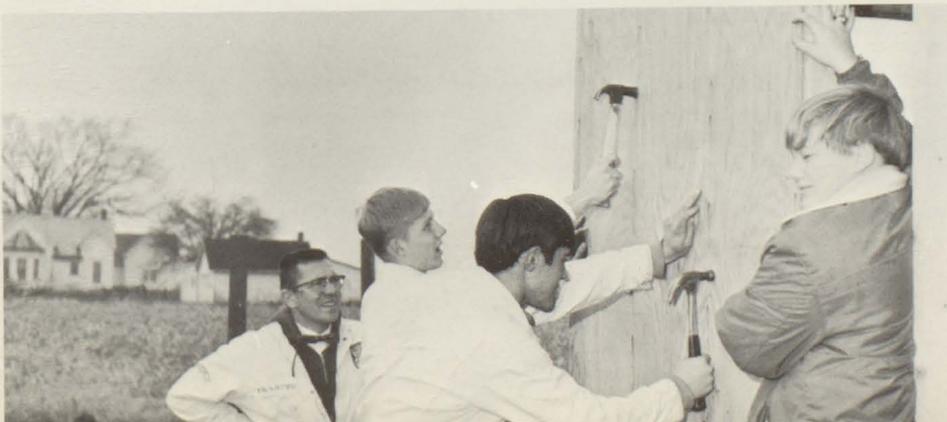

Fascia board is put up by B. McCorkle, R. Day, and M. Cruea.

Roofing is nailed by T. Waymire, G. Wylie, T. Altherr.

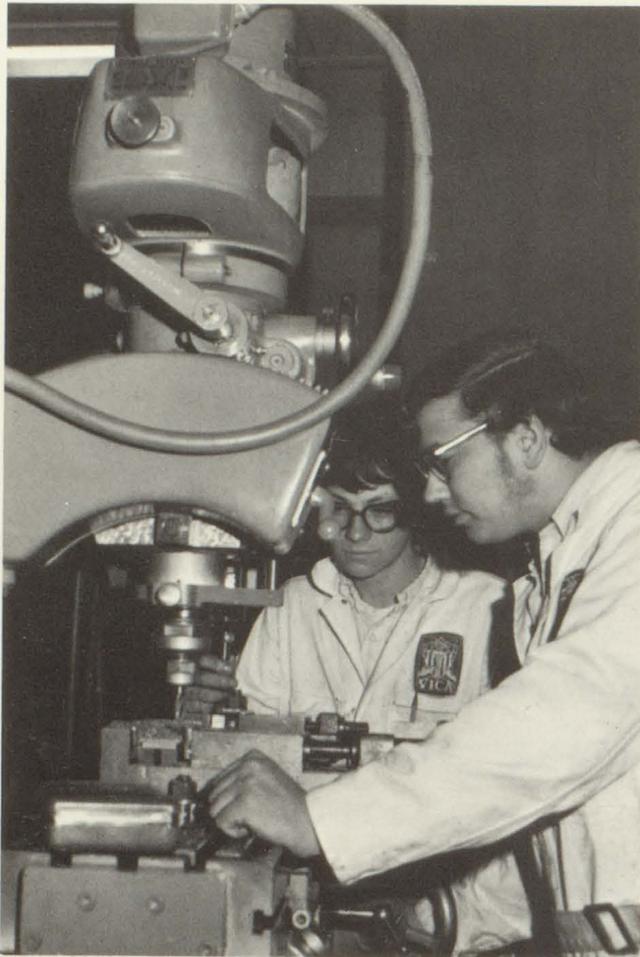

One outside plywood wall is pounded into place by John Pearson, John Teachnor, Ron Hunter.

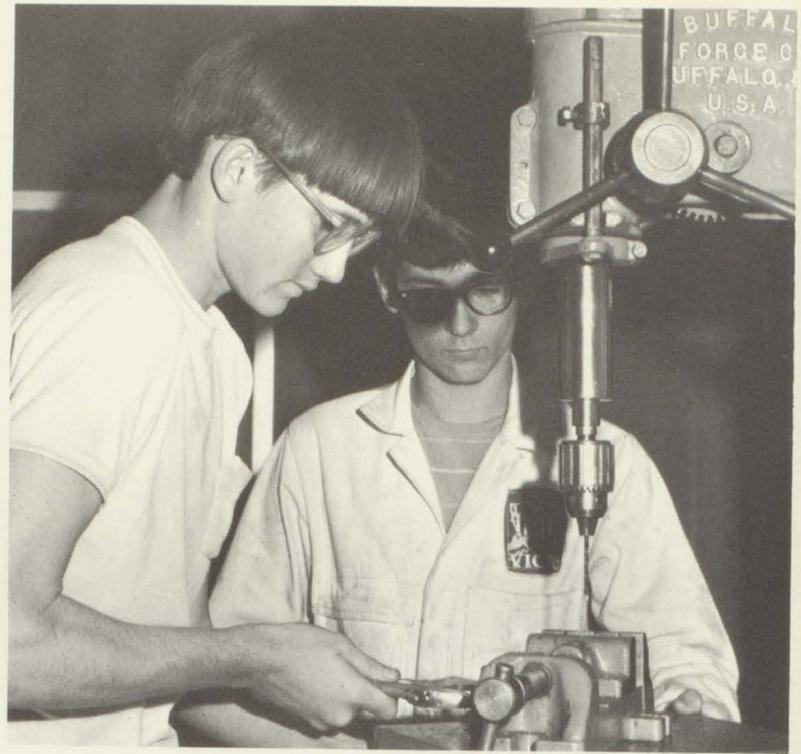

VBT Raises Another House

Vocational building trades is designed for those boys who are interested in learning about the construction trade. The program offers a wide variety of experiences for these boys. The class is operated similar to a construction company with the boys being the workers and the teacher the superintendent. Boys are assigned foreman duties over specific job phases. This is a two-year program open to those who have the prerequisite courses. Some of the boys are from neighboring schools who enroll in the vocational school for one-half day.

The house now under construction is on Fairground Road for Mr. Tom Pantos.

To mill indicator pieces wasn't any problem for M. Waymire and D. Heller.

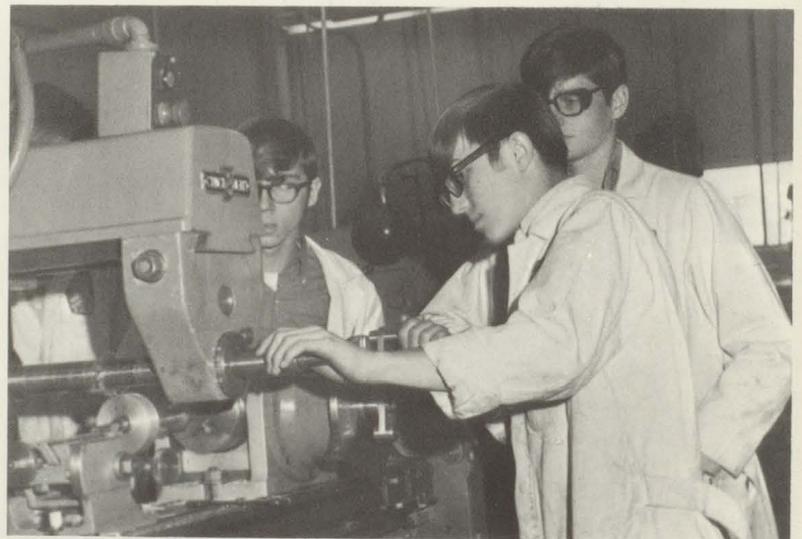

Tool check-out tags are being made ready to drill by Tim Altherr and Jeff Rogers.

High Potential Seen in Machine Shop

Apprentice-type training for future jobs was taken in vocational machine shop. Heavy machinery was used for the first time by some of the students. They are now purchasing a new horizontal band saw. Kokomo's Continental Steel Company was a field trip, and the Victory Bell was a real project.

Group work is used on problems of design and methods of production. Daily routine includes not only machine work, but classroom instruction with films, charts, transparencies, and textbooks. Mathematics is important in machine work, so help is given in this.

The cutting of a gear by horizontal milling machine is led by J. B. Spitzmesser.

Front end rod bearings are put in by Greg Conwell.

Carburetor adjustments are made by Mark Hinds and Tony Henn.

A motor to overhaul is torn down by Joe Bourff, Dennis Longnecker, Danny Hoose.

The intake manifold is tightened by Don Pinkleton, Tim Shelton, Joel Hancock.

VAM Prepared Students as Mechanics

Vocational auto mechanics is a three-hour program offered to juniors and seniors wishing to enter the auto mechanics field.

Classroom study includes parts, repair, and selling the car. In labs they actually perform maintenance on various makes and models, rebuild engines, service air conditioning, and many other phases of mechanics.

The class worked in cooperation with Heiser Ford and with East Side Parts. A field trip in November was to the Ford plant in Indianapolis.

Boys in the class were in the V.A.M. Club.

Seamstress Candy Vice sews first seam on a dress.

Demonstrations are done on carts.

Training for Homemaking Is Enjoyed

The importance of the home-making courses is not easily exaggerated. Mrs. Tolle and Mrs. Schwear help prepare girls for a future of motherhood, cooking, interior decorating, tailoring, nursing, and other skills needed in homes, hospitals, offices.

The students not only study from books, but also prepare lunches for faculty (food service), observe children (child care), listen to speakers, view films, and use skits to dramatize food service, take field trips to new homes (interior decorating), and make displays to show what they study. Boys are offered a semester class in home economics.

Each girl selects a pattern and works individually.

Taking notes on a filmstrip are D. Leisure, T. Waymire, L. Weaver, and B. Mountcastle.

Child care classes enjoyed the baby who visited them for a day. This was only one of many special projects.

These three girls are preparing to wash dishes.

Food service trainees Carolyn Tanzilli and Sandra Johnson slice garlic bread for noon.

For the vocational faculty lunch Kathy Tatum and Leta Jones served dessert.

WBMP's only control girl is ICT's Gay Garrison.

Dickey Nursing Home afforded nursing experience for Billy Mitchell.

Fun and Work Were the ICT Program

Industrial Cooperative Training is a vocational program to prepare students for useful employment by providing on-the-job training while the student completes a regular high school course. It also benefits the school by broadening the vocational program in the community.

A one-hour class is required where the student studies specific and related material, tax forms, consumer economics.

On-the-job training includes auto mechanics, florist, seamstress, nursing, custodian, radio broadcasting, and work at EMKA and Cannon Products.

On the job Dennis Baldwin fills drink orders for afternoon YMCA goes.

ICT studies specific and related information.

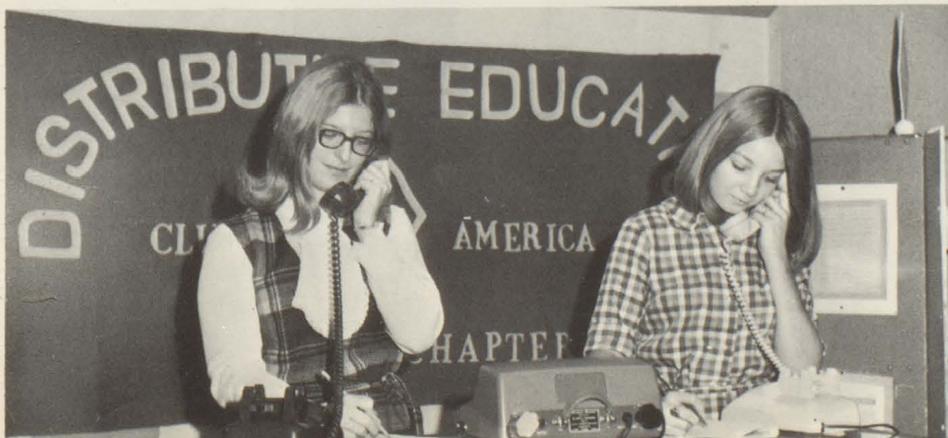

Shelves at the Penney store were stocked carefully and often with new merchandise by DE trainee Jerry Jordan.

Telephone etiquette is drilled by Margie and Kathy.

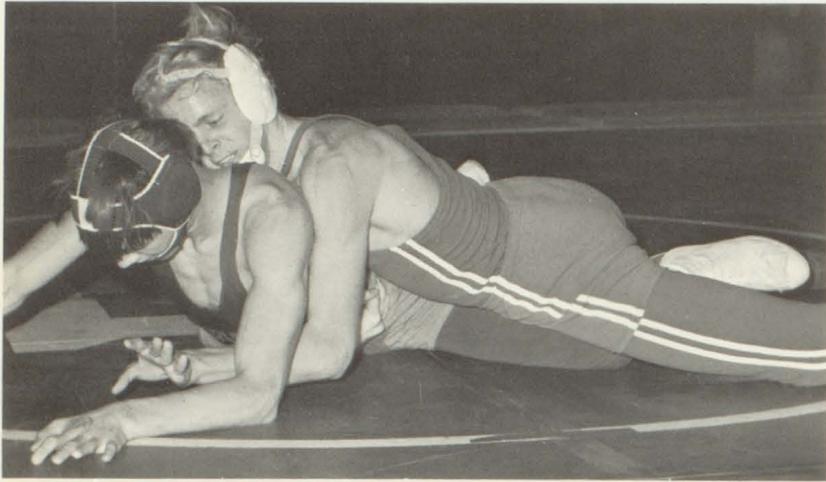

Dressing a mannequin were B. Garner and S. Ebert.

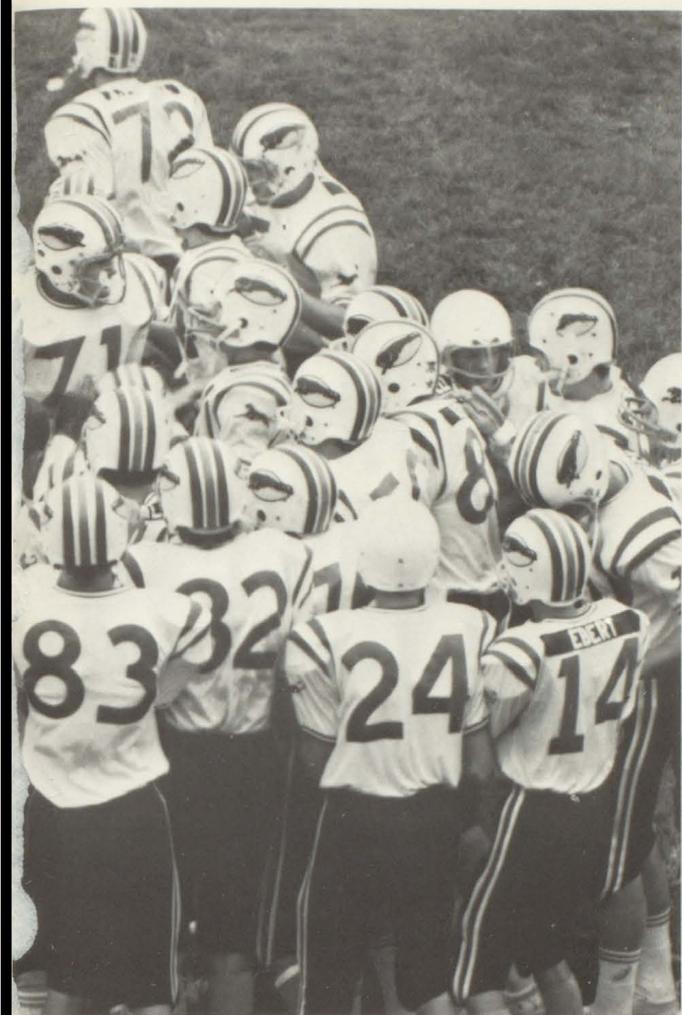

DE Was a Class of Projects

Distributive education teaches the phase of business concerned with marketing, distribution, salesmanship, merchandising, display. Juniors and seniors learn marketable skills for employment in the distribution field.

The club, DECA, is co-curricular. Students carry over into the club what they have learned in the classroom. DECA performed services for the community with projects operated in a business-like manner which contributed to student growth. They attended three leadership conferences.

Junior members had a city survey and a Christmas showcase. In class they experimented with commercials and sales demonstrations. The class has a cash register, practice telephones, mannequins, stock shelves, and showcases. All students worked on a creative marketing project for DECA.

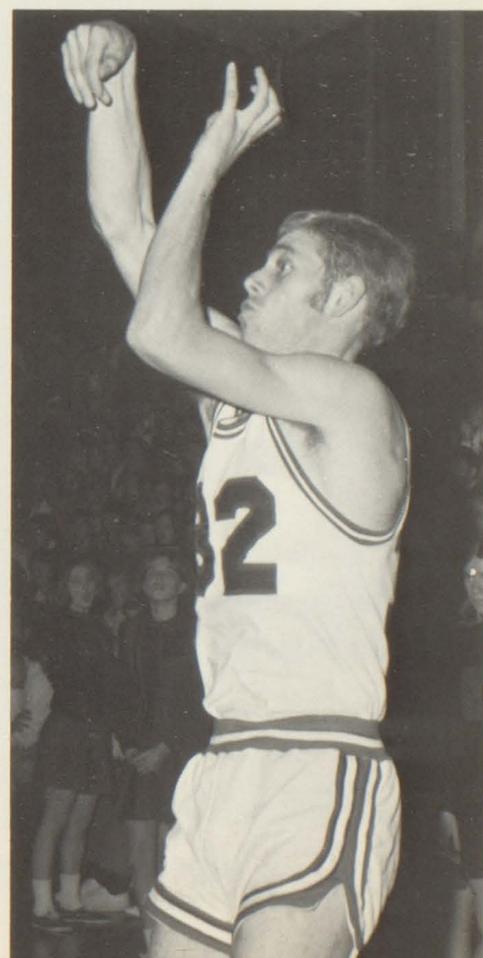

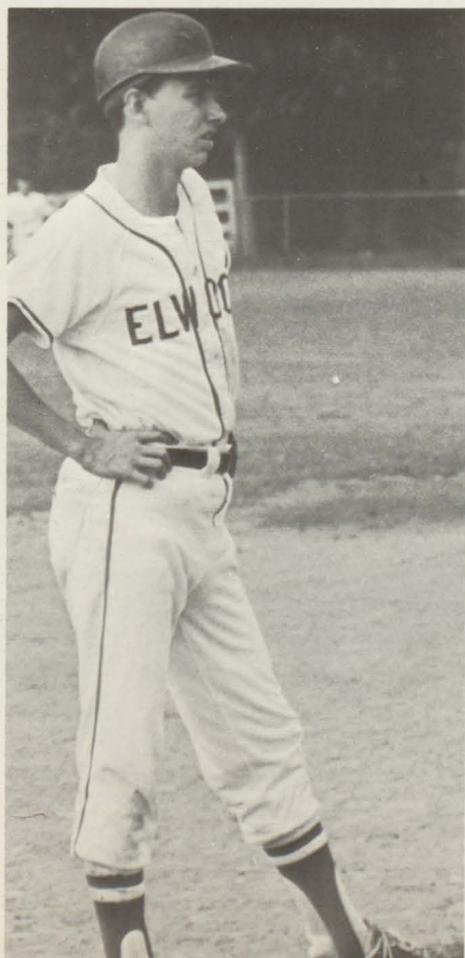

athletics

From the beginning of time, man has realized the value and pleasure of sporting games and athletic activities. The blood, sweat, and tears of a young athlete may someday lead to happiness and success. In any case, through athletics we learn that, as in life, it is not winning that is as important as simply giving one hundred percent dedication to the cause.

Following all the teams in their contests is the loyal student body, realizing that on the battle-fields of today lie the foundations for the lives of tomorrow.

"Fire up E-Men," says cheerleader, D. Baldwin.

Hey, Hey, We Want The Panthers! Varsity cheerleaders await team's arrival.

Spirit Rallies Teams To Win

The Pep Club was a little smaller than usual this year, but they were a spirited group. The 70 member club, under the direction of Mrs. VanWagner, did their best to boost the mighty Panthers. The club chose to wear lightweight navy blue V-neck sweaters.

The varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders and Polly Panther, Maria Updegraff, attended cheerleader camp at Vincennes University last summer in preparation for the upcoming year. Dennis Baldwin was elected to lead the boys' pep block and assist the cheerleaders.

Freshmen cheerleaders--Sheryl Wright, Cindy Barker, Tracie Slayton, Nancy Robertson.

E-Men: Proud Athletes

Any boy who had obtained a letter in any varsity sport was eligible for E-Men. The club had 40 members.

The E-Men had many activities throughout the year. They went to a Purdue football game, a Pacer basketball game, and a Ft. Wayne Comet's hockey game. The E-Men sponsored Powder Puff football, basketball openhouse, and the had-been, will be basketball game. They also sold concessions at all underclass basketball games, the Elwood relays and wrestling matches. The money from this financed their project which was a new video-tape machine.

E-Men were recognized to be one of the more active and spirited organizations. At home basketball games they formed the boys cheerblock.

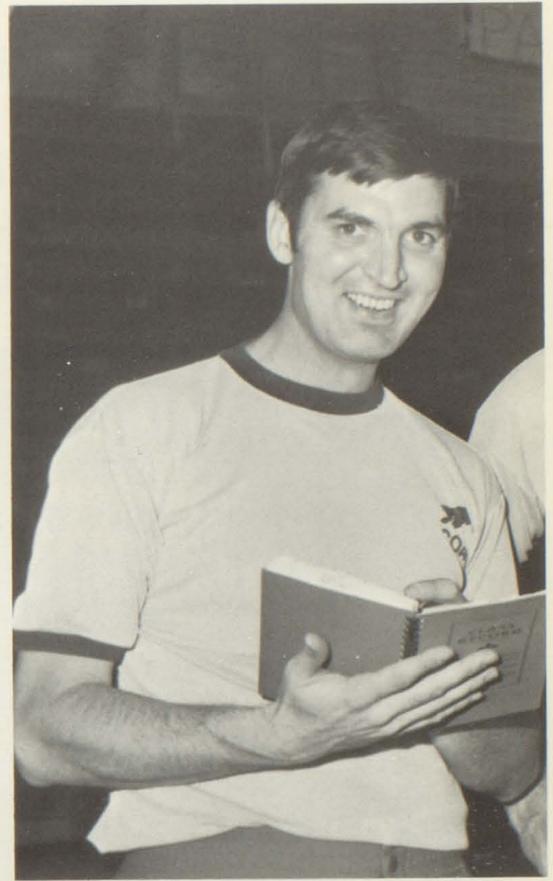

E-Men Rick Coston and Danny Green pass out basketball programs.

FCA: Professed Christian Ideals.

Elwood's huddle group of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes displayed good sportsmanship and spread Christian ideals on the football field, on the basketball court, and other places of competition.

Last summer five boys went to Mount Pleasant, Michigan for the National FCA Conference with Coach Hicks. This was a great experience, seeing standout athletes of every field confess their faith.

Returning to Elwood, the group worked at getting young blood into the organization to further the life of it and strengthen it.

Wilkie's young track team produced the first winning season in ten years. Coach Van Bailey had predicted success for his team.

A school record was set in the two-mile as Andy Pace, a junior, breezed to victory.

Sectional qualifiers were Seniors Pat Rice, and Terry Jones, and Juniors Kim Shaw, Mark Kelly, Don Powell, and Andy Pace. Don Powell was voted the intersquad trophy and Beth Burton was track queen.

Golfers Swing Winning Season

A good game of golf is for fun and relaxation, as well as for competition. The team practiced every day on the Country Club greens, where meets were held. Mr. Burton coached the Wilkie High swingers to a fine 10--7 record in 1970. They placed 6th in C.I.C. tourney and 15th in the Sectional. The Varsity Team was led in scoring by the graduating Bruce Updegraff, and by number two man, Junior Tom Oldag.

Golf Team: FRONT ROW--T. Wright, J. Himburg, M. Skillman, K. Brown, B. Updegraff, A. Davenport, T. Brunnemer. BACK ROW--J. Dunnichay, G. Linsmeyer, B. Sullivan, M. Gerth, B. DeLong, T. Oldag.

The 1970 spring tennis team experienced a rough season without a win. The team was predominately underclassmen coached by Mr. Hicks.

Then tennis was moved to the fall season. The young netters, coached by Mr. Marcuson, had a 1--9 season record. Tom Moser was named to the honorable mention on the C.I.C. team.

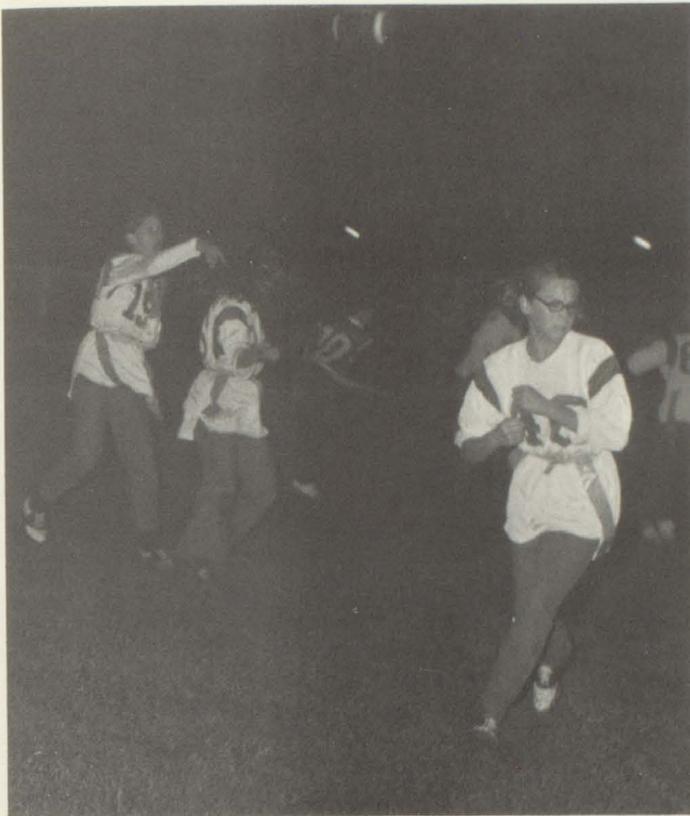

Returning the ball was B. Courtney.

B. Goodknight shows his skill with a high serve.

Girls Entered the World of Sports as Football Players

Susan Gardner threw a pass while C. Updike and S. Wright protected her.

The second annual Powder Puff football game on October 29 turned out to be a muddy battle. The Freshman-Junior team, alias Leo's Ladies, walked off as the victors. The Sophomore-Senior team, alias Arnie's Army, left the field with low spirits from their defeat of 38--0.

Coaches for the Freshmen-Juniors were Leo Dauenhauer and Don Smith, and for the Sophomore-Seniors Phil Arnold and Bruce Ball.

Outstanding players for the two teams were Susie Gardner, Tracie Slayton, Sara Hobbs, Maria Updegraff, Mindy Fihe, Bobbie Florea, Debby Leever, Sandy Parker, Susie Hirsch.

Referee Coyt Walters watched for mistakes during the game.

This year's Junior Varsity Team had a 1--8 season. However they won more than the record indicates: they gained sportsmanship, respect, and the ability to play good football.

Good work was done by several on offense; many good blocks were thrown in backfield; strong defense was exhibited by several boys.

The team displayed a never-give-up attitude and much courage.

Diamond Stars Were Victorious

The '69-'70 edition of the baseball team enjoyed the only winning season of the year for Elwood athletics.

The squad, coached by Tom Spear, compiled a record of 15 wins and 5 losses. They went to the final game only to fall to Madison Heights. The squad had only one game before four seniors had to leave, for various reasons. At that time a predominantly under-class team dropped the other four losses and a CIC berth but gained valuable experience for the next year.

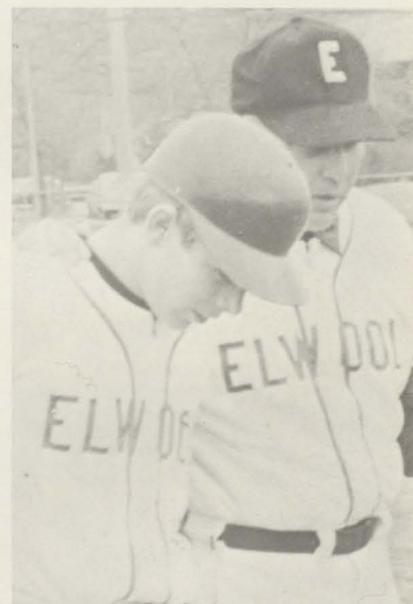

Batting another victory for the baseball team is Joe Williams.

Varsity Team: Shot Six Season Victories

Under the coaching of Darrell McQuitty the Elwood Panther varsity basketball team fought long and hard to obtain a record of 7 wins and 13 losses.

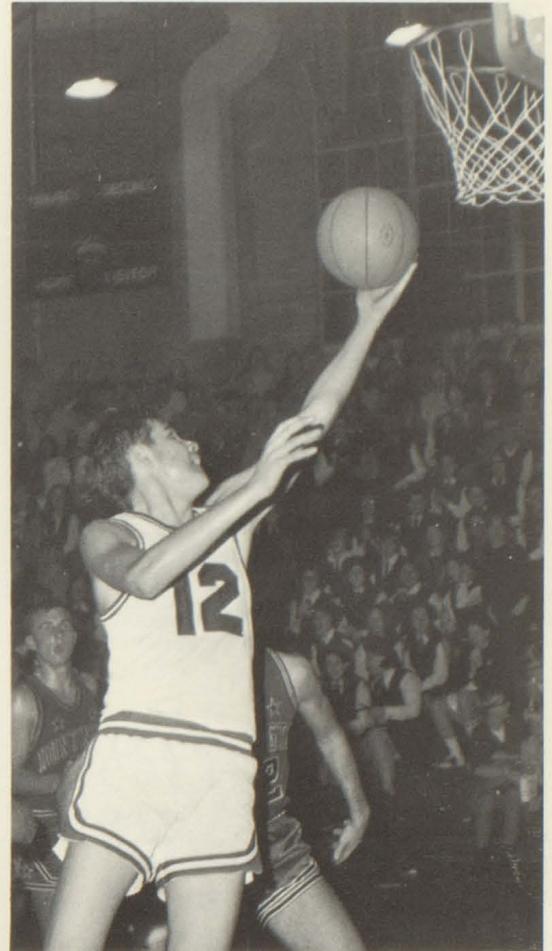

Seldom being able to put a whole game together, the Cats lost many a close contest. The Panthers placed third in the Holiday Tourney, beating Crawfordsville in the consolation game after losing a heartbreaker to Frankfort. Ending up the season with a win over Wes-Del, they drew Marion in the first game of the sectional.

Three Panthers, J. Williams, B. Bomholt, J. DeLong, are ready to steal the ball.

Rebounds plays are important in the game, Dan Frieshoff gains control of the ball.

Lay-up strategy is completed by Larry Kelly.

Jr. Vars. Works Toward Varsity

Frustration for the B-team year was also one of gaining the needed experience for next year's varsity. Improvement was evident on the part of many individuals and Mr. Hicks stated that he was proud of every boy at the end of the season. With a final record of 6--12, the reserve team was led by three underclassmen also on the varsity.

Elwood Panthers R. Robinson, D. Cooper, J. Fihe, watch E. Gillespie gain control of the ball.

organizations

From the minute a person is born his personality starts to take shape. One's interests, activities, ideas, and habits, depend almost entirely upon one's friends, family, and other surrounding factors.

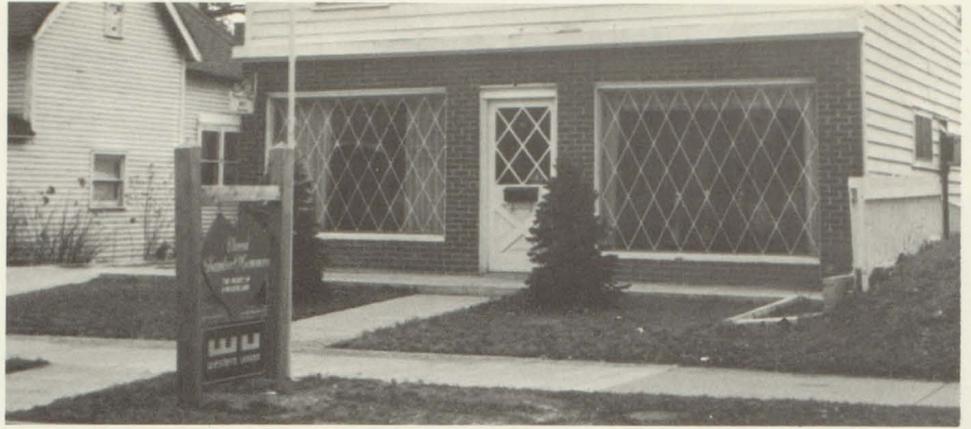

That's what Willkie High is. A school is not a building, a collection of books, or halls of lockers. A school is simply people: teachers, counselors, administration, students, and everyone else working together. This relationship adds a human aspect to the sometimes routine and seemingly endless commotion.

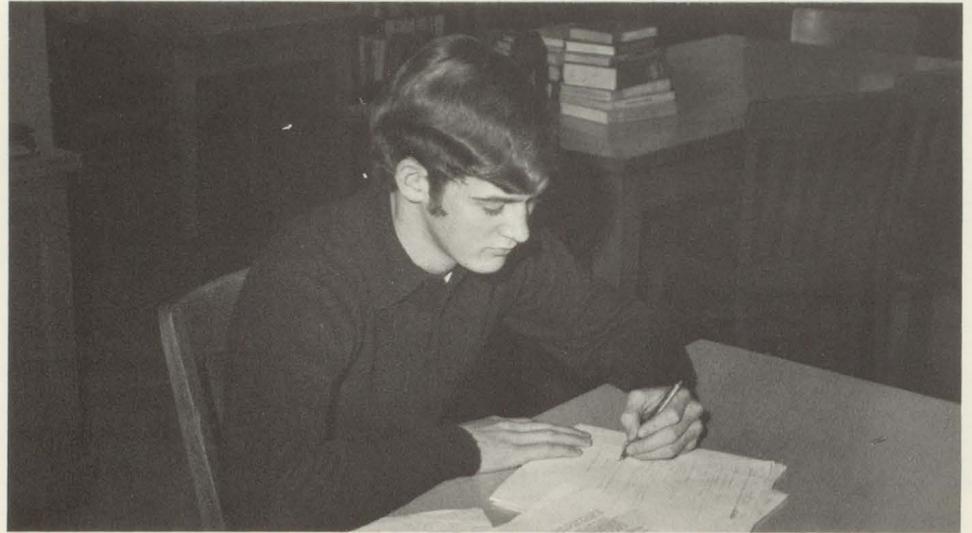

Crescent: Re-quires Abun-dance of Peo-ple and Ideas

Lots more goes into the making and editing of a yearbook than meets the eye. In July, the two editors Barb Butcher and Debbie Miller went to a workshop at Ball State. They returned with yearbook theory. With Mrs. Chapman, the advisor, and Bill Wright, the company representative, practical knowledge was put to use.

Co-operation with the committees was evident in the meeting of deadlines and adding final touches. A completely new layout style was used this year, headlines were changed to the stacked type, the cover was designed by the editors instead of using a company make. The Crescent staff, advisor, and committee hope you enjoy it greatly.

Megaphone Staff: Published School's News and Comments

The Megaphone was the school paper published three times a semester by the journalism students at Willkie High. The printer was Deter's of Elwood.

Editor Mark Tancey and co-editor Ken Low gave out the assignments to the rest of the class under the supervision of Mrs. Crimans. After the copy was edited and corrected it was sent to Deter's to be printed into galley sheets. The galley sheets were returned and the class checked the proofs and then pasted them on a dummy newspaper. Both the dummies and the galley sheets were returned to Deter's to be printed.

The class' efforts were avidly read by news conscious students.

Another issue of the Megaphone was sold by Debbie Frazier to freshman, Dave Waymire.

Thespians: Display Acting Ability

Thespians Troupe #58 at Willkie High began an active year by selecting new members. These people tried out by reading a short passage evaluated on speed, expression, interpretation and volume. They also made a statement on why they wanted to join Thespians. There are 60 members.

In late October, Thespians held a work day to earn money and offer a service to the community. The annual Snowball Dance was held on December 16, 1970. Carolyn Updike was crowned Snowball Queen.

On February 3, 1971, the Troupe presented four competitive one-act plays. Carmen Garcia directed "To Burn a Witch", Cathy Richardson directed "The Open Window", Mark Tancey, "Thursdays at Home", and Jim Mock, "The Monkey's Paw".

Spanish Club: To Study a Culture.

Membership for Spanish club grew to 60 persons. To learn more about the Spanish people and their background, the members have seen slides of Spain and Central America. They also had a Mexican dinner and a Cuban dinner. There was an opportunity for the third year students to take a trip to Mexico over spring vacation with the help of the club. During the Christmas season the Spanish, French, and Latin Christmas party was hit so hard it accidentally fell off the string. The candy was quickly picked up and devoured.

French Club: Caroled at Nursing Homes

French Club was one of three language clubs at Willkie. To be a member, one must have had a full semester of French. It's main objective is learning about France--the country, its people, their customs, and the language.

This year the French Club participated in a selling project to raise money for a field trip. A gala night in Anderson, a movie and dinner, was enjoyed by the club.

This group joined the Latin and Spanish Clubs for their yearly caroling party.

Stationery, candles, and sachet balls were sold. C. Wilson, N. Whitenack, and S. Wright check their stock.

Latin Club: Veni Vidi Vici

Latin Club had limited activities this year. Their annual Christmas caroling party with the French and Spanish clubs was great fun. Latin members held an initiation party at which they wore their traditional togas to initiate new members. The senior members were noblemen of Rome and initiated the new members, or the serfs.

Health Careers: Joins "Disaster"

Health Careers Club was formed in January 1970 to acquaint students in WLW of various health careers. The fifteen members worked hard at raising this new club to the attention of the student body. They shared in many talks and mutual discussion promoting health careers. One of the field trips was to Marion General Hospital.

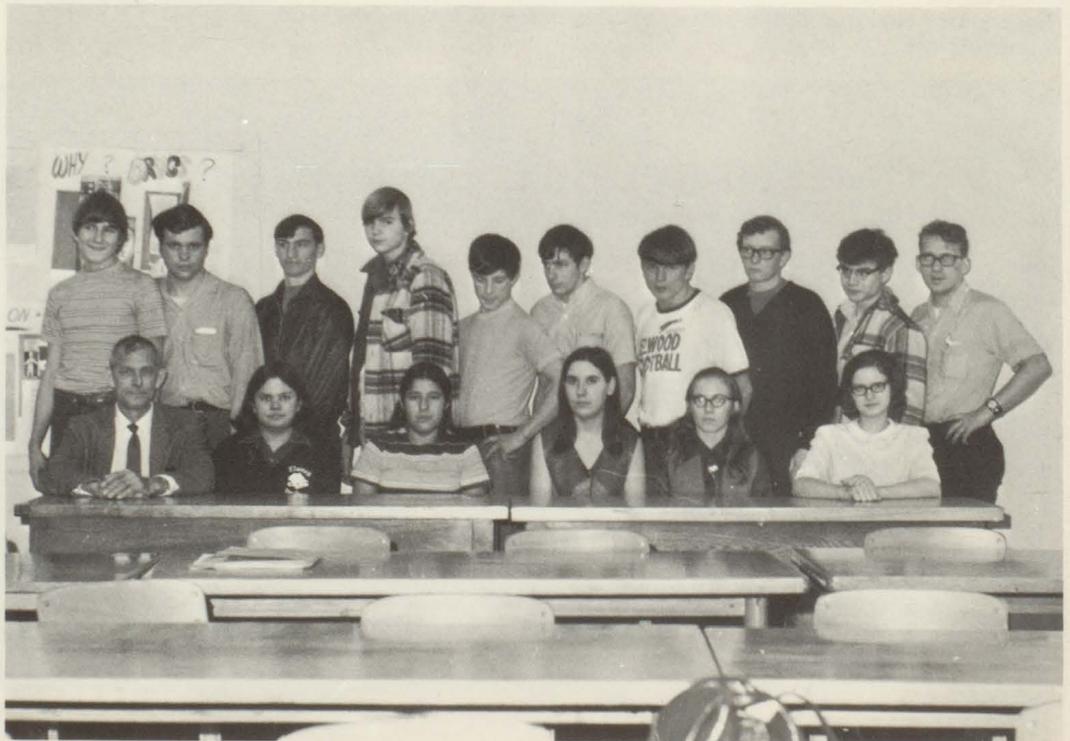

Many floors were swept by janitor assistant Larry Hobbs.

Errands from the assistant principal's office were run by Kyle Hobbs. NYC students work in the school system.

NYC: Learn To Work

NYC is a working organization in the halls of Willkie. Sponsored by Mr. Ray, the Neighborhood Youth Corps works three hours a day in one of the Elwood Public schools. A related information class is also attended by each student in the afternoon. This course helps each student to prepare for the future, whatever their vocation will be.

Panther Band: Entertainment+

Mr. Frank Parente took the position of director for the Elwood Panther Band this year. Under his leadership the band, consisting of 70 playing members and 20 majorettes, has in many ways served as a public relations group for the school. They performed in concert at the Anderson Mounds Mall. They also put on a variety show for the Lions Club and, of course, the annual Panther Band Variety Show. In between these performances, the band has been busy performing pre-games and half-time shows at football and basketball games. The band has undertaken some money-making projects so they will be able to make summer tours in the future.

Vocal Groups: Showed Musical Talent

Willkie High's Choir, 42 voices strong presented the fourth annual "Sing Out for Your Servicemen" program in the fall. Proceeds from this went to our Vietnam men. Near the end of school the Choir presented the "Spring Sing".

Variety Show of 1971 was a favorite with many students as the choir teamed up with the band and other small groups to present an array of music. The Panther Band sold stationery to earn money for band travels. A program was performed at the Mounds Mall near Christmas.

Three smaller groups at Willkie who added a lot to the music department were the Dance Band, the Velveteens, and the Counterpoints. These groups sang and played for various banquets and social gatherings around town. All of these add a lot to the music dept.

For the Christmas convocation, some of the entertainment was presented by the Willkie Choir.

Debating Pollution: Debate Team

Rules and regulations for debating were reviewed by this year's Debate Team. Their new manager was Mr. Hoffman.

The subject for the debate this year was whether or not the federal government should regulate and administer air and water pollution laws. The team had several debates of this subject with other schools during the second semester.

The highlight of this year's debate activities was a trip to Purdue in December.

A single debate consists of four 8-minute speeches, four 3-minute cross-examinations and 6 four-minute rebuttals.

Swaying the opinion of the opponent is Mark Copher.

Top 10% Form Honor Society

National Honor Society recurred its charter in April, 1944. It was created to give recognition to students with high scholastic rating.

A junior may qualify as a probationary member if he has a scholastic rating in the upper seven or eight per cent of his class. Each member was reconsidered before graduation.
 If his rating has remained high he was taken in as a permanent member.

In March the Lion's Club gave a dinner honoring the members.

Scholarly Game, Academic Team

The academic team was an organization similar to the college bowl quiz games. It was headed by Mr. Compton and Mrs. Merritt.

The questions were from teachers and other sources.
 The team invited and was invited by other academic teams. The team that answers the most questions wins the meet. Bonus questions were used and only given to one side depending on which team won the toss up question.

The questions deal with mathematics, geometry, literature, spelling, current events, grammar, history, and many other subjects.

FBLA: Leadership for Tomorrow

Future Business Leaders of America is a club whose purpose is to better acquaint students with business opportunities and to provide for leadership.

Students started learning these qualities by selling telephone directories with the phone numbers and addresses of students and faculty members. In the past they have sold household items and stationery.

In this club the members combine fun with learning, something which is very important today. They traveled to Indianapolis and saw the world famous "Holiday on Ice". They also traveled to Ball State for the State Convention.

DECA: Studies Sales and Marketing

The Distributive Education Clubs of America here at Willkie had a lot to be proud of this year. Going to the national competition in Minneapolis, the Elwood chapter made a reputable showing that many were proud of.

The club, sponsored by Mr. Foust and Mr. Linder, has a membership of 32 people, all enrolled in the Distributive Education program. Along with their studies of creative marketing and research procedures, these students learn many ideas of citizenship and the responsibilities which come with it. Some of the activities for the year included a bake sale, car wash, carmel apple sale, and a paper drive. The DECA school year was concluded with an employer-employee banquet in May.

Through these activities the students learn practices and procedures necessary for their future.

VICA: A Club To Learn To Live

VICA boosted the largest membership of any organization in the school--130 members. They conducted a car wash, car smash, a TV and turkey raffle along with field trips and a Spring Banquet. A civic project was helping the city put up and take down the Christmas decorations. Potted planters were donated to the nursing home and they collected and distributed over 300 canned goods to needy families. The club ordered new white coats with the official VICA emblem for lab periods in the shop classes. The VICA clubs are nation wide clubs. Its purpose is to develop the students in character and vocational skill.

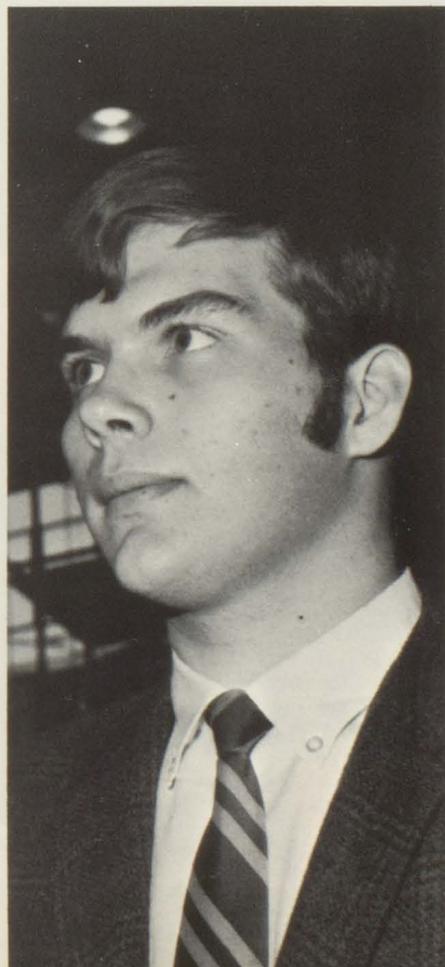

personalities

From the moment a person is born his personality starts to take shape. One's interests, activities, ideas, and habits, depend almost entirely upon one's friends, family and educational factors.

That's what Willkie High is. A school is not a building, a collection of books, or halls of lockers. A school is simply people: Teachers, counselors, administration, students, and everyone else working together. This relationship adds a human element to the sometimes routine and seemingly endless commotion. Willkie high is a special school. Special to all of us.

Class of '74 Had Many Fund Raising Projects

The Freshmen also took part in sectional activities by decorating the four corners of the gym. Their money-making projects for the year included class donations, a bake sale, working for the Concessions Club, and a car wash.

Candy Sales Produced a Treasury.

The annual candy sale was held early in the fall and provided funds for the Junior-Senior Prom of 1972. Prizes were awarded to the best candy salesmen--David Humphrey, Rachael Savage, Bobbie Florea, and Chick Teachnor.

Upper classmen helped load candy after sophomore sales.

Class Ring Selection Was the Highlight.

Unity for the Class of '73 came through their projects. They enjoyed the early selection of class rings. Later during the year class sweaters were ordered. Sectional spirit was shown by decorations on the stage in the gym.

These Sophomores--Kathy Altherr, Bobbi Florea, and Lorri VanWagner--ordered their traditional class rings.

Elected Officers

Assumed Posts

This was it--the year they had all been waiting for--the final year at Wendell L. Willkie High School for almost 190 seniors. They had seen some good times (and bad times too), but finally it was all coming to a close.

In the freshman year, although unorganized, they worked together and filled the corners of the gym as their part of sectional decorations.

Seniors Tried a Victory Harvest

With Mr. Everidge as head sponsor and Jim Mock as president, the class of 1971 sold candy in the sophomore year to raise funds for the next year's prom. The decision of class rings was made. Four choices were given the class -- rectangular, oval, and the collegiate with the stone being a personal choice. For sectional they decorated the stage of the gym.

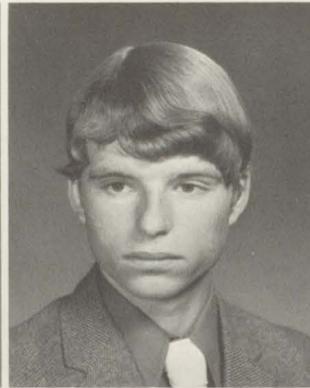

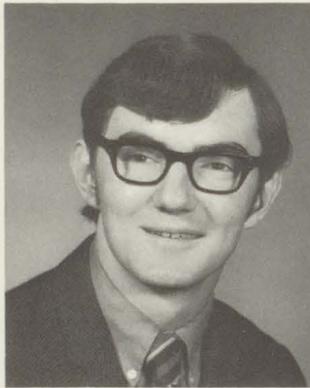

Homecoming float was built for competition and for boosting team and student morale.

Senior Spirit Revived Cords

The junior year was an important one. With Dan Prieshoff as president, the steering committee's first major decision was to make a homecoming float. It was decorated at the home of LeAnn Harting and had as its theme "Stab 'Em". Then came the choice of class sweat-ers--navy blue V-necks with white numerals 1971 on the front and EHS on the right shoulder.

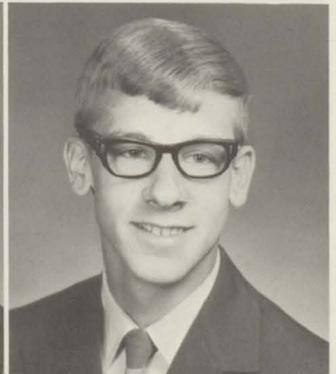

Showing off senior cords are Kay Seright, Rick Coston, Cathy Jackson, Donald Stage, and Cathy Richardson.

New Style Was Mini, Midi, Maxi

Sensing the need for still further funds, the class decided upon a money-making project, a chile supper, on Friday night before the Noblesville basketball game. Then came the annual decoration of the gym with the juniors decorating the west bleachers, where they used the word "Victory" spelled down the bleachers in red and blue.

A new look was seen: Cathy Jackson in midi, Cindy Backer in maxi, and Candy Webb in mini.

Boys' Hair Styles in 70-71

Although all these projects are important, nothing seems as necessary as having a beautiful prom. In this category the class of '71 passed with flying colors as the 1970 prom was certainly "An Affair to Remember" for many juniors and seniors alike.

Entering their last year at Willkie, the seniors were led by head sponsor Mr. Sam House and a very capable band of officers.

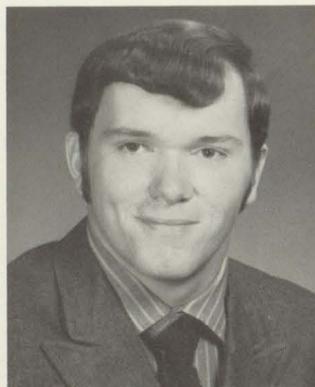

Hair styles around Willkie are shown by Jim King, Randy Beeman, Rick Coston, Steve Backstrom, Gary Reichart.

Senior Activities Included Jobs

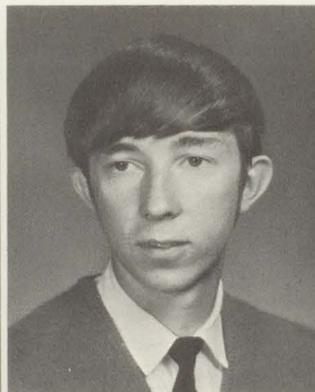

A homecoming float was again designed and decorated at the home of LeAnn Harting, but due to bad weather the floats were never judged. The theme of the float was "Harvest a Cotton Pickin' Victory."

Caps and gowns of a gray color were chosen, as well as announcements, by the steering committee.

Many seniors worked during and after school. Two employees at Carter's, G. Zimmerman and R. Wise, priced stock.

College and Career Choices Were Planned

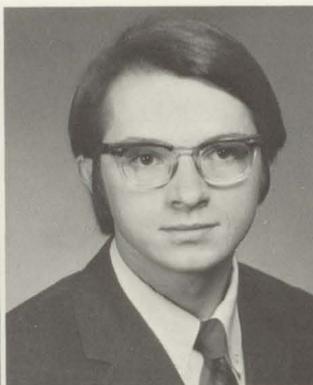

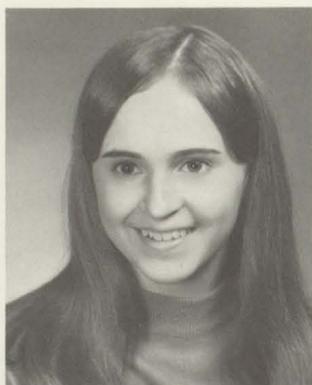

Other small moneymaking projects were attempted during the year to reimburse the treasury, such as the selling of the Class of '71 pins.

But as the saying goes, "All good things must come to an end". With that in mind and with mixed emotions the senior class finished their high school careers.

It was difficult to decide which application to fill out, Mrs. VanWagner, senior counselor, helps J. Atwell.

ads

Advertising is a large and constantly growing system of communication. Through advertising we discover what things are best for us whether it be in the world of fashion, medicine, or simply another luxury.

Advertising is a practice which is beneficial to both the distributor and the consumer alike, which helps foster a friendly relationship among townspeople.

We made the crank a classic. By getting rid of it.

We're Delco Remy. The automotive electrical people.

In the years that have passed since we turned the crank into a relic, we've been busy.

Building Delco batteries.
Delcotron charging systems.
Electric starters.
Ignition systems.

And just about everything else in your car that's electric.

As a matter of fact, today we're the world's largest producer of electrical systems for cars, trucks, buses, farm tractors, construction vehicles, boats, garden tractors . . . well, you name it.

Big deal, you say. Who thinks about electrical systems?

Hardly anybody. We build them to work so well nobody has to.

let's hear it for the Establishment

We're part of it. The American "establishment" that's made this country's standard of living the highest in the world. Shoes and clothes and cars and enough food for everyone, and some left over, to send abroad. In our case, it's low-cost electric power, to make living easier and to give energy to industry.

But all those wires didn't get strung overnight. It's taken us well over fifty years to get established. And even ten years ago we couldn't offer the service we offer today. The same thing is true in other industries. It's taken almost 200 years to set up the American "establishment". Sure, it has its flaws, but someone's working on the problems right now.

Meanwhile, it's the best arrangement any country has ever come up with. And there's a place in it for you.

if people want change then it is up to them to make changes within themselves a better world begins with yourself
