Coming Together

The students of M-G come together for many various reasons. Whether it be to see their friends, just to have something to do, or to learn, as most parents believe it to be.

Students can be found wandering through the halls before, during, and after school. They may be talking to boyfriends, girlfriends, or teachers, getting books from their lockers, or just killing time.

Secretary Yvonne Ratliff and custodian Max Ayers discuss how they will kill the photographer who just took their picture.

While strumming his guitar, Matt McNeely asks himself, "What if they don't like my song, will they kill me? Why me? Why me?"

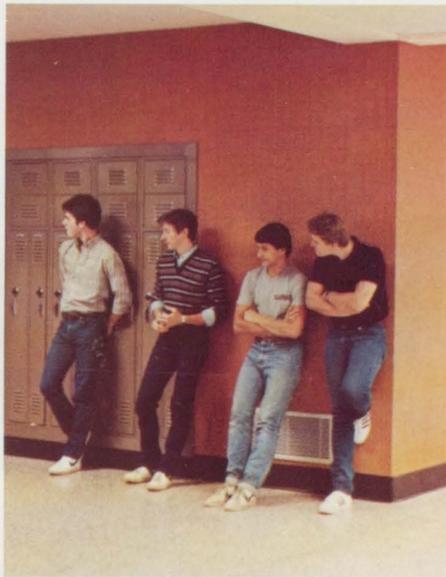

Steve Comer smiles as he thinks, "Wait 'til Schwinn finds out what I did to his car!"

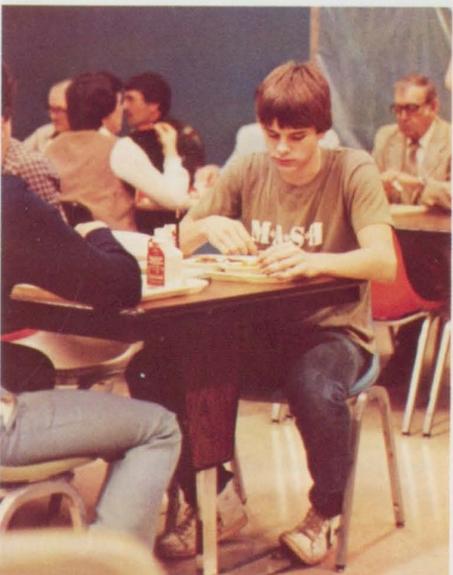

Tracy Beck Jones "cremes" Mr. Skirvin at the Christmas Auction.

Tony Oren and Sherry Burgan show everyone at the Christmas Auction how it's done.

Seniors Bob Morgan and Eddie Frye, Freshman Brent Ratliff, and Senior Bryan Farley hold the wall up before class begins.

Freshman Mark Rogers tries to decide whether the food in front of him is the poor soul he dissected in biology class.

The Prom

It took all day to get ready for such a big and important night. She had to become a new person in the course of 8 hours. By the time he arrived in the shiny car, which revealed how he spent his day, she was so nervous and excited she almost said a silent prayer as she watched him walk up to the door.

The evening was May 8, 1982 otherwise known as prom night. The prom turned out to be a big success with "Reelin' Kye" supplying the music. The theme "The Rose" was well illustrated by the programs and table decorations.

At 10:30, the evening climaxed with Elizabeth Mack and Todd Stroup, 1981's reigning King and Queen crowning Terena Harting and Jim Pulley Queen and King for 1982.

The Afterprom was sponsored by the Juniors. It was held at the Raintree Plaza in North Marion and included the showing of the movie "The Electric Horseman" and the use of Arcade City.

John Hodupp and Cindy Wright show the evening is going fine with a smile.

The court awaits the decision of Queen and King. A moment "alone" for Dave Gunning and Angie Bair.

Terena Harting and Jim Pulley share the royal dance.

The Departure of the "Real People"

"May today be everything we've hoped for, may tomorrow be everything we've dreamed of," is the perfect description of all graduation days. On Sunday, May 23, 1982 at 2:00 p.m. It was the motto of our 170 graduates.

The graduates were escorted into the gymnasium by the Junior class members of the National Honor Society. Invocation was read by Lisa Shull with "A Bridge Over Troubled Water" performed directly afterwards by the ArGuys and Gals and Concert Choir. Sam Bright introduced Steve King and Mitch Warren as the Senior speakers.

The diplomas were presented by Mr. R. Larry Martin, Mr. Thomas M. Eversman, and Mr. Donald R. Inglis.

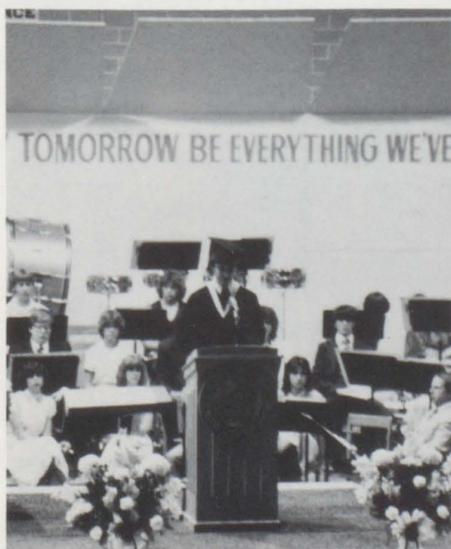

To close graduation was Joanie Butcher reading the benediction, and the Madison-Grant High School Band playing the recessional as 170 "real people" walked out the door.

Waiting for the cue to switch their tassels to the "right" side.

Making sure his hat doesn't fall off is Mike Shelton.

Sam Bright introduces the Senior speakers.

Nervously walking in is Laura Jarvis.

The sophomore class won the banner contest with their version of the Candyland game, Argyll Land. A winner's game.

Homecoming '82

Homecoming was chock-full of events: the annual bon-fire, dress-up days, dance, hall decorations, and banner contest. Tug-of-war, licorice eating contest, and other class competitions were held during the pep session.

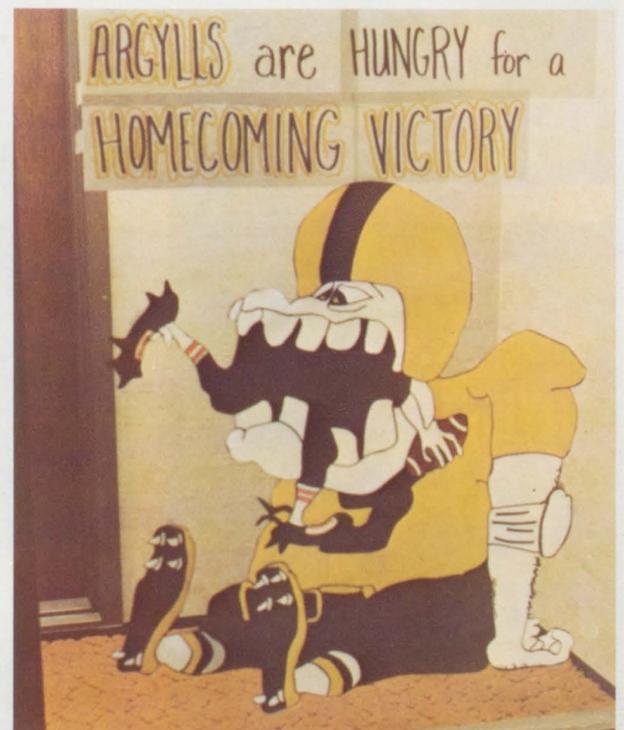

The hall decorations contest was won by the Seniors, and the banner contest was won by the sophomores.

The 1982 Homecoming King and Queen were Mike Ernst and Shelly Webb. King and Queen candidates were Bret Shane, Phil Smock, Greg Simpson, Sherry Burgan, Jodi Simpson, and Stacey Webb.

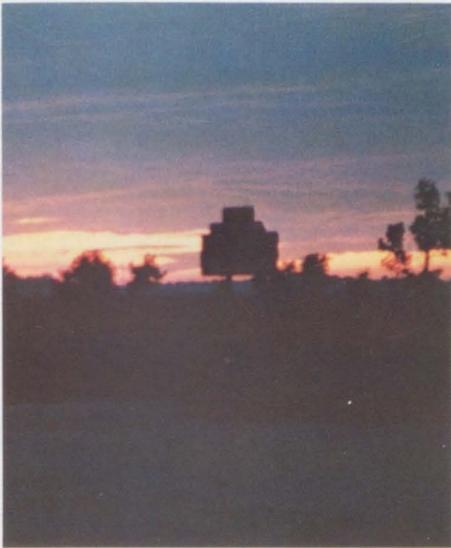

The mighty Argylls swept past the Wabash Apaches with a 21-0 homecoming victory.

During the homecoming pep session, the varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders wish the football players good luck.

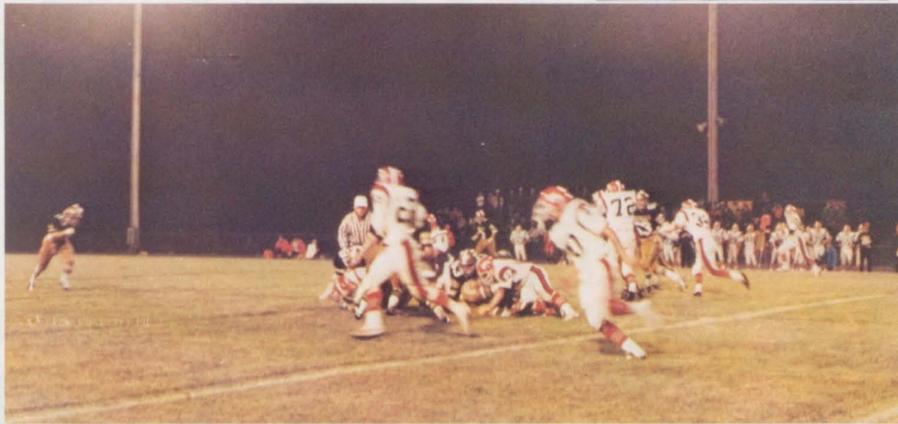

This little Argyll shows his spirit and appetite for a Homecoming Victory.

The scoreboard stands alone awaiting the start of the big game.

Soni Day and Joe Harrison ride off into the sunset.

The 1982 homecoming queen, Shelly Webb, and her escort, Ross Fones.

The Wabash Apaches came to M-G to help with another homecoming celebration.

ACADEMICS

Teresa Crull and Joe Gordon work on a lab on chromatography in Chemistry.

NEW ADDITIONS

Second semester brought a drastic change to the school schedule with the addition of homeroom. Homeroom took place everyday from 12:30 p.m. to 1:10 p.m. It was used as a study period or a time to attend club meetings.

Everything seemed to be coming together for the business and math departments with the arrival of three new computers. The business department received one computer and the math department received two additional computers.

The faculty also had a few additions. Jane Sharkey took over the position of choral director. Linda Foshee tutored students with academic difficulties for two hours a day. Bill Kildow taught boys' physical education one period a day.

Senior Patty Hurt takes a break from typing to "cheese it" for the photographer.

Mr. Stone delivers another one of his interesting lectures on taxes.

Shari Beckley secretly tells Jill Parson how to turn on the computer.

Something for Everyone

From noun clauses to Shakespeare, English classes covered a wide range of topics.

College prep focused on preparing students for college. The students wrote a major term paper and read classics such as "Macbeth" and "Crucible." They also studied different composition styles.

Senior English students read many plays, short stories, and novels. They also practiced creative writing.

Junior English classes focused on American literature. They read "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn." The juniors were also responsible for putting out the school newspaper, the "Clan Courier." Instead of photocopying the newspaper at school, the newspaper was printed by the "News-Sun" office.

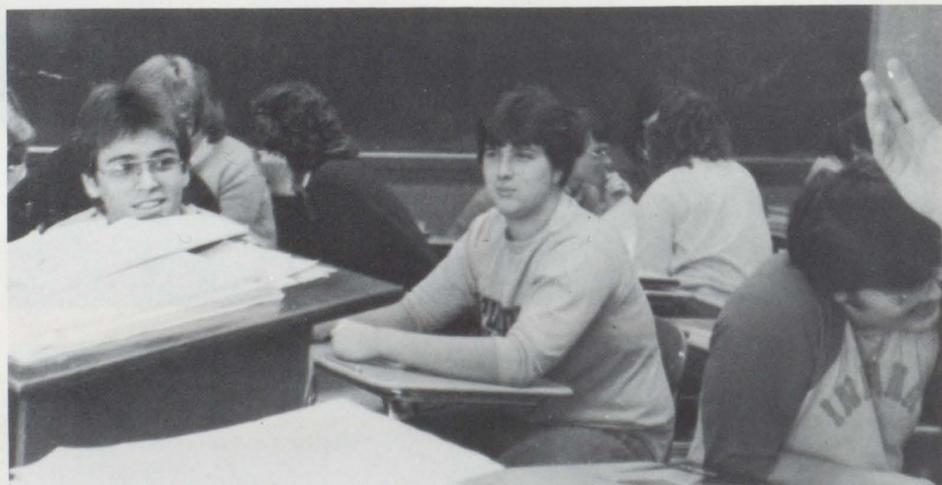

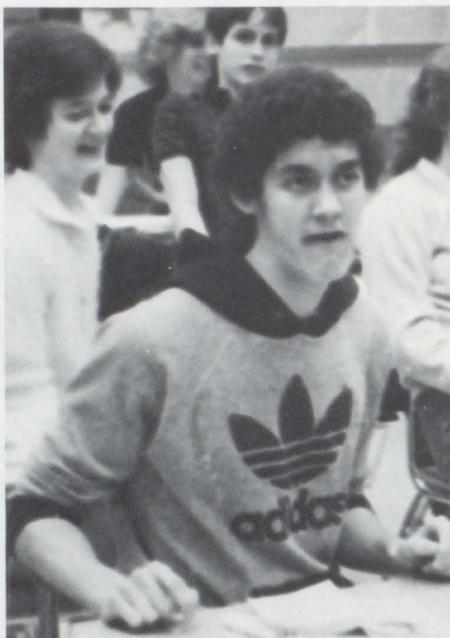

Sophomores reviewed grammar rules and read many short stories. They read "Lord of the Flies," "Arsenic and Old Lace," and a few classes read "A Separate Peace."

Freshmen read poems by Edgar Allan Poe, and "The Pearl" by John Steinbeck. The students also read "The Miracle Worker" and then watched the movie.

The movies shown to students before Christmas break and at the end of the year were "Alfred the Great," "Great Expectations," and "A Separate Peace." These movies gave students a break from the routine of classwork.

Taking time out of Jr. English to ham it up for us is A.J. Mercker.

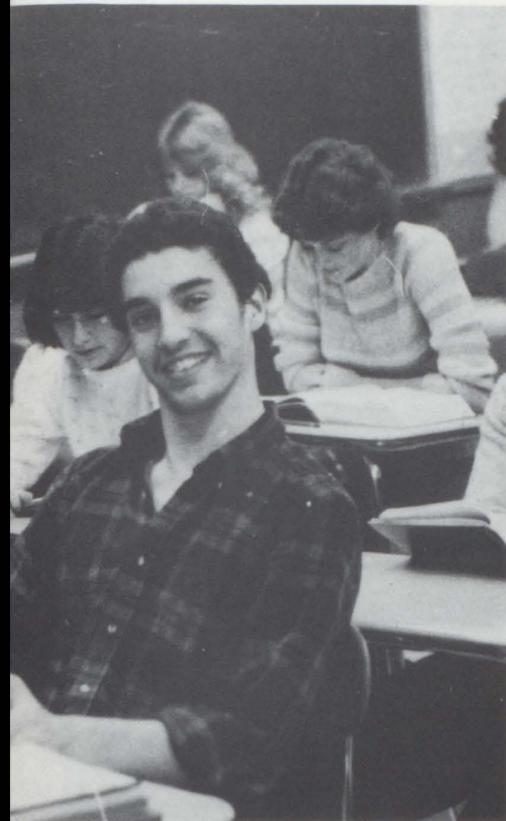

Giving a look of disgust to Mrs. Bragg's statement is Sophomore Chad Warren.

Taking one of the few breaks they get is the College Prep class.

LANGUAGE

Bienvenido, Bienvenue!

Both Spanish and French second-year students had the opportunity to teach a foreign language in a local elementary school. They taught for 2-3 days out of the week during their regularly scheduled class. This lasted for six weeks. The students' aim was to get the children so interested in a foreign language that they would want to pursue the language further.

A new idea was implemented by the Spanish Department last year. A conversation group was started for honorary second-year students. During their meetings, the members conversed in Spanish about current events.

In first-year French students drew their dream houses and labeled the furniture. Later, speaking in French, they had to describe their house to the rest of the class.

In both Spanish and French classes, students were videotaped while they acted out a skit or interview. The students could speak only in the foreign language.

Many students feel that being able to speak a foreign language can be very useful. Some colleges require a knowledge of a foreign language. Although most students take a foreign language class because of these college requirements, many students discover that they enjoy the class.

Various emotions show on the faces of Spanish I students while they listen to Mrs. Melson.

Charlie Williams and his classmates enjoy a joke by Mrs. Melson.

A BASKETFULL of APPLES

Last year two new computers were purchased by the Math Department. The computer laboratory now contains six Apple II computers.

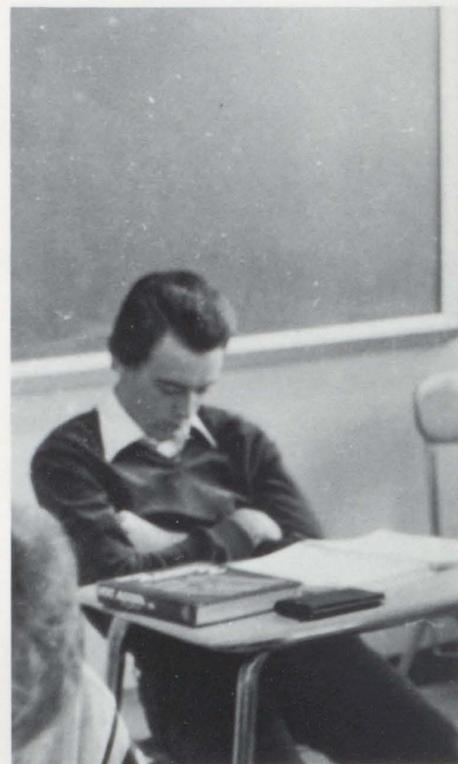

A computer math class was started. It was available only to top senior math students. They learned how to program the computer and to do simple mathematical calculations and story problems.

A Computer Club was organized and open to all students at the high school.

Other math classes include Pre-Algebra I & II, Algebra I & II, geometry, trigonometry, pre-calculus, and analytic geometry.

Trigonometry, pre-calculus, analytic geometry, and computer math are giving our college-bound students a solid background in mathematics. They are being well prepared to succeed in our highly technological world.

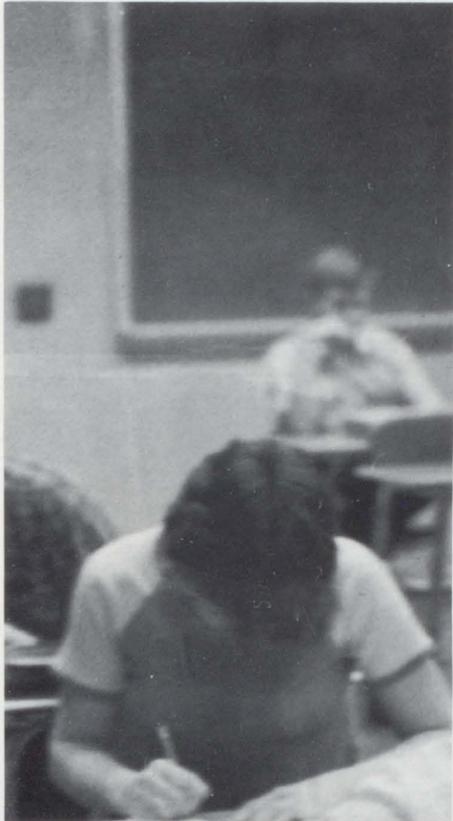

Cindy Miller and Melanie Beemer show that you can still have fun even while you are doing homework.

Michelle Snyder works intently on her Algebra II assignment.

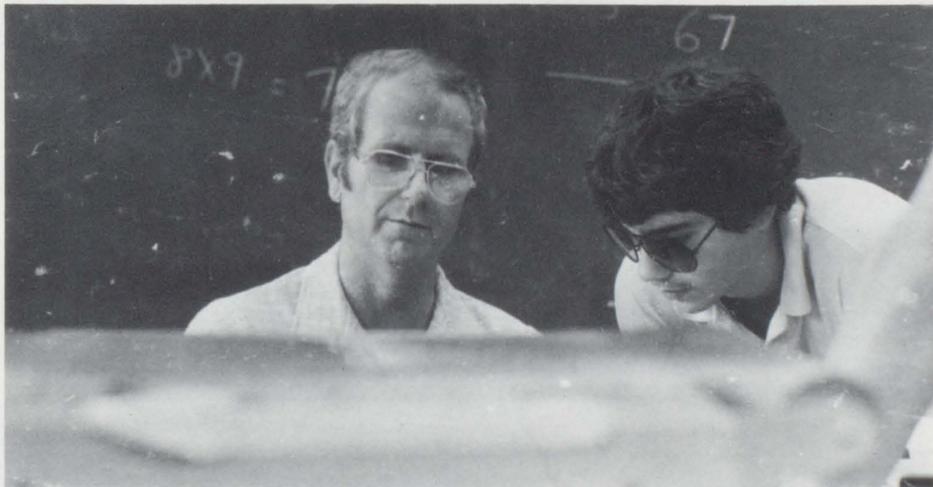

Bart Matney, senior, sleeps undisturbed in Algebra II.

Students work hard in Mrs. Dunlap's general math class.

Senior Phil Small contemplates whether to tell the computer GOTO.

Students in general business review their notes for an impending test.

AN APPLE for M-G

The Business Department purchased a new computer. The computer, an Apple IIE, has a word processor which enables it to edit copy, print out letters and reports, and type form letters. They also purchased new typewriters and calculators.

The Apple IIE was used last year by business machines and office practice students only. Eventually, though, the Apple IIE will be used in accounting classes and in beginning typing.

Students in office practice had the opportunity to be interviewed by area businessmen. Limited to seniors, the office practice class gave its students a chance to do actual secretarial work for members of the faculty.

Shorthand and typing classes have proved helpful not only to future secretaries but to college-bound students. General business classes introduce students to the complexity of money management. It provides the basis for the record keeping, accounting, business law, and business communication classes. Our business teachers hope that with up-to-date materials and equipment, M-G students will be able to keep up with current trends in the business world.

Girls in Typing II work diligently to complete their jobs.

Sherrie Stitt keeps her eyes off her typewriter while working on her assignment.

Cells, Classifications, Compositions

Science classes offered students a wide range of topics.

In biology, students studied basic cell structure and function and surveyed the plant and animal kingdoms. Most classes dissected an animal, either a frog or a fetal pig.

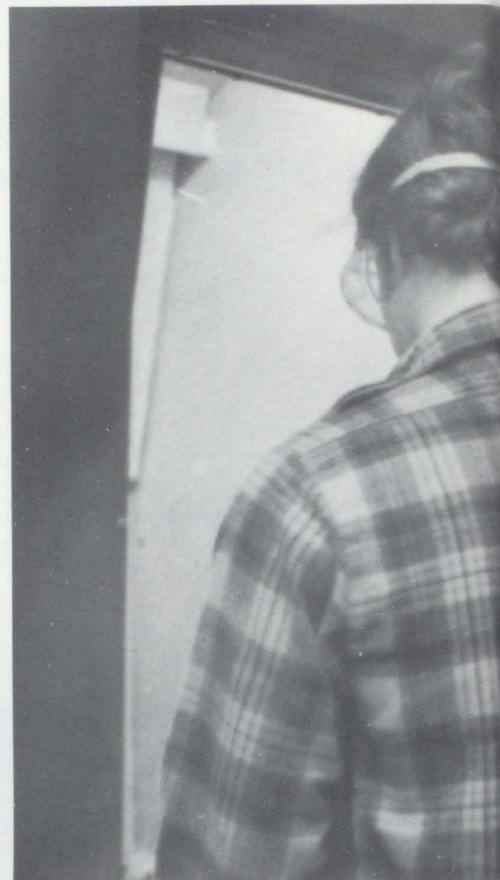

In advanced biology and zoology classes, an in-depth study of the animal kingdom was conducted. They advanced from phylum to phylum, starting with one-celled organisms and finishing with mammals. Their major dissection was a cat. This dissection lasted for two weeks.

Compositions of chemicals, molecule shapes, and simple formulas were just a little of what was covered in chemistry. In advanced chemistry, individual work was stressed. Students conducted experiments including blood analysis, redox reactions, and pharmacological studies of the effects of drugs on diseases. Advanced chemistry students also made soaps, dyes, alcohols, and acids.

Learning how to practically apply their mathematic knowledge was the objective of students in physics class. From figuring the slope of a porch roof to studying why colors look the way they do, physics class proved that a good science and mathematical background can be helpful.

A Chicago field trip was taken on Friday, April 8th. Students from the various science classes were eligible to go. They visited the many interesting sights of Chicago. A good time was had by all.

Jim Rainey and Roy Cox demonstrate the art of dissecting a frog.

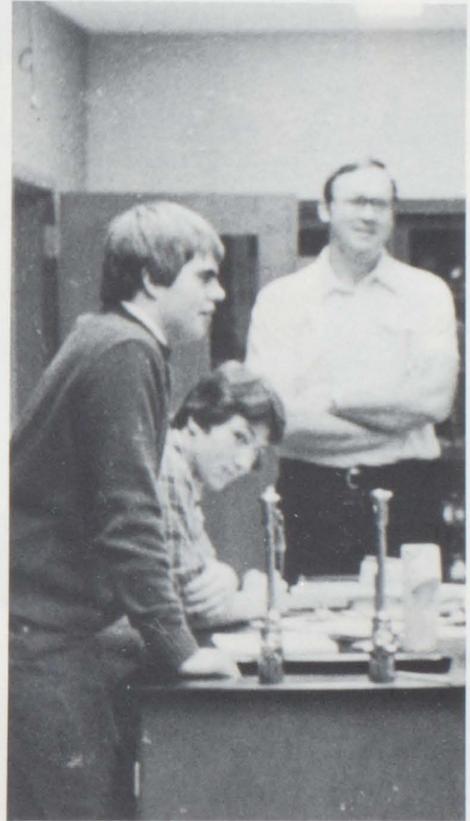

Tony Ratliff, freshman, gets caught up in a crowd during the Chicago field trip.

M-G Music

Who wore "hot pink" ruffles and bowties and could dance and sing like nothing you had ever seen before?

You guessed it! The Ar Guys & Gals directed by Mrs. Sharkey. The Ar Guys & Gals consisted of twenty-four singers and two accompanists who performed throughout the year for the public and in competitions.

At a competition in the spring of 1982 they performed at Kings Island where they received a rating of excellent.

The Ar Guys & Gals performed a variety of music. Some of these selections were "Ebony and Ivory," "Elvira," and a medley called "Rock Around the 50's."

This past year they entertained at the V.A., Fairmount Museum Days, our school's Fall and Spring Concerts, the M-G Open House, and at the I & M Annual Year Show to name only a few.

The Ar Guys & Gals were just one of the school's organizations that brought high recognition to our high school.

Gemie Marine and Teresa Rigney enjoy themselves during the "Lockjaw Band" performance.

Sharon Ferree and other cast members perform in the Christmas musical, "A Threepenny Christmas."

Showing off one of the many stylish fashions of the "Lockjaw Band" is senior John Allen.

More Music

The Ar Guys & Gals were not the only musical performers at the high school. The choirs and band gave many performances and participated in many contests.

The choir classes participated in the Choral Festival on March 17 at Anderson. At the Choral Festival, choirs from all over the county came together to display their talents. The Concert Choir also joined the Ar Guys & Gals in presenting a musical, "A Threepenny Christmas."

The Royal Argyll Regiment took part in many contests some of which were intended to help them improve their overall performance. The Band Boosters sold pizzas again this year to raise money to help keep the band going.

One special event to members in the Royal Argyll Regiment was the "Lockjaw Band." The performing of the "Lockjaw Band" was a celebration of the end of the marching season. On this night band members dressed as they pleased and performed in an unconventional manner. It was definitely a night of fun.

Walls. Wreaths, Windows

If you enjoy art you should have taken an art class this past year. Mrs. McConnell taught basic art, Drawing I, II, and III, crafts design, print making, ceramics, and painting.

The art students again painted Christmas nativity scenes on the doors and windows. These paintings truly depicted the Christmas spirit. The students made a large outdoor wreath of pinecones and sold it at the annual Christmas auction. They bought a tree and decorated it with handmade decorations, and then gave it to an elderly lady in Fairmount. Students in painting class painted a mural on the landing of the north stairway. The mural, a colorful tree graphic, was done in enamel paint, which is very shiny and can be easily cleaned.

For one senior art major there was a $500 David Rose Scholarship. It will be offered again next year. There was the annual school art exhibit for all students, with money prizes awarded. A few selected students participated in the National Scholastics Contest.

Rodge Howard and Randy Sneed work on their pottery in ceramics class.

Paula Wandersee works on her project for art class.

The Past, The Present, The Future

In history classes, students studied past mistakes and accomplishments of the countries and nations throughout the world. The study of these mistakes and accomplishments was conducted in a variety of ways. Students could read their history books, or they could receive the knowledge through first-hand experience. The latter proved to be the most popular. One method of first-hand experience, commonly called "The Trial," required the students become actively involved in the court proceedings being conducted in class.

The International Flat Earth Research

Society of America was favorably endorsed by Mr. Badger. The society believes that the earth is shaped like a plate. This belief was the topic of many discussions in Mr. Badger's classes.

Sociology, which people sometimes forgot was in the area of social studies, covered the relationships between different groups of people. Students in sociology learned how groups of people interact, with a special emphasis on the individual's role in group dynamics.

Students in Mr. Stone's government class greet the staff photographers in many ways.

Hands on Experience

Industrial arts classes gave students hands on experience in many areas of mechanics, electricity, light construction, and drafting. This experience gave many students the background they needed for future career choices.

Building a scale model garage was the major project in light construction class. In basic woods students made many small projects with an emphasis on hand and power tools. In advanced woods they constructed a major lathe project using as many power tools as possible.

In auto mechanics class students disassembled and reassembled a V-8 engine. They also did some rebuilding of an automotive engine. In power mechanics students inspected and rebuilt a lawn mower engine.

In photography class they learned special darkroom techniques and then applied this new knowledge.

In drafting classes students drew different types of drawings, ranging from 3 dimensional to auxillary views to a complete set of house plans.

Brian Mayes and John Hosteler work on an engine in power mechanics class.

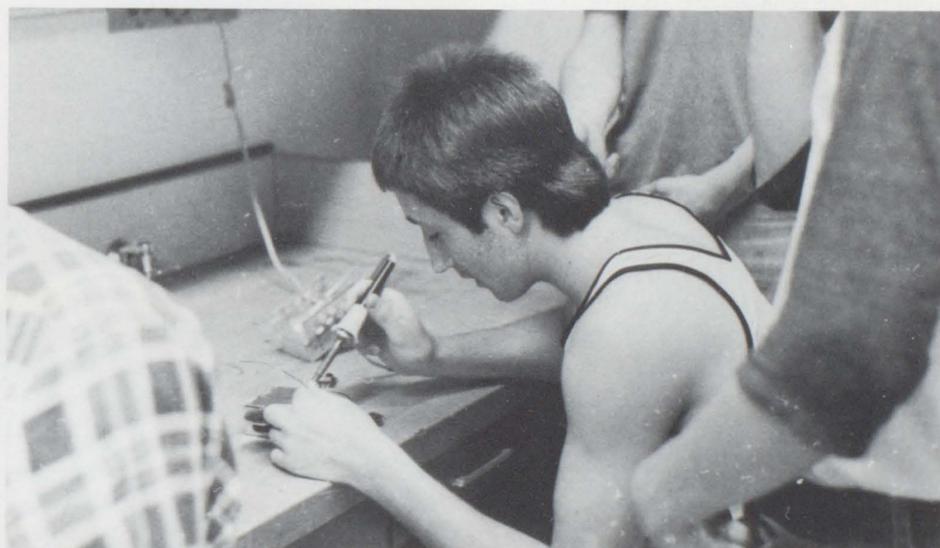

Mr. Summers helps Donnie Cox test his electronic circuitry for electronics class.

Charles Blessing and Jim Hamilton work on a lawn mower engine in power mechanics class.

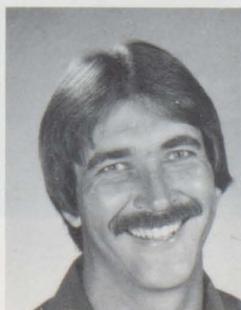

Mike Stowers solders his "whooper siren" in electronics class.

Steve Fetz solders his project for electronics class.

Jerry Costner demonstrates his amazing ability to use a hacksaw.

3 BAGS FULL

Operating a farm was not as easy as it looked, as Ag students found out. A farmer has to figure rations of feed, how much fertilizer and weed killer to put down, how many head of cattle to sell, and etc. The list goes on and on. With all this bookwork to do, besides the actual physical labor, a farmer had to be a businessman and an economist. But, lately, there has been a breakthrough in farm management — the computer. A computer can facilitate the bookwork, and it can allow the farmer more time to do other things.

In the Ag economics class here at M-G, students learned how to manage a farm using a computer. They performed such duties as those listed above and found the computer did make it easier.

In introduction to Ag classes students covered the basics of farming. They used the computer to figure fertilizer amounts for different types of soil.

If a student wanted to carry his studies of agriculture further, he could take soils, crops, or livestock classes. These classes covered more in-depth studies of soil types, the nutrients that crops need, and the care and management of livestock.

In welding class students covered the basics of welding. In farm mechanics class students tore down a gas and a diesel engine, and they put them back together. They also painted a vehicle.

Reid Retherford, Doug Holder, and Bruce Leachman play The Farming Game with a lot of enthusiasm.

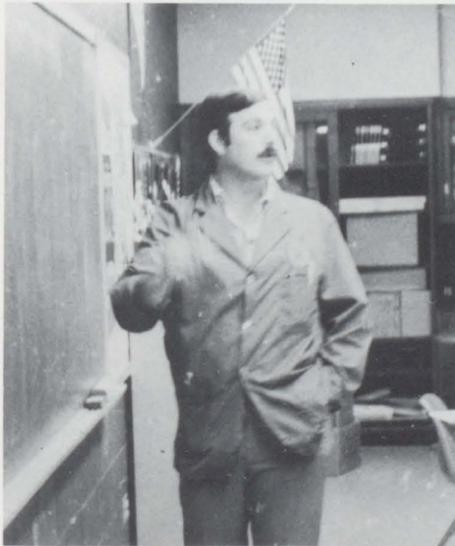

Adam Worl can almost always be found welding during 3rd period.

A CUPFUL

In the various home economics classes that were available here at M-G, students learned basic cooking skills, correct laundry procedures, wise shopping habits, and much more. This variety gave students the background needed to fend for themselves, whether they were planning on going away to college, or entering into married life.

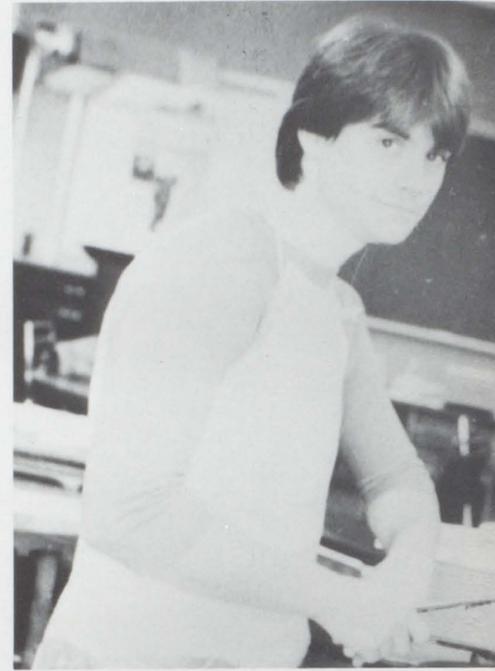

In Foods I & II, students progressed from following simple recipes to cooking various foreign dishes. They later displayed their skills by entertaining another class with a buffet style party.

Making a blouse, skirt, or a jacket were only a few of the possible assignments in Clothing I & II. Students mastered basic sewing skills and worked independently on many projects.

Inter-personal relationships, marriage and family, and child development classes were helpful to students in many ways. Students learned how to relate to other people, how to make a marriage last, and the emotional and physical development of a child from conception to 6 years of age.

With inflation increasing all over the nation, knowing how to manage your finances and how to use credit wisely can be very necessary. These skills were taught to students in consumer education and family management.

Staying Healthy

Learning how to stay healthy for a lifetime was the major objective of physical education and health classes this past year.

In P.E. classes students participated in various sports that were intended to help keep them physically fit. They played basketball and volleyball and performed gymnastics. The girls also participated in aerobic exercises.

During their sophomore year, students were required to take health class. In health class students covered such topics as emotions, diseases, first aid, sex education, and the effects of alcohol and drugs on a body and a mind. The students performed CPR on "Resusci-Annie" and practiced carrying an injured person.

Everyone from the teachers to the freshmen participated in "New Wave" days. They wore cut-off shirts, sweater-dresses, mini-skirts, bandannas, and numerous safety pins.

The newest fads enjoyed by the students were mini-skirts and hair paint. Many girls wore minis decorated with black and white stripes, polka dots, and multi-colored figures.

Like mini-skirts, hair paint was very popular on "New Wave" day. Both male and female students sported painted hair in a rainbow of colors, and some kinds even contained glitter.

FREE AT LAST!

Many seniors find the thought of spending one more whole year in school horrifying. The alternative to this dilemma is often found in "release time". The students who take advantage of this time put it to use in many different ways.

Some students earn money by working. They can then be more prepared for what lies ahead after graduation.

Other students go to vocational school or other types of training. These students then have a skill when they graduate, and get a jump on the job market.

There are a few students, however, who just use this time to relax and enjoy themselves!!!!

Terri's Triumphs

Terri Blackburn is not only a co-valedictorian this year, she is one of a handful of seniors nation-wide to be a National Merit Scholarship finalist. Her scores on the PSAT test qualified her for this honor. She then became a finalist after completing an application and became eligible for many monetary scholarships.

Terri stated she did not feel confident upon completing the test because there is no way to study for it.

After graduation Terri plans to major in Secondary Education/Mathematics at the University of Evansville. She then hopes to teach in a public high school.

She feels her grades have opened up many opportunities for her. Many people have questioned why she chose teaching as a career to pursue. She believes, "We need educated people to educate people. Teaching is still a respectable profession."

Senior Sentiments

The senior class consisted of approximately 180 members. The senior class officers were: president Shelly Webb, vice-president Sherry Burgan, secretary Stacey Webb, and treasurer Jill Parson. The faculty sponsors were Mrs. Hull, Mr. Bach, and Mr. Stone.

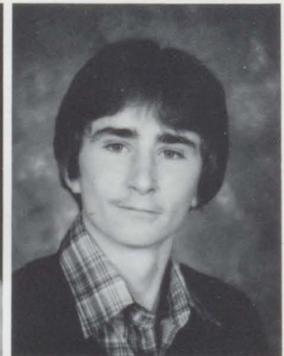

The highlight of the senior year was undoubtedly graduation day, which was held of May 22.

Members of the class have chosen many directions to take after graduation. However, even though they are leaving M-G they will take many memories of the past four years with them.

“S.A.T.”

Many thoughts and plans begin “Coming together” during ones junior year. As a junior, a student can take the Scholastic Aptitude Test, fondly referred to as “The S.A.T.” The majority of the class took the test and sat is what they did. The testing lasts approximately three hours, although one usually feels like it has been three years. However, these three hours can have a profound impact on the chance of a college education.

The results of the test are sent to the student about six weeks after the test. Copies are also sent to colleges that are being considered by the student. These results are often met with apprehension. They show verbal and mathematical scores as well as how good one is at guessing!!!

The Sophomore Class Officers!

NEW EXPERIENCES

Sophomores all have at least one thing in common — the feeling of "Coming Together". Many friendship that are made during ones' freshman year are cemented during ones' sophomore year. Sophomores also share the satisfaction of knowing they are no longer the youngest students in the school. They have now become 100% Argylls and are veterans of the way Madison-Grant operates.

They are under the leadership of the class officers; president Shelly Matchett, vice-president Carolyn Wright, secretary Sherry Stitt, treasurer Tina Underwood. The sponsors of the sophomore class are Mr. Badger, Mrs. Bragg, Mrs. Dunlap.

Ode To A CLASS JACKET

Receiving a class jacket is a highlight of ones high school years. Class jackets usually arrive in the early fall on a warm day. Nevertheless, many sophomores immediately don the long awaited jackets. Visions immediately fill their minds of how terrific the jacket will look on them. There is a certain amount of self-satisfaction that comes with the new jacket. It also comes with a sense of belonging.

The everloved jacket usually gets its first dry cleaning after the end of the sophomore year in anticipation of the junior year which will no doubt be even better than the sophomore year.

Oddly enough however, to some the jacket loses its appeal by the junior year. They are still worn on some occasions and many students continue to wear them everywhere. Yet, a number of students pass over the jacket in search of something a bit more individualistic.

The senior year a class jacket has a rough way to go. Many jackets have been exchanged for athletic award jackets. Some students still wear their faithful class jacket.

The best thing, however, about a class jacket is probably the memories it will bring back to one when it is rediscovered years later.

GETTING ACQUAINTED

One hundred seventy-two freshmen entered Madison-Grant for the first time this year. Many worries of what might happen came with them. Will I get lost? This question was answered while they searched frantically for the cafeteria in F-hallway. The "Will I get initiated" worry was confirmed from high atop the water fountain. Is the work harder? The answer to this was evident on November 3, the day report cards were first distributed. Many other frustrations were laid to rest as the year progressed.

The freshman class officers were president Kathy Coffey, vice-president Jane Huntzinger, secretary Barbi Evans, and treasurer Lynn Barnhart.

Faculty sponsors for the freshman class were Mr. Hackney, Mrs. Kirby, and Mr. Terry Martin.

On The Road To Victory

Boys and girls alike came together with fighting Argyll spirit to show their support and interest in athletics.

Along with the knowledge and experience of the upper classmen, the freshmen contributed new blood and spirit to the sports teams. They also provided energy to the football, basketball, volleyball, baseball, track, gymnastics, wrestling, tennis, and golf teams.

What is it like to be a coach?

Coaching has its ups and downs and its highlights and disappointments. But despite the low points of a season, the coaches here at Madison Grant are a very dedicated group of people. In reading this, one can see the positive attitude shown by some of the individual coaches.

Madison-Grant coaches were asked if they enjoyed coaching. Here are some of their responses: Terry Martin, "Yes, there are great rewards that can be gained from working with young athletes."

John Carpenter, "I enjoy working with young people in sports, especially those who want to learn the game, and work hard to reach their goals."

Bud Badger, "Yes, very much. It gives me another avenue to work with and teach young people."

Tony Boley, "Yes, I feel it is a rewarding experience to work with these young wrestlers and help them mature. It teaches them to be gentlemen."

Charlotte Denny, "I love to coach when the athlete puts forth as much as the coach."

Tom Bennett, "Yes, it gives me a different perspective of the school and the students, than if I was just teaching in the classroom."

Cheryl Hackney, "Yes, if I didn't, I wouldn't be coaching."

Curt Hackney, "Yes. High school athletes are very enjoyable to work with."

James Strasemeier, "Yes. I sure don't do it for the money."

Charles Wright, "I must; otherwise I surely would have given it up by now!"

George Fratus, Brian Kirkwood, Jeff Summers, Gene Skirvin, and Karen McClurg were simply speechless, for all they were able to say was, "YES!"

When given the freedom to comment, here are some of the things that were said:

"I have enjoyed my years at Madison-Grant, both teaching and coaching."

"Sports in my life have been good to me. There are many memories and friends."

"I feel athletics continues to help these young people develop value, discipline, motivation, and to set goals and to work hard to meet these goals."

"I believe high school athletics are very important. They can be very much like life. Athletics have their ups and downs, just as life."

"No comments on grounds that I might incriminate myself."

"It's a pleasure to work with the fine young people who are involved in athletics here at Madison-Grant."

"As an athlete in high school, I really learned from my teachers and coaches. I appreciated the positive influence that they impressed on me. Coaching gives me an opportunity to express my ideas, and hopefully influence athletes in a positive way. I hope to teach them about responsibility, self-discipline, teamwork, and respect. And in the long run prepare them for the decisions and situations in the future."

"I enjoy coaching because it's life itself. You must set goals and establish ways to reach these goals. It's a challenge!"

On and off the fields, courts and tracks, our coaches have had a major influence on the lives of the students and athletes at Madison-Grant.

Volleyballers Play Well

The girls had a good season this year in the CIC competition finishing with a 5-2 record. Senior Mary Jo Keefer and junior Sara Robinson were chosen to the all conference team. The team's regular season record was 11-13. Other stand outs on varsity were senior Anne Garner and sophomore Brenda Kelich.

The junior varsity had a good season ending with a 10-5 record. Seeing some varsity action this year were sophomores Kristy Hamilton and Michelle Hannah.

CIC Championship

The golf team this year had a very successful season this year improving last year's record 5-5 to this year's mark of 7-3. One of the highlights of the season was the CIC Championship. This helped the chances of winning the CIC trophy for the school. The most valuable player was Rodney Kibbey.

HIGH MORALE

Morale was high at the end of the 1982 Argyll football season. The Argylls finished with a 3-4 C.I.C. record and a 5-5 overall record. The team tied for third place with four other teams in the C.I.C.

The spirits of the team were really lifted after the Homecoming victory over Wabash, with a score of 21-0. Another "spirit-lifter" was the Argyll's win over Elwood. The game went into overtime, ending with a score of 27-24.

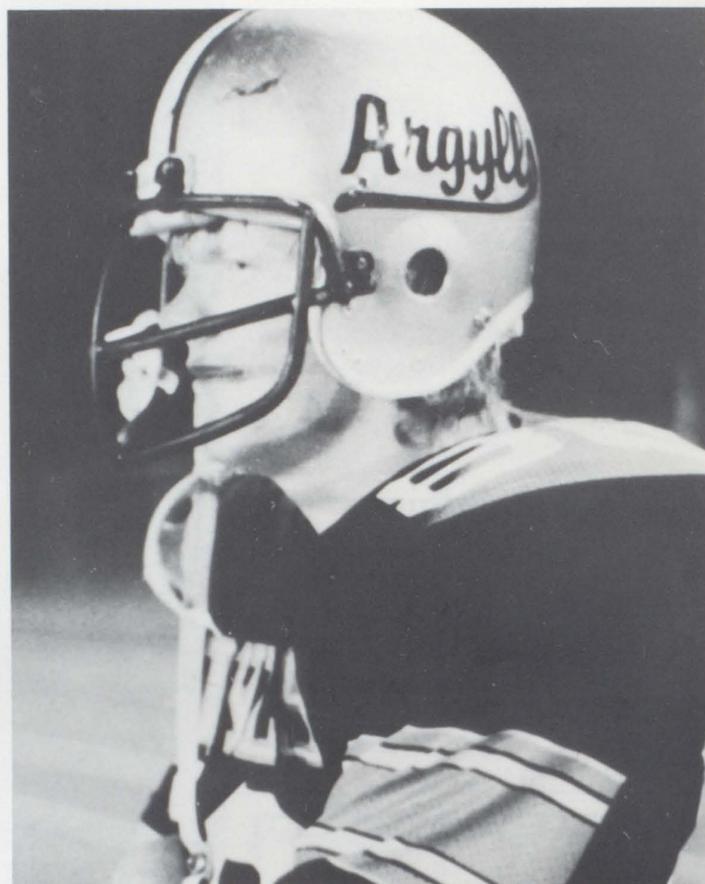

The team suffered a few injuries, but they were still able to give a good performance on the field.

Team captains were seniors Darren Nelson, Doug Smithee, and Tim Gilman.

Selected to the All-County offensive team were juniors Phil King and Reid Hensley. Selected to the All-County defensive team were junior Chuck Woodruff and seniors Brian Sabanski, Darren Nelson, Doug Smithee, and Mike Ernst.

Chosen to the C.I.C. team were Rick Goodpaster (offensive), and Doug Smithee and Darren Nelson (defensive). Those receiving honorable mention were Tim Gilman, Brent Floyd, Reid Hensley, Chuck Woodruff, Brian Sabanski, and Mike Ernst.

Mike Ernst was selected to the 1982 Indiana Football All-State Academic team.

The Argylls converse on their way to the huddle.

Valuable Experience

If one were to look at the 1982 reserve football team's season record, you could say that the season wasn't very successful. But as told by coaches Summers and Hackney, the season was a learning experience.

There were a lot of inexperienced players on the team, but they gained a lot of valuable playing time. The players showed a lot of desire and hustle.

The Agrylls use quick defensive action to stop an opponent.

SUCCESS

The freshman Argyll football team had a very successful season, with Tipton and Oak Hill being their best games.

Coach Martin said that the team worked hard and deserved their success.

Coach Bennett feels that this young team is going to play a large part with the Argylls their junior year.

The record for the season was 5-2.

As the sky darkens, the reserve football team begins their defensive action.

M-G freshman come together with opponents as the play begins.

Gettin' Stronger!

The 1982-83 weightlifting program has moved from the weightroom in the school to the football building. Many athletes have taken advantage of the added space.

With money from annual Lift-a-thons, coaches Badger and Hackney have purchased a leg sled, two 310 lb. Olympic sets, a curling bar, two weightlifting belts, and two bench presses. They hope to add a hamstring press this year.

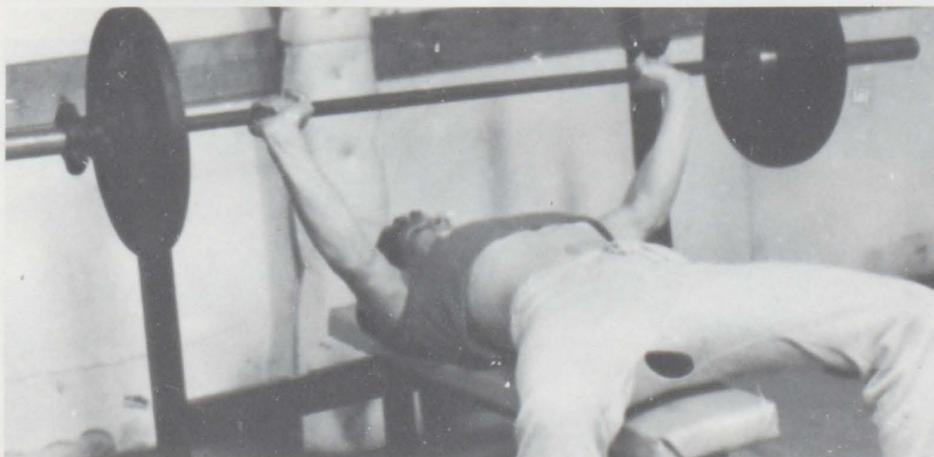

Who lifts? Athletes. Usually the members of the football team, and the girls and boys track teams are the people you see working out. Strength is an asset for a good athlete.

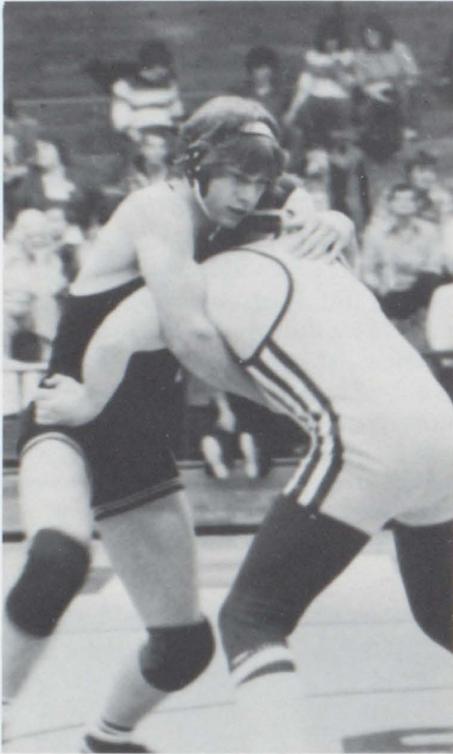

David Short struggles with a curl while Joe Gordon looks on.

Brian ("Boomer") Sabanski sneaks up on Shelley Smith.

John Elsworth works at the press in the football building.

Grappling with his opponent, Pat Lenardson decides what to do next.

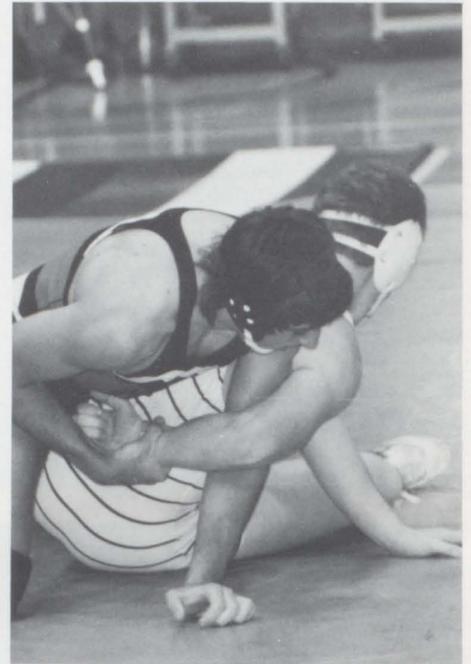

Bob Stevens plans last minute strategy.

Phil Stitt, Mark Miller, and David Sappenfield intently watch the progress of teammates.

Steve Fetz puts the pressure on an unlucky opponent.

B-Team shows potential

The B-Team wrestlers showed a lot of potential this season. They finished with a record of 5-5, which almost matched that of the varsity. That was the best record in the history of the school.

Nothing was expected of these young men but good things. If they worked hard in the off season, they should be a good asset to the varsity team next year and help the team to another winning season.

An umpire waits for Kevin Bangle to complete his pin.

Keith Callahan once again has things under control as he helps the wrestlers on to a victorious season.

COMING TOGETHER

On the Mats

Head to head, Doug Smithee gives an opponent a few last seconds to change his mind.

The M-G wrestlers "came together" and had a winning season with a record of 6-4. The Argylls only disappointment was the loss of senior Phil Stitt. At the time of his knee injury, Phil was leading the team with an 11-2 record.

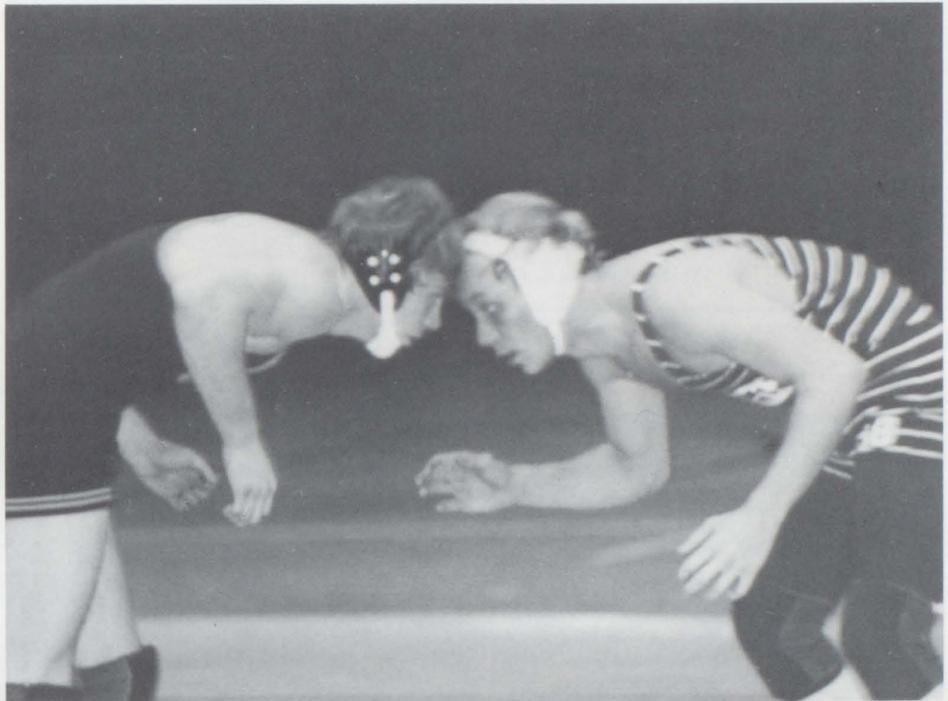

The Argylls had a very successful season in breaking over 30 individual records.

Team captains were Pat Lenardson, Bob Stevens, and Doug Smithee.

Most valuable wrestler was Keith Callahan and most improved was Thad Shelton.

The Argylls have already begun preparing for next season. Many are participating in A.A.U. Wrestling and Coach Boley has a wrestling club planned for the summer. The off-season preparations will help the wrestlers be successful next year. The team is looking forward to another winning season.

The proud wrestlers placed 2nd in the Grant-County Tourney, 6th in the C.I.C., 3rd in the Sectionals, and 6th in the Regionals. The Argylls had eight wrestlers advance to the Regionals.

Tough Season

Even though the girls had a disappointing 6-9 record, they played many tough teams. Their CIC record accounted for most of their wins, with a 4-3 mark. This was the best the record has been in the past few years.

The B-team ended the season with an 8-6 record.

Argylls Play Tough

“CIC VICTORY” was a common chant heard at many of the boy’s varsity games this year. They boasted a 6-1 record in the CIC. This was the best in Madison-Grant history. Their only loss was to Alexandria.

Another highlight of the season was the victory over county rival Oak Hill. The Argylls won the keg and kept it until facing Oak Hill again in the sectional. It was a very close game until the end when Oak Hill went ahead for the win.

The Argylls ended the season with an 11-10 record. The B-team had a good year with a 12-8 record.

The optional team, that ended with a 5-6 record, was led by Seniors Jodi Simpson and Sherry Burgan. They both have participated in high school gymnastics for 4 years.

This year M-G had a very strong intermediate team with a 10-1 record. Dawn Floyd accumulated the most points for the Lady Argylls. Soni Day went undefeated in floor exercise until the Sectional.

Good Batting! Good Pitching!

The 1983 varsity baseball season was super for the Argylls. After winning the C.I.C., the Argylls gave the school its first league baseball championship ever. This also put Madison-Grant on top of the County Crown.

The Argylls entered the sectional with a 17-5 record, only to lose to Eastbrook in the first game. But overall the season was a huge success.

Pitcher Brent Floyd was the key to the 6-0 win over Oak Hill in the final game of the county tourney. Brent threw a two hitter, struck out seven, and walked home.

The Argylls also won the county title in 1979 and 1981. This 1983 win made coach Rickard's third county title in five years.

Coach Rickard and Madison-Grant are very proud of these young men!

LEARNING

As shown by the 1983 B-team record, the season was mainly a learning experience.

The team was made up of mostly freshmen and sophomores, who gained a lot of playing experience.

The varsity team is looking forward to drafting some of the finer players.

Very Young Team

The girls tennis team this season was very young. There were only 2 seniors on the team, Anne Hayes and Anne Garner. The only returning letterwinners were Gina Jones and Anne Garner. Next year the team should be able to improve their 1-9 record with 6 people returning.

HARD WORK

The 1983 girls track team trained very hard this year. With the training received from this year and the appropriate training next year, the girls should have a very successful 1984 season.

The girls finished their season with a 2-7 record, while placing 3rd and 6th in the county and the C.I.C.

"The girls lacked depth, but they made significant progress for such a short period of training," said coach Redding.

Even though the girls lost a lot, they were very competitive. The 1600 meter relay team was one of the highlights of the season.

Coaches Denny and Redding feel as though the girls were very dedicated, hard workers.

Lack of Depth

The 1982 boys track team had a fairly successful season. They lacked depth, as did the girls team. More young men should be encouraged to go out for the track team.

The highlight of the season was the 400 meter relay team, consisting of Doug Smithee, John Elsworth, Phil King, Reid Hensley, and Steve Fetz. This team set a new school record.

Other highlights were Doug Smithee winning the 300 low hurdles at county, Steve Fetz winning the 400 meter dash at the Elwood Relays, and Reid Hensley winning for Madison-Grant the 100 meter dash at the county and the C.I.C.

Lets Cheer

Although our teams do not always win, there are a select group of girls who cheer them on anyway. These girls are our cheerleaders and mat maids. Numerous duties performed by these girls go unrecognized by many people.

Some of the cheerleaders work includes making up skits, decorating lockers and the halls, yelling as loud as they could for a victory and anything else they can think of to generate school spirit.

The matmaids help the wrestling team. Their duties involve keeping stats, mopping the mats, handing out ribbons, setting up chairs and cheering for the boys. They raised money for their sweaters by having car washes and bake sales.

ORGANIZATIONS

Piñata contest winners are Laura Lenardson, Diedre Brattian, and first place winners Rob Ferguson and Kelly Royal.

On The Go, Power To Grow

The students fired up and got involved this year in organizations. The Art Club went on a field trip to Chicago with Oak Hill art students. French Club and Spanish Club were entertained by guest speakers. The Spanish Club sponsored a piñata contest, FFA members participated in the National FFA Week by driving tractors to school, and Student Council sponsored a Substance Abuse Workshop on April 6, 1983.

The organizations grew with the excitement provided by freshmen and new members. Enjoying the company of fellow students made participation in clubs and organizations a special part of high school.

Showing her artistic talent is senior art club member LaNelle Hikade.

Dana Rhoads and Robyn Nolder say, "Everything's better in French!"

FFA member Larry Coulter says, "Follow me, guys!" to Bruce Leachman, and Todd Peacock and Doug Holder.

Spirit Boosters

An indispensable part of many sports events was the presence of the Royal Argyle Regiment and the Argyllettes. These dedicated people gave time and skill to support their fellow students who were also performing on the football field or basketball floor. Perhaps not as well known were their accomplishments in their own areas.

The band went to many contests sponsored by the Indiana State School Music Association. In the District Marching Contest and the Organizations Contest (Concert Band) the members of the band were rated as excellent. The Jazz Band was rated as superior.

In the spring the band travelled to King's

Island to perform in the Music in the Parks Festival. The Jazz Band placed first, and Concert and Marching Bands placed second. Outstanding Drum Majors awards were presented to Bob Ratliff and Jim Cornwell. Of the day Mr. Lamb said, "It was a gas."

John Bach received the Louis Armstrong Jazz Award at the Fine Arts Award Banquet. Other band awards included the John Philip Sousa Award to Bob Ratliff, Outstanding Junior Jan Eiler, Outstanding Sophomore Brian McGee, and Outstanding Freshman Tad Guyre. Mr. Lamb said, "Look out next year — they ain't seen nothin' yet!"

Sombreros Quitados Enlevez Vos Chapeaux

Members of foreign language clubs were easily recognized by the activities in which they participated. In the fall, members of both clubs purchased shirts with phrases printed in their club's language. On Valentine's Day, French Club members were observed running in and out of classrooms delivering carnations. During National Foreign Language Week, members donned sombreros and berets while selling buttons.

Once again the Spanish Club traveled to Chi-Chis, and the French Club visited La Tour's for an evening's meal. The Spanish Club sponsored a pinata contest with the winners, Rob Ferguson, Laura Lenardson, and Kelly Royal, receiving money toward their dinner at Chi-Chis.

Parties, meetings, skits, and speakers rounded off the list of activities planned by the French and Spanish Clubs' officers. Officers of the French Club included Deb Barnhart, president; Soni Kay, vice-president; Tracie Spaulding, secretary-treasurer; and Mary Jackson, advisor. Spanish Club officers were president, Shelly Matchette; vice president, Rob Ferguson; secretary, Michelle Hannah; treasurer, Kristy Hamilton; and advisor, Carolyn Melson. # Stage, Stammer, Silkscreen

"All the world's a stage," Shakespeare once wrote. At Madison-Grant the stage is only one opportunity for students to pursue interests in fine arts.

The Speech Team, in addition to attending the regular meets, held a variety of parties, social events, and fund-raisers. Members held a Parent Recognition Night, January 10. One of the team's goals was to raise enough money and earn enough points to take Speech Team members to the State National Forensics League Solos over night in Indianapolis.

First semester officers for the Speech Team and NFL, the speech honorary, were Warren Smith, president and Melanie Riggsbee, secretary. Second semester the positions were held by Mark Robinson and Janice Eiler respectively.

The Drama Club sponsored workshops after school and attended plays in addition to putting on the all school play. The play, entitled "A Woman's Place" consisted of seven one-acts put together and directed by Peggy Richards and Nan Moegerle. Drama Club officers elected second semester included Dan Marley, president; Kim Coder, vice-president; and Karen Underwood, secretary.

Designing and printing their own shirts turned out to be one of the nightlights of the year for the Art Club. Parties, a field trip to Chicago, and service projects were just a few of the activities planned by the Art Club officers, president, Cherie Robinson; vice-president, Tina Noland; secretary, Julie Payne; and advisor, Susan McConnell.

Members of the Art Club who painted the sign included: J. Wright, J. Payne, T. Wandersee, A. Wimmer, W.

Drama Club members react differently to the antics of Mrs. Richards at the club's auditioning workshop.

Brian McGee expresses shock at his impromptu topic during one of the team's early meets.

Practical Arts

Frequent homeroom meetings were presided over by FFA president Adam Worl.

The rumble of tractors converging on the school grounds was an unforgettable sound for many FFA members. Future farmers drove tractors to school during National FFA Week. The chapter placed first in several county and district contests. Officers were president Adam Worl, A.J. Mercker, Ed Frye, Brent Myers, Warren Smith, Shawn Pierce, Steve Comer, and adviser Randall Kerkhoff.

A less conspicuous but equally momentous occasion was the converging of representatives of about 15 schools of higher education at the newly formed Business Club's Career Night. Officers were president Bret Shane, Doug Smithee, Rhonda Compo, Jerri Chapel, and Jamie Beeson. Sponsors included all the business faculty.

The Future Homemakers of America visited a nursing home, delivered Easter treats to teachers, and held a Mother-Daughter Banquet in addition to taking part in a variety of social events. Officers were president Trisha Jones, Cheryl Tomlin, Lisa Ladd, Shelly Smith, Bonnie Williams, Angel Moore, Teresa Purtee, Sarah Suttles, and advisers Linda Atkins and Darlene Clevenger.

Pins, Plaques, Programs

A number of programs are offered to students chosen as outstanding citizens, leaders, and scholars.

National Honor Society consists of juniors and seniors chosen for character, leadership, scholarship, and service. NHS officers were Terri Blackburn, president; Mike Ernst, vice president; Anne Garner, secretary; Anne Hayes, treasurer; and Joyce Burnett and Carol Gallo, sponsors.

The Student Council consists of five members elected from each class. The council's major project was a substance abuse workshop. Council officers were president Doug Smithee, vice president Anne Garner, secretary Tammy Farley, treasurer Lori Allman, and sponsor Charles Wright.

Hoosier Boys' and Girls' State are held each June at Indiana State. Three boys and three girls are chosen by local sponsoring groups.

Scholarship plaques, paid for by community sponsors, are presented to juniors and seniors who hold a 3.25 grade average. Seniors who received plaques their junior year receive medallions.

Food and Fun

Chuck Woodruff and Jena Stitt share an item purchased at the Christmas Auction.

"Wanna buy a pizza?" was said by Campus Life members once again. Members sold pizzas to help finance a trip to Florida. The group met in members' homes to give students a chance to share good times with friends and to provide a forum on issues facing teens. Leon Earnest, faculty sponsor, was assisted by students from Taylor University.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes' Christmas auction entertained athletes once again. Over $1,000 was raised for needy children. The group also ran a hot food concession stand at football games and sponsored a film viewed with the Bible study group. FCA officers included president, Mike Ernst; vice president, Phil King; secretary, Shelly Webb; treasurer, Anne Garner; and sponsor, Jim Miller.

A greater number of students took part in Bible study because of the new home room period. The study group, also known as TWANG (Time With A Now God), met once a week. Bible study officers were president, Tina Noland; secretary-treasurer, Sharon Ferree; and sponsor, Susan McConnell.

Mr. Don Sharp auctions off another item at the annual FCA Christmas Auction.

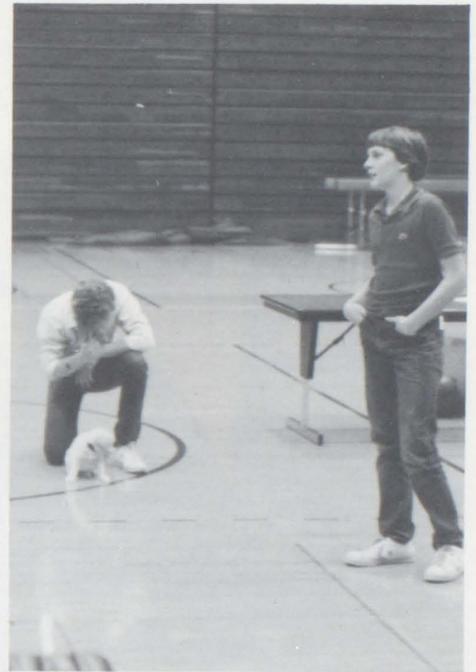

FCA: ONE: K. Hamilton, R. Goodpaster, J. Harrison, J. Schweitzer, J. Stitt, T. Peters, S. Martin. TWO: B. Shane, K. Coder, M. Hannah, A. Kelich, C. Fox, N. Diltz, A. Callahan, S. Webb. THREE: M. Ernst, S. Webb, K. Draper, T. Gilman, D. Runyan, A. Garner, Moore, M. Armstrong, E. McGraw, S. Hammond, S. Ratliff, L. Coulter.

Vice Principal Thomas Eversman keeps on top of things in his daily duties.

Keeping Up On Things

With the beginning of the school year came many changes. A new school board was elected. Becky Allman was elected president, O.H. Rigsbee vice president, and David Simpson secretary. Other members of the school board were Paul Gallo, Larry Stookey, Larry Wood, and Von L. Waymire.

The school year came together not only with the help of Mr. Martin and Mr. Eversman, but also with the work done by secretaries Yvonne Ratliff, Margaret Hummer, and Donna Grindle. The secretaries, custodians, cooks, and bus drivers added so much to the working of the school.

Principal R. Larry Martin reads over the upcoming school activities.

Taking the minutes at a school board meeting is Myrna Joyner. Seated to her left are superintendent Don Inglis and president Becky Allman.

Oh, Happy Day!

Graduation day for 175 seniors at Madison-Grant High School was Sunday, May 22, 1983.

The graduates were ushered in by junior class officers. Junior members of the National Honor Society formed a candlelit aisle for the seniors to walk through.

Mike Ernst gave the invocation. Concert Choir and Ar-Guys & Gals sang "My Wish for You." Sherry Burgan introduced the speakers, Shelly Webb and Terri Blackburn, class president and co-valedictorian respectively. They explained the class motto, "If one can imagine, one can achieve. If one can imagine, one can achieve. If one can dream, one can accomplish." The MGHS Band entertained the audience with "Instant Concert."

Mr. Martin, Mr. Eversman and M. Ingalls presented the diplomas. Terri Blackburn and Michelle Cline were named co-valedictorians. Salutatorian was Sherry Burgan.

Bret Shane gave the benediction. The MGHS seniors were now MGHS graduates.

Terri Blackburn, co-valedictorian, explains the senior class motto during her speech.

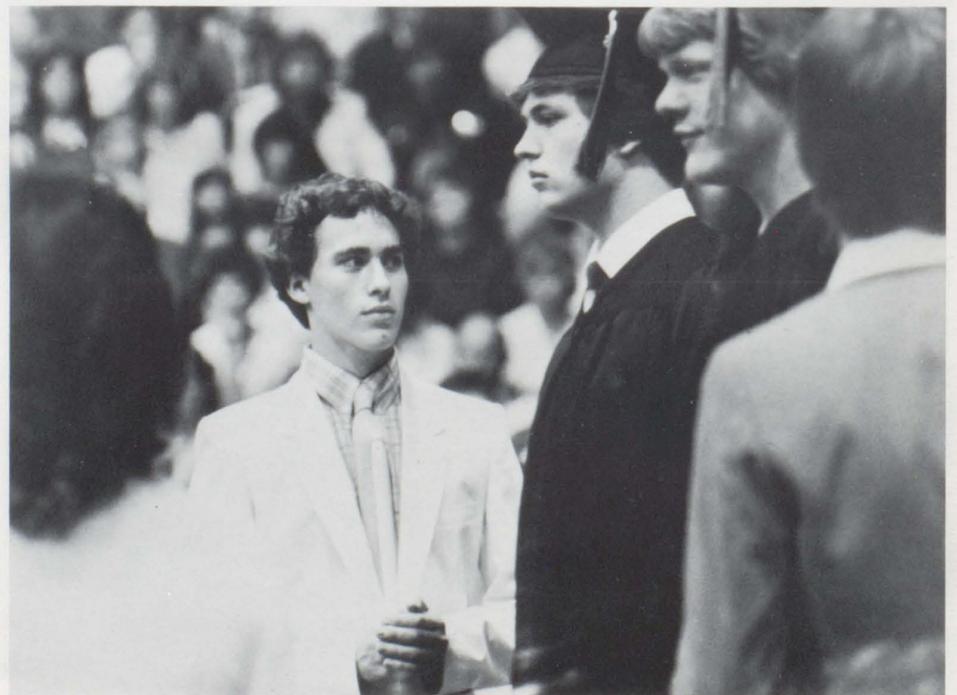

Mrs. Hull adjusts Debbie Setser's collar before the ceremony begins.

Michelle Cline is awarded the honor of being co-valedictorian of her class.

Forming a part of the candlelit aisle is junior Warren Smith.

Sherry Burgan, salutatorian, introduces the senior speakers.

Shari Beckley prepares to change her tassel to the left side.

Doug Smithee and Jodi Simpson pose for the photographer after the ceremony is over.

Yearbook Staff

We, the editors, would like to thank all the people who have helped make this yearbook what it is today. We would like to thank Larry Glaze and Beecher Waters for all their time and help. We would also like to thank Donna Grindle, Yvonne Ratliff, L.J. Cline, Jeff Keller, and David Nesbitt.

We appreciated all the help given to us by our special advisor, Nan "Moe" Moegerle, and our wonderful staff. Thanks gang!

Last, but not least, we would like to thank you, the student body, because without you there would be no yearbook.
