A new FHS is in the midst of creation as the construction of the future walls begin.

These workers prepare forms for the cement pylons that support the steel super-structure of the building.

NAILS

The everyday routine at FHS was altered a great deal this year. Major construction had been going on around the school. This made learning very difficult.

The noise level at Frankton High School had risen to the point where concentration was nearly impossible. The banging of hammers echoed throughout the school. With every hit, another answer escaped your mind. The drills also made a contribution to the strain of Frankton students. The continuous hum of the drill was monotonous and nerve racking. Was this the new method for pounding and drilling information into our heads, or was this just a test to prove that students don't work well in the presence of loud noise? Whatever the case may be, the students at Frankton have proven to be "tough as nails."

Unseasonal weather conditions made it possible for several construction crew members to work simultaneously throughout the late winter months.

Those Summer DAZE

June, July, and August are months dreamed about by most students. Their dreams begin in September at the beginning of the school and last for nine months taking flight as the 2:50 bell rings on the last day of classes. Summer means lots of different things to all of us.

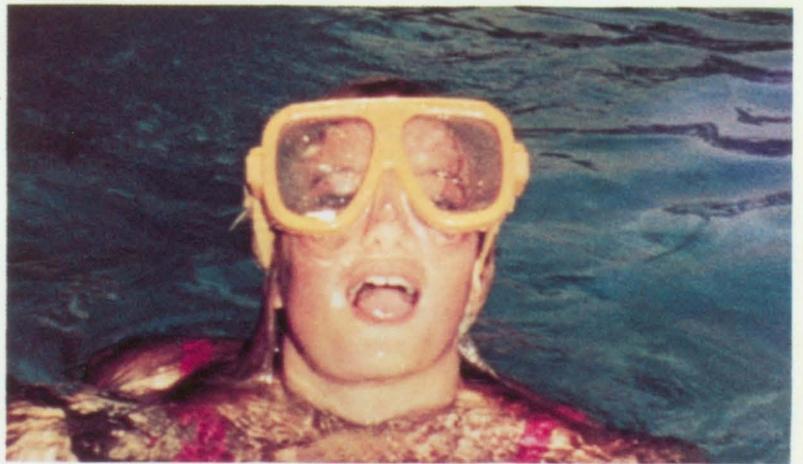

Here in our small community it may not seem as if students have anything to do to fill their summer days. But there is! Many enjoy cruising places such as Shadyside in Anderson, "The L" in Elwood, and the Square in Alexandria. There are concerts and movies to see and sun to lay out in. Flirting and dating are also popular pastimes. For some, work may take up some of their free time that could otherwise be used to "Party." Vacations may be one other thing in mind.

Whatever it is though summer is that special season of the year.

Aimee Miller and Kelly Bolt get ready for a fun-filled day in Ohio.

Stacy Mosbaugh takes it easy on the boat during a stay at the lakes.

Cheryl Elder just doesn't look like herself after a dip in the pool, does she?

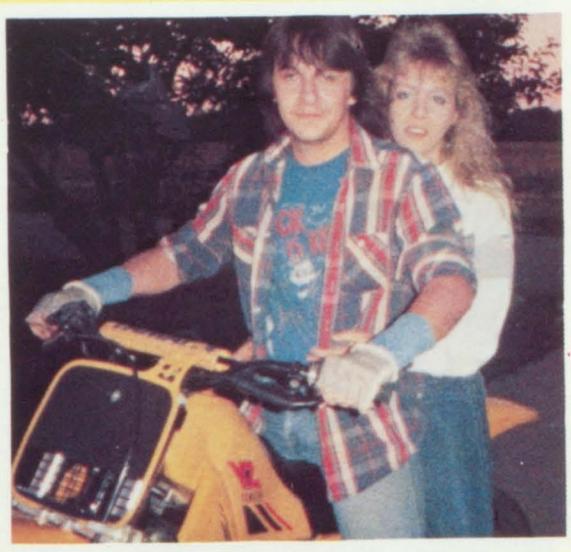

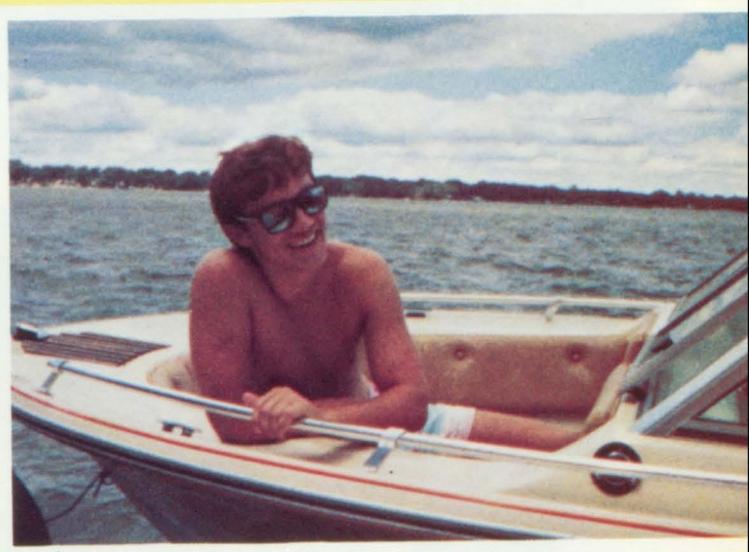

Annie Keller dresses old-fashionedly for the 8th Street Gas Light Festival in Anderson.

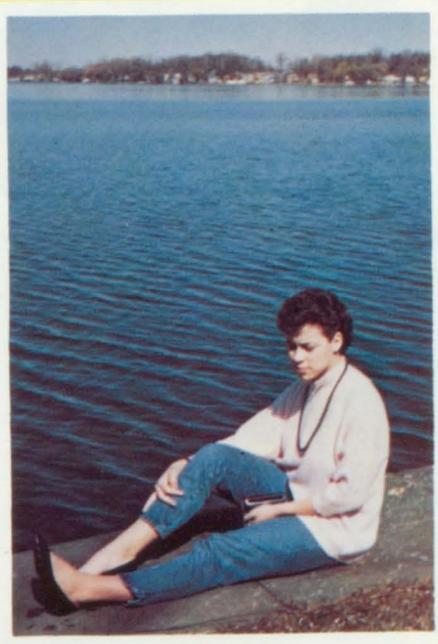

Scott McFerran took skydiving lessons this summer. As shown here Scott is both on the ground and in the air.

Bryce Mallernee takes it easy floating along the lake.

Stephanie Bristow and Rick Painter get ready for a "bike" ride.

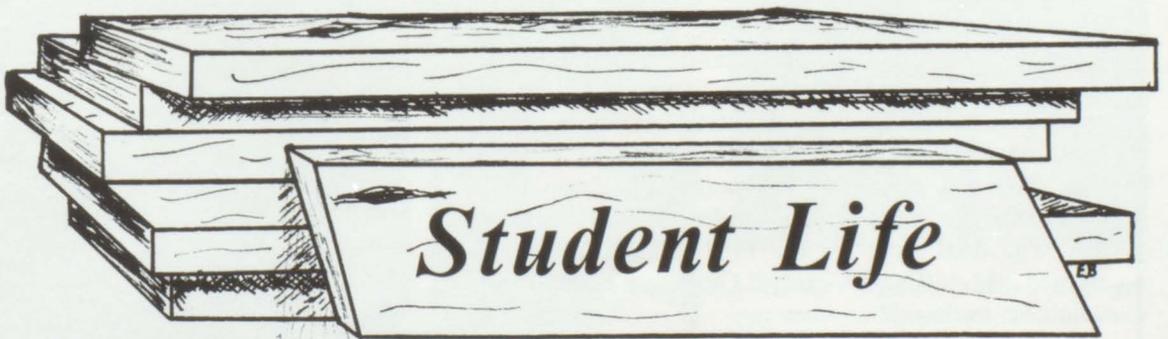

Joy Burwell and Kelly Sizelove have some fun in the sun at Lake Big Barbee.

Someone forgot to tell Melinda Summers that getting a suntan requires a more revealing outfit.

New Traditions Yield

FHS cheerleaders get "fired-up" while riding in the Homecoming parade.

Eagle Victory 13-12!!

FHS students celebrated their 1987 Homecoming week and brought their Eagle spirit alive.

This year was the first for the "big" Homecoming games. The students got "into it" and "rowdy" to cheer our football players on. The games took place during 6th and 7th hour, and some students weren't ready for it to end when it was over.

Not only did we have our Homecoming games, but Homecoming also brought our first powder-puff girls football game. The junior girls defeated the senior girls 6-0.

Immediately after the powder-puff game, FHS crowned their first Homecoming King. Senior, Todd Wiener received this glory at the bonfire. These new traditions surely spurred an exciting evening at FHS.

At 5:30 the Homecoming parade got kicked off in the future sight of Frankton High's new parking lot. The Spanish Club also had their annual Chili Supper from 5:30 to 7:30 in the school cafeteria. After all the Homecoming festivities were over, the game started at 7:30.

Shenandoah was our foe for the evening. Shenandoah got the flip so they kicked off our 1987 Homecoming football game. It was an intense game up until half-time. The fear of a Homecoming loss was in the air while Shenandoah led the Eagles 12-0. Half-time came and Sabrina Dietz was crowned Homecoming Queen. After the half-time show was over, the Eagles came out of the locker room, ready to put an end to the fear of a Homecoming loss. The final score for the 1987 Homecoming game showed a 13-12 Eagle Victory!!! Our Eagle football team didn't let us down!!!

EAGLE VICTORY!

Homecoming brought special recognition to fall senior athletes and senior band members.

Sophomore John Mercer soars by a Shenandoah defender for a big Eagle gain.

As the Marching Eagles perform, Doug Hartman contributes towards making Homecoming night spectacular.

coming Raider.

Queen candidate Lana Elder was proudly escorted by brother Jeff Elder.

Queen candidate Talla Hanna chose her father Stan Hanna to escort her.

FHS cheerleaders begin the night with a chant that soon becomes reality.

F.H.S. Fashion Challenge

Do you look like your Aunt or your grandmother? Do people tell you, "You're ugly and your mother dresses you funny!"

Well, then maybe you're not up on the latest fashions. Lots of times the "in" thing changes before we even get a chance to wear it out. But so goes the life of a "with it" teenager.

Clothes become very important to us between grade school and where we are now. What everyone else wears becomes what we call fashion.

How it all started is sometimes a mystery but mysteries are what are challenging in life. Keeping up on the right styles definitely qualifies as a challenge.

But no matter how challenging the fashion scene might be, F.H.S. students always seem to keep in style.

Jennifer McCord, Nathan Ebert, Joe Kuklenski and Dana Wagner show the long lasting popular style of pull over sweaters.

Feet were donated by Nora Hendrick and Jo Ann Remington to show this popular style of boots.

The ring of boyfriends and girlfriends are a big part of a wardrobe, whether they are wrapped or worn on chains.

Mini skirts can be worn in many styles as shown by Rachel Walker, Rachel Thomas, and Tonya Leffew.

Joy Burwell, Amy Kemper and Amy Hopper show off the long look in skirts.

Beth Whetsel and Tony Geller show the frosted look in matching jeans and jackets.

Kristen Barnett, Kelly Sizelove, Riku Ryodi and Ryan Quear have the natural, neutral look.

A Stay Away From Home

F.H.S. may seem like home to most of us but to the four foreign exchange students at F.H.S. it may have seemed very different.

From West Germany came Corinna Kipping who stayed with Archie and Edwina McLemore. By coming to America Corinna did something many of us would not. She prolonged her schooling by two years because West Germany does not acknowledge this year here at Frankton.

For the first time there was a set of twins sent to us from a foreign country. Spain is home to Pablo and Pedro Parra. Pablo stayed with junior Mike Anderson and his parents.

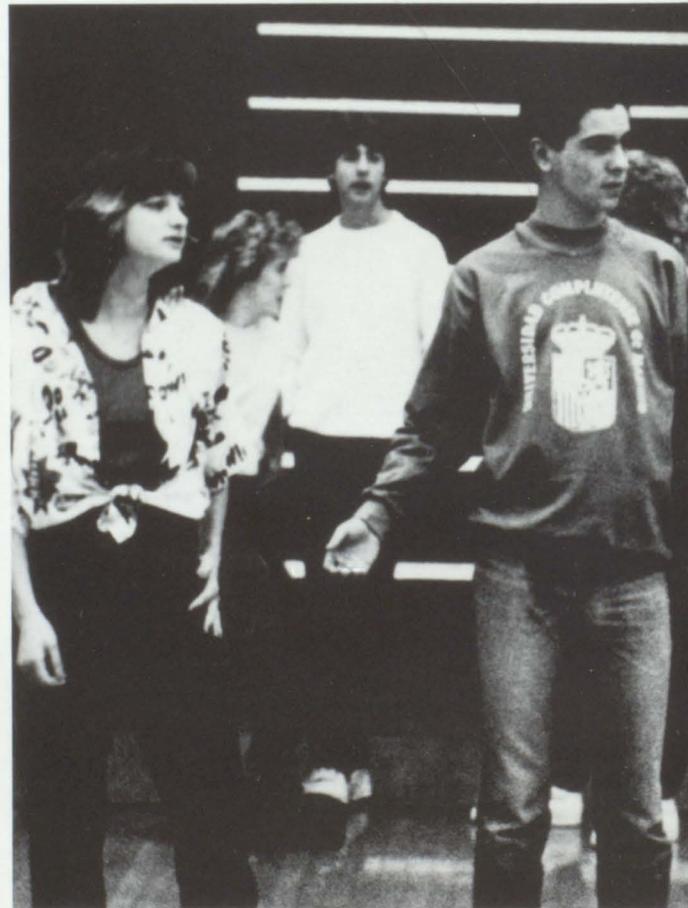

Riku Ryodi came to Frankton from a small town in Finland and stayed with Senior Shannon Stohler and her parents. When Riku was asked what he thought of America he said, "It's a Crazy place, the whole country is great!"

SENIORS 1988

High School had been looked forward to for so long, since the days of elementary school when envy was placed on the older boys and girls. They got the back seats in the bus, they could date and drive cars. It seemed that the time to wait for those things would last forever, but finally, it came. Those times are all behind now; and it seems that they just flew right by without stopping for a moment. From the days of a frightened Freshman year to a final stand at the top as Seniors, so much happened in those four years.

As Freshmen there were class rings to order. That symbol of status gave hope to carry on. Sophomores brought class jackets. What a feeling to be able to proudly display your hard-earned high school colors to all the world. As Juniors there was the first prom. A night that will always remain unforgettable. Then it happened. Seniors! Reaching the top! And Oh, so much to do. There were Senior pictures, Class keys, Announcements, Cap and Gowns, the usual Senioritis as Spring begins, and finally Graduation.

The final destination was reached so fast and left so many memories to hold. A wonderful dream was fulfilled and accompanied with a sad bid of farewell.

Movin' On Up

For the junior class, getting through their last year as underclassmen was no easy task. First on Oct. 20, they took PSAT tests to prepare for future SAT's. In March, all juniors were required to take competency tests in English Language and Arts, and Mathematics. Even though the juniors had a heavy work load, they didn't let it interfere with having fun.

Damon Hanna and Gloria Ochoa represented the junior class as Homecoming prince and princess, and in the Homecoming Games, the class placed 3rd.

As the month of May drew closer, there were many things to look forward to. The most exciting was "Wish Upon a Star", the May 7 prom.

Sophomores On The Move

This year was quite exciting for the Sophomore class. The year started with them receiving their class jackets. The style chosen for this year was a dominating red jacket with leather sleeves. There was a Frankton Eagles emblem on back and the student's name on front.

The class officers were also chosen. Jeff Graham was elected president, Danna Dolliver; vice-president, Reanna Beck replaced Jason Dearing as secretary, and Cheryl Elder; treasurer.

All in all these Sophomores were ready and eager to meet the challenges of a new year. They conquered them all brilliantly and are now ready to be upperclassmen.

A Fresh Start

Being a freshman means starting at the bottom and working your way up. For some it is an easy task while others have a more difficult time. Sometimes freshmen seem to be the perfect target for jokes and pranks. But usually it is easier for those who have an older brother or sister who has attended FHS in the past. Those who don't have still seem to survive.

Decisions were an important part of the freshman year. The choosing of class jackets and rings are two of the decisions that were made. The freshman class were the victors in the homecoming games and sponsored a float entry. Tim Friend and Kristen Barnett were the Homecoming prince and princess.

Freshman class officers were Heather Alexander; vice president, Brett Canaday; treasurer, Barrette Cobb; secretary, and Betsy Benefiel; president.

Tying up the loose ends

Being a teacher requires dedication, hard work, and long hours. Many FHS faculty members have coached teams, sponsored clubs, and volunteered to help at other activities.

One can't forget our other staff members who contributed to FHS by being secretaries, cooks, counselors, bus drivers, school nurses, and custodians.

This year our faculty and staff members had to deal with loud noises, dust, cigar and cigarette smoke, workers in the hallways, ever-changing parking instructions, less outdoor light, and other things during class due to construction work.

These are the people who tie things together at FHS. We wouldn't be the same without them.

MRS. NOLTON RETIRES AFTER 27 YEARS

Mrs. Nolton has been with the West Central Corp. for a total of twenty-seven years, and is retiring at the end of this school year. Next year she plans to visit England, and some special places, and to sleep in until she feels like getting up.

The first ten years with the corporation, she spent as a cook. The majority of the next seventeen years was as school treasurer.

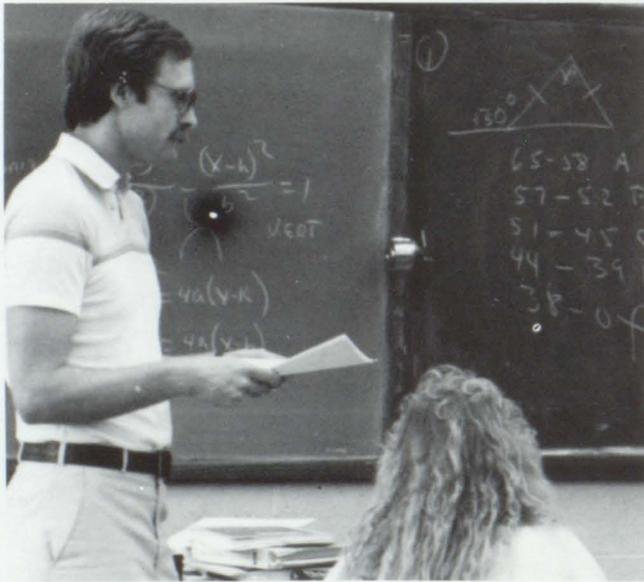

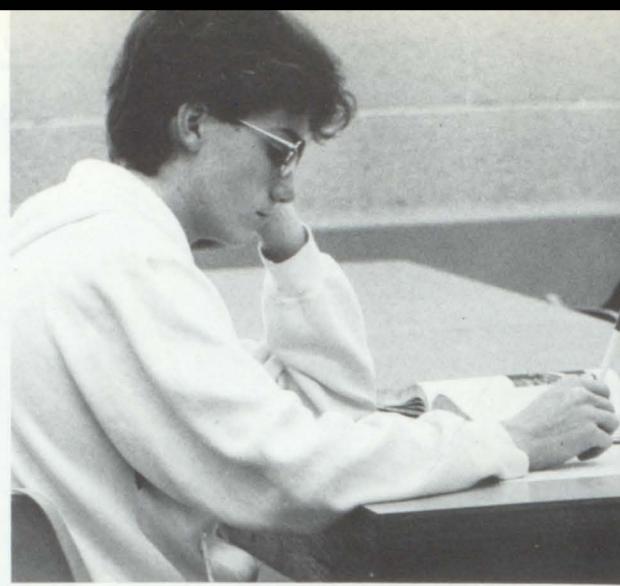

Mrs. Nolton has been greatly appreciated and will long be remembered. The faculty as well as the students wish her the best of luck.

Academic Excellence

There were two academic teams that competed this year: the decathlon and the superbowl teams. Miss Tomlin and Mrs. Lee were this year's coaches. "I thought the kids worked really hard this year," Miss Tomlin said. The academic decathlon had ten subjects and all six members competed in all subject areas.

The academic superbowl team consisted of six three-person teams. The English team of Becky Hamilton, Rana Hamilton, and Kris Lamaster placed first in the district which advanced them to state competition. The social studies team of Mark Rickman, Greg Ash, and Kim Fiscalini placed second in the district and also advanced to state. Both teams received Division III third place awards at state.

ART: SHAPING UP THEIR FUTURE

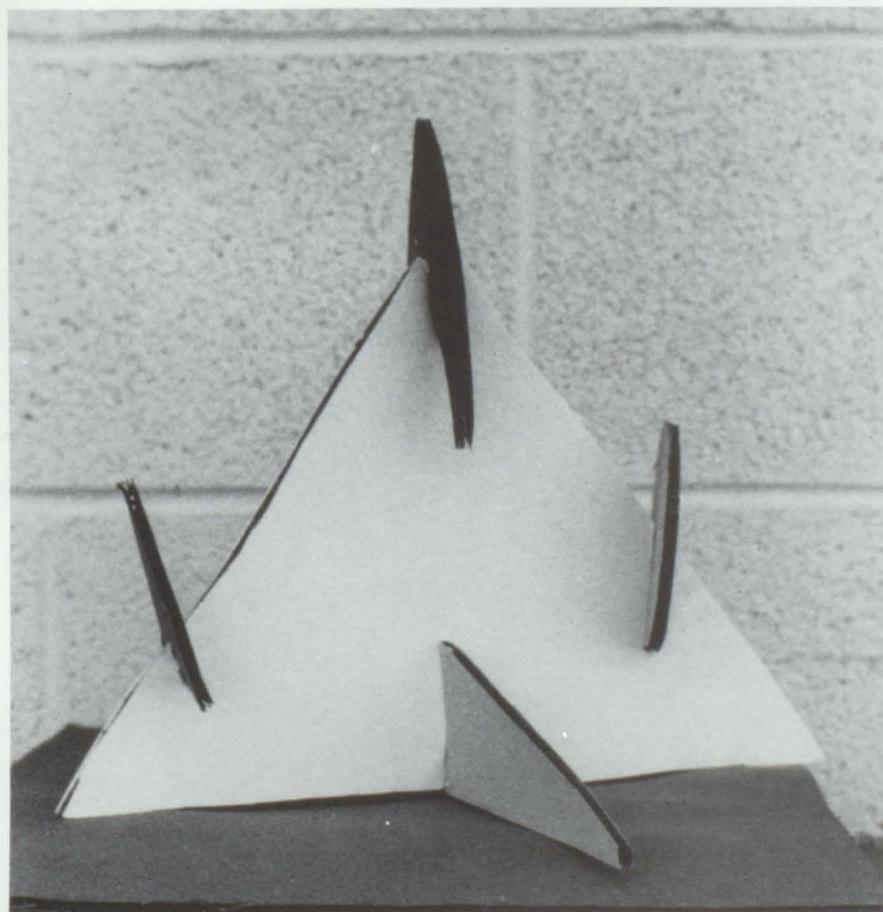

Stacy Morgan works on her Victorian house art project

The art classes have had a very busy year. Their projects have ranged from making chalk pictures to creating escher prints. They have worked on embossments and color wheels. The advanced class studied architecture and made a miniaturized version of Washington, D.C. Clay molding and shaping was also a big project for the advanced class as they created busts and shoes. Many of the art students created 3-D projects that were put on display in the library.

For Christmas, all of the art classes printed Christmas cards, and each student was required to make at least one ornament for a Christmas tree that was donated to a needy family.

This is an example of a 3-D art project that was on display

It's More Than Just Typing

This year's business classes got to see their books put through their last year of being thrown into lockers, dropped in mud puddles, and receiving the care they deserve. In the future along with new books, the business department will be getting its own computer lab when the new building is finished. The current facilities don't give access to the needed equipment for all the classes so the new lab will help a great deal.

Mr. Bartlow feels that even though the statistics for his classes have remained the same, the attitudes of students today have changed. "A lot of students are more dedicated and are trying to learn the skills instead of just trying to get the grade," he stated.

Challenge of the '80's

F.H.S. offers two different kinds of computer classes: Computer literacy required for all freshmen, and computer programming which is optional for juniors and seniors.

Computer literacy is the class where students learn more general knowledge about computers. They study terminology, basic concepts and simple programming. They use some programs like word processing, data base, drawing programs, and simulations.

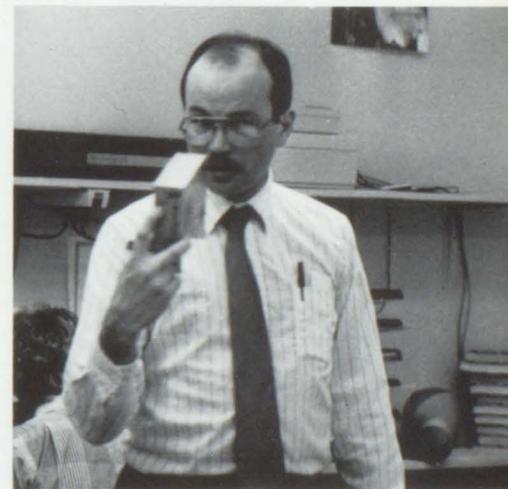

Computer programming class stresses problem solving and mastery of the Apple Soft Basic language.

These high school courses do not train students to work with computers, but do introduce them to the basic concepts.

Mr. Shipley would like to have more languages for computers because Basic is not going to be enough for the future. There are plans to move computer literacy to junior high because students can use the skills before high school.

REQUIRED BUT REWARDING

English is the only subject that everyone is required to take all four years of high school.

FHS offers two courses to choose from. Those students planning on going to college are encouraged to take the advanced course. For those who aren't planning on furthering their education the regular English course is offered to them. This course goes at a slower pace than the advanced class.

A recent staff addition to the English department was Mrs. Mills. She is teaching both freshmen and senior English classes along with the Speech and Composition courses.

An Experience That Lasts a Lifetime

Career Ed. is for freshmen only but the experience lasts a lifetime.

The students in Career Ed. write resumes and business letters. They also learn how to be prepared for a job interview and the necessary schooling they might need for a certain career.

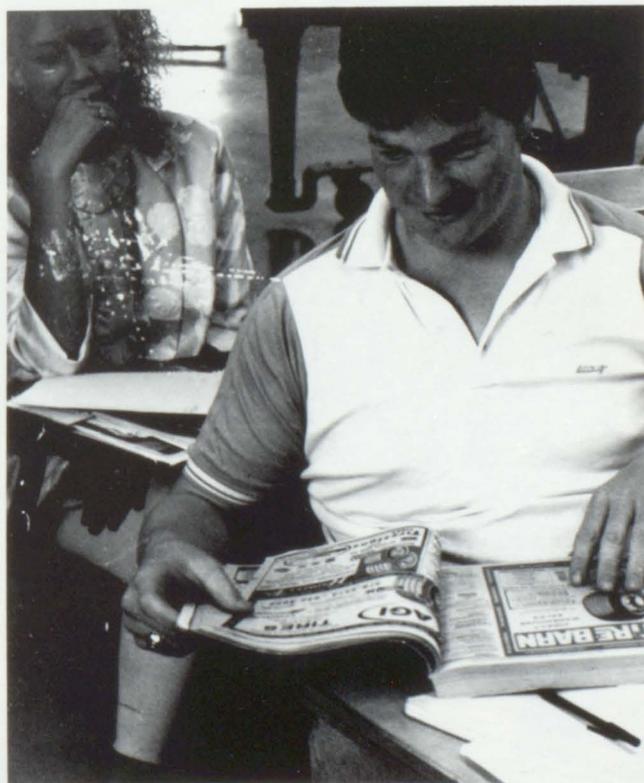

Mrs. Birky, this year's Career Ed. teacher, commented, "Career Ed. does effect what career a student chooses. They learn techniques and how much experience they need for a certain career."

Summing It Up

Math is a subject in which every student must have at least four credits to graduate.

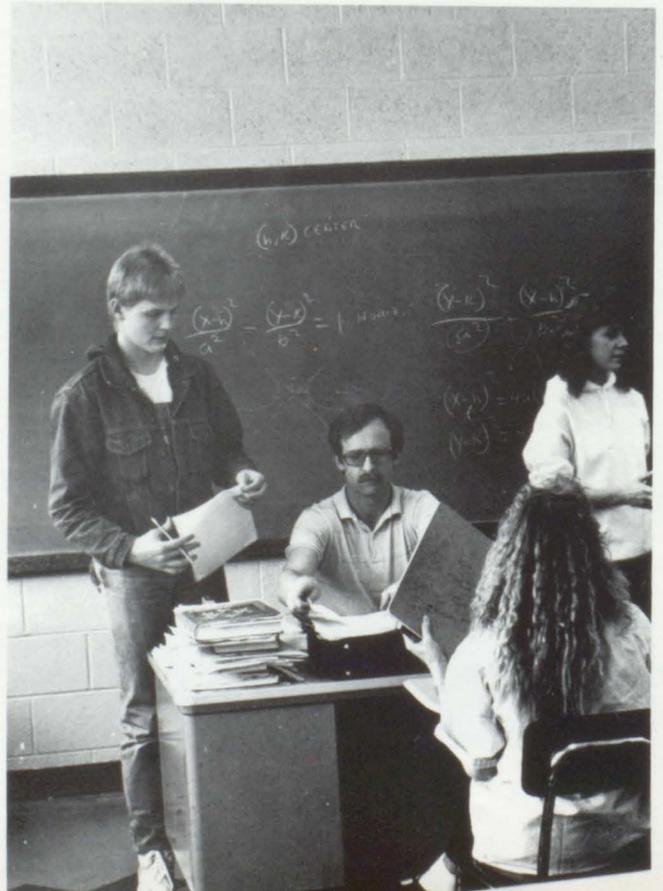

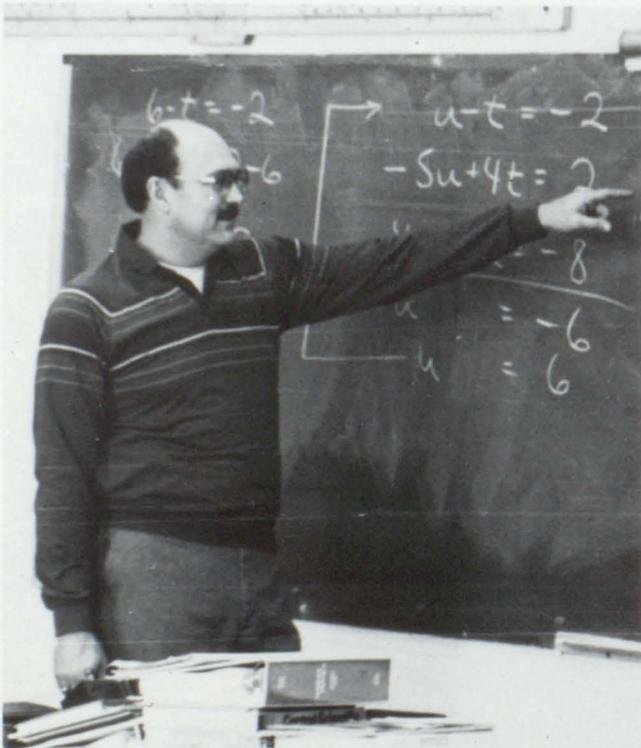

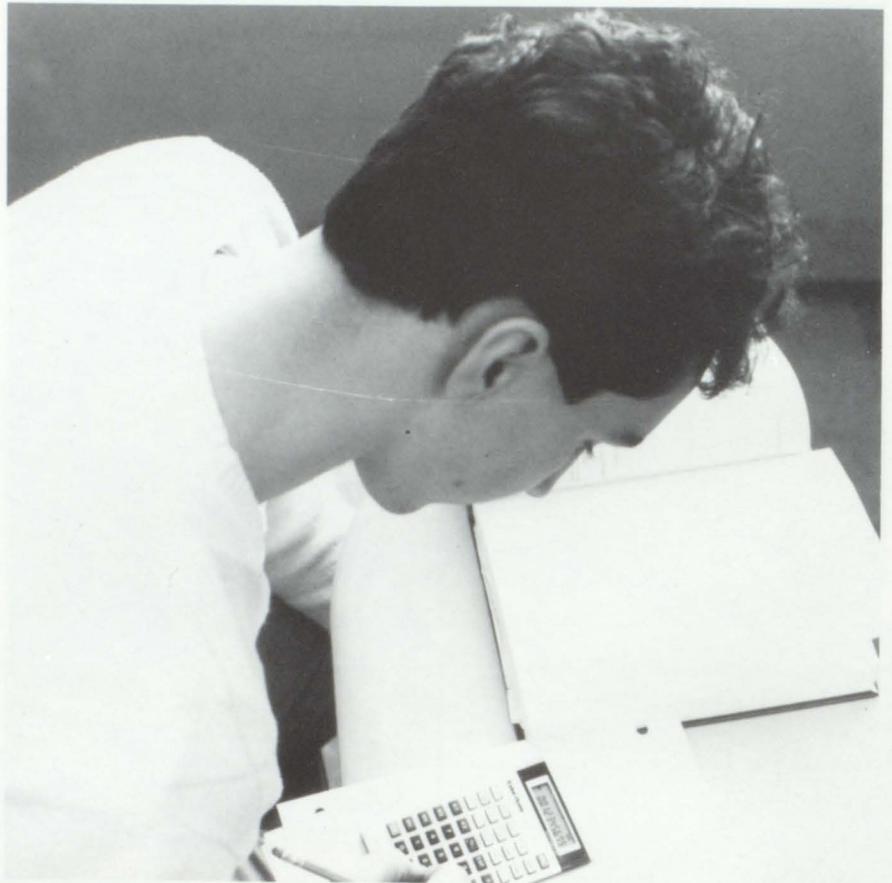

The four math teachers on the faculty are: Phil Abernathy, Rex Bauchert, Don Householder, and Steve Sharpee, the new face in the Math Department, who teaches Algebra I.

One major change occurred in the math department this year. It was the offering of Advanced Unified Math. It is a combination of college algebra and trigonometry. Other department courses are: consumer math, algebra, geometry, and calculus.

Learning and Keeping Fit

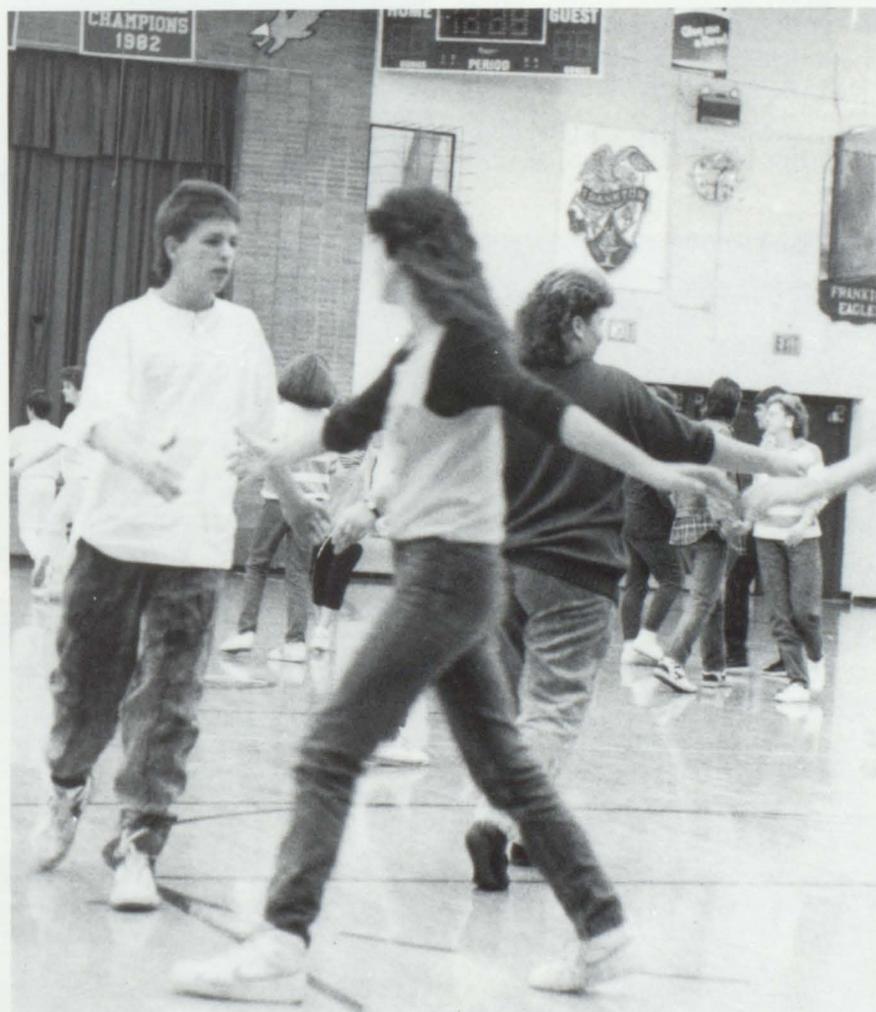

P.E. class is a time to "cut loose" and release some of the tension and stress of the school day. The students participate in a variety of activities including flag football, soccer, badminton, shuffleboard, table tennis, gymnastics, and folk dancing.

The P.E. classes have been somewhat hampered this year due to the construction. The tennis courts and the softball diamond have been forfeited to the construction. But, Mr. Urban, the P.E. teacher, said that the students have been able to learn and have a good time without certain facilities.

Science Expands Rapidly

The FHS Science Department has grown considerably in recent years.

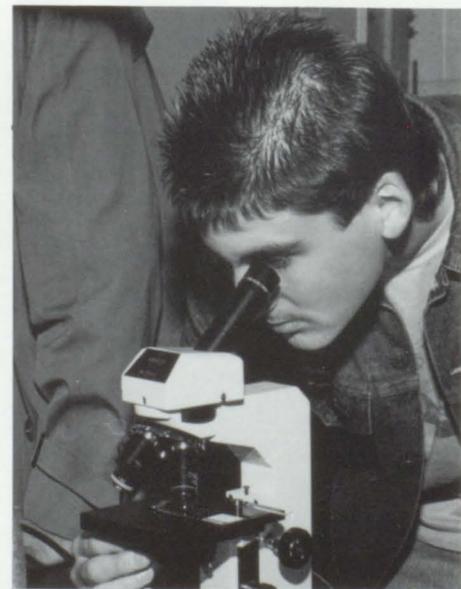

The department has added Mr. Steve Sharpee to the staff which already includes Mr. Gordy and Mr. Canaday. He teaches two classes of Physical Science and one Physics class.

A new Apple IIe computer is now in use.

Biology and Basic Science classes have dissected many species of animals from a grasshopper to a frog. Physical science classes have experimented with activities such as: Prickling their finger to find their blood type or walking up the gym stairs to find out how much horsepower it took.

Chemistry classes mixed various chemical compounds. Physics classes experimented with heat, light, and magnetism.

Studying the past, present, and future

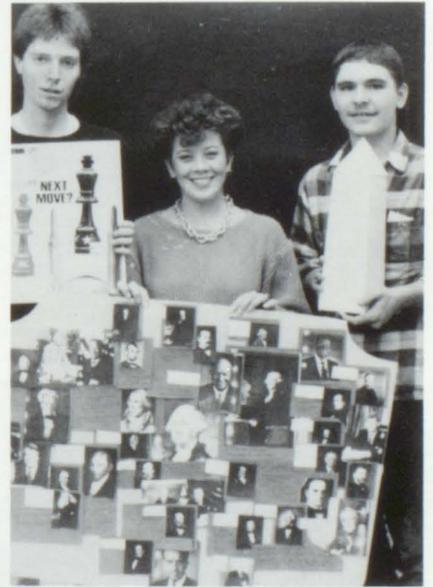

Seniors Lee Gray and Mark Rhodes demonstrate their version of a 17th Century guillotine for Mrs. Folsom's government class (By Mike Beeman)

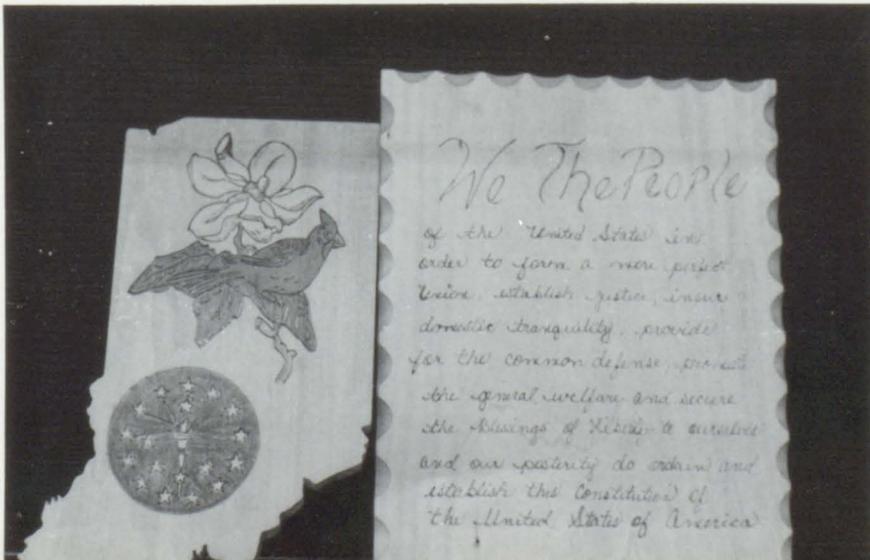

Social Studies is the study of social behaviors, not only from the present but the past as well.

The social studies staff, including Mr. Davis, Mr. LeMaster, Mrs. Folsom, and Mr. Urban have been working at F.H.S., for a total of 58 years, to help the students understand the importance of courses such as U.S. History, Government, Sociology, Economics, and Psychology.

When many students think of Government, Sociology, and other social studies classes, they think of only dates and boring facts, but the teachers at F.H.S., do things such as: taking care of babies (dolls) in sociology to learn the responsibilities of taking care of children, doing Senior reports and projects in Government, doing reports over periods in time, like the war protests in U.S. History, and doing reports in economics over the stock market and other things that affect our lives every day.

Marching With Pride

The Marching Eagles had big dreams of going places with their show this year. After ending last year on an offbeat, the Eagles started off this year fresh and new with a different sound.

On October 3, the Eagles competed in the I.S.S.M.A. district competition. They received a first division rating, best general effect, and first among all other class D bands. The band then competed at the southern regional where they received a first division rating, but missed going to state by two points.

In February, band members put their individual talents to work as they competed at the Solo and Ensemble contest. Monette Bardonner and Chris Brumback received first division ratings for their performances. Two trios consisting of Carol Covell, Bryce Mallernee, and Michelle Scott and the other with Joy and Monette Bardonner and Beth Burton both received first division ratings.

Also, Bryce Mallernee and Joy Bardonner competed in the Solo category and both received second division ratings.

Finally, in April with everyone's hard work and fund-raisers, the band traveled to Washington and played a half-hour show on the front lower terrace of the Capital building. They also visited many of the major landmarks, had a dinner-dance on the Potomac River, went to the Cherry Blossom Parade and to Mount Vernon.

Students Teach Students

Cadet Teaching is a program designed for seniors who would like to pursue a career in the development of children. Every school day the cadet teachers leave Frankton High School for two class periods and go to an elementary or junior high school in our district. Cadet teachers from FHS can choose to teach at Leach, Jackson, or Frankton.

According to the sponsor, Mrs. Isbell, the cadet teachers learn and perform many jobs. They grade papers, run copies, and actually teach students. They start with small jobs and by the end of the year they have the opportunity to try everything that an actual teacher does.

Frankton High had four students that were cadet teachers; Steve Guthrie, Molly Bolt, Tina Sumner, and Kimm Workman. They must observe two teachers every six weeks, and keep a log of daily events.

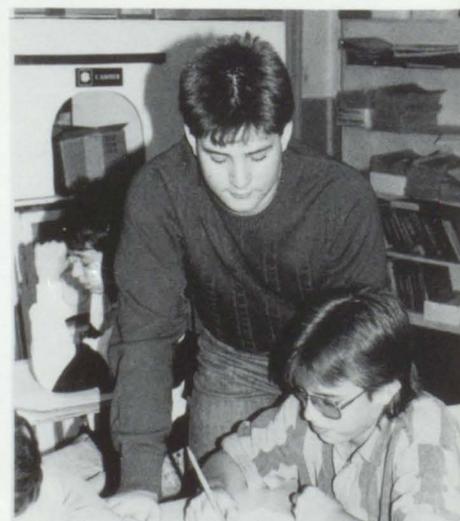

They are given a grade by the teacher they help and also by Mrs. Isbell. Each cadet teacher gets one credit per semester.

"Tuning In To The Concert Choir"

Several people "Tuned in" to the sounds of the Concert Choir. Consisting of eighteen members the choir caught the attention of many audiences and gave enjoyable performances throughout the year.

The Concert Choir had their debut at Union Station in Indianapolis and went on to perform at the Frankton Methodist Church, and the Band and Choir's Christmas Concert. Also during the year they were recorded by the WLHN radio station and performed in the Madison County Choral Festival.

The Concert Choir finished off the year with their participation in the Variety Show and the Graduation.

"Lights Out" Changes Drama

Like many things at FHS, the Drama Club went through its share of changes during the '87-88' school year.

The most drastic change of the year was the acquisition of a new sponsor, Mrs. Jean Mills took over the duties after Carol Galbraith left FHS. Since Mrs. Mills wasn't hired until the summer of '87, it was decided that the club would perform only one play, and that it would take place in the spring.

March 25th and 26th, the club performed the play "Lights Out." This fast-moving, mystery-comedy had something that left the audience full of suspense, and yet it still allowed them to be tickled with laughter throughout the entire play.

One change that wasn't made, was the club's officers. Officers from the previous school year, retained their positions for the '87-88 year: President, Bryce Mallernee; Vice-President, Greg Kyle; Secretary, Joy Burwell; Treasurer, Stacy Mosbaugh.

FFA Striving for Success

The FFA completed another very successful year. They competed in a variety of contests, plus 5 members got to attend the National Convention in Kansas City.

The FFA competed in the county Soil, Poultry, Forestry, Crops, Dairy, and Livestock contests. They placed first in team standings in four of the county contests. The Soil team advanced to the state contest, where they placed 20th.

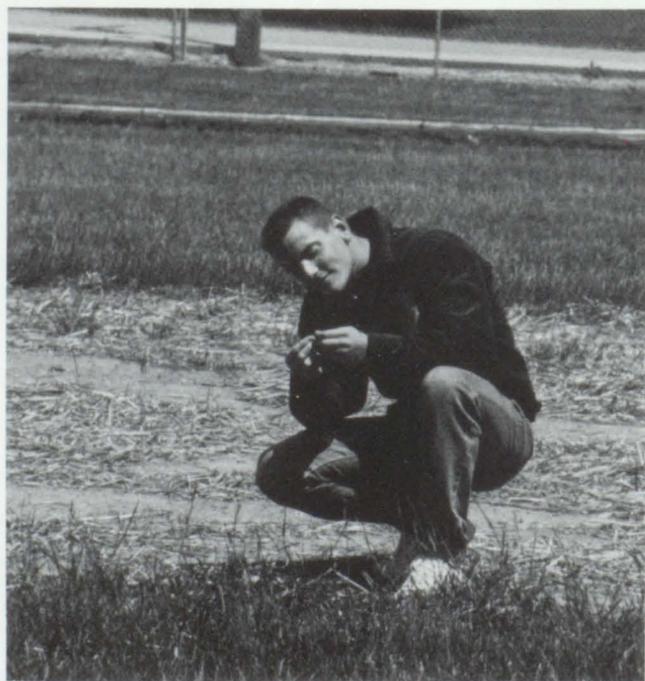

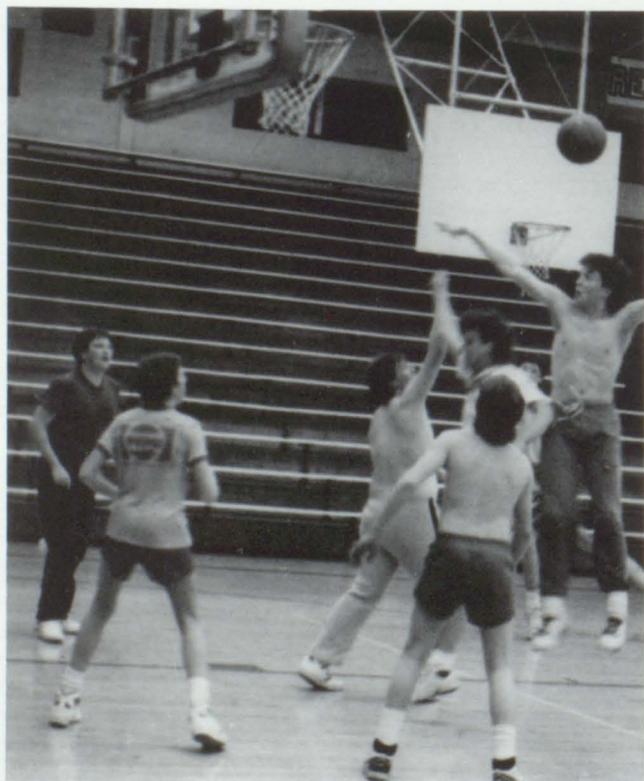

This year's officers were: Matt Likens, President; Mike Bagley, Vice President; Brent Compton, Sentinel; Jeff Richwine, Treasurer; Kathy Hutson, Secretary; and Jennifer McCord, Reporter.

Mr. Maish sent five individuals applications for their Hoosier Farmer's Degree. Matt Likens was the only member to receive his degree. Only ten percent of the applicants statewide are accepted.

FHA means Future Homemakers of America. Club members often join because they're interested in home economics while others join because they enjoy the club functions.

Their activities during the school year included a toy drive that helped raise money for needy children, and Christmas caroling at Americana Convalescent Center. FHA also sold Valentine's Day locker decorations and had a bake sale to help provide a bowling and pizza party for the club.

UNE ANNÉE FORMIDABLE

The 1987-88 French Club's annual Christmas Party was celebrated with the Spanish Club. Each club member brought their own French or Spanish dish.

On February 5, the French Club sponsored a dance and then ended their year by having dinner at the famous La TOUR restaurant. This was the "big goal" for the French Club. They worked hard for this by selling M&M's to raise money. The money raised also went to a French scholarship.

Anchors Away!

The guard had a very successful and fun year. Their fieldshow routine was very rewarding when they took 2nd place for best auxiliary. They worked hard with the band two nights a week for two hours to make their fieldshow an enjoyable one.

After fieldshow was over they started on their winterguard show. Mrs. Birky, director; chose the theme "Sailing" and put their music together. The captains and co-captains made up their routine. The guard was able to go to three contests and the State Finals. The Girls in guard are looking forward to next year's season.

Lending A Hand

Throughout the School year, the Health Club participated in a variety of events.

They sold candy bars to raise money for the Kidney Foundation. During Christmas season they went caroling at nursing homes and afterwards, they ate at Pizza Hut. They also baked cookies throughout the year for the visiting nurses in Madison County.

The week of Sectional, they sold Eagle Pops to show a little spirit within the club. In May, they ended their year of hard work by going bowling and out to eat.

HONOR SOCIETY: Challenging Yet Rewarding

The 1987-88 Honor Society consists of twenty-four members. These members maintain a 3.0 grade average and are in the top ten percent of their junior or senior class.

Honor Society participates in many activities in and out of school.

They participate at basketball games, collect for the Salvation Army, and have ski tips.

Mr. Lamaster, sponsor, said, "I think Honor Society gives students a challenge, but they could be doing better for themselves and the school."

Results, Not Excuses

"Where's that story?" "Can someone type this for me?" "Editors, your deadline is Friday!" "Those yearbook layouts are late!" These were often heard phrases in the Journalism/Mass Media Class.

The theme for the class was Results, Not Excuses! This goal was harder to strive for due to the class being split up into two class periods.

Communication failure, unmet deadlines, and unprinted photos did not prevent the printing and distributing of the Eagles' Wings and the planning and sending in the layouts for the '88 yearbook.

The Journalism Class had many excuses throughout the year, but the results were nine interesting issues of the Eagles' Wings and a packed-full '88 Eaglite.

Media Club Prepares for the Future

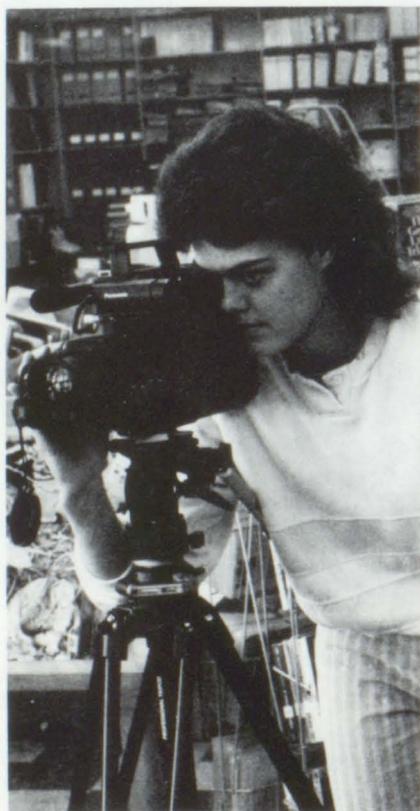

The Media Club consisted of 14 members this year. The officers were Jeff Wood, President; Dawn Leeman, Vice President; Carol Trennaphl, Treasurer.

This year was a busy one for the Media Club. During Christmas break, they went to Union Station and the Spaghetti Factory. On February 14, they went bowling in Elwood. After that, they went to a pizza party. From April 14 through April 20 they sold candy. On April 19, they had their annual picnic at Callaway Park in Elwood. They raised $200 selling posters. The money went to improve media services for next year.

Taking Note of the Singations

To be a member of the Eagle Singations is no easy task. It requires skills from reading music to hearing a note played and then being able to sing in that key. It also requires some choreography skills. But most importantly, a member of the Eagle Singations must have dedication. This year there were twenty-two members who met these qualifications, and those members had a full schedule from the beginning of the year to the end.

During the year, the Eagle Singations participated in several activities, such as, singing at Union Station, Frankton Methodist Church, and the Lion's Club Christmas party. They also performed in the District Solo-ensemble Contest. They received firsts at both levels. When asked what she thought of the Eagle Singations, Mrs. Birky, the director, replied, "They have improved a lot over the last year." She also commented on the girls firsts at the District and State Solo-Ensemble Contests and said that she hopes that the Eagle Singations will be able to participate in more Show Choir Competitions next year.

Other activities that the Eagle Singations participated in included: the Madison County Choral Festival and the Variety Show. They also had two fund raisers during the year. The money they earned was used to purchase a television, a VCR, and sheet music.

The Eagle Singations final performance of the year was in May at the graduation ceremony.

Spanish Club Expands

The Spanish Club expanded this year with 64 members. The officers were President, Sabrina Dietz; Vice-President, Kris Bailey; Secretary, Greg Ash; Treasurer, Amy Overdorf.

In October they sponsored a chili supper. December was a busy month. They raised nearly $750 selling Santa pops during a two week period of time. They also had their traditional Christmas party with the French Club.

In March they travelled to El Toritos in Indianapolis for a Spanish meal.

The main concern for the Student Council was to make this year fun, exciting and different. They really made an effort to introduce new things to F.H.S.

They made several changes having to deal with Homecoming to make it more enjoyable for the student body. They started sponsoring a Powder Puff football game, between the Junior and Senior girls. This was followed by the annual bon fire, and also the crowning of the first Homecoming King at F.H.S. Olympic Games were held the day of Homecoming. This gave the student body a chance to get more involved in the Homecoming Game. All of these additions were a big success.

Student Council also sponsored two dances; the annual Homecoming dance, and the last dance for the year, with a WZPL radio station disc jockey.

Working Towards The Future

Vocational training may help many students get a better job right out of high school. Students who are Juniors or Seniors can take vocational classes at either Anderson or Elwood Vocational Schools. There were 19 students enrolled in Anderson and 53 at the Elwood school.

Students can take classes for Auto Mechanics, Building Trades, Electronics, Computers, Secretarial Training, or even Health Occupations for nursing.

Many students get the added benefit of on the job training. This is done through job shadowing. Students are able to work with professionals who are already working in their field of interest.

With the trouble of getting a job in today's market it is good that students have the opportunity for advanced training if they want it.

This year's team captains were seniors: Brian Lennon, offensive guard and defensive tackle; Todd Miller, offensive running back and defensive half back; and Dan Patrohay, middle line backer and offensive running back.

The Eagles had wins over Lapel,

Centerville, Knightstown, Northeastern, Eastern Hancock, Shenandoah, and Wes-Del. In the sectional the Eagles defeated Northeastern 20-0. Senior Eddie Doan was this year's leading rusher. Sophomore, Brook Robinette was this year's leading receiver in total yards and senior Lee Gray caught the most passes. David McPhearson was the leading passer for the third year straight and John Mercer had over a thousand all-purpose yards. Senior Todd Weiner led the team tackles. Dan Patrohay was the most valuable back or receiver. Jeff Granger received both the most valuable offensive lineman, and most improved player award. Todd Weiner got the most valuable defensive back award. The Rick Vida award went to Brian Maryan. The cross country team ended the '87 season with a 2-6-1 record. "Considering the problems we've had, health wise, we're pretty happy." Mr. Davis said.

Letter winners for the season are; Brent Compton, Chris Farley, Mike Anderson, Mike Phipps, Matt Arbuckle, Greg Shepard, Chris Compton and Greg Wright. Also participating as team manager was Melissa Archer. The "Most Valuable Runner" and "Work Horse" awards went to Brent Compton.

Mr. Davis also commented that "the runners worked very much as a team." As he smiled contentedly he stated, "The team had a friendly atmosphere."

After advancing to the regional last year, the lady runners started this season without a coach and without a team. However, coach Phil Davis took the post and started rebuilding the program.

Running with only five girls most of the season, the team finished with a season record of 1-5-1. Their one victory came against Sheridan.

Having such a small team, prohibited the girls from running in a lot of their invitationals. However, having a very young team is a hope of optimism for the future. Varsity Plays Under New Coach Things didn't turn out quite as well as first year head coach, Dwight Morgan, had hoped they would. The Lady Eagles ended their season 9-14 with their new coach. In the sectional, the team was defeated in an exciting three game match by the Alexandria Tigers: 9-15, 15-2, 13-15. The third game was especially exciting as the Lady Eagles came back from a 3-9 deficit to take the lead, 13-12, before bowing out 13-15.

The season was not a total loss, however, Senior, Michelle Barnett, and junior, Tosha Litsey, made the all-county team as voted by the area coaches. This was the second consecutive year Tosha has been voted this honor.

The junior varsity team, coached by Stephanie Barnett, ended the season with an impressive 17-5 record. The team consisted mainly of freshmen.

As you would expect, Coach Morgan is very optimistic about next season. "With the girls returning and the girls on the junior varsity team moving up, we could potentially play with anybody in the state," said Coach Morgan.

HEROICS FALL SHORT . . .

In what seemed to be the perfect year for Frankton to win the sectional, the Eagles came up short to Pendleton Heights 61-58 in overtime.

The game, which featured the 17-3 Eagles against the 18-2 Arabians, was full of plenty of excitement. After the Arabians jumped out to an eight point lead at the first quarter, the Eagles came charging back to tie the score at halftime on a Rick McAdams 3-pointer. Then, Bobby Cochran hit at the end of the third quarter to give Frankton a 46-40 lead.

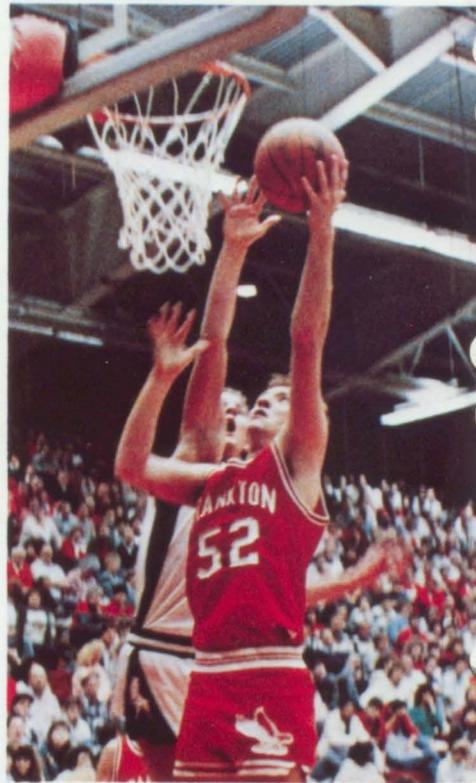

With over 9,000 people screaming the Eagles fell behind by three points with only four seconds remaining. But, Rick McAdams hit another 3-point shot at the end of regulation to push the game into overtime. With almost the same circumstances in the overtime, it was Cochran who shot the last 3-point attempt that fell short and gave the Arabians their 61-58 victory.

Leading scorers for Frankton were Wally Shively with 20 points, McAdams with 17 points, and Cochran with 16. Shively, who also pulled down seven rebounds before fouling out in the overtime, was named "player of the game."

Incidentally, this was the second time in the last three years that Frankton was eliminated by Pendleton Heights. Anderson Madison Heights was eventually crowned the 1988 sectional champion.

VARSITY STRIVES TO 17-3

Coach Rex Bauchert instructs his players on what to do.

After finishing with a 9-12 record last year, the boy's varsity basketball team finished a very successful season with a 17-3 record. This was the second best record in school history. Their only losses came to 8th rated Anderson Highland, Shenandoah, and conference rival Wapahani, who finished a perfect 9-0.

Bobby Cochran averaged 16 points and 10 rebounds a game to lead the team in both categories. However, he wasn't the only one with impressive averages. Rick McAdams and Wally Shively averaged 13 and 11 points respectively, while Mickey Foley averaged 10 points a game.

The season also showed two remarkable comebacks. Seniors Dan Patrohay and David Anderson both went down with serious knee injuries at the beginning of the season. But, after surgery and rehabilitation, both of them were able to come back and be a part of the team.

Reserves Take Aim at 15-5

This year's boys reserves wrapped up another winning season. The team started off with a loss to Highland (62-30) but jumped right back up to win the next seven games in a row. Their biggest victory was against Union 70-19 on the Eagles home court. One of the team's best games was against Wapahani, where the Eagles pulled out a two-point victory 47-

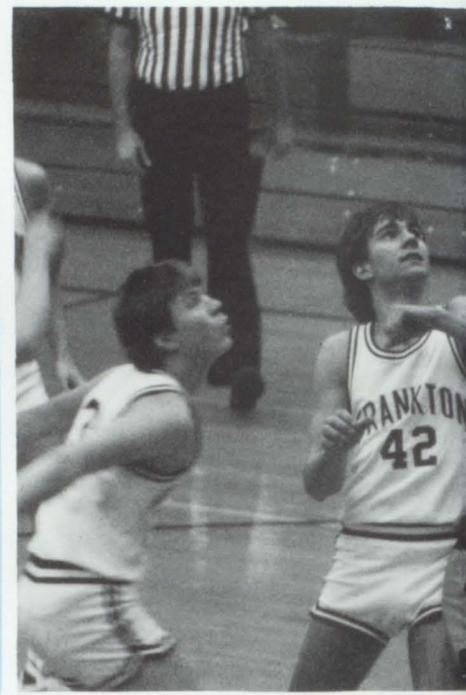

45 in overtime.

The five starters consisted of two juniors and three sophomores. Throughout the year the team was led by junior, Randy Hart in scoring, junior, Mike Anderson and sophomore, Brook Robinette in rebounding. This was the third year in a row that the junior varsity, coached by Doug Drake, has won 15 games.

Freshmen just under 50 percent

The '87-88 Freshman boys basketball teams, both A and B, ended their season with a combined record of 10-14.

Mr. Sharpee took over this year as head coach of the young Eagles.

Mr. Sharpee stated, "I made sure all the players on the team played in at least 3 quarters every game." He was pleased with the fact that in four of the games they lost by only 2 points. The season for the Eagles started off in an exciting 54-59 triple overtime loss to Madison Grant. Coach Sharpee felt his team's best game was a 43-44 loss to Alexandria.

The Eagles leading scorer this year was forward Tim Friend who scored 92 points.

Young Varsity Ends Strong

The Varsity Girls Basketball team had a surprisingly good season this year with a 11-7 record, compared to last year's record, which was 7-11. Considering the squad only had two juniors and three sophomores and the rest being freshman, the record is very impressive.

The girls worked very well as a team this year which is another plus for the upcoming years. Mr. Hanna put in a few positive words for the girls' efforts this year, he commented, "I've never seen a group of girls at F.H.S. perform in basketball as well as this group right here."

First-year coach Toby Truex was also impressed with the outcome of the season and is looking forward to next season.

Lady Reserves Gain Experience

The Girls J.V. Basketball team has a lot to gain in the future. Although they had a record of 4-13, they have nothing to be disappointed in. The J.V. squad consisted of only 6 freshmen. "Only having 6 players, all of the players were getting quality playing time," says coach Truex.

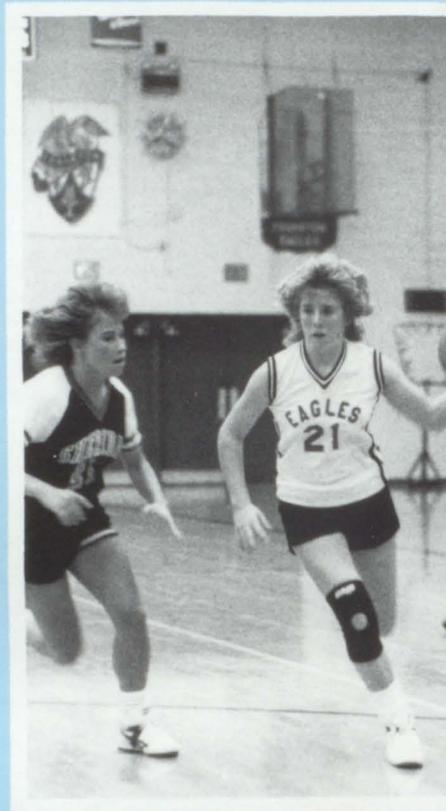

Truex commented, "We had a lot of things going against us (2 girls with injuries early in the season), but I think it was a blessing in disguise because all of the girls got a lot of playing time."

He also admits that he wasn't looking for a real good season this year with the J.V. He said he told them at the beginning of the season, "We may not win a game this year but I want us to go out and play hard and have fun." Then he said with a smile, "We won 4 games, and had a good chance at winning 5 other games, which is a tribute to the hard work these girls put in."

His final comment was, "Next year I think you will see better results. We will be a year older and I hope our numbers will be better to give us a little depth."

Working, Cheering, Helping

People have a hard time realizing how important a Mat Maid really is. Their number 1 job is to give the wrestlers as much support as possible. They do this by cheering the wrestlers on at meets, making posters, decorating the wrestlers' lockers, and helping at meets.

Mat Maids, also do things that most people do not see. At meets they keep score, announce the wrestler's name at home meets, and also keep track of important records throughout the year..

Like people say, "Its a rough job but somebody's gotta do it!"

Wrestlers Have

The 1987-1988 wrestling team had a combination of veterans and younger wrestlers. There were 6 seniors and 5 of them had varsity experience. The team started out by winning the Huskyville Duals. The grapplers were 5-0 at one point of the season, but due to injuries they finished the season with a dual record of 10-4. They also won the Tri-Central Duals with wins over Tri-Central, Clinton Central, and White's Institute.

The Eagles showed very well in tournaments. They placed 4th in the Madison County Tournament. Champions for the Eagles were Darrin Whetsel (130 lbs.) and Todd Miller

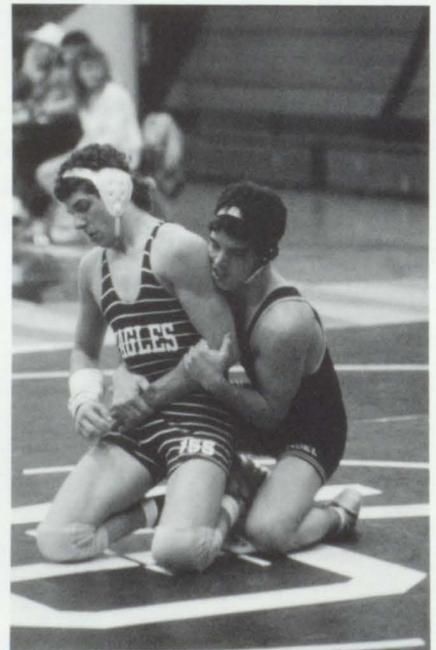

(140 lbs.). The most impressive showing in a tournament was at the Midwestern Conference Tournament. They placed 2nd just 6 1/2 points out of first place. The Eagles had 4 champions at the tournament: Shawn Simpson (103 lbs.), Darrin Whetsel (130 lbs.), Todd Miller (140 lbs.) and Andy Wethington (Hwt.). Placing 2nd at conference was Les Campbell (189 lbs.)

The most disappointing showing by the Eagles was the 1988 sectional. They lost the sectional in the final championship round by 8 points to the Elwood Panthers. The sectional champions were: Shawn Simpson (103 lbs.) and Todd Weiner (145 lbs.). Placing second in the sectional were Darrin Whetsel (130 lbs.), Matt Arbuckle (135 lbs.), Todd Miller (140 lbs.), Mark Henson (167 lbs.), and Andy Wethington (Hwt.). These eight wrestlers went on to the Regional where Shawn Simpson placed first in the 103 point weight class, this let Shawn go on the Semi-state. Shawn placed fourth there and went on to Market Square Arena for the State Finals. He was beaten by Matt Dickey of Roncalli 8-2. this was the first Eagle wrestler to go to the state meet in 7 years.

State bound Shawn Simpson puts a crossface against the rival Wes-Del wrestler.

A Year of . . . Peaks and Valleys

"This track season was a year of peaks and valleys. Sometimes things went great and sometimes they just fell apart," said Coach Davis.

The highest peak of the year was winning the Mid-Eastern Conference, when Coach Phil Davis was named M.E.C. Coach of the year. Frankton also had five people named All-conference, four in field events and one runner. In the field events, Frankton had Dan Patrohay in the shot put, Brad Brashear in the discus, Brook Robinette in the high jump and John Mercer in the long jump. Brent Compton was named to the All-Conference team in three events, the 800, 1600, and the 3200.

Winning the Eastern Invitational, where John Mercer was named Outstanding Performer, was also a peak. Other peaks would include Dan Patrohay, Brook Robinette, Brad Brashear and Brent Compton all placing in the Sectional.

The Eagles ended the season with a winning record of 7-2.

In Sectional action, the Eagles had four people place and two go on to compete in the Regional. Placing a disappointed fifth in the shot put was Dan Patrohay. Dan missed the fourth place position by one inch, which would have sent him on to Regional. Brad Brashear also placed fifth in the discus. Going to Regional were Brook Robinette in the high jump and Brent Compton in the 3200.

In the Sectional Brent broke the school record in the 3200. Brent ran a 9:34.6 beating the old record (also held by Compton) of 9:50. In the mile Brent ran a 4:25 breaking the old school record of 4:32 (also held by Compton).

Brent went on to Regionals where he again shattered his old record in the 3200 with a time of 9:27 which earned him second. Brent went on to the state to place 13th. He was the first Eagle to go to state since Kent Mosbaugh in 1984.

It was a very different year of the girl's track program. With only thirteen members, their only victory was against Lapel.

In spite of this skeleton team there was still some individual successes as the following four girls qualified for the sectional: Andrea Cummings and Kaisha McCorkle, high jump; Carol Covell and Tabitha Fulton, shot and discus.

In the regular season, Tabitha Fulton set a new school record by hurling the discus over 116 feet. Tabitha also advanced to regional.

Freshman Michelle Sumpter clears the hurdles.

Andrea Cummings begins her start in the Elwood meet.

Kaisha McCorkle leaps into the air in her final jump at the M.E.C. meet.

Baseball finished 9-12-1

The Eagle baseball team ended their regular season with a record of nine wins against twelve losses and one tie.

The team had two, new first-year coaches in Steve Sharpee as head coach and Kyle Campbell, old Lapel Bulldog star, as assistant.

There were several outstanding performers for the Eagles including Rick McAdams who broke the school single-season stolen base record of 27 previously held by Don Hiatt. Rick also led the team in hitting.

Although they did not possess a winning record, the Eagle team was in many close games. Seniors: Rick McAdams, Mike Bagley, Steve Guthrie, Lee Gray, Steve Harvey and Eddie Doan led the way, while a nice blend of underclass men rounded out the lineup.

The j-v team ended with a 3-2 record and are looking forward to better things in the future.

1,2,3 Alright

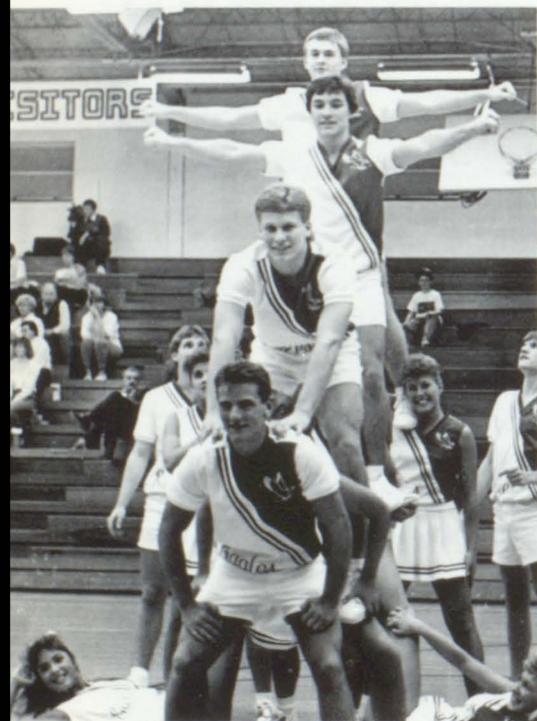

1,2,3 . . . Alright! Was a familiar phrase for the varsity squad this past year. It was often heard after the chant, "We say Frankton, you say Eagles."

Before football season had begun, Dave and Bertie Kyle were named the new sponsors. With the help of the new sponsors and the Booster Club, the cheerleaders were able to purchase new outfits for the varsity and enabled the reserve and freshmen to have new ones made.

The Eagle mascot was brought back and a new eagle suit was purchased, thanks to the Booster Club. After tryouts, Lana Elder was named "Eagle Mascot."

The freshman cheerleaders were: Kris Kyle, Jodi Dolliver, Meagan Paddock, Heather Alexander, and Natalie Elder.

Eagle Golfers Look To Brighter Future

The Eagle Golfers finished the 1988 season with a 4-10 record. The end of the season marks the departure of senior varsity members, Greg Ash, Todd Miller, Mike Loudenback, Darrin Whetsel, and Greg Kyle. Coach Phil Abernathy commented, "The team did not seem to play consistently throughout the season or play together as a whole." Next year the Eagle Golfers will host the new White River Conference which should prove to be quite a challenge for next year's golfers.

Poetic Styles Come Shining Through

A Very Special Prayer

Dear God, why did you take my mother from me? I am very confused and bewildered, you see.

Not only was she my mom, but she also was my best friend. How could her life come to such a horrifying end?

What happened to our home sweet home that night? What caused that very drastic fight?

How could he kill my very special mother? My mom and I meant so much to one another.

My mom's joyful face and splendid personality is missed by many, I am sure that is plain to see, Dear God, please give my mom a hug and kiss for me.

Melissa Archer '88

It Happened to Us

On a late summer night
You and me, standing there
Nothing more than friends
Exchanging a stare
A love that never before was
Yet a love so missed
As you pulled me close
So softly we stayed
Our closeness grew
As together we laid
I wish it would last forever
In my heart it will always be
For I can never forget
How love found you and me.

Michelle Ferguson, '88

Her Own Assurance

She's just as the wind, she'll come and go, where she will be, nobody will know.
She hides her feelings deep down inside. From caring people she'll always hide.
Hurt before and now holds a cold heart, it's her one assurance not to get torn apart.

Alice Hutchison, '88

As I walked along the dark road by myself, I noticed the bright light of pain straight ahead.

The wicked light said to me "come with me and you'll never have any worries or hurt again because you'll be too high to feel anything."

Smoke another hooter, pop another pill, take another drink and inject another moment of not knowing or feeling of life.

You did it once, you did it twice.

You said it wouldn't hurt, but now you can't stop.

It didn't hurt nothing did it? It only took a life -- YOURS.

Your friends say come on it gives you a great feeling. When you get busted, they leave you on that dark road of pain.

Yes, those so called friends will be back, but not as real friends because a real friend wouldn't let you do such harm to your body and mind.

Now as you read this, can you tell me where drugs get you? Just say NO!

Myra Headley, '90

Sandi

I remember a woman
As beautiful as can be,
But that woman was taken from you and me.
The way she smiled,
The gentleness of her touch,
The way she used to laugh and sing,
Are the things I miss so much.
I've asked myself again and again
Why did it have to happen to such a special friend?
Why was she laid to rest
When she deserved only the best?
I feel apart of me is missing
Now that she is gone
Even though I know life must carry on.
I can't say "Good-bye"
It hurts to let her go,
I just wish I could have told her
That, "I love her so!"

Shawna Baldwin, '88

Teenage Failures

Teenage kids think they have it so rough, they never think that they've got enough.

They don't understand what their parents go through, they just complain about nothing to do.

They won't be able to support themselves on their own, but they know their parents will be waiting when they pick up the phone.

None of them want jobs to tie them down, they would rather be with their friends and run around.

More and more kids are dropping out of school, I don't know why unless they think it makes them look cool.

The ones that quit and always say they're gonna go back, will most likely end up living in a shack.

They've gotta learn that someone is not always gonna be there, but you can't get that through to them because they don't care.

The Government is trying to help us get a better education because they're scared about what is happening to our younger generation.

There are kids out there who are willing to work, but the job is filled with some lazy jerk.

Teenagers need to try to be a little more responsible and realize their parents are only trying to be helpful.

Jenny Starr, '91

Dad

I have heard so much stuff about you, but I don't really know if it's true.
You mean the world to me,
this I want you to see.
All I want is to meet you,
but I don't know if you want this too.
All I have ever wanted is a dad,
without you I'm very sad.
We have so much to catch up on,
because you have always been gone.
I love you with all my heart,
why do we have to be apart?

Leslie Conaway, '90

To Live Without Living

I always wondered how it would feel to sleep without the fear.
To live with the knowledge that the coast is always clear.
No longer will I scream in defense —
or cry in submission
Or desperately search, for a friend who will listen.
For years I've counted on others, to pull me through my trials.
Only to be tricked and discarded, by fake friends with fake smiles.
This time was much different — I didn't gain hope from their smile
I believed only in me — and stood on my own awhile.
I gave up the ability, to be hurt and to cry.
And became strong and silent, keeping the tears locked inside.
Now I can sleep without the fears,
and live without the caution,
I can love without reservation — even if they are watching.

Elisabeth Burris, '89

I'll Be There

Don't let your days
be filled with sorrow,
Live for today
not tomorrow.
When in your heart
you have fear
Don't be afraid
to shed a tear.
When you feel down
and need a friend,
Just turn to me
my shoulder I will lend.
I'll be there, I'll walk with you every mile
'Till your face I see a shining smile.
And friend, I'll slowly let you go so once again your strength will grow.
My friend, remember, I'll always care,
When you need me — I'll be there!

A Lie

If I wish to deceive you
I needn't create a deception
I must cause you
To misjudge the truth.

The Troll

Through the tunnels dark
I stalked the troll
It was everything I could be and didn't know
I left a mark
Every thirty paces
so as not to be lost
In these strange places
I made a mark
Made thirty more
Found myself
where I was before
Placed a mirror behind me
To be astounded
When I turned around
'Twas the troll I found!
We advance with time
Abhorring the troll
'Cause he's what we were
When we didn't know

In Need Of Love

My heart had been broken and in need of repair.
You stood by my side and had love
to share.
You showed me you cared and would always be true.
We were always together just me
and you.
No one agreed we should be with each other,
Each of our parents told us to find ourselves another.
We were caught by others hand-in-hand together.
In our lives, it seemed nothing else
could be better.
In need of love we ran away to be free.
My heart had been locked, and he held the key.

Moving On

They went like a dash
They really flew by,
They've brought some memories
That bring tears to my eyes.
My high school years
Yes, they have now gone,
On to college experiences
With my life, I'll carry on.

Angie Warner, '88

Try To Understand

I don't know what's wrong with me
But I think it's gone
This feeling I've had for so long
When we're together
There is no place I'd rather be
When we're apart
I don't miss your company
I really love you
But I don't think I'm ready
To be so serious
And commit myself to a steady
Please don't get me wrong
I love you with all my heart
It's just not the passionate love
I felt at the start
My mind is in a frenzy
I wish I could give you a definite answer
Please try to understand
And give me the time I need
'Caz believe me babe
If I can save this relationship
I definitely will indeed

Love Leaves

The love of a parent,
The love of a friend,
The love of a man,
The love of the wind
If you can reach all these things
You'll have love in your soul.
And you need this in your life,
For you to be whole.
But emptiness happens —
When love is no more.
Then confusion takes its place,
Love and Hate go to war.
Then if nobody needs you.
And no one is there,
A person grows despondent
And stops trying to care.
Don't act so surprised
You see these people everyday,
But you turn your back on them,
And go on your busy way.
Whenever this happens.
They know it must be true
They don't feel important anymore,
Then their love leaves them too.
So when you see them in the paper,
Don't you bother to cry —
When they're gone and killed themselves,
You'll know the reason why!

The High and Lows at F.H.S.

As the walls of the new school were rising, the noise level was also rising. The silence that once filled the classrooms was replaced by the sounds of roaring engines, banging hammers, and buzzing drills. These sounds not only filled the class rooms, but they also filled the student's heads. This made for low concentration and high aggravation. No sooner would an answer come to mind than "Boom!" it was gone with one buzz of a hammer drill.

Other problems that came with the construction was the wandering construction men. For every one that wandered by the window, another student's mind wandered out the window. Then you caught a glimpse of a worker lighting a cigarette, you began wandering "Whatever happened to NO SMOKING on school grounds?" And if you were running late for school, you might as well be ready to have the Big "T" slapped on you because there was no way you were going to make it down Clyde St. without having to wait on a bulldozer or cement truck that was parked in the road. But they didn't stop with parking their equipment in the street. They also parked their scaffolding and ladders in the halls. This made getting to class on time impossible for those last minute sprinters. But despite all of the problems that came about because of construction, all the things that made our blood pressure rise and made us pull out our hair, all the things that made us go home with headaches and lose 15.9% of our hearing, despite all this, the students of FHS proved to be "Touch As Nails."

Construction Prayer

Now I'm off to school today,
I pray thee Lord my life to save.
If I should walk through the parking lot,
I pray the bulldozer stays in its spot.
When creeping through the dreary hall,
Protect me from the beams that fall.
If I should have a test to take,
Pleases silence the noise the hammers make.
And when the workers are where eyes can see,
Lord keep my mind where it should be.
But most of all, Lord thee I pray,
To keep the walls from blowing away.

Amen

A Teacher Made in Heaven

What's the Perfect teacher? One who has every characteristic that a high school student could want. COOLNESS — appropriately. OPENNESS — if you ask a question you get a straight answer. FRIENDLINESS — they treat you like a real person, not like a stuffed person who doesn't matter. OPEN MINDEDNESS — they believe your little sister spit-up on your term paper & give you extra time to redo it. STUPIDITY — they believe you forgot your note for missing a week of classes when you were rally skipping. HARD OF HEARING — they never hear that last smart remark you mumble when you finally get into trouble. Finally, SOFT HEARTEDNESS — they yell at you for being a clown and then feel that was enough punishment for the crime and pass, on giving you an hour detention.

Babysit New Year's Eve? Never Again!

1988. Big deal. I mean, people put so much emphasis on the new year when it's really no big deal. I suppose it might be if I did something exciting, or even fun. But you know what I do? I usually baby sit. Oh, boy.

Like this year. I had the pleasure of watching a 5 month old baby girl and a vicious dog named Rambo. It was for my cousin and her husband, so I didn't think it would be too bad. When I walked in their trailer I immediately saw the best stereo system in the world. I'm talking CD player, record player, AM/FM stereo, equalizer, two huge speakers, and about 200 different albums. Well since I'm at that age when I only value life through material possessions, (that line came from my mother!) I was impressed.

The next thing that I saw was the baby! She calmly stared at me and I coolly stared back at her. I couldn't tell whether she was trying to poop, or whether she was smiling. Well, in any case, I immediately put on my "I know what I'm doing" baby sitter face. Then I did what all intelligent, well-educated baby sitters do. I sat on the floor and said "GOO, GOO, GA, GA." (More for the benefit of the parents than the kids.)

Now on the way there she had warned me about the dog. She said that he was pretty moody and real protective of the baby. When I saw this ugly, little scrawny mutt coming toward me, I knew it was going to be harder to fake the dog than it was the baby. Now realize that when I say ugly I mean ugly — he was shaved from the neck down, with an ugly red rash on his skin. But the way I made over this dog, you would have thought he Lassie or something. Finally I had done it. The baby either liked me or she had messed her pants, and the dog was satisfied too.

After the parents finally left, I relaxed a little bit. Then I checked the kids diaper, and sure enough it was a mess. The night just went on like that, change diaper, feed the kid, pet dog. No big deal. Until . . . I had made myself some popcorn and was eating it. Or rather, I was trying to eat it, but the dog wanted his share you know. So I shared with him. (I'm not the selfish sort) At 11:59 as I was preparing myself for all kinds of resolutions, Rambo decided that he wanted some meat with his popcorn. He grabbed my thumb in a bite that went all the way to the bone. At exactly 12:00 a.m. while every one around the world was screaming with joy (or drunkenness), I was screaming in pain, and trying to convince some dog that my thumb was gonna stay attached to my hand, like it or not. I tried every one around to get him to let go. I shook my hand and slapped his mouth but He stayed attached. So I sat him on the floor and held him like a football, then I put him into the wall. IT WORKED!!! My hand was pouring blood and the dog was unconscious. I called my mother to give her the good news. The conversation went something like this:

"Mom, it's me, guess what?"

"What did you do now?" — (some confidence huh!)

"I killed the dog. It bit me and I kicked it across the room. Now it's just laying there, I killed It!"

"Oh my God, you've probably got rabies now. That's just great. Well, I'll be right over."

Then my parents came over and they took the dog to the vet's and me to the hospital. I got a shot and the dog got an overnight visit. (he was in shock — But so was I)

Then after my parents left, the other ones came home. I was not looking forward to telling my cousin that her sweet, little Rammy made a better football than he did a dog. But here goes:

First she asked about the baby —

"Was Danielle okay? Is she still sleeping? Did she eat?"

Then came the dog —

"Where's mommy's little puppy-wuppy, Rammy where are you?"

"Uh, he's kind not here. I mean, for awhile I thought he was dead but he's okay now, but he's at the vet's. He bit me. I had to get a shot and . . ."

Then I was interrupted by a wail coming from her. I understood that she was not wailing over my bloody thumb, but over the dog!!

That's when I decided that I would never baby-sit on New Year's again.

What's That Sound?

What was that, thunder? No Mom, it was drums from someone's car stereo.

What was that, the neighbors yelling? No Mom, it was the new heavy metal band from someone's car stereo.

Is this a common occurrence around your house? As technology becomes better so does the chance of hearing loss. Hearing loss not only by those driving cars with awesome stereos but by those who the mini-concerts pass.

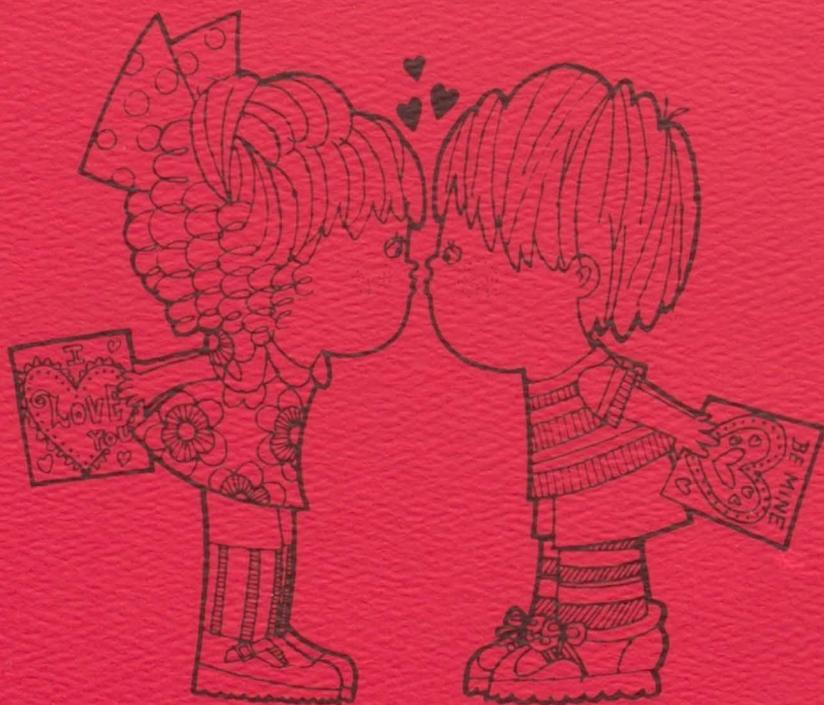

Most people associate loud, ear-blasting music with Rock -N- Roll. But now that the wide spread use of "Bad" stereos is commonplace, it has gone beyond teenagers and that dreaded Rock. You can often hear a loud country twang or even the softer sounds of what many call "hard music" pouring out of passing cars.

It seems like this is now a part of life and those who do not care to share in the music may have to wear earplugs to ensure the safety of their hearing.

High School Blues

Right here and now
I do declare
This will Be the best rap
That you ever did hear
Sit Back relax
And Listen Carefully
While I Take you on a trip
Down the Lane of Memory
Standing by our cars
Looking oh so cool
Don't be a nerd
That's the Golden Rule
We all looked up
And what do we see
Buses letting off
"Hey guys, let's go cause some misery"
This dude walked up
Looking strange and kinda funny
He headed for the doors
With his notebook and lunch money
Laughing at his clothes
He's a nerd alright
They must be lying when they say

Freaks come out at night
Where did they get these kids
Where do they come from
I think they stayed
Too long in the sun
The two minute bell rings
Students make a dash
All but the seniors
They're just out for a blast
Halfway through the class
You take a look
You walk up to the teacher
"Er ... uh ... I brought the wrong book"
You ask teacher please
But she still says "NO!"
The day drags on
Time stands still
We are counting down the minutes
For 10 til
For 5 days straight
It's the same old thing
The 3 big R's
Til the school bell rings

School takes its toll
Puts a strain on the brain
If it wasn't for the weekends
We'd all be insane
We're all crazy
But that ain't enough
They give us tons of homework
And their tests are too tough
Some of us make it
Some of us Don't
We'd kill for x-tra credit
Give it ... they won't
So we give it our all
And they laugh in our face
To our parents
We're just disgrace
In time we will have
A future to choose
But right now we're facing
The HIGH SCHOOL BLUES!!

Famous Hang-Out

It's 2:50 p.m. Everyone rumbles out the doors to the parking lot. Total chaos is breaking out. School's over for the day.

"Hey man, got a dip?", someone yells.

"Yeah. Meet me at Handy Andy."

Handy Andy.

Just by driving through Frankton ten minutes before or after school you can see a swarm of Frankton students as they attack the parking lot of the local convenience store like so many ants at a family picnic.

The lure of the establishment goes beyond what the day time can offer as students can be seen at all hours of the day or night it seems as they keep doing whatever they do at Handy Andy's, Frankton's only 24-hour business.

The kids like it, but not too many adults do. They don't like to see the students hanging out and doing who knows what. But it still exists and no one seems to really want to stop it bad enough to do anything about it.

No one knows how or why it got to be like this. It just is. Probably always will be. In a year or so when the junior high is here and the "new" Handy Andy's is built will it be the same? Will it be too crowded or have the same aura that it once had?

Who knows?

Juggletes

What's the life of a student athlete? Busy. Whether a boy or girl is on academic probation, or on the honor roll, juggling the books with practices can be hectic.

For the fall sports athlete there is practice that starts even before the school year and when school starts they have to get all of those special notebooks and supplies ready before school or after practice.

Winter sports go about mid-year just when the teachers quit the preliminary lessons and get to the topics that you've never heard of before. But still practice and competitions go on.

Spring sports come just when the nice weather seems to make you want to spend your extra time goofing off instead of trying to do your homework. But you can't forget semester tests or graduation and you may have to just skip spring break.

Ahhh, summer, now they can rest. But wait, there's summer school and summer leagues and vacation . . .

Keeping the grades up and the competition high takes a dedication of both body and mind and probably prepares the student with the abilities to also juggle the complexities of modern life.

THE DATING DILEMMA

"Oh, he is the guy of my dreams! But, what will the girls say? Will they approve of him? Will my parents like him?"

"Man, she is a babe! Will the guys think she is a knockout? Will they give me a hard time about her? Will Mom and Dad approve?"

Today, many teenagers face a dating dilemma. They wonder about who they should date, what their friends will say, and what their parents will think.

"I have nothing to wear! Should I wear my hair up or down? Should I wear that new pink lipstick I just bought?"

"Should I shave? Should I blow dry my hair? Will these jeans be okay? What shirt am I going to wear?"

Once teenagers start dating that perfect guy or perfect girl, many of their questions change to a more personal basis. They think about personal hygiene and what types and styles of clothes to wear.

"I can't believe how good we're getting along! He is so sweet and special! I just love him to death!"

"She is so much fun to be with! She is a really neat girl! I'm glad she is my girl!"

A part of dating included closeness. The couple begins to spend more time together, tell each other their thoughts and ideas, and begin to form a relationship.

"I can't believe he is doing this to me! I don't want to break up! Why is he hurting me?"

"I can't believe my girls dumped me! I really need her. What did I do to her?"

Another aspect of dating is breaking up. Many couples get close and then go their separate ways in search of a spouse.

"I'm so nervous yet so happy. I can't believe he proposed to me! Is my dream really coming true?"

"I'm so excited she accepted my proposal! She'll be a beautiful bride. I'm going to take care of her forever."

The final step of dating is marriage. A couple must take on more responsibilities, communicate to each other, and learn to love and learn to grow together.

Classroom Classics

With approximately 9 months of a year being spent at school, boredom in the classrooms can develop easily. Books become 20 pound weights, desks become hard sheets of plywood, and assignments become redundant.

It is this draggy feeling of helplessness that sparks a motive in FHS's more creative students.

Perhaps the most memorable for the seniors occurred during 5th period in 12A English class. The class had a substitute so a few clever students managed to rig a calculator to make re-occurring noises. Unfortunately, sometimes there's a price to pay for entertainment. This particular incident's cost was detention . . . for the entire class.

An empty hallway with teachers all teaching in their rooms gave LeAnne Conaway the idea to scream "HELP ME, HELP ME!" Of course when several teachers came running to the rescue there was no one to be found.

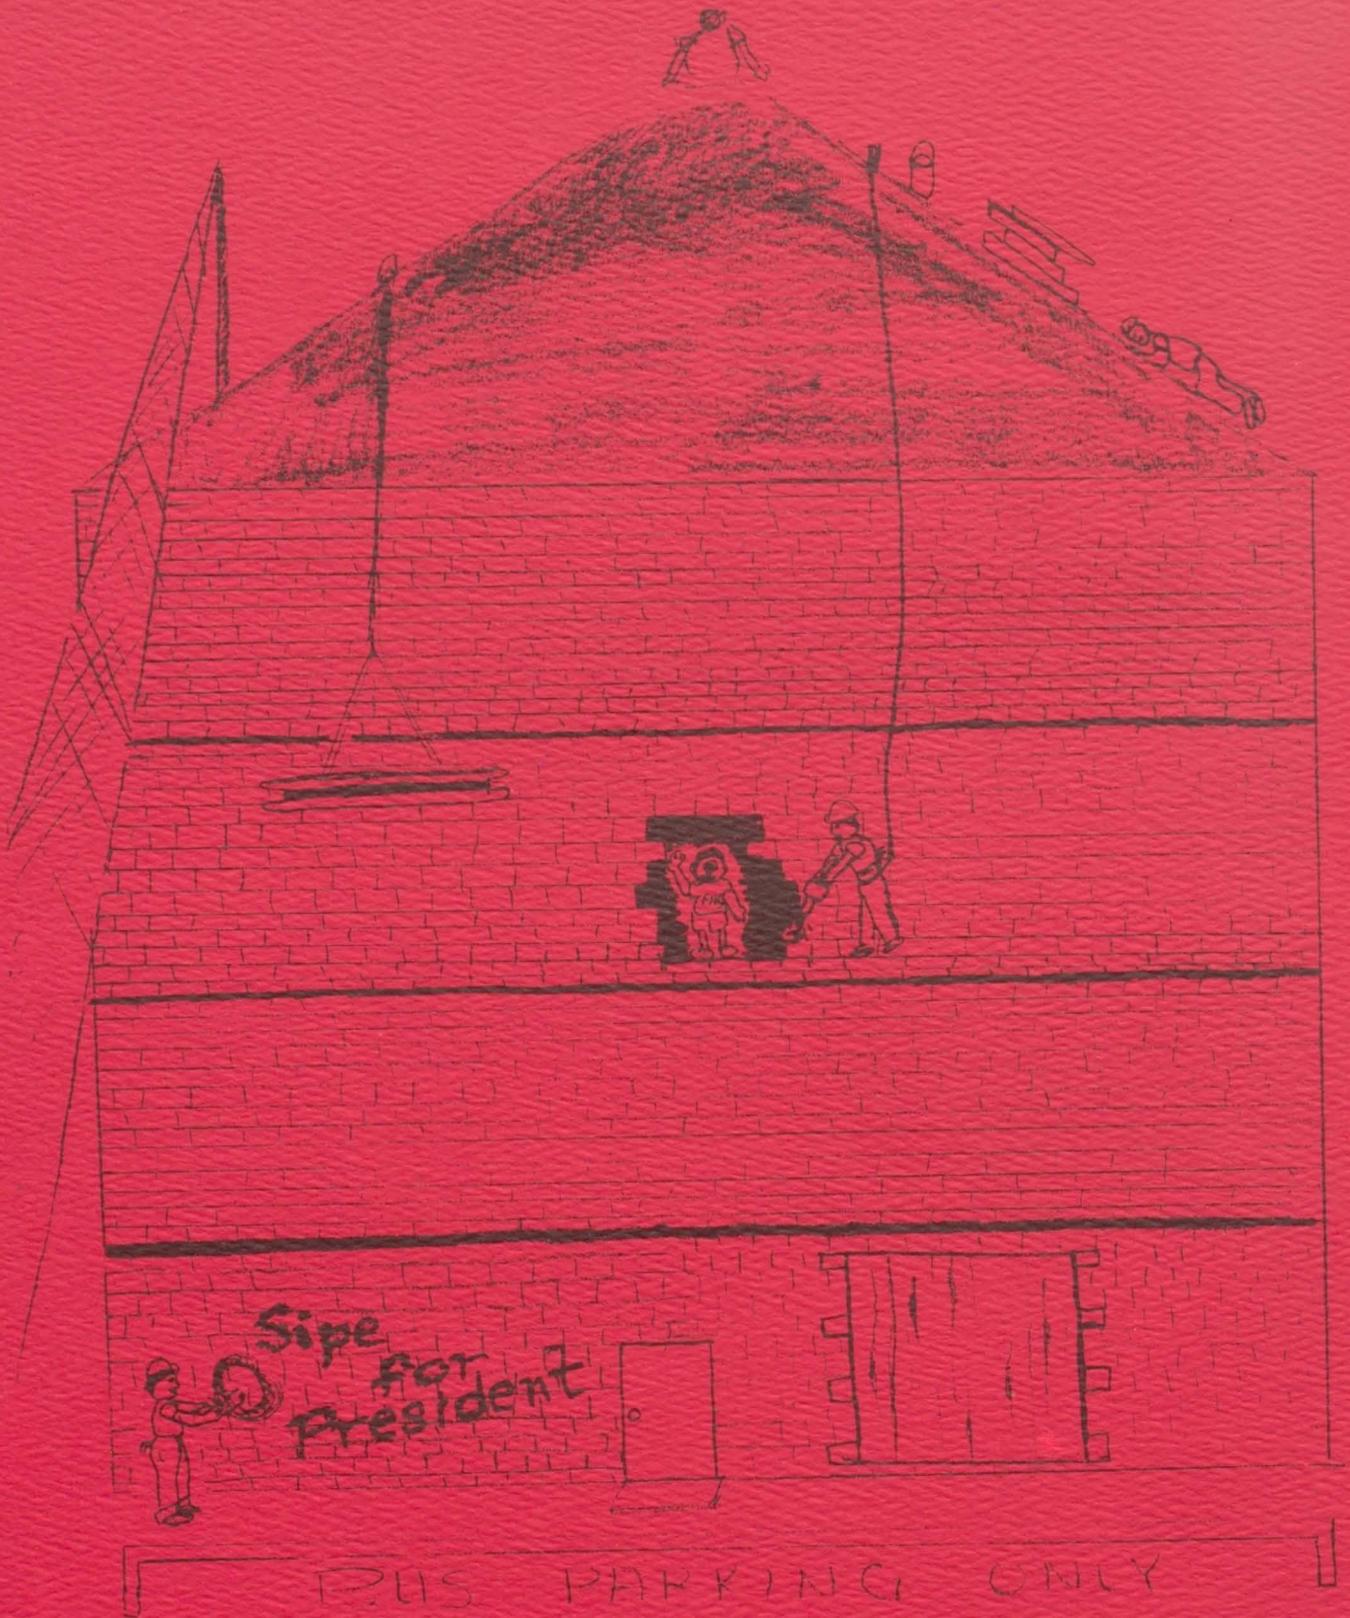

While sitting in the classrooms one can't help but wonder what's happening on the soaps, or who's winning the game.

Destined to solve that dilemma, Wayne Owen took his portable miniature T.V. into Mr. Bartlow's class to watch the N.L. playoff game. Not knowing someone had changed the station and turned up the volume he proceeded to turn the T.V. on. Every eye was soon focused on him with the sudden outburst of those familiar words, "COME ON DOWN . . ."

Like the incident with the T.V. there's always those little unplanned occurrences that add excitement along with embarrassment. Take for instance the time Scott Jones had his sister write him a note to excuse his absence. Not knowing what his sister had written, Scott turned the note into the office. He soon found himself beyond embarrassment as Mr. Warner made him read the note which excused his illness because of a "private pain."

Whether planned or unplanned these incidents along with many other unmentioned occurrences helped the school year keep from dragging too slow and kept a day at FHS unpredictable.

Spring Break '88

Jamboxes, bathing suits, Hawaiian Tropic, sunglasses, towels, and coolers were the traditional necessities needed for spring break.

Though most FHS students counted the days until they could baste in the salty sun, many of Frankton's own headed towards a new direction.

For the first time in 5 years, FHS band and guard went on an out-of state trip together. Raincoats, sweat-shirts, jeans, sheet music, uniforms, and instruments were the basic necessities needed as they ventured on to Washington, D.C.

Amy McPhearson needed a passport, travelers checks, luggage, and plane tickets for her journey to West Germany.

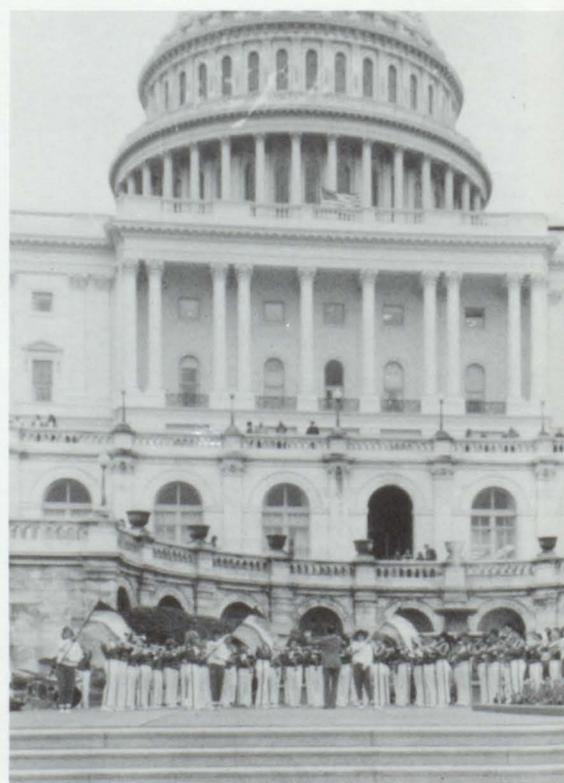

Whether taking long walks on the beach, performing at the cold nation's capital, learning foreign customs, or just remaining in good 'ole Frankton, a break from tardies, detention, classrooms, tests, and homework was definitely enjoyed and celebrated.

Equipped with all of their basic necessities, Kim Fiscalini, Scott McFerran, and Angie Warner hit the beach.

Pope Paul II was greeted by President and Mrs. Reagan in Miami to begin a 9-day tour of the United States.

The United States began escorting vessels in the Persian Gulf after Iranian ships were caught laying mine.

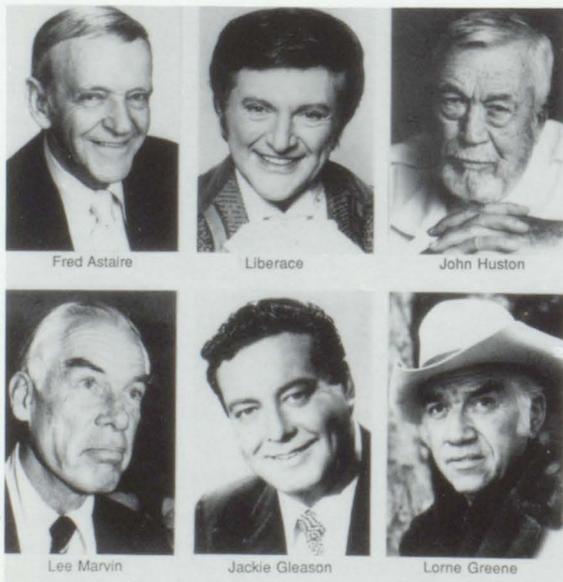

1987, like any other year, left us with many memories, both good and bad. The Nation stood together to share moments of joy, moments of fear, and moments of sorrow.

In July, the United States began escorting vessels in the Persian Gulf in an effort to protect them from Iranian ships. However, in September, the U.S. blew up an Iranian ship that was caught laying mines in the Gulf.

On Monday, October 19, the Dow Jones industrial stock dropped 508 points taking the largest plunge in history. The crash took $500 billion from the market value of the U.S. securities.

For one week straight, TV viewers were able to get an inside look at Lt. Col. Oliver North. North played a key role in the selling of arms to Iran to finance anti-government rebels in Nicaragua.

the virus becomes a bigger threat, killing nearly 25,000 people in the past six years.

Two big scandals that shocked the nation were reported sexual encounters of presidential candidate, Gary Hart, and TV evangelist, Jim Bakker. Gary Hart was forced to drop out of the presidential race after his affair with actress/model, Donna Rice, was reported. Jim and Tammy Bakker bid farewell to the PTL ministry in March after his affair with Jessica Hahn was revealed.

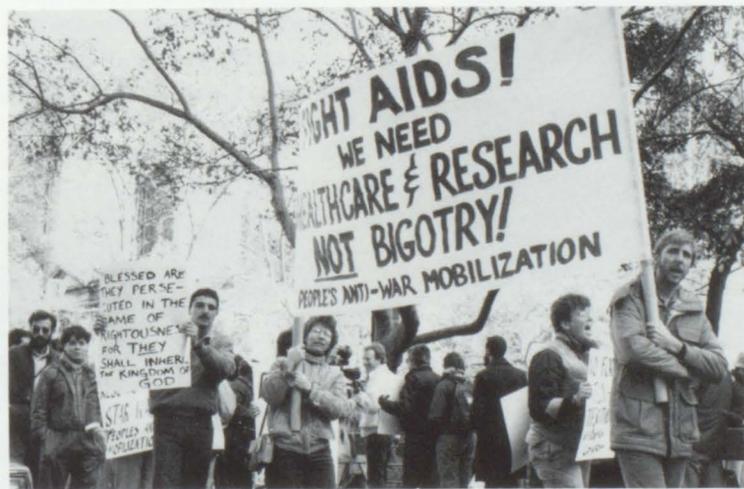

In sports, Coach Bobby Knight led the Indiana Hoosiers to a smashing victory over Syracuse in the NCAA in New Orleans. This was the third title for Coach Knight in twelve years.

Dennis Conner, of San Diego, won back the America's Cup from Australia. Sugar Ray Leonard regained his crown from Middle-Weight Champion, Marvin Haglar.

Replacements were given a chance at NFL positions during a three week strike by NFL players. In mid October, the strike ended in a courtroom instead of at the bargaining table.

LOCAL

When school began in August, 1987, many never imagined what would transform by June, 1988. As some of us prepared for our last year of high school, and some of us the first, the Town of Frankton and Frankton High School were preparing for major renovations.

When students walked through the doors for the first time in August, outside we left trees, newly paved streets, and clean air. When we walked out the doors for the last time, were greeted by a few trees on the school's ground, battered streets from the beating of the dumptrucks, and dust filled air.

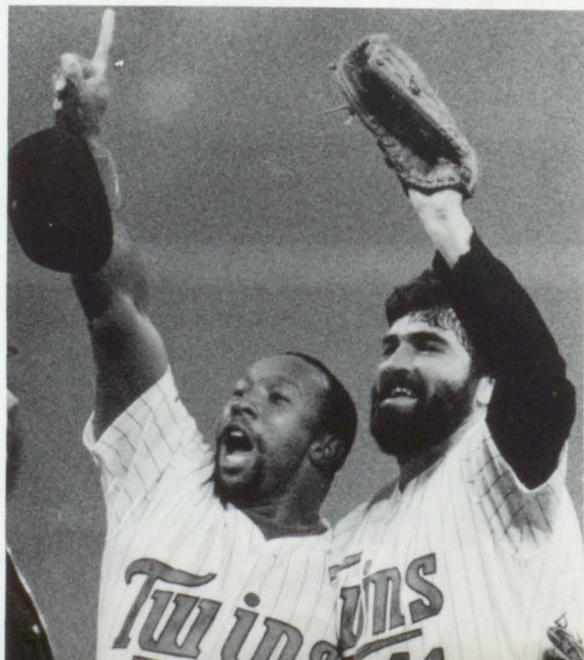

It all began in September when construction personnel began to set their headquarters in the parking lot. They started with the tearing down of trees and bushes, and anything else that found its way into their paths. The next thing was the fall of the softball diamond, then the parking lot, and the tennis courts, then the track. Soon walls went up and the lights went out as many found themselves working inside what seemed to be a dark cave.

At the same time, the Town of Frankton was constructing a new drainage ditch through the middle of town. Students on their way to Handy Andy after school found themselves taking detour after detour as the construction crew began tearing up the streets to make way for the new line.

Such games as "Time the Dumptruck" and "Get the Construction Man to Wave" at the beginning of the school year, soon turned into "Stop That Hammering" and "Get away from the Window." By the end of the year students became accustomed to walking around ladders, over cords through dark hallways, and taking tests while material fell from the roofs, lights flickered, and drills drilled.

Frankton's economy looks as if it may soon be on the rebound as several businesses either expanded or built. The Bauer's Phillips 66 Food Mart opened, DiRuzza Welding expanded and Handy Andy began building a new store, just to name a few. Plans to lift the sewer ban that stopped Frankton's growth in 1975, were gathering strength as money was being appropriated for a new sewer plan.

On October 9th, the Dow Jones industrial stock exchange dropped 508 points, the largest in history.

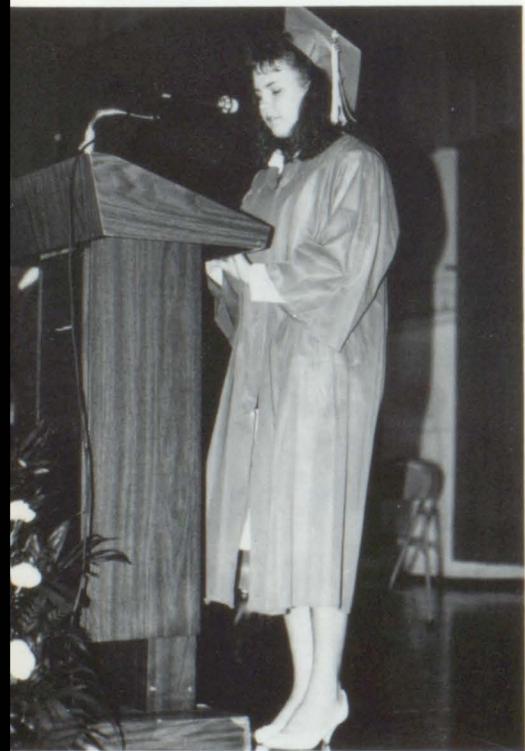

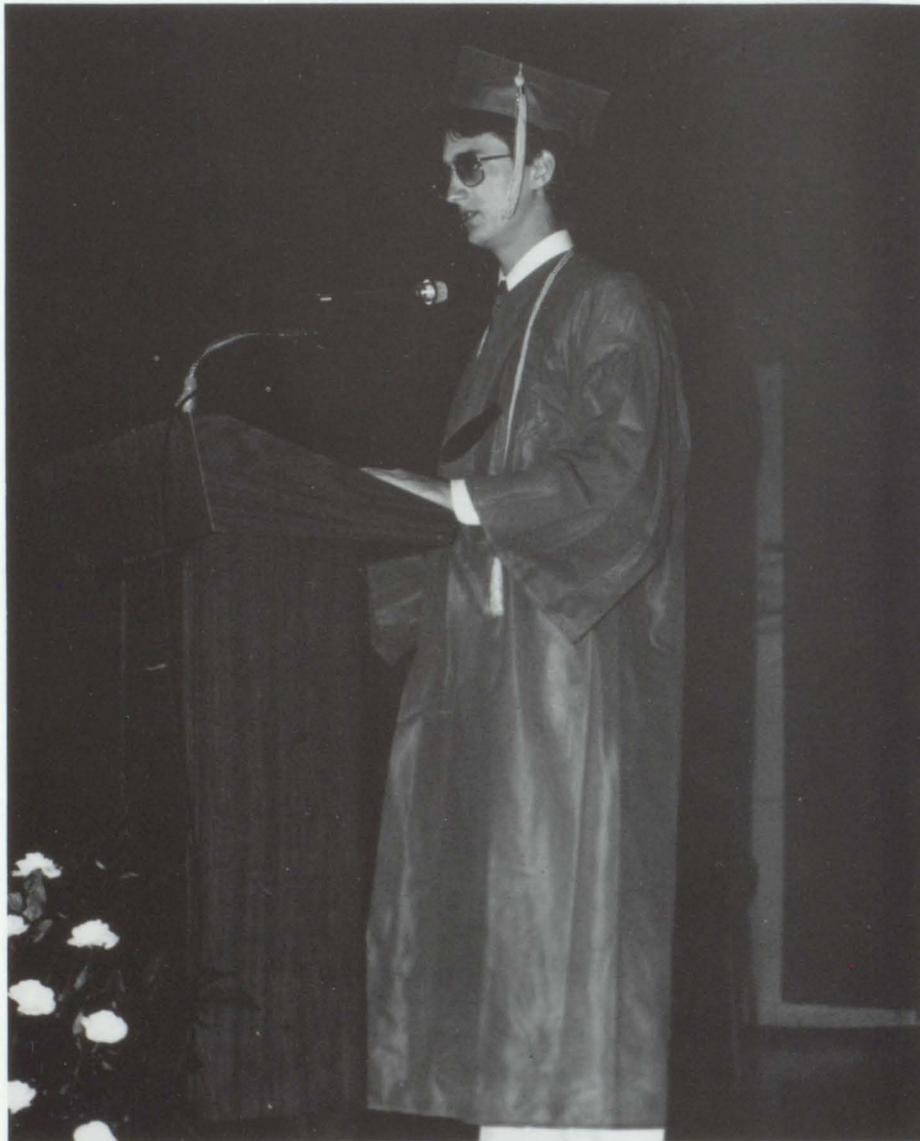

Graduation 1988

"Although we are done with high school we are never too old to learn. They say you learn something new every day." This speech came to the 106 graduating seniors from Valedictorian Jeff Richwine. Superintendent Paul Davis said that he wished he could guarantee success in life to all of the graduating class, but he could not. It was up to each individual.

The seniors of '88 are going to be faced with many adult responsibilities and are going to be guiding their own success. Some will continue their education, and others will go straight to the work force, but regardless of the path they follow all will go their separate ways. We wish them the best of luck in their future endeavors.

At the end of the school year this south entrance gave us an idea of what the new building would look like.

I would like a special Thank-You to go to my assistant editor, Tricia Keevin, Yearbook Advisor, Kevin Sipe, and our Yearbook Specialist, Larry Glaze. All of these people helped me make important decisions and last minute ones also.

A big Thanks goes to the section editors and the '88 Eaglite Staff for meeting their deadlines. Without the help of Prestige Portraits, Elwood Call Leader, and Julie Barrett we wouldn't have had the senior pictures, mug-shots, clubs, or sports pictures.

Editor-In-Chief
