This Is Who We Are

2003 Eaglite

Volume 54

Frankton Jr/Sr High School

610 Clyde St.

Frankton, IN 46044

Somewhere amid the rumors and the fights, during the trips to Rickers, watching the corn grow and the seasons change; While learning how to drive, how to study, and of matters of the heart; Between making lasting friendships and life-long memories; Discovering that it doesn't make a difference where you went to school, but what you got out of it is what really matters. When we finally made sense of it all we became true Eagles and learned how to soar...

This Is Who We Are

"I like to cheerlead, because it gets the crowd excited." Kaitlin Clark, 7

"I am a fan of Frankton. I like how small it is, and that I know everyone." Benjamin Coppess, 8

"I am a friend, and I am caring to others." Lillie Foust, 9

"I really don't care (about anything); I am podunk." Brittany Boyland, 10

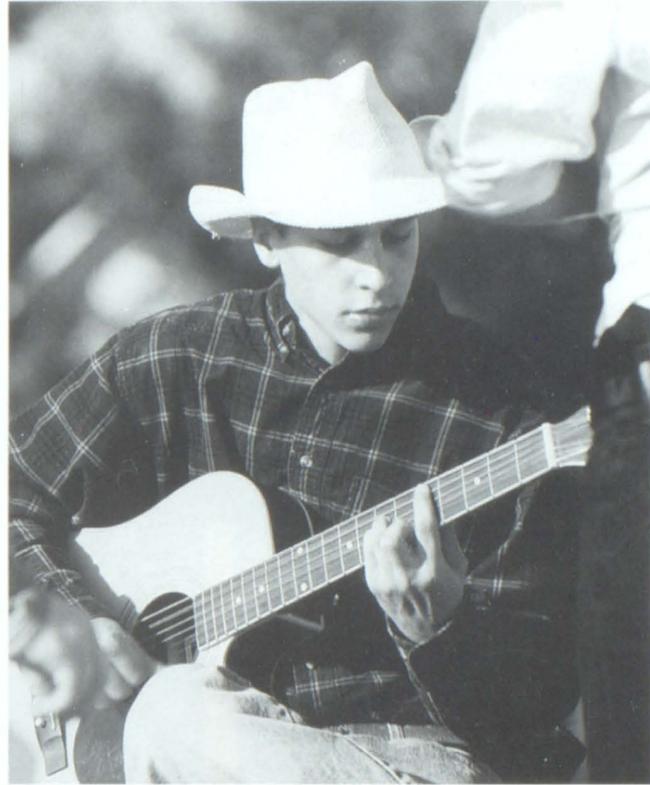

"I am everything that you want to be." Brandon Howey, 11

"I am the walrus." Ryan Kennedy, 12

Coach Otis Cress smiles as he accepts his sketch from athletic booster, Paul Shively. He was given this after Otis Cress Field was named in his honor.

Strum on! David Embry sits contentedly on the sophomore float with a guitar in his hands. David was part of the on-float western theme that everyone enjoyed.

Jacole Mattingly watches Amanda O'Dell as she carefully pours her shake that she made in foods class. The class had to cook a meal every few days for a grade.

We Are Fun

Claire Jenness explains to Juan Villamil how to do math during Pre-Calculus. Juan is a foreign exchange student from Columbia that is with us for the year.

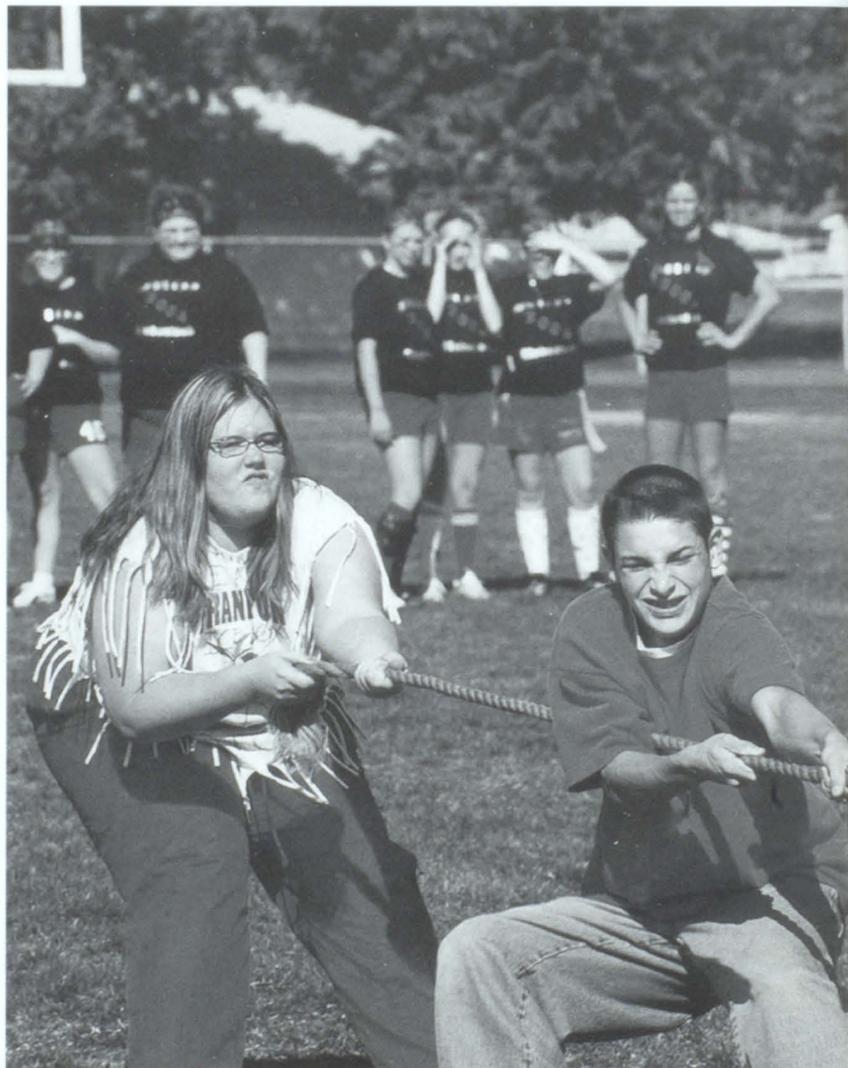

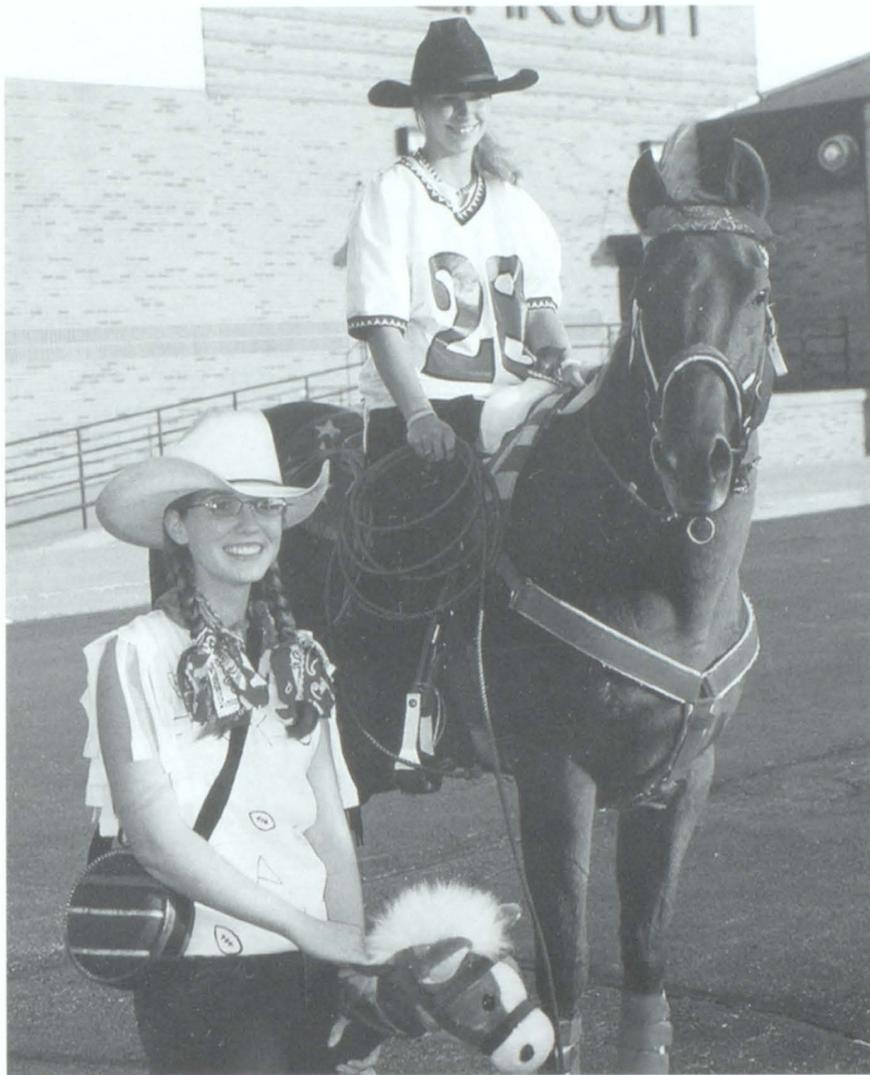

Singing in the rain! Oh wait, or is it swimming? Whatever they are doing, it looks like Brett Sanders, Jessica Paugh, Kassie Humphries, and Jacob Woodard are having fun while in Spanish class.

Dancing the night away! Jayda Rushton and Nick Lozo get down at the annual coronation dance. The dance took place on October 5, in the high school gymnasium.

Stephanie Belesky and Alex Davis pull their hardest while competing in the tug-of-war. They represented the sophomore class in this game.

Shelby Borum and Jennifer Gohn pose with their respectable horses. They were a part of the winning sophomore float.

Laura Furst sings the national anthem at a home football game. She was asked at many games to do this, and it was enjoyed by all.

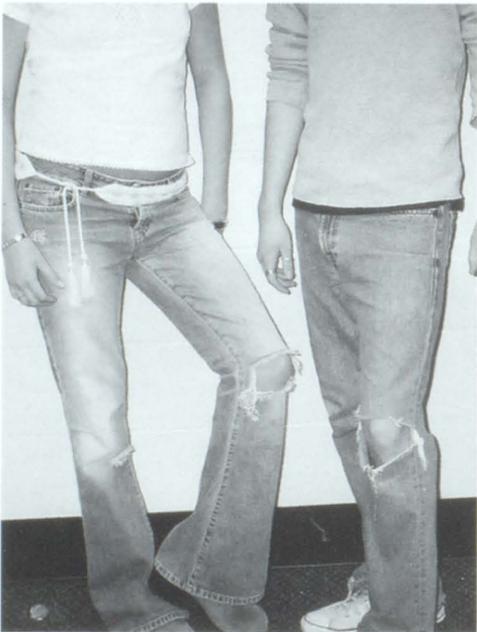

Reid Lacey poses as a mad scientist while in Chemistry II class. The goggles were a common sight around school, as the class does several different experiments.

Evan Baker looks at the yearbook while in Student Publications class. He is dressed for the homecoming games competitions held later on that day.

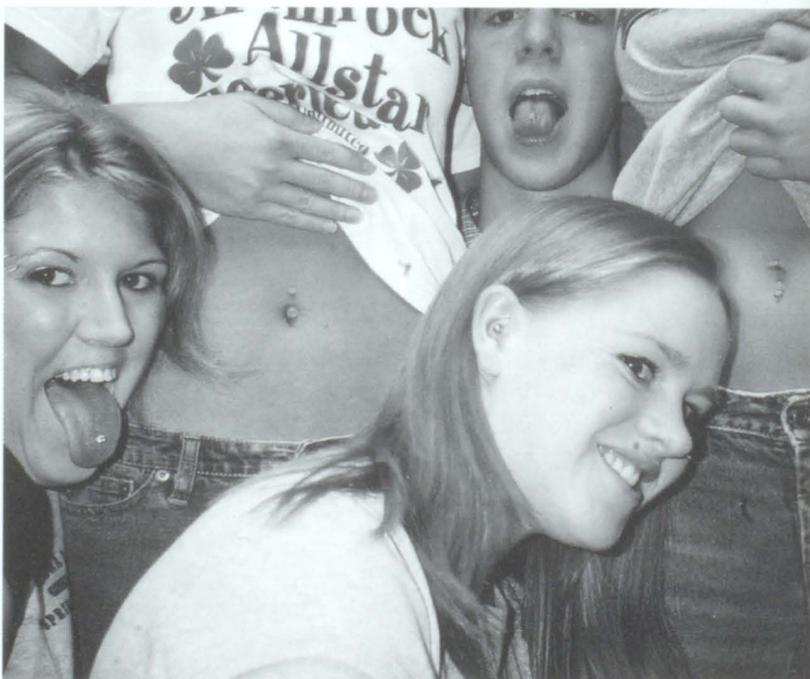

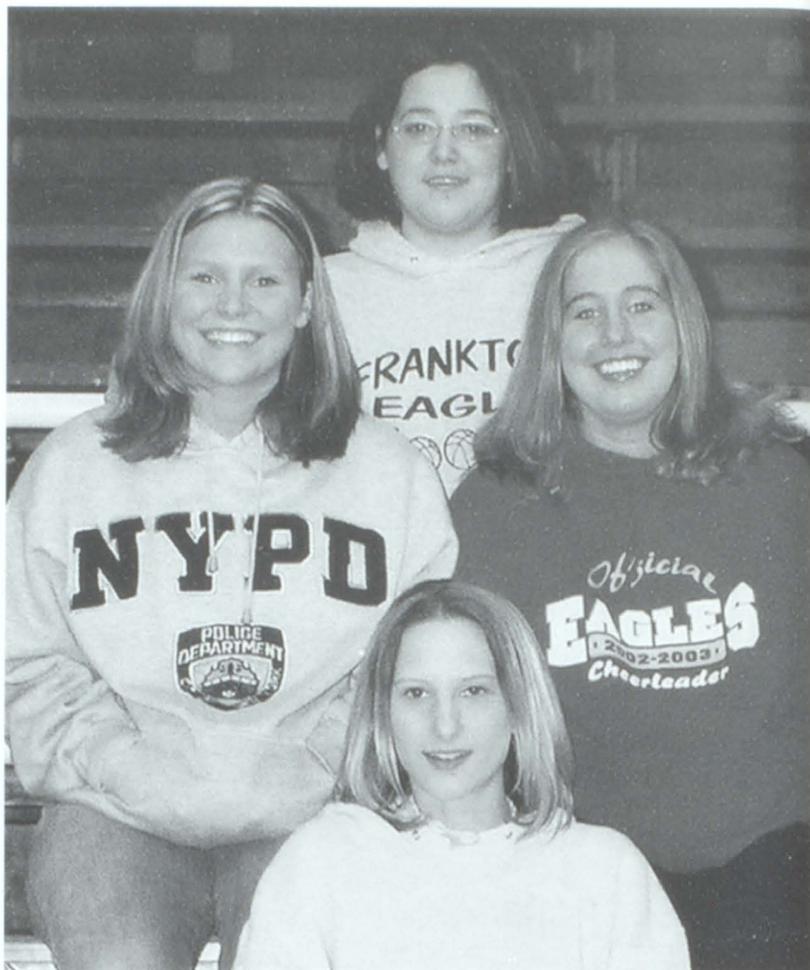

Wearing hooded sweatshirts, or "hoodies" to school was fresh daily. Representing each grade are: freshman, Shanna Seagraves, sophomore, Jessica Paugh, junior, Angel Couch, and senior, Tara Holt.

Ashley Curtis and Megan Guffey model a popular shirt for girls, sometimes called "peasant-style", and other times called "flowy-shirts."

Jeans, worn by someone in the school every day, could be seen ripped, distressed, or any other type of style.

Piercings galore! Shown here displaying their preferred place to pierce are Shelly Hosier, Ashley Smith, Shelby Morgan, Kevin McKeon, and Kasey Combs.

Wearing unique t-shirts, camouflage pants, ripped and faded jeans and khaki pants, Shane Linville, Jill Harrison, Denver Hall, Kayla Lacy, and James House show that anything goes as long as you are comfortable.

Frankton Fads

Fads are the fashions that students wear day-in-and-day-out. They are what students, feel most comfortable in, or how they feel their best. It can include such things as clothing, shoes, accessories, or hair styles.

Right when you enter our school, you can see the fads that people follow. For the girls, almost every style revolves around what jeans they are wearing. In this day and age there are so many different types of jeans, that you hardly see anyone wearing the same ones. Styles include: faded, ripped, dirty, stretchy, wide-legged, boot-cut, capri, light or dark colored, stitched, and many others.

On the top half, anything goes. Popular styles include peasant-style shirts, button down, "dress-up" shirts, and sweaters of any kind. Or go the complete opposite way by wearing hoodies, basic t-shirts, or Goodwill shirts.

The boys are similar in that they too wear pretty much whatever they like. Jeans are commonly seen as well as windbreaker pants and khaki's.

For their top half, guys wear a lot of button-down plaid shirts, hoodies, t-shirts, and polo shirts.

For both sexes, shoes are about the same. Tennis shoes, flip-flops, sandals, boots. For the girls, pointy toes are big.

Frankton students wear a little of everything that is comfortable.

Freshmen, Ashley Truesdale, Jami Cook, and Jenalee Ball cheer after winning the 5-legged race. Overall, the ninth grade ended up receiving fourth place.

Shelby Stinson, Amber Sides, and Amber Criner wait anxiously to see if the seniors can pull off a win during the Powder Puff game.

All Fun and Games

It was a beautiful sunny fall day for the annual homecoming games, and powder puff game Friday, October 11.

The student council had a change in plans, and held the homecoming games before the Powder Puff football game. This was so the entire school would be able to enjoy the flag football game. It also helped to increase the anticipation of the annual game between the junior and senior girls.

For the games competition, the seniors pulled out the overall win with juniors next followed by freshmen and sophomores in a tie. The traditional games, such as: tug-of-war, musical chairs, and the egg toss were popular as well as the rest of the games: 5-legged race, pie-eating, mummy wrap, and the blind-wheelbarrow race.

Overall, the games were highly competitive. The 8th grade won by only 10 points over the seventh grade.

Immediately following the games, the powder puff game was played. The competition was tough, and excellent defense from both sides prevented a high score.

Whitney Harrison, senior, finally broke away for a touchdown, and the juniors were forced to play catchup, but eventually time expired, and the senior girls earned bragging rights for the year.

Faster! Katey Betz urges Lindsey Blevins to walk faster. These two sophomores are representing their class in the blind-wheelbarrow-race.

Sophomore Chelsea Smith celebrates after successfully making it to the next round in musical chairs.

What did you enjoy the most about homecoming games?

Daniel Ward, 9 - "The powder puff game was the most fun to watch."

David Goble, 11 - "Just being with my friends."

Jackie Milam, Brittany Shively, Shelby Morgan, Heather Waymire, and Kylie Hudson pull their hardest in the tug-of-war game.

Austin Leisure shows his power over the "Indian" Andrew Lawrence. They both took part in the freshmen float.

What was your favorite after-school homecoming activity?

Allison Sipe, 10-
"I liked the parade, because I was on the sophomore float."

Juan Villamil, 12-
"I liked the football game the best."

Maggie Campbell, Chelsea Smith, David Embry, and Amy Huntsinger perch atop the sophomore float. The sophomores pulled out the win in the float competition.

Abigail Simpson, and Laura Furst show their dancing skills. They were a part of the senior float that depicted several different decades dancing around to live music. The theme was "Rock 'em and Roll 'em."

Mika Fountain, Brittney Kunce, Holly Hampton, and Megan Young smile and wave at the crowd while representing the junior class.

After-School Fun

After the homecoming festivities some may think that the students just went home and relaxed. At other schools maybe, but not here.

The homecoming parade was after school on Friday, October 11. Each grade was able to decorate and enter a float. The sophomores won the competition with the theme, "Roast the Indians." The freshmen followed with second place with a float of "Trash the Tribe," the seniors received third with "Rock 'em and Roll 'em," and the juniors placed last with a Hawaiian theme.

Several other clubs and sports also entered the parade. They also decorated trucks that boasted their accomplishments. Also in the parade were both the junior high and high school bands who provided the crowd with music.

Later on that night was the homecoming football game, which also doubled as senior night, and the ceremony for the naming of the football field.

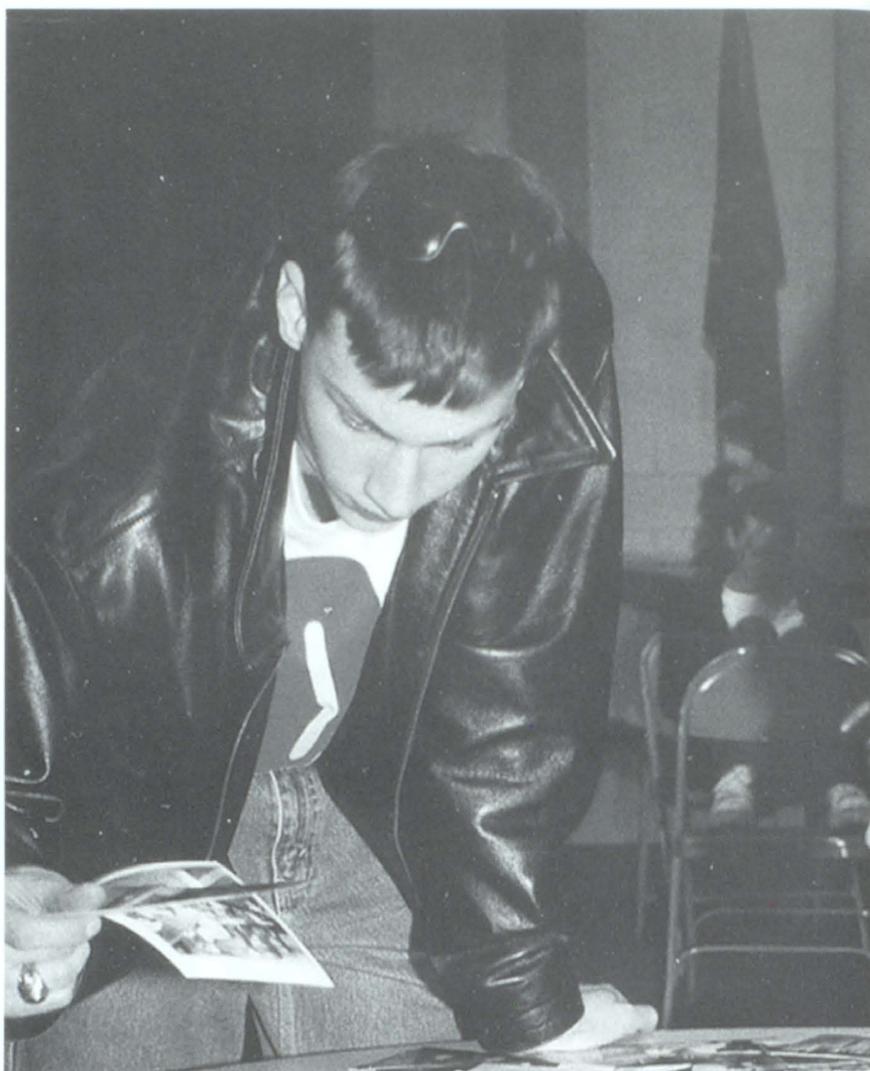

After having a nameless field for the past year, the administration named it "Otis Cress Field."

Coach Cress has been the head football coach for 18 years, and has put in hours upon hours of service toward the football program. Cress' football coaching record is 137-55, which doesn't include the many years that he was an assistant coach.

The honor was well-chosen, and well-deserved. Congratulations!

Chris Brown sifts through pictures on a table at the annual yearbook dance. Pictures from the previous year were sold for fifty cents.

Justin Moore and Cortney Reger hold each other tight as they enjoy the annual Coronation dance.

Dreamin' of Dancin'

Dancing is known to make people happy, so it is no wonder that attending dances is a favored school activity for students.

The first dance of the year was the annual Coronation dance. It is where the king and queen candidates for homecoming are crowned. The 2002 king and queen was Jazzmar Pearson and Whitney Harrison. The other candidates included: Tara Holt, Erin McLaughlin, Jacole

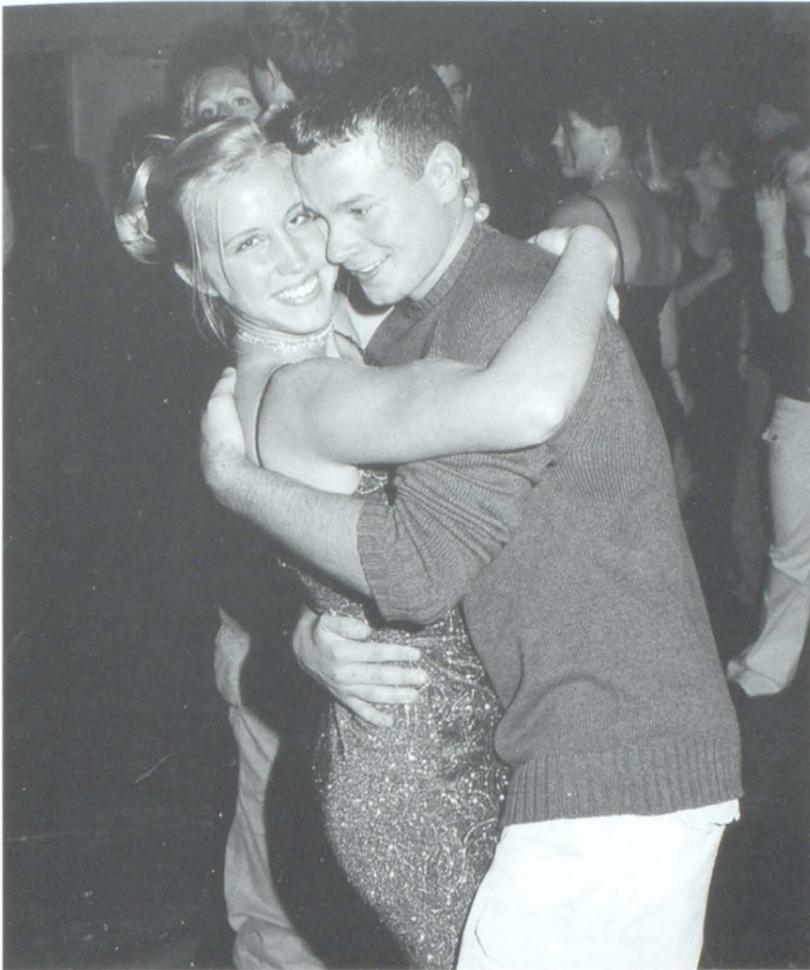

Mattingly, Emily Barr, Craig Betz, Kevin McKeon, Curtis Whitworth, and Juan Villamil.

The prince and princesses were: Sarah Kelich and Jake Hudson (9th), Katey Betz and Joel Beardsley (10th), Erica Funk and Drew Alexander (11th).

The dance was in the Eagles' Den, with the theme of "Dreamin' of You." It was sponsored by the Student Council and overall the dance was a big success.

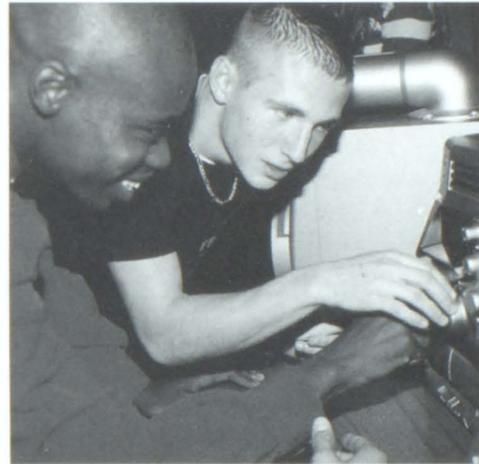

The student publications also held a yearbook dance. It was in the elementary cafeteria immediately following the homecoming game. During the dance, people were able to purchase the 2002 Eaglite, buy pictures, sign yearbooks, and of course dance!!

Both dances were a big success. And students at Frankton hope that as more come, that they will have just as much, if not more fun.

Awwww! Don't they look so cute together! Warren Blockson and Brooke Farley show the camera how much fun they are having at the Coronation dance.

Jazzmar Pearson and Daniel Norviel work on the stereo at the yearbook dance. They dj'd the dance, which was held for the first time in the elementary cafeteria.

What do you enjoy most about our dances?

Whitney Carr, 10-
"Being with my friends."

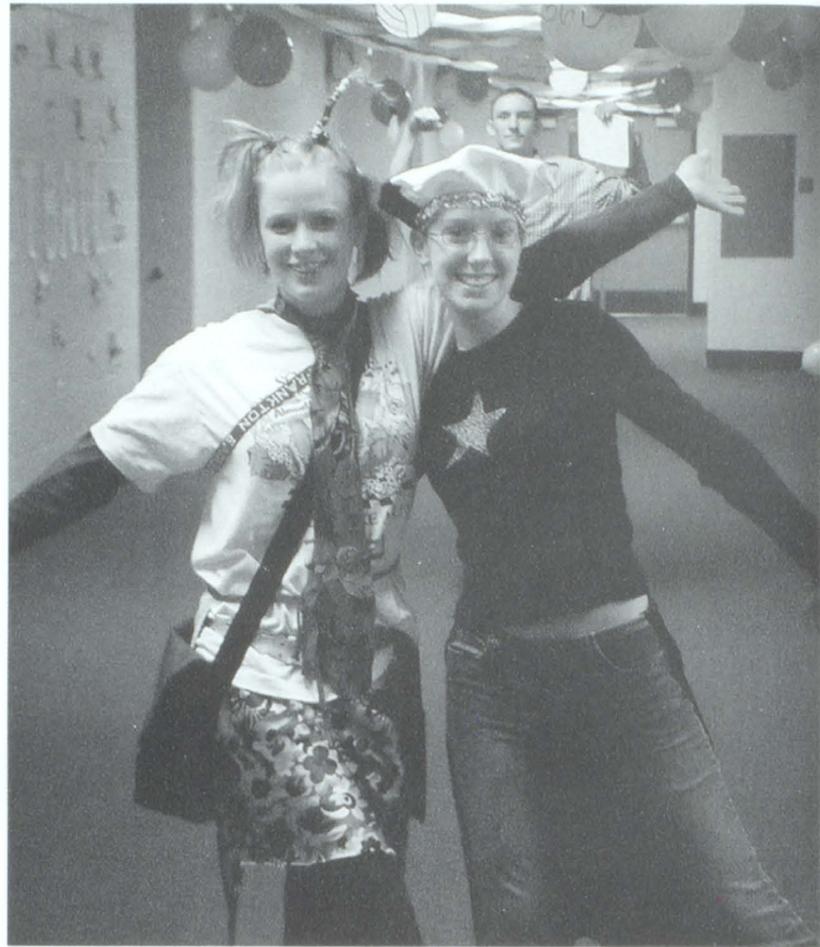

Erica Funk, 11-
"Chillin' with my girls! Doing the cat walk and grinding."

Prince and Princesses for the 2002 Homecoming dance: Freshmen: Jake Hudson and Sarah Kelich. Sophomores: Joel Beardsly and Katey Betz. Juniors: Drew Alexander and Erica Funk.

What is this, a new fad? No, actually it is just Abbi Simpson and Sydney Borum posing together on clash day.

Rachel Hobbs, Shelly Hosier, Megan Kissane, and Claire Jenness, all seniors, make senior cords at the Kissane household. Senior girls showed their Eagle spirit by wearing these to home football and basketball games.

How do you show your school spirit?

Reid Lacey, 12-
"Showing up to school and athletic events."

Nathan Mumbower, 10- "By wearing red and white and attending games."

Who are these masked men? Why Shane Linville, Evan Baker, Jordan Sipe, and Reid Lacey of course!

Showing her support for the football team is Jackie Milam, the woman behind the Eagle suit. Her job consisted of cheering with the cheerleaders and entertaining little kids.

This huge group of juniors show their school spirit as they pose together on clash day.

We've got Spirit!

Go Eagles!! This common chant could be heard at virtually every sporting event. With Frankton being such a small town, it wasn't uncommon to see a majority of the school attend games.

Students also showed their spirit in many other ways. They made signs, shirts, skirts, and pants that cheered on their respective classes.

Each class seemed to have a particular way to showcase their spirit felt. The seniors had tailgating parties before home football games. They also could be seen wearing 'senior cords'. These were skirts, pants, or jackets that showcased activities that the person had done, along with their friends, and other fellow seniors.

The juniors could be seen making shirts for every occasion. They made t-shirts for football and basketball seasons.

The sophomores and freshmen followed suit on the t-shirt trend. And even though each class made shirts, everyone's was different in some way, but with the same common theme- Go team!

But spirit wasn't limited to just clothing this year. The cheerleaders also made posters that decorated the halls. These posters honored students that were active, and also let outsiders that visited know that we are proud of our school, which is the real meaning of school spirit.

Goofing around in the hallway are friends: David Revolinski, Nathan Mumbower, Brett Sanders, and Joel Beardsly, all sophomores.

Christine Hoppes and Mindy McIntyre sit and look at the 2002 Eaglite while at the yearbook dance.

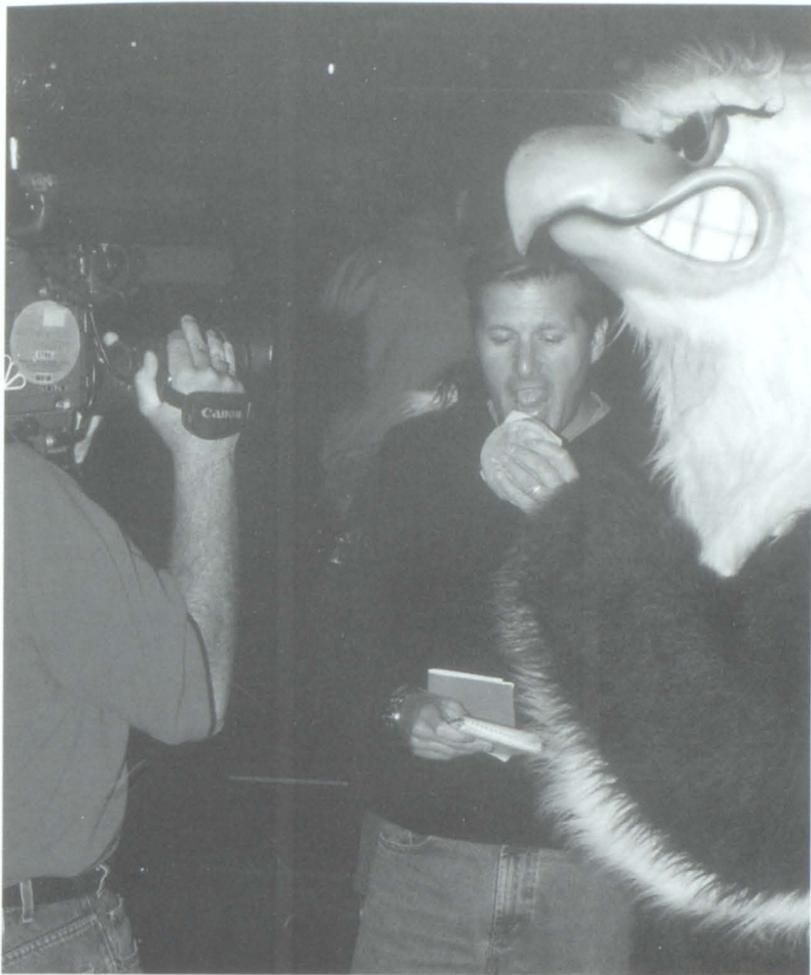

Forever Friends

Friendship can be comprehended in many different ways. Each individual has a different feeling of what friendship means to them. While in high school, friends are the people that help to make the day bearable. They are the people that students, can have something in common with.

At a small school, friendship crosses the age and gender line. Everyone are friends and it is not uncommon to see random groups hanging out together on the weekends.

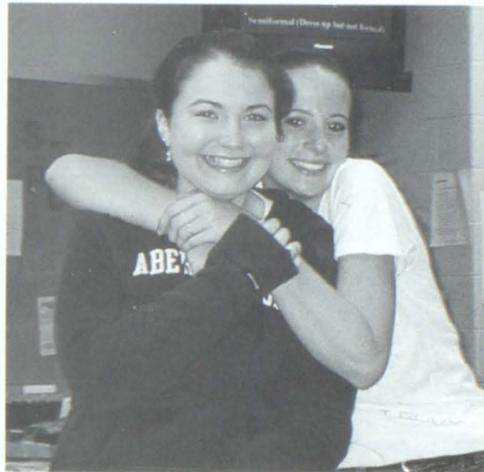

Perhaps this poem shows what friendship means:

I'd like to be the sort of friend that you have been to me;
 I'd like to mean as much to you each minute of the day.
 As you have meant, old friend of mine, to me along the way.
 I'd like to do the big things and the splendid things for you;
 To brush the gray from out your skies and leave them blue;
 I'd like to say the kindly things I so oft have heard, and feel that I could rouse your soul the way that mine you've stirred yet that were wishing you a need I hope will never be;
 I'd like to make you feel as rich as I, who travel on undaunted in the darkest hours with you to lean upon.
 I'm wishing at this time that I would but repay
 a portion of the gladness that you've strewn along my way;
 And could I have one wish, this only would be;
 I'd like to be the sort of friend that you have been to me."-anon

Dave Calabro and the Frankton Eagle appear to be friends. You only share a hamburger with friends don't you?

Can they get any closer?! Holly Hampton and Erica Funk hug and cheese it while goofing off in Student Publications.

What is your favorite memory with your friends?

Tearria Graves, 9-
"Our eighth grade trip to Washington D.C."

Joe McPhearson, 11-
"Going to the lakes with my friends on the weekends."

Kaylie Robertson, Laura Murray, Kelly Owens, Kim Owens, Ashley Dyar, Regina Reyes, Sarah Markley, Katie Jones, Amanda Murray, Carlie Smethers, and Amanda Ulery, all seniors pose for one last picture together.

Kasey Combs and Jacole Mattingly pose together in the hallway while proudly displaying their senior shirts.

Get down! Megan Church dances away at the yearbook dance sponsored by the Student Publications class.

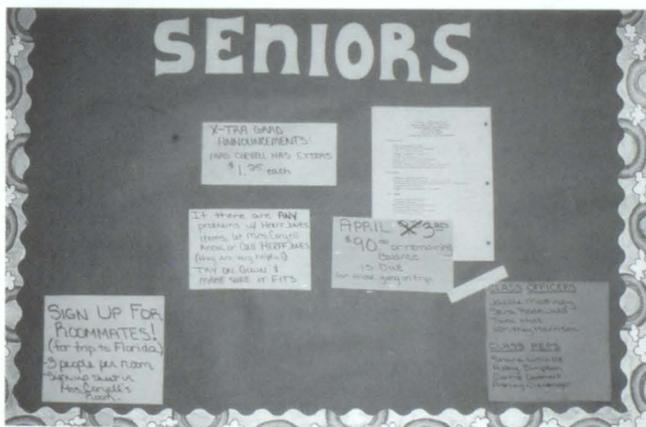

Jordan Sipe gives a speech at the annual Veteran's Day convocation. He spoke about some of the United States' involvement in past battles.

Look at these studs! Michael Reed, Michael Silvers, and Evan Baker pose in their tuxes that they wore to school in order to get a discount from Mr. Penguin tuxedo shop.

A scene that was common at home football games was students cheering. But even more prominent was the amount of seniors that came to cheer on their team to victory.

The senior bulletin board was in the senior hallway just outside Mrs. Coryell's, senior sponsor, room. It posted information that seniors needed to know, such as cap and gown pick-up, and information on the senior trip.

Oh! Those Funny Stories...

Megan Church-
"When I was in 7th grade some sophomore girls stole my gym clothes from my locker. They wrote obscene words on my shoes. They also hung my shoes from the pipes near the ceiling in the girls locker room."

Travis Wise-
"In 7th grade I was in the rest room and there wasn't any toilet paper in my stall. I got up to walk over to the next stall and Zach Frazier walked in and saw me while my pants were down."

Emily Hosier-
"When I was a freshmen I was walking into the school from the parking lot. I was with Amber Sides, she said something funny and I started laughing. When I was laughing I slipped and fell on the ice. All the seniors were just pulling up and they saw me."

Josh Polly-
"When I was in an 8th grade choir performance I had to wear a white shirt. The shirt had dust on the shoulder and it looked like pee. Everybody kept giving me a hard time."

S a m a n t h a Denman-
"When I was an underclassman I rode the bus to school. Everytime I would get on the bus Brandi Fritz would call my Ricky the Raccoon because I wore black eyeliner."

D u s t i n Etchison-
"I was really embarassed when my secret crush on Miss Hinshaw was revealed in the middle of class."

Sarah Markley-
"In 7th grade when I was featured on the Opinion page of the newspaper I was asked what I thought about Saddam Hussein. I didn't answer so the Opinion Editor made up a quote. When I received the newspaper my quote said 'I don't care I just want to go to Bauer's and get a pop.'"

Emily Barr-
"After I went to Cheerleading Nationals in Florida with Anderson Athletics, pictures from the competition were put on the internet. I was embarassed by all the comments that were made by the guys."

Ryan Kennedy-
"One time during my sophomore year I was walking through the senior hallway. I got de-pants and I wasn't wearing any underwear."

Laura Murray-
"My friends and I played Egyptian Rat Screw, a card game, during lunch this year. Evan Baker ended up spilling his milk everywhere. I started laughing and the whole lunch room was staring and clapping for my laugh."

J a c o l e Mattingly-
"I was embarrassed when I got caught with Kasey Combs in the boys' locker room. When we were in there Kasey was just showing me her piercings."

We Are Graduates

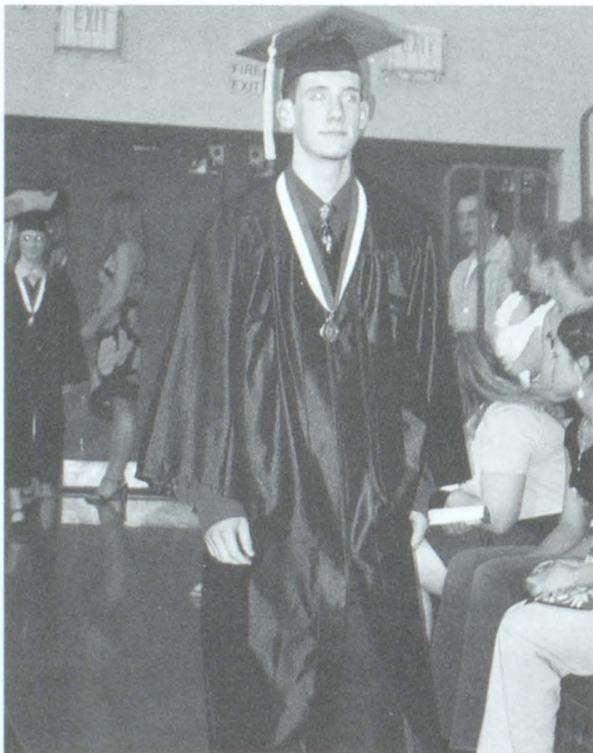

Graduation was an awesome occasion for all who attended. This year the attendance at the commencement ceremony was greater than the typical year because of the size of the Class of 2003. Everyone could be seen waving their programs on their faces because of the heat.

The ceremony is a very important part of all high school students' lives. They spend 13 years to reach this point in their lives. It all began with the pomp and circumstance as the class proceeded into the gymnasium for what would be the end of one era and the beginning of a new one.

Tara Holt, 4th ranked, gave the introduction to the ceremonies. Following that Sara Rodewald and Jacole Mattingly, President and Vice-president of the Class of 2003, respectively, gave a speech about the past and reflected upon what is to come. Then, class Salutatorian, Ashley Clevenger, gave a speech about not conforming to this world. After that, class Valedictorian, Corrie Goshert, gave a heart-felt speech about success. The choir shared a song and the diplomas were presented. Amanda Ulery, 3rd ranked, gave the closing remarks. Who knows what is to be for the Class of 2003?

The Class of 2003 has made it to the end. After all these years of hard work we are graduates.

Baccalaureate

A baccalaureate service has been held for the past three years for the graduating class. The purpose of it is for seniors to pray and to praise God and the part that their faith has played in their lives thus far. It is held outside the school, and a majority of the class usually ends up attending.

This year the service for the class was at St. Joseph's Church located in downtown Elwood. There were readings done by seniors such as Reid Lacey, Whitney Harrison, Jordan Sipe, Anthony Gardner, Josh Davis, Alexis Kelich, and many others. The audience also had chance to hear the choir sing, both in full, and also just the senior members by themselves.

Overall the service was very nice and well-put together. A large majority of the class attended and the church was packed with people that came to watch. Thanks to the many persons that had a part in making this a very respectable service.

Prom 2003- "City Love"

The 2003 Prom, "City Love", was Friday, May 3 at the Paramount Theater in Anderson. Many students began arriving at 8:30 p.m. and got their opportunity to feel like a star as they walked down the red carpeted runway, decorated by the senior parents.

The reception line included Mr. Bill Morton, Mrs. Kathy Small, Mr. John Scholl, and Mrs. Theresa Edwards. Refreshments were served by faculty members. Security was provided by officers from the Frankton Police Department.

After walking in students got to dance the night away surrounded by a New York atmosphere. The decorations consisted of a cityscape and light posts. Table favors were chocolate kisses and photo albums.

Once all the attendees were inside the Paramount the music began to play. Such favorites as the "Chicken Dance," the "Hokey Pokey," and the "Electric Slide" were played. RMDJ provided all the music for the night.

At 11 p.m. the lights came on to signal the beginning of the King and Queen crowning ceremony. The Queen candidates were: Audrey Guthrie, Holly

Hampton, Megan Hoffman, Jarren Mattingly, and LuJuana May. The King candidates were: Drew Alexander, Ryan McClintick, Nate McKeon, Joe McPhearson, and Nick Stohler.

Holly Hampton and Nick Stohler were crowned King and Queen by the reigning royalty, Corrie Goshert and Reid Lacey.

Holly and Nick then shared a dance to Edwin McCain's "I'll Be", and after a few moments into the song the rest of the prom court joined them.

Following that, several prom attendees enjoyed a few more dances and the prom ended at 12:00 a.m.

Amanda Steiner, Danielle Ward, Erica Funk, and prom queen Holly Hampton show how much fun they are having playing the games together.

Taking a break in the food area are Ashley Clevenger and date Phillip Best.

Stayin' Up All Night

Post prom 2003 was in the new Kardazke Wellness Center on the Anderson University campus.

There were many different activities that were available for the students to do. The highlight of most was the food though. The parents had every sort of food such as hot dogs, chips, cotton candy, and more to fill hungry students as they made their rounds around the building.

The main game attraction was the blowup obstacle course. Here students could race another person through such obstacles as hanging bars, tunnels, a wall, and a slide at the very end.

Another blowup game was a huge Twister board where a group of kids could compete against each other to see who was the either the most flexible or had the best balance, whichever it came down to.

The Tug 'n' Dunk game, which was a race to see who can get their velcro tabs into the goal first, while being attached to another person on the other side was also available. This game provided many laughs for the people watching, as the people playing the game couldn't see other while racing.

Along with the blowup games, there was basketball, badminton, volleyball, and putt-putt.

The last few games were for the very brave. One was the drunkgoggle glasses. While doing this, people risked making a fool out of themselves as they tried to walk a straight line and throw a ball. The last activity was swimming. Not many people dared to get in, but those that did said that they had a lot of fun.

Other than the games or food, students that went had to opportunity to "marry" their date, or to sing karaoke. Everyone that attended also received a free t-shirt which boasted the prom logo and the date.

All in all, the junior parents did a good job and created a memory for the students and their dates.

Drink up! Angel Couch and Joel Beardsly drink punch after getting "married" at the wedding chapel.

Savannah Weaver and her date from Elwood, Adam Moore cheese it for the camera while at post prom.

Bailee Engle and Jessica Benefiel take a break on the blow-up twister with Frankton graduate Joey Mahoney.

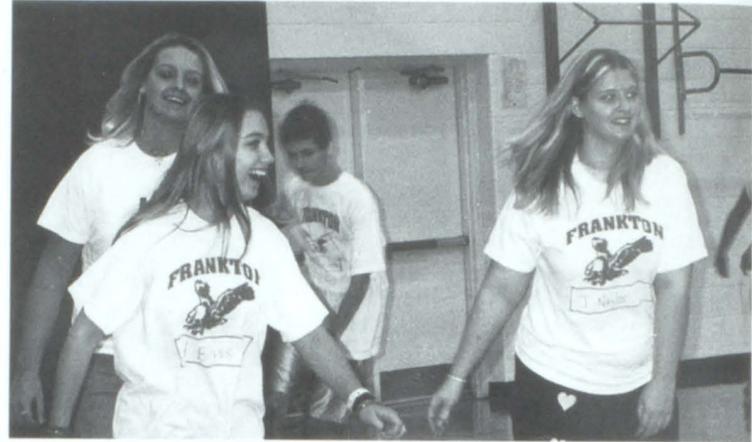

These senior girls sing their hearts out at the karaoke machine. Claire Jenness, Megan Kissane, Tara Holt, Jacole Mattingly, Ashley Smith, Whitney Harrison, and Sara Rodewald show how it really should be done.

We Are Active

Faster! Jami Cook, Heather Brass, and Jessica Naylor skate in their freshman gym class. Skating was one of the requirements that the freshmen had to complete in order to pass the class.

Kathryn Stiers, Amanda Steiner, Phillip Best, Anna Frazee, Nathaniel Stiers, and Patrick Bockover sit and talk while at the annual "see you at the pole" prayer event.

Shelby Borum and Taylor Young work on an experiment in Chemistry class.

Brandon Dollar types in his Computer Application class. Each student is required to learn various functions on both the keyboard and computer.

Craig Betz grimaces as he gets his blood drawn for the annual blood drive sponsored by the Health Club.

Zachary Whitesel and Holly Hampton concentrate on doing a skit while in Spanish class.

Ode to Mrs. Clark Devin Brown

You've taught us how to Paint and write
How to print and pack
Clay tight
To make fiber art with
A needle in hand
Make Paper Sculptures
Twelve inches stand
You help us to better
Our abilities
and encourage us to Fulfill our Dreams
For all the things you've taught us
About the arts
We thank you dearly with all of Our hearts

Hurtful Truth

Jessica Thompson

The way you looked at me in these pictures
Makes me wonder if I'm in a nightmare.
How do I take it, now that you are with her?
Am I supposed to just smile and not care?

I thought we were in love with each other
I think in your head it was all a fame.
But your actions affected another
And in reality, it's all a shame.

You didn't realize I was human too.
You didn't ever think about how I might feel.
But in the end, the pain proved to be true.
I wonder nightly if I'll ever heal.

The next time you decide to be this way.
Remember the word the poem has to say.

Trapped Heather Fix

Behind myself destruction,
I hide.
Behind false aspirations and plastic smiles,
A forlorn girl waits in captivity.
I scream for you-you do not hear me.
I bleed for you-you refuse to stitch my wounds.
Your words rip through me,
As would a thousand double edged knives,
And knowing that I no longer possess you
Leaves a vacancy of swords in my soul.
Perhaps I have calloused you to my love,
And for that I will forever be at odds with myself.
You have forsaken me...
Seas of discontent swallow me,
As I puncture myself with visions of you.
I am entrapped in brokenness,
With no knotholes in which to escape.

Ode to My Fork Scott Thorne

You help me through every day,
And are there whenever I need you.
You have a tenancy to stab your prey,
And scoop and cut them too.
I love the feel of your smooth curves.
I'm captivated by your luster.
You should be thanked for calming my nerves,
But a mumble is all I can muster.

Reading Material Scott Thorne

People are like unopened books,
Their pages new and crisp.
Each page tells part of a story
And are full of little twists.
You cannot tell by cover alone
Just what is deep inside,
And by skimming through the pages
Much to you is denied.
For you must read them thoroughly
If you really wish to learn
What makes each one different,
And what makes their heart burn.

The Varsity Volleyball team didn't do as well as the players had hoped. The team finished with a record of 3-23. Few bright spots were on the team, but Junior Audrey Guthrie was one of them. She took home three awards, CIC and County Honorable Mention and Most Valuable Player for the team.

The Lady Eagles were led by youth with many varsity players being juniors or sophomores. Most players will return next year to start again with high hopes.

The team was under new leadership this year, with Head Coach Cathy Huntsinger, Connie Hinshaw, and Debbie Betz at the helm. They hoped for much better results, and will look on to next year for improvement.

PLAYER SPOTLIGHT

Cortney Reger

Cortney led the team since she was a freshman, but is now only a sophomore. She finished 4th, county, 3rd at conference, and 6th at sectional which advanced her to Regional where she finished 42nd.

"We lost a few close matches, but other than that the season was okay."

-Doug Furnish, 12

Junior Nick Stohler waits for the serve against Blackford. Nick went 2-4 in the CIC standings and hopes to be returning to the team next year as a number 1 Doubles.

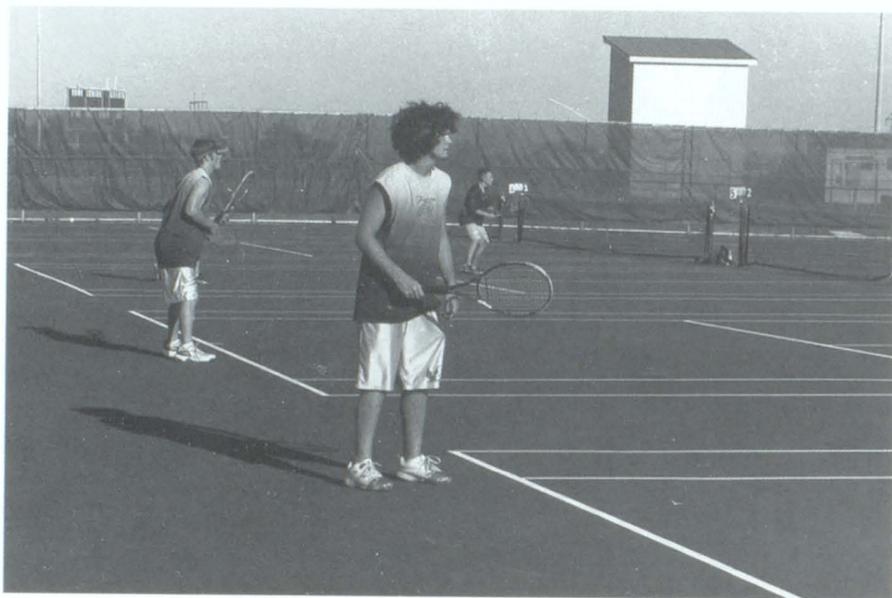

Brett Sanders carried the team for a second year in a row. Brett went 4-2 in the CIC standings and was 7-6 on the season. He was strong throughout the entire season including sectional when the team faced the Highland Scots. Brett was narrowly defeated by Highland's number 1 Singles player.

The boys tennis team improved a lot from last year, even though their record doesn't show it. Considering how young the team was and how inexperienced they were, they were still able to compete. Although the teams' record was only 3-11, they feel they traded losses for experience.

Age and experience were not hand in hand this year. The team was led by sophomore Brett Sanders. Doug Furnish and Nick Stohler helped lead the team playing #1 doubles. The teams' leadership roles were spread throughout the team, which means the team either won or lost as a team which is important.

Justin Shirley was coach and Holly Hampton and Maggi Campbell, girls team tennis players, were managers.

Senior Michael Songer serves his second serve in a meet against Knightstown. Frankton beat Knightstown with a commanding score of 5-0, winning every single match.

The girls Tennis team finished the season with a record of 4-9. The most satisfying win of the season was against Mississinewa. It was also nice to beat corporation-rival Lapel twice. The team was coached by Justin Shirley, in his 5th year of coaching at Frankton. The seniors on the team were Corrie Goshert, Megan Kissane, and Erin McLaughlin.

The team will have some experience to help them out next year with Mandy Mills, Tenley Rhodes, Jill Harrison, and Maggi Campbell returning.

With the 13 new teachers and staff who joined our family, Frankton definitely had a new vibe in the classrooms. Our new activities director was Jerry Hoss who came to us with several years of experience with teaching at Wes-Del for a year and 7 years at Cowan High school.

The MoMH class came to the high school which means 3 new persons to teach it, they included Ellen Harden--Teacher, and aides: Kathy McWilliams and Sandy Revolinski. They moved to the high school because their students needed to make the transition from elementary to high school. The music department added a new band teacher Christopher Rensing, and also a new choir teacher , Brad Scott came back this year. He was the replacement choir teacher here 3 years ago.

Ellen Harden and Sandy Revolinski

Bradley Buckingham was the new junior high mathematics teacher. New Social studies teacher was Connie Hinshaw. She graduated from Lapel High school in 1996, so this is a familiar area to her. Our new Physics and Science teacher was Matt Jung who brought new ideas to our school.

There were four new teachers in the English department. Teaching seventh and tenth grade English and speech was Rebecca DeShaney. She was a teacher at Caston Jr./Sr. High School before she joined us. Teaching English and French was Abigayle Hodges. Her home town is Indianapolis. Andre Lo, taught sophomore and seventh grade English. Last but not least is Mrs. Kathrine Ewers who was here last period of the day teaching composition, She was also the Junior class sponsor and Health Club sponsor.

Mrs. Coryell and Ms. Hodges pose for a picture while completing their duties as the "Poop Patrol" during the Donkey Basketball fundraiser.

Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Russell take time out of their busy pregnant lives to pose for twin day. Mrs. Miller was wearing an empathy belly.

Mr. Brad Buckingham, new Junior High Math teacher and Varsity Baseball coach, works hard on and off the field.

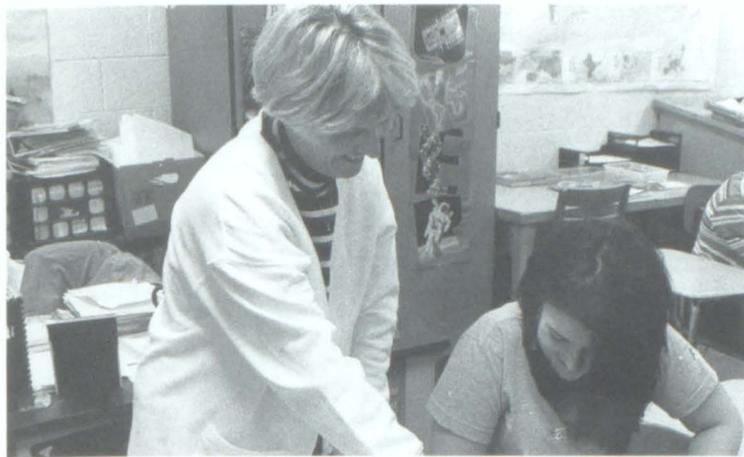

John Scholl shows some of his Homecoming school spirit by wearing a hat and red and white streamers.

New faculty member to Frankton, Mr. Jung uses tennis balls to explain to his Physics class the techniques on testing catapults for the Projectile Motion lab.

Principal Mr. Morton gets caught eating on the job.

Mrs. Caudill shows Kelsey Armstrong the correct way to find out how much we paid for the Louisiana Purchase back in 1803.

Mr. Vince Vitori works hard on who has been tardy for the day. Mr. Vitori left our school during the middle of the year to accept another administration job at a school in Pittsburg, PA.

Susie Isbell, Kathy Small Retire.

We lost two of our most needed faculty members to retirement: Mrs. Kathy Small, secretary and Susie Isbell, guidance director. Kathy Small has worked at Frankton for the past 18 years and some of the things that stand out in her mind were the Fire that completely destroyed her office and all the kids she has watched grow up right in front of her eyes. Mrs. Small plans to spend her retirement with her grandkids. She lives in Frankton, right in between them; two live in Muncie, and two live in Fishers. She also plans to do a bit of traveling. Mrs. Small will miss being with fellow Frankton faculty members and the students. "The students are wonderful and will always stay wonderful," said Small.

Mrs. Isbell has been here almost as long, she has been here for the past 16 years. Mrs. Isbell said the best experience is working with the kids. "They keep you young inside," said Isbell.

When asked who was the most memorable student she encountered during her career, she mentioned a student that graduated in the late '80's, who during her lunch duty climbed up to the top of the bleachers that overhang the walk-in area and fell off backwards onto the floor.

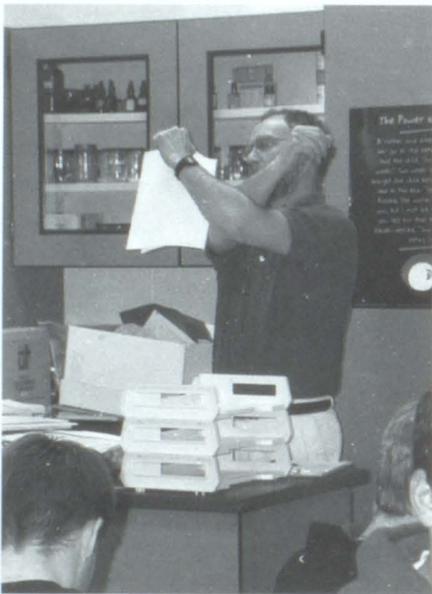

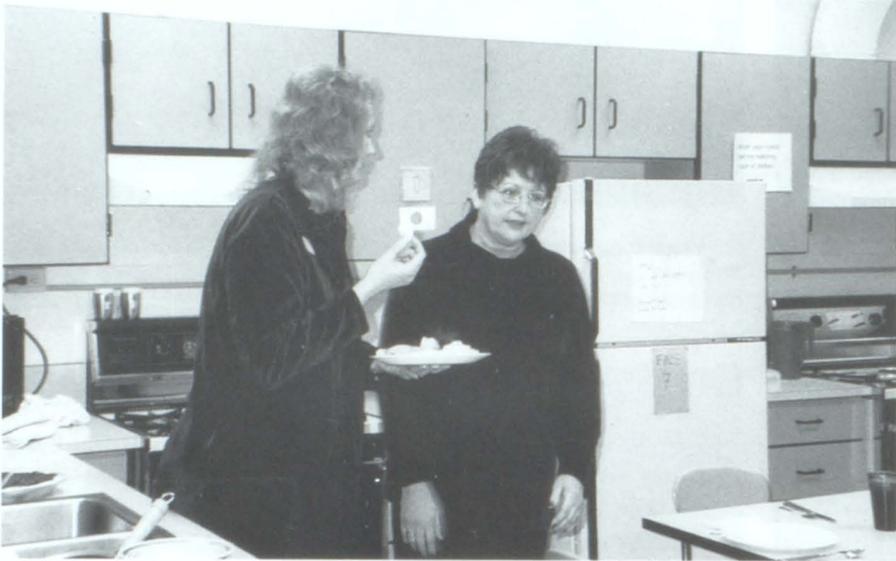

Mrs. Isbell will spend some of her retirement over in Europe and she hopes to finally end up in Florida. She is going to miss the kids "They just keep you going," said Isbell.

Carnival Daze

The second annual Carnival Daze was sponsored by the athletic department with proceeds going to various athletics or groups or clubs at Frankton. For the second year, it was at the sports complex located behind Frankton Elementary.

The carnival started on Thursday, May 15 and lasted through Sunday, May 18. Admission and parking was free to the public. The money that was to go toward athletics was from the rides and any food that people might possibly want.

Food that was available was a breakfast on Saturday featuring biscuits and gravy, sausage, potatoes, juice, milk, and coffee in the Elementary Cafeteria.

Dinner food offered was Dan's Fish Fry on Thursday and Friday nights. Here you could get all you can eat fish and tenderloin, chips, apple sauce, baked beans, a dessert of choice, and a drink. Saturday night, a chicken and noodle dinner was offered by the Frankton Girl's Softball league.

Of course there was also the typical carnival vendor food available to buy and eat, including funnel cakes, sausages, and lemon shake-ups.

Besides the food there were many other things to keep people occupied. The "midway" had many different types of rides.

Students could greet a teacher either by dunking them in the dunk tank, or buying a ticket to get a chance to throw a pie in their face.

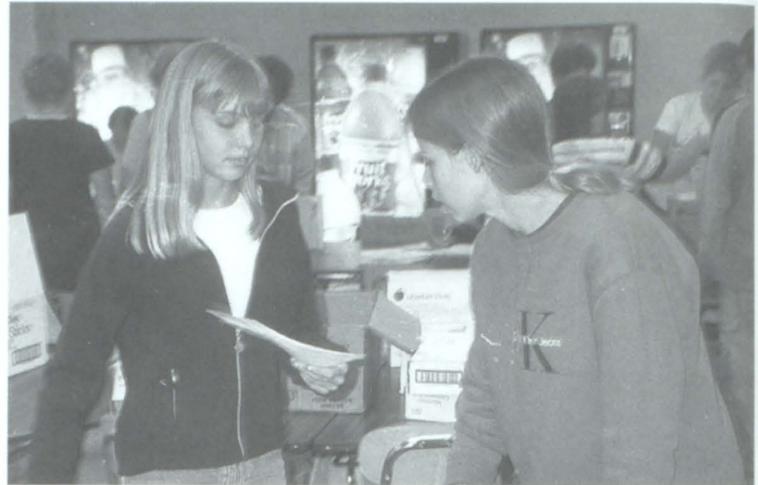

The annual Variety Show was Friday night in the FES cafeteria. There was also an Arts and Crafts Bazaar on Saturday. Thanks to all that helped make this carnival fund-raiser once again a success!

All Fun and Games

This year at the Homecoming Games, the junior high students were able to have just as much fun as the high school was. They joined in all of the games that were played and made the most out of not being able to compete in the others.

New this year was that the junior high students were able to watch the powder puff competition. They were not able to watch in the past. The students got to come out during their sixth period and stay until Flight. Then they too went to their rooms to receive an '02 Eaglite if they had purchased one.

During the games competition, the students competed in seven games, including the mummy wrap, five-legged race, egg-toss and pie eating contest among others.

The eighth grade pulled out a win over the seventh in a hard-fought, competitive battle. Each grade put forth their best effort to win bragging rights.

Each grade then cheered for their favorite while watching the powder puff competition. The students showed school spirit by their red and white clothing, painted shirts and faces and their general enthusiasm for the day.

The future is looking very bright for this school. For these students support their school wholeheartedly and have fun while doing it. It won't belong until they too will be on the field competing with the larger part of the school.

Friends Forever

Students in junior high experience so many new things. The changes that occur are both emotional and physical and can wreak havoc on a student's well-being. When this occurs, sometimes the only thing that can pull someone through this time are their friends.

In seventh grade, a student is forced to make the transition between elementary and junior high. They have to learn how to operate on a new schedule where they switch classes and are responsible for several different areas or subjects every day. They are also thrown together with many students they may not know.

The eighth grade is a little better, but just because they are comfortable in knowing how to get to places. They know the people in their class and are upperclassmen to the incoming seventh grade.

One notable difference is that when they are in eighth grade, they are in charge and have many activities and their freshmen year to be excited about, or dread depending on who you ask.

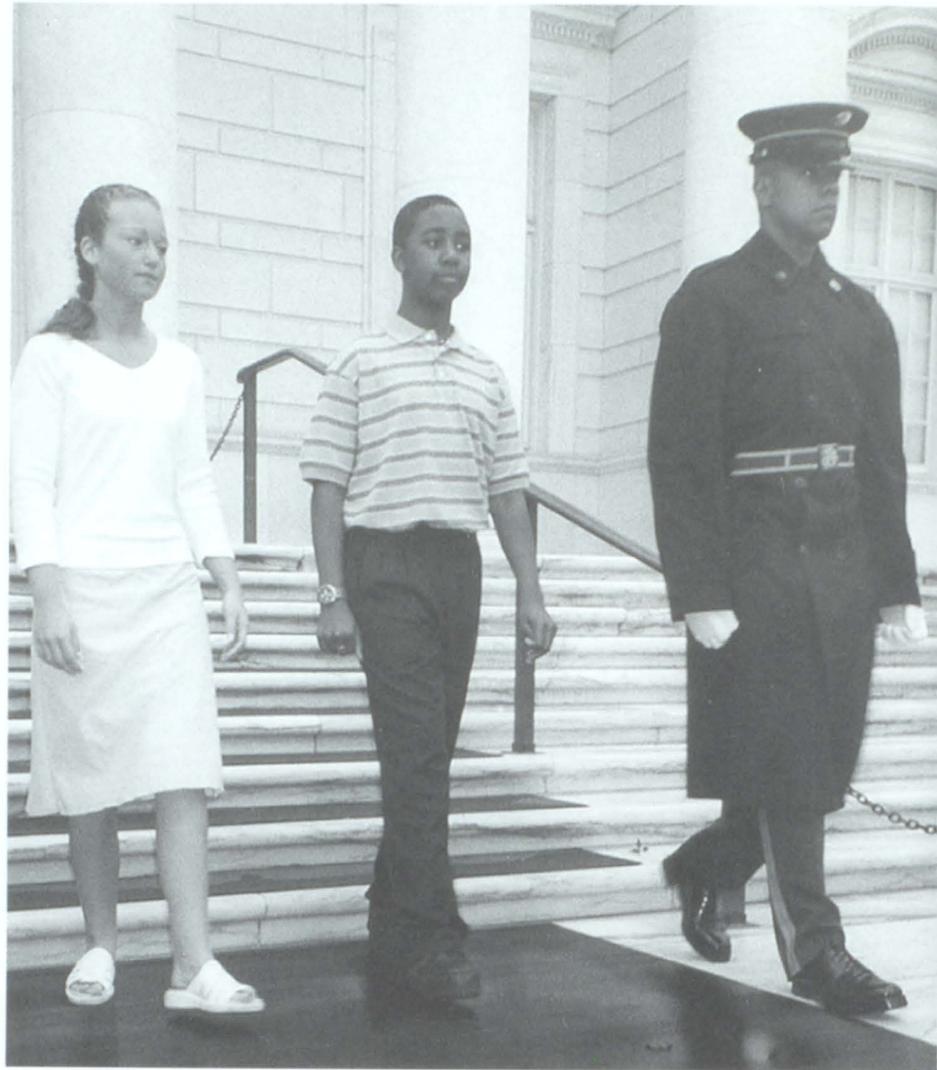

These two years can be hard, but they are also the base for the friendships that will come later on in their school life.

Friendships made in junior high can last forever, or they can change the minute high school starts, but they still bring memories that can be there every time that students reminisce.

Memories of friends short term or lifetime are what make all ups and downs of school worth the time and effort.

Washington D.C.

The class of 2007 continued on the tradition of going to Washington D.C. this year. They departed May 13 and returned on May 17. Sixty-eight students went on the trip, and were accompanied by twenty adult chaperones.

The group of students left on a charter bus and drove all the way to Baltimore, Maryland for a Stars and Stripes Tour, which was a new addition this year. Here the students and adults got to see such historical sights as where the famous poet Edgar Allen Poe is buried. They also got a chance to visit Fort

McHenry, which is where Francis Scott Key wrote the "Star Spangled Banner."

After Maryland, they left for Washington D.C. to go to the National 4-H Center where they stayed. Here students stayed three to a room and had a chance to mingle in the downstairs game room, or they could choose to stay in their respective rooms and watch TV.

Over the course of the next two days, students visited such traditional sights as the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial, the Vietnam Memorial and many other sights.

A highlight for many students, especially Jesse Beaver and Walter Stamp was Arlington Cemetery where they got to place a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. She says about the experience, "I was really excited when I found out that I would get to do it. It's really an honor."

Representing faculty and staff on the trip were Sandy Miller, Greg Ritz, Kris Harney and Theresa Edwards.

Both the students and adults that attended had a great time and the trip was highly successful and educational once again, and made many students more aware of our nation's history.

"There were a lot of kids on the team who had never played before, but they improved during the course of the season," said Coach Hendricks.

Next year, Hendricks plans on returning to coach the team again.

"Considering this is a sport that isn't offered in elementary school, the seventh graders improved as the season progressed," said Assistant Coach Angel Couch.

We Are Done!

Wow! Another year of year-booking is finally finished! This was my second year of being the Editor-in-Chief, and I can certainly say that it was a lot easier. I knew my way around and knew how important it was to push my staff toward their deadlines. Of course, there was still the usual last minute scurry to get deadlines done, but for the most part everyone did their job and finished things when they needed to be sent in to the plant.

First of all I would like to thank all of my editors. Each and every one of them put forth their best effort, and at least attempted to look busy every day in class. This was a great year for me to have people in control of their sections that really cared about what they were doing, and put in the extra effort to come in to finish it. Zach, Holly, Evan, Heather, Aaron, and someone who wasn't even in our class or an editor, Megan Hoffman came in during the summer to get their pages done, as well as other people's pages that weren't finished at the end of the school year. I know it was hard to wake up every morning, but you all came through when I needed your help! Thanks a lot summer crew for your hard work and diligence!

I want to say thank-you to Mr. Sipe also, who once again had to put up with me for an entire year. Thanks for always doing your best to guide students, but letting them figure things out for themselves. I think this is why I learned so much in the class. Thank-you to our yearbook advisor from Herff Jones, Lynn Pickett. I really appreciate all of her help that she gave me as well as the help as she gave the rest of the Student Publications staff. She was always there to help with the little details that are so important in the book. Thank-you!

Thank-you also to everyone that had some part in the making of the 2003 Eaglite. We (the staff) often had to call upon outside forces in order to complete pages, so thanks to all that put up with us with a smile on their faces. We know that we were probably annoying, with us always wanting to know people's names in photos, sports scores, and quotes, but thanks for not getting too frustrated with our pestering! I want to especially thank all those who bought advertisements, and made the commitment to support us. This year we sold an amazing amount of over $4,000 worth of ads! Without all of you this book would never have been possible.

Thank-you to my friends and family members who gave me ideas, encouragement, and lent an ear to listen to my complaints. I can complain a lot, so I hope that your ears are okay! I love you all, and I hope that you appreciate the finished product and the time that went into it.

Okay, so now to wrap this up. I wanted this book to be a lasting memory, especially for my class who will be moving on. The staff and I have lived and breathed this book for a year, and we all hope that everyone likes it. Thanks to all who at least have given us a chance, and I hope that everyone that picks up the book is able to see that This is Who we Are.
