INVOLVEMENT

To look up and not down,

To look forward and not back,

To look out and not in,

To lend a hand.

Preparing to lead a yell, the Freshmen cheerleaders await the signal to begin.

Mr. Max Leisure displays school spirit by "burying the giants."

(above) "It's black," yells Mr. Holloway as he puts all of his energy towards backing the Argylls. (right) Mr. Ford and Miss Cornelious peer into the box of tourney surprises at an all-school pep session. (below) Senior basketball players were honored by the presence of their names on the hoops which were designed for each of the home games.

School spirit involves being a good sport

Decorating and designing hoops, being Super Argyll, waving the spirit stick, or pretending to be Tarzan in a skit are just some of the ways one type of school spirit is displayed at M-G.

Having school spirit also means that one has to be a good sport whether the team is winning or losing and one has to support the team whether it is having a good or a bad season.

School spirit is not just for basketball. This feeling of hope and good will must prevail over all of the school activities. If this spirit is evident at all times, the participants are urged to do their best in everything they undertake.

Students are not the only ones who have school spirit. The administration, the faculty, and the parents also show their support by putting on skits, participating in pep sessions, and following all the school activities.

Brenda Sears received the DAR Good Citizenship Award. (below) FFA Sweetheart Rhonda Carter, President Phil Rich and Treasurer Jon Adams plan next meeting.

M-G students honored

Seventeen seniors were awarded scholarship plaques at a Scholarship Banquet held in May of 1972. Each honored senior had maintained a grade point average of 3.25 for five semesters.

Four Boys' State delegates and two Girls' State delegates from M-G spent a week last summer at Indiana State University and Indiana University respectively. They learned and practiced different aspects of political government.

The DAR Good Citizenship award recipient was chosen for her outstanding traits of dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism. The Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow Award was presented to the senior scoring highest on a written examination relating to different phases of homemaking. Members of the FFA chapter at M-G selected the FFA Sweetheart.

Scholarship plaque recipients for 1972 were Jane Peacock, Steve Young, Susan Heater, Dave Carey, Sherie Davis, Bill Lewis, Steve Wyatt, Chris Bohlander, Chris Love, Brenda Sears, Mark Jarrett, and Peg Meyer.

All classes are represented as the queen candidates, class attendents, and escorts wait for the crowing of the 1972 Homecoming Queen.

Debbie Reynolds and Curt Yeater display a facade of calmness during the Homecoming festivities.

Unaware that she will be named Queen, Michelle Small calmly stands with her escort Steve Young.

James Peacock and Larry Kurtz show no signs of nervousness as they await the momentous decision.

Activities boost enthusiasm

Having a Clash 'Em Day, a Sock 'Em Day, and a Boot 'Em Day were some of the devices used to show school spirit during the week-long Homecoming activities. Not only were class meeting held and the class attendents and queen candidates chosen, but each class had many diligent members working on hall decorations.

On Thursday, a pep session was held at the school. Then to end the activities the winner of the hall decoration competition was named and all the students were urged to wear black and gold to show support for the team.

The Seniors won the hall decoration contest and they chose Michelle Small as The Homecoming Queen of 1972. Michelle was elated as she was crowned during the halftime activities of the Madison-Grant vs. Maconaquah game.

Sophomores Kim Carpenter and Kurt Köhlmorgen, Juniors Becky Leckron and Doug Williams, and Freshmen Teri Fox and Scott Chesney observe Michelle's reaction at being named Queen.

Michelle Small smiles in wonderment as she is crowned the 1972 Homecoming Queen

FHA sponsors "Holly Ball"

Decorated with holly and Christmas trees, the M-G cafeteria was the scene of the 1972 FHA Holly Ball. Carolyn Davis was chosen queen of the ball by FHA members, and her court included Trudy Hollingsworth and Virginia Chapman. Mrs. Dennis Clevenger served as mistress of ceremonies, and music was provided by the Jim Longest Quintet.

Individualism is self-expression

Expressing one's own thoughts creatively and not following the crowd distinguishes a truly unique individual from the majority who follow the crowd just so they will not be "different." An individual does not change his ideas just because the majority is changing its ideas. The individual establishes his own beautiful and separate identity; no matter what others think.

Martha Carder expresses her individualistic emotions and ideas through her artistic ability.

1973 Grant County Tourney Champs

Madison-Grant captures three tourney crowns

Three Madison-Grant athletic teams captured tourney titles this year. The varsity basketball squad beat Southwood and Northfield in the opening games of the Grant County Tourney to qualify for the final game opposing Mississinewa. The Argylls won the tourney title and trophy for the first time in M-G history with the score of 75-53.

The reserve basketball squad also won their first tourney title by defeating Eastbrook and Oak Hill.

The M-G wrestlers were victorious in the Grant County Wrestling Tourney. They defeated Eastbrook, Mississinewa, and Oak Hill to win the tourney crown.

Language Arts Department reflects variety

Keeping up with the Language Arts Department takes tremendous skill and agility. Studying the habits of the Sioux Indians, indepth grammar studies, and running "beats" for the newspaper reflect the variety in each class.

The Freshmen Core Program holds political convention, an Olympiad, and 500 Mile Race Month in May. Freshmen and sophomores study grammar in detail and learn facts that correlate with the movies sponsored by the English Department. In addition, sophomores take on the challenge of writing and illustrating a children's story. Juniors concentrated on American authors such as Mark Twain by reading Huckleberry Finn. Senior English students study units on social and business letter writing, job applications and interviews and hear several interesting guest speakers. College Prep students became aware of the English language through indepth studies in grammar and composition and writing a term paper.

Journalism classes learn about yearbook and newspaper in a detailed study. By incorporating characters and themes from their reading, World and English Literature students learn that a great deal of time and effort is needed for writing a soap opera.

French and Spanish students develop their vocabulary

To obtain ease while speaking French or Spanish, students are given a variety of ways to learn the vocabulary.

Spanish students play many games such as Fútbol, Bingo, Hangman, Béisbol, and Scrabble. They also sing songs and perform skits. Fridays are cultural days when they learn about the customs of different Spanish-speaking countries through reports and by reading the Spanish magazines "Adelante" and "Chispa."

French students also participate in games and songs. They perform skits that are video-taped and played back to the other French classes for their enjoyment and comprehension. Fridays are "no English" days; if a student speaks in English, he has to pay a penny for every English word he has spoken. The money is saved for a party at the end of the year. Many aspects of daily French life are learned through communicating with French pen pals.

Using an overhead projector as a visual aid for her French students, Mrs. Overman explains verb tenses.

*Communication techniques vary in style
with course*

Working primarily with demonstration speaking, students in Speech 9 classes find themselves busy learning to prepare and deliver speeches with confidence. They also find themselves involved with listening tests and using the game of charades as a learning tool.

Advanced speech students become involved in a deeper study of speech through research in persuasion and rhetorical speaking.

Spelling bees, class work on theme correlation, elections, and the olympics were among the subjects which occupied the Communication Skills students.

Students in Radio and TV classes find themselves engulfed in the study of broadcasting and communication media, being introduced to all aspects of production and programming in the broadcasting field.

Staff members share in responsibilities

The members of the yearbook and newspaper staff discover that being on staff presents a much more difficult task than ever imagined.

At first these staff members found that they had an overwhelming amount of time on their hands. This, however, did not last long, when deadlines became a reality.

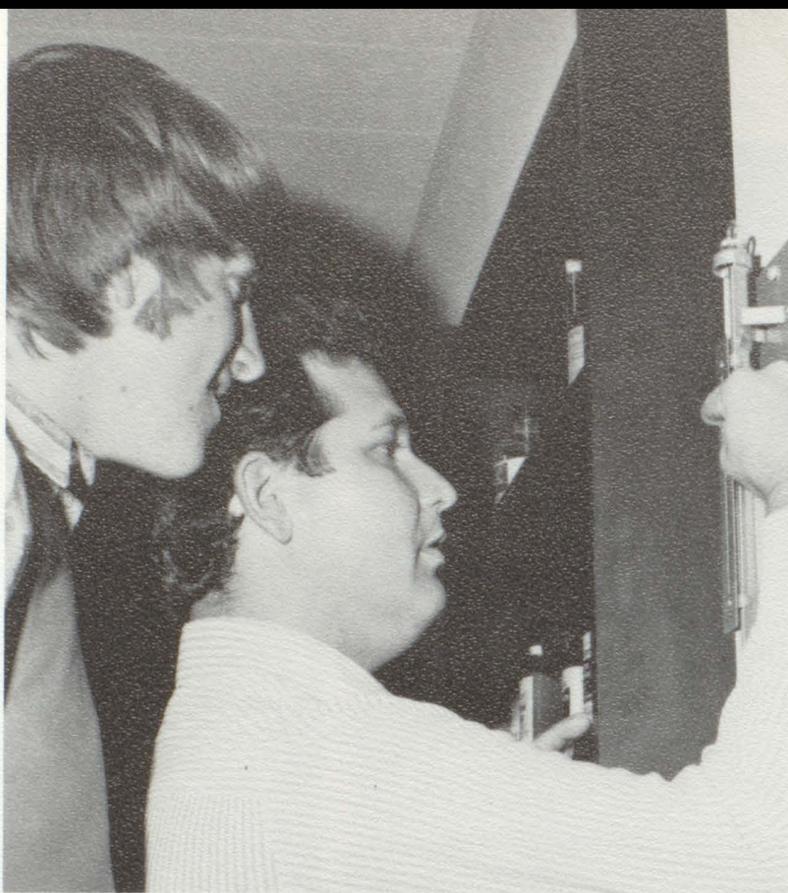

Long hours are spent working diligently on the yearbook and newspaper during classes as well as after school and on weekends to meet these deadlines.

This gives staff members an opportunity to work with one another and share in the responsibilities placed upon them.

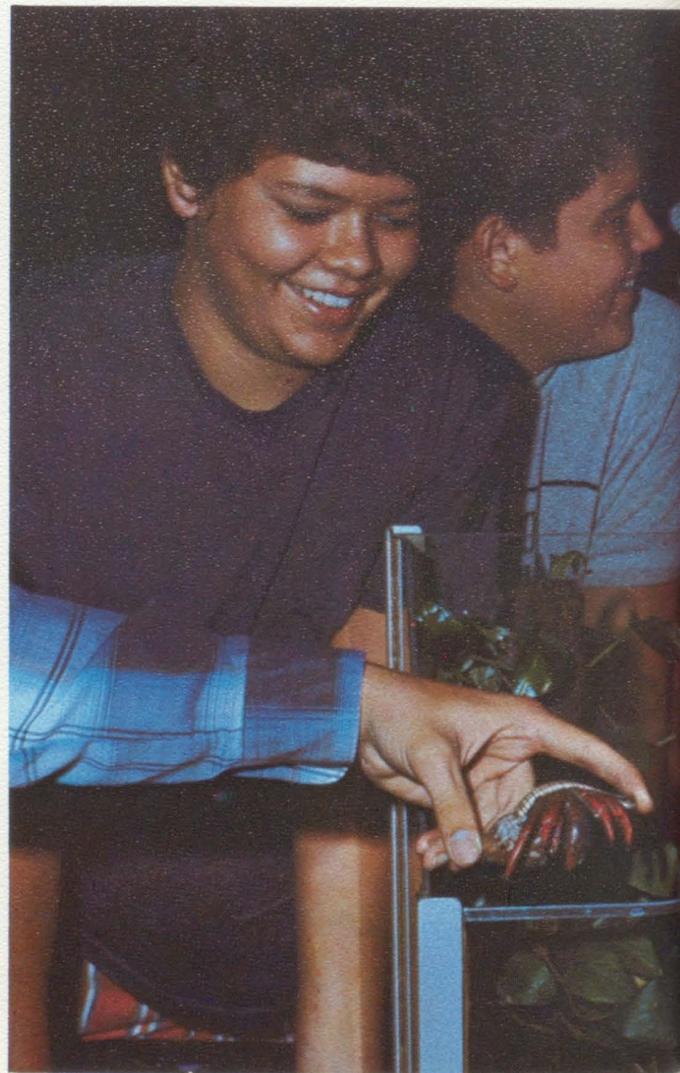

Each staff member puts forth his best effort in order to present Madison-Grant with the most worthwhile newspaper and yearbook.

Challenges are introduced to Science students

Science students encounter numerous interesting and complicated challenges. These challenges include solving problems through experimentation and calculation.  $1 \text{ mole} = 6.02 \times 10^{23} \text{g}$  is only one of many formulas and equations that confront students in their experiments.

Dissecting frogs, studying the changes that matter undergoes, delving into the process of scientific investigation, finding the forces inserted into a block of wood, and studying the thermal expansion of gases, liquids, and solids, distinguish the Science Department from other fields of study.

Math courses teach basics and reasoning

Designed to challenge the mind in reasoning and problem solving, Madison-Grant's math courses are of a wide variety. In General and Basic Math classes, fundamental math principles are learned. This year for the first time some of the Freshman math students are involved in the core program—a program set up to stimulate interest and increase the desire to remain in school. Senior Math students study consumer math, working with such things as interest rates and insurance premiums.

Geometry students learn to think deductively and to reason for themselves, while those in algebra learn techniques of solving linear and quadratic equations.

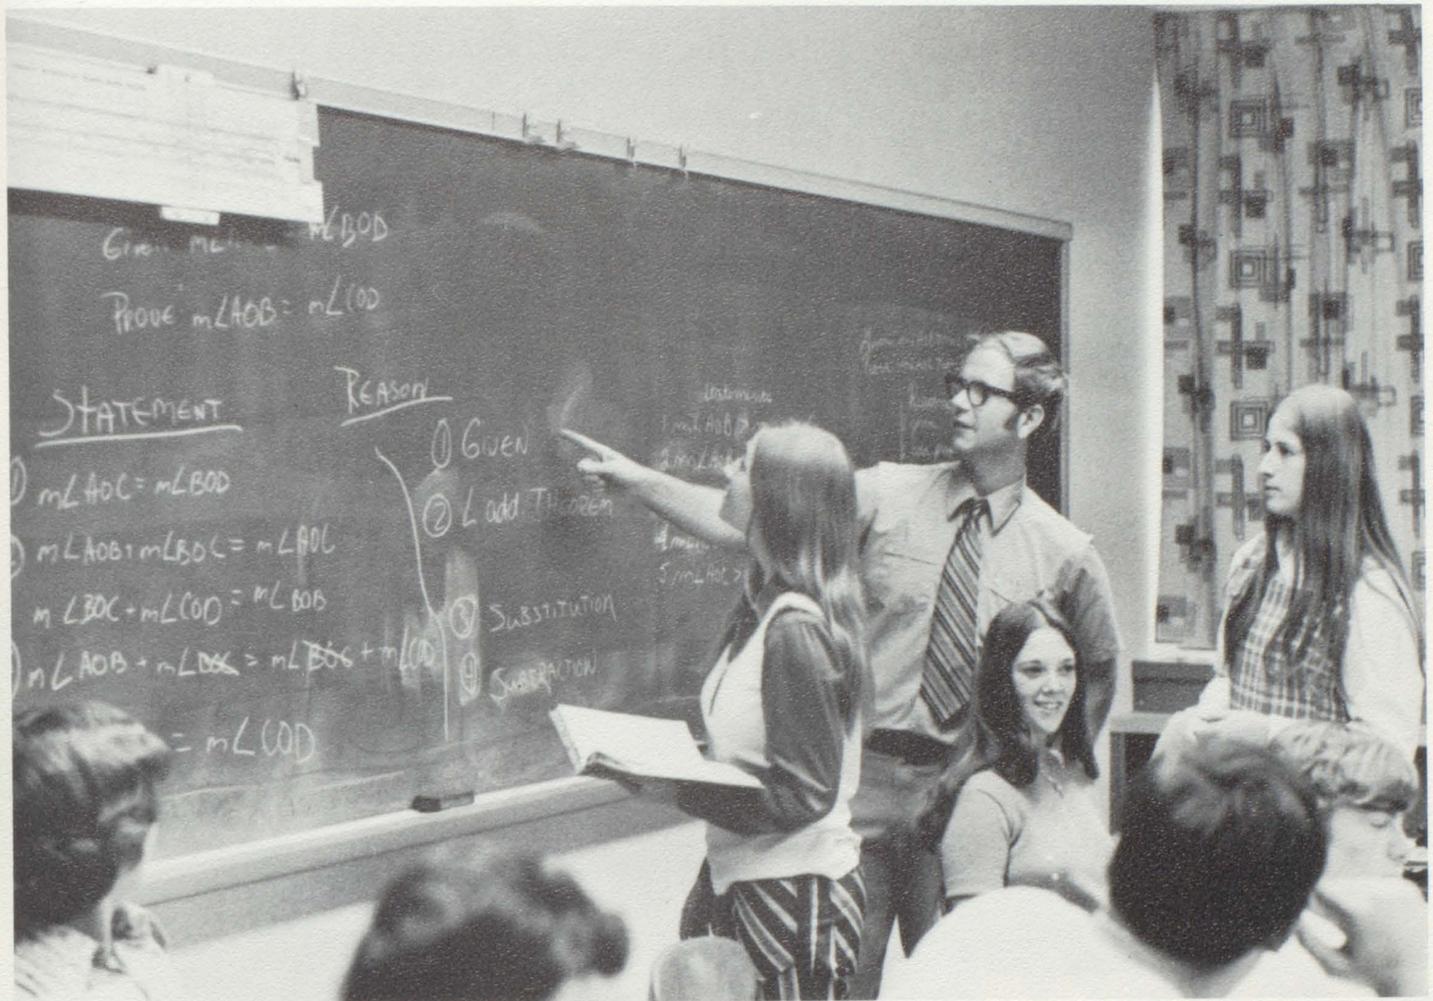

Advanced math courses offered are Analytical Geometry and Trigonometry. Also new this year is an independent study program set up for those wishing to take Algebra III. These students work individually at their own rate of speed.

As Mark Jarrett concentrates on his Trig., Susan Heater and David Carey discuss a tricky problem and try to find its solution.

Mr. Palmer explains the steps essential in solving a theorem for geometry.

Displaying many expressions, U.S. History students show an assortment of mixed emotions as they hear a lecture.

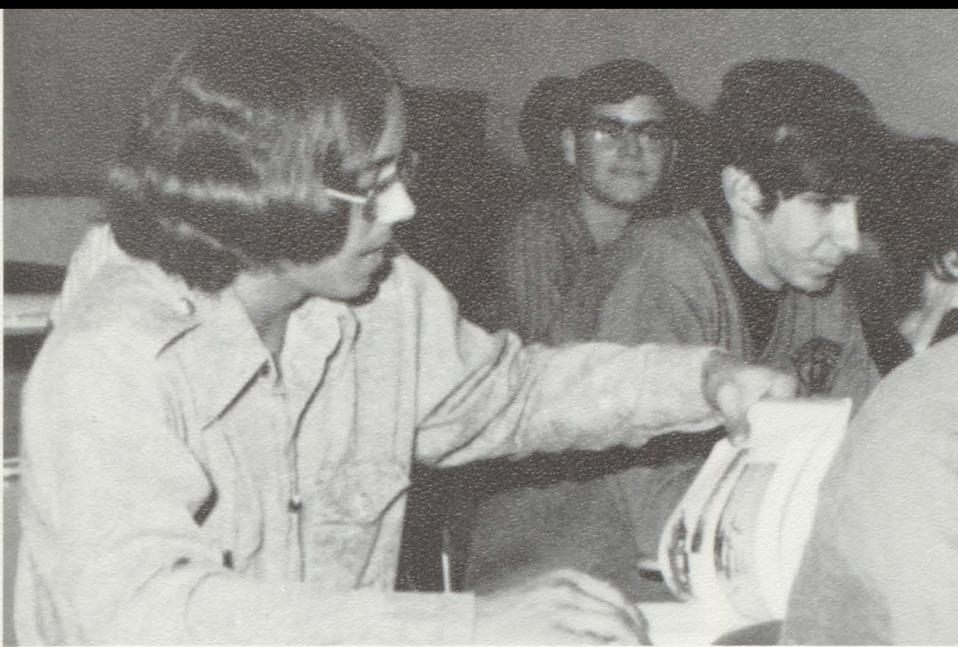

Mrs. Bennett reviews her classes with pleasure.

Elections highlight Social Studies Department

The Social Studies Department deals seriously with the presidential election and presents it in interesting ways.

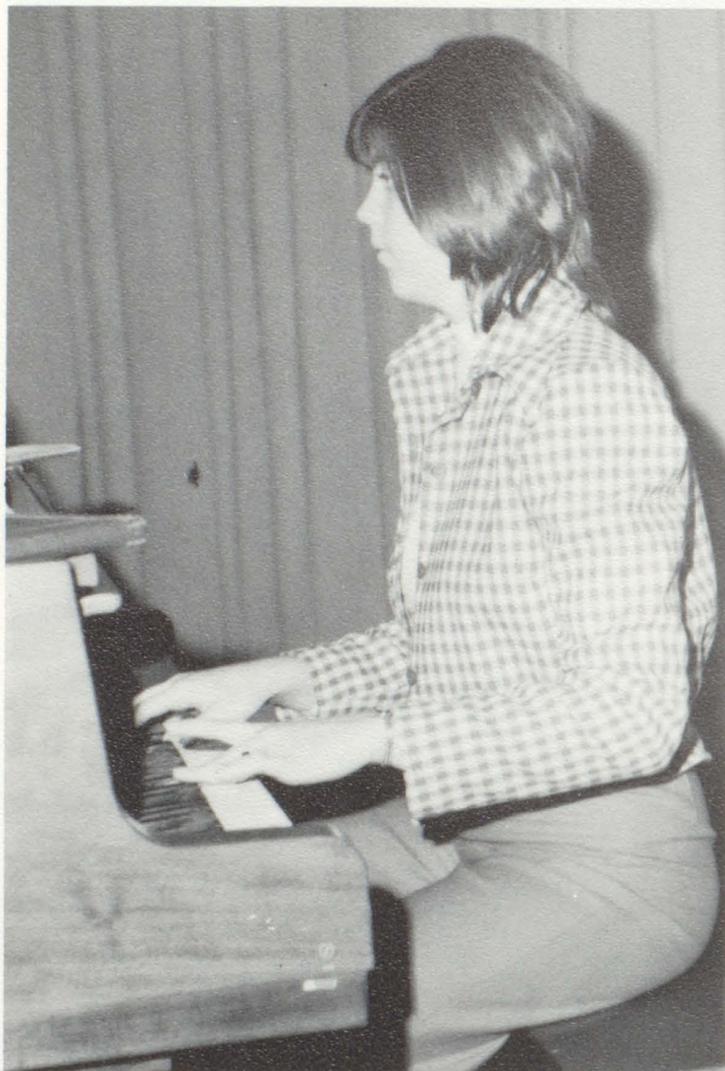

Mrs. Bennett's World History classes began with a pre-election study of the democratic process and concentrates on the election as election time drew near.

Mr. Bennett's U.S. History classes studied the election process by holding mock primaries, conventions, campaigns complete with press and TV coverage, the election itself, and a session of the electoral college. Each class has a candidate in the race, and all the classes combine for the final election.

Mr. Stone's Government classes prepare seniors to participate wisely in the election.

U.S. History students use the blackboard to discuss war hawks and war doves during their study of the American Revolution.

Music classes display spirit

"Du ba du ba du du du doot . . ." is just one of the many choral selections that you may hear being sung as you walk down the music hallway at M-G. Under the direction of Mrs. Bethany Walton, the chorus is divided into four classes: Freshman Choir, Girls' Choir, Male Choir, and Concert Choir. The choirs performed their first combined concert on October 26th.

The Concert and Symphonic Bands, directed by Mr. Donald Lamb, combine to form the Marching Band which performs at the State Fair and football games, among other places. The Pep Band plays for basketball games, while the Jazz Ensemble perfects the songs for their concert. Mr. Lamb seeks musicianship, spirit, and self-discipline in his band students.

Music Appreciation students learn to compose electronic music, and contemporary and traditional theory is studied by Music Theory Students.

The Madison-Grant High School Band strives for perfection.

*Self-expression and creativity are observed
in art students*

An awakening of creative abilities can be observed in any art student. The art classes provide the student with a means of self-expression and creativity.

Relating art to history, sculpture students learn the significance of sculptors and their works throughout time.

Students in printmaking learn techniques of serigraphy (silk screen), linoleum block, and woodcuts. In crafts design students learn design elements.

Surveying different aspects of art such as collage, weaving, calligraphy, and painting reflects the variety in basic art. Although developing hobbies is the main aim of ceramics, wheel throwing seems to be very popular.

Printing and drawing give the student a look into the world of abstraction and realism.

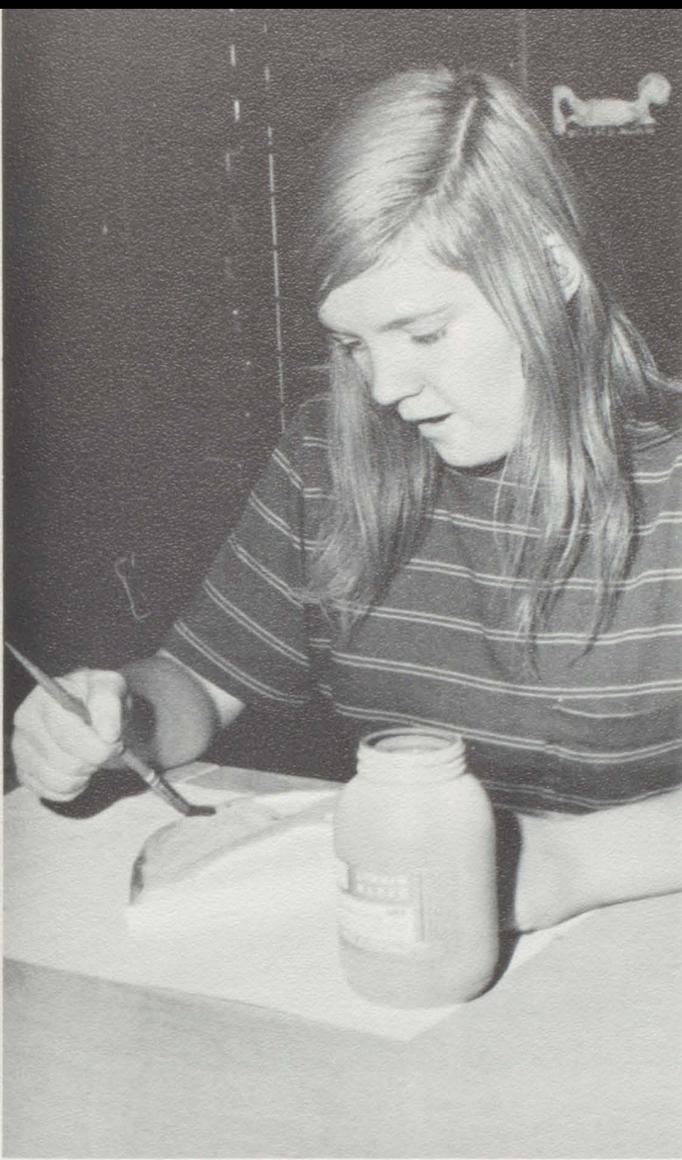

Attempting to achieve the ultimate goal of perfection, Larrie Stoffer places the finishing touches on his project as Cindi Lyons enthusiastically offers helpful suggestions.

Kim Turner demonstrates proper procedure in building a picture frame.

Mrs. Mason's art class works enthusiastically with clay striving to finish their projects.

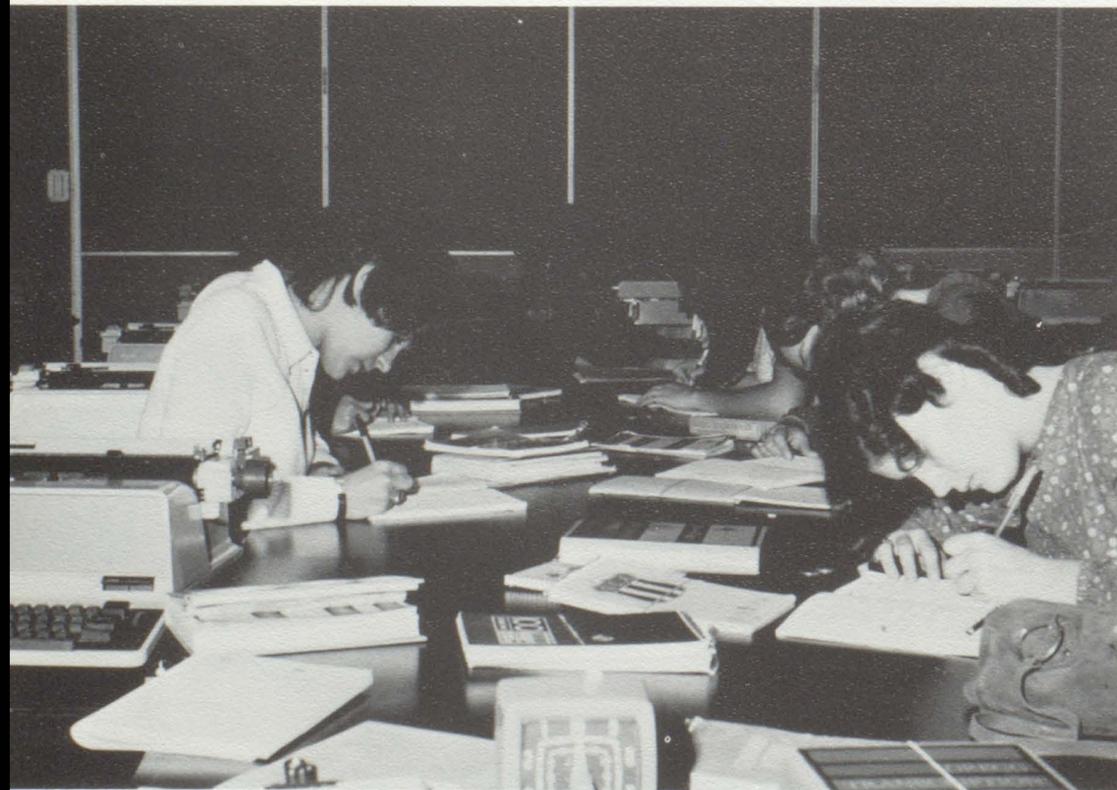

General Business students listen intently as Mrs. McIntosh describes the basic principles of the business world.

Business classes orient students for business world

In today's involved and fast moving world, the Business Department plays an important part in student education as it prepares the student for clerical, secretarial, and business administration jobs.

General Business orients the students into the business-economic environment. Typing classes qualify the business-minded person for many well paying jobs. Salesmanship, Office Practice, and Business Law give the student a first-hand experience in many business fields. Shorthand classes improve the business efficiency of the future secretary.

Thus the Business Curriculum offers a wide opportunity for a student to become involved in the commercial field and provides a chance for the individual to excel in the business field of his or her choice.

Typing is one rung on the ladder to becoming an efficient secretary.

Students find practice helpful in Industrial Arts

Students in Industrial Arts learn that working with their hands can be a rewarding experience, and that machines have an immense importance in our society.

Building model barns keeps the wood fabrication students busy, while the wood industries students form corporations and mass produce marketable products.

Gaining experience in selection, identification, and safe utilization of tools, the power mechanics students also study engines and power.

General metals students are introduced to the importance of metals and the metal working industry.

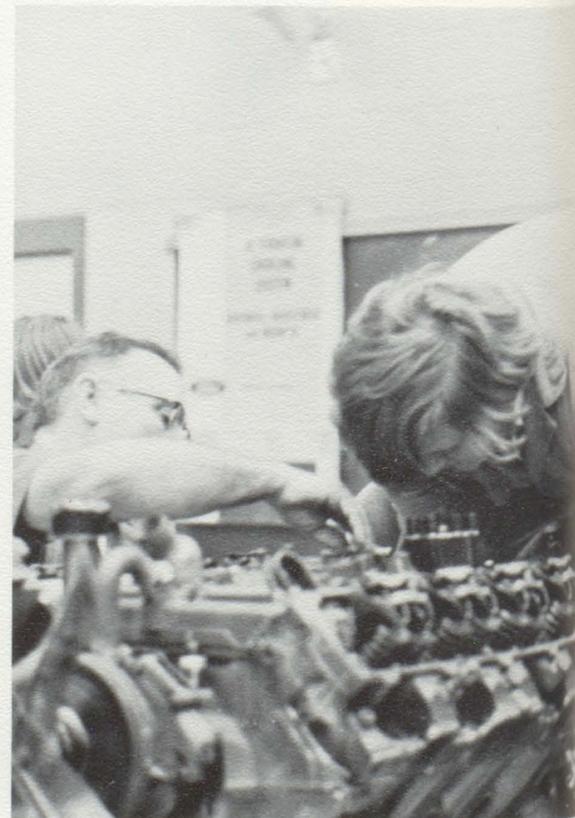

Printing students work diligently to print the Clan Courier, as well as bulletins and announcements.

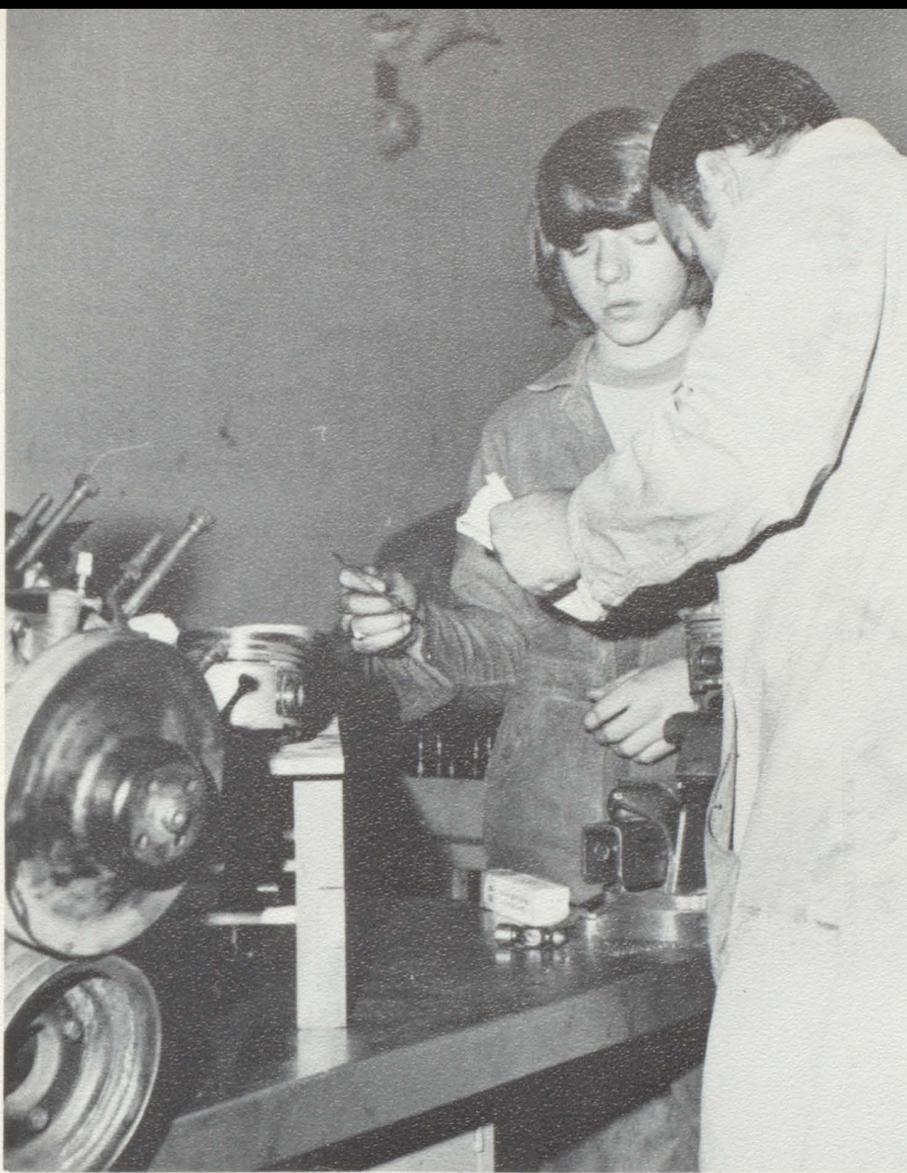

Bob Dauenhauer, Jeff Cox, Ken Thurston, and Duane Broyles say, "If it won't run, we will have to push it."

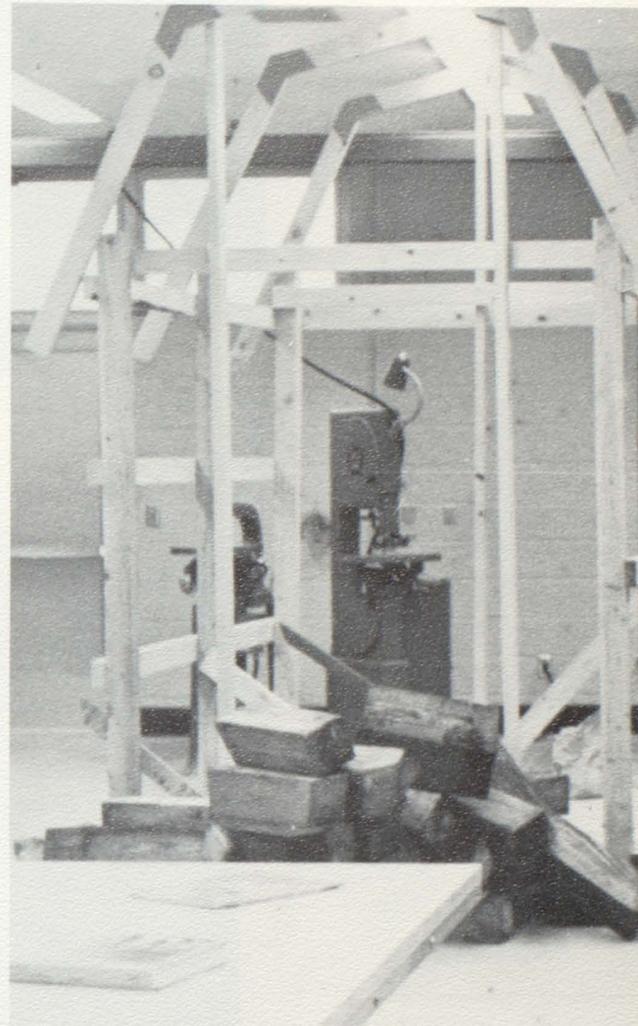

Beth Little and Jim Parks prepare to develop some film.

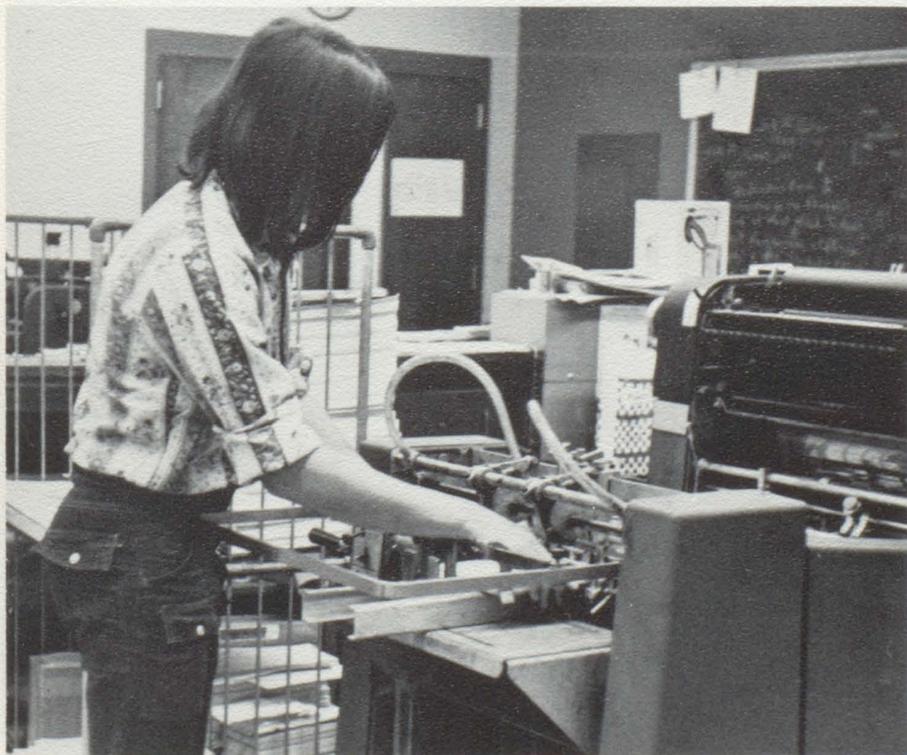

Some people will do anything to gain attention.

Mr. Gallo demonstrates the correct cleaning procedure as Rocky Bradshaw observes in Power Mechanics.

Barn construction is a project of Wood Working class.

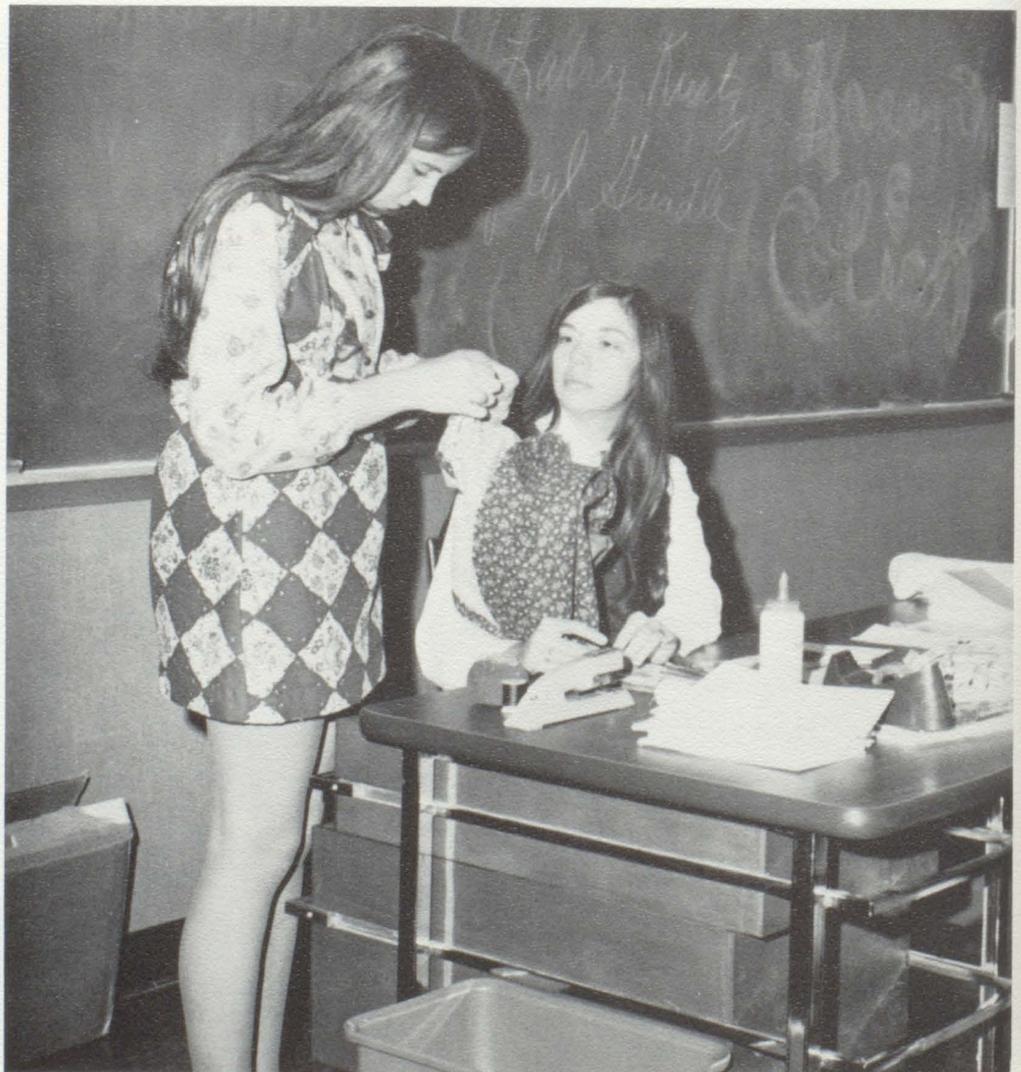

Will Listenfelt gets ready to start the press in Off-Set Lithography class.

Working steadily to finish, Jeff Cox and Ken Thurston sand.

Mrs. Wood willingly helps students Debbie Thien, Grace Julian, Michelle Carter, and Rhonda Fields decorate cakes to give to nursing home patients.

During Clothing II class, Brenda Cook confronts Mrs. Clevenger with a question about sewing procedures on her project.

Valuable experience is gained in Home Economics classes

Homemakers of tomorrow begin preparation for their future roles in life by gaining valuable experience from the many offerings of the Home Economics Department.

Clothing students spend the year working on clothes to wear during the school year. A garment with a zipper is one of the items first year clothing students complete, while second year students master a lined wool garment. The juniors and seniors tailor a suit in Clothing III.

Students in Foods classes work diligently on planning parties and making roses for decorating cakes.

The study of children's growth and emotional development, as well as planning a Christmas party for children, keeps the Child Development student occupied, whereas, knitting and crocheting keep Handicraft students busy.

Agriculture prepares future farmers in actual situations

Through involvement, the Agriculture Department at MGHS has a great influence on the development of the farming community in this area.

The Agriculture curriculum covers all aspects of farming from the learning process to the actual experience.

Students in agriculture classes are involved in the study of crops, farming mechanics, livestock, and farming as a business. In addition to regular classes, senior boys are given a chance to practice what they have been taught by working in farm sales, service shops, or working on farms. Also in this curriculum the juniors and seniors are given a chance to specialize in any of the many fields offered at the Mid-Central area vocational school in Elwood.

Mr. Henman observes his agriculture students as they study many different qualities of various soil samples.

Physical Education Department is important aspect of curriculum

By offering a variety of physical activities, the Physical Education Department at Madison-Grant is an important aspect of the curriculum.

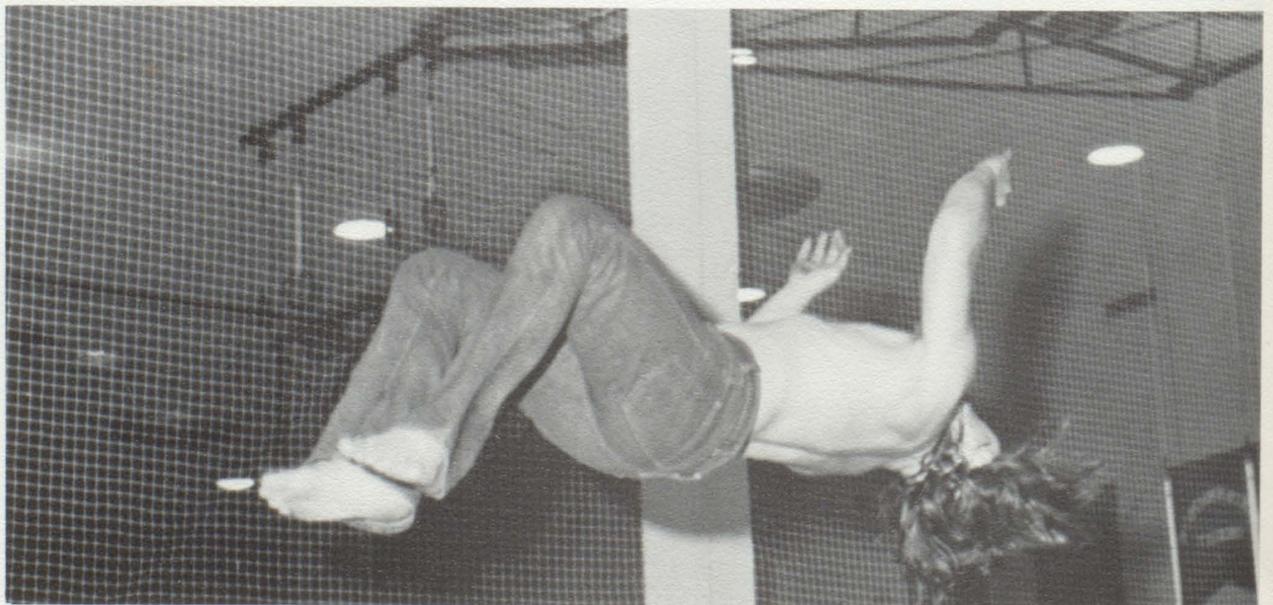

Girls' P.E. students are very active in their classes with volleyball tournaments and gymnastics. A highlight of the year is a trip to the bowling alley to help girls better understand the game. Boys in P. E. classes are involved in weight lifting, track and field, and other competitive sports. An Advanced P. E. course for boys has been initiated this year for the boys who want to build their bodies to the peak of perfection.

Students in health classes at MGHS learn the parts of the body and how they function.

Drivers' Training offers the student a chance to learn the fundamentals of automobile handling and performance.

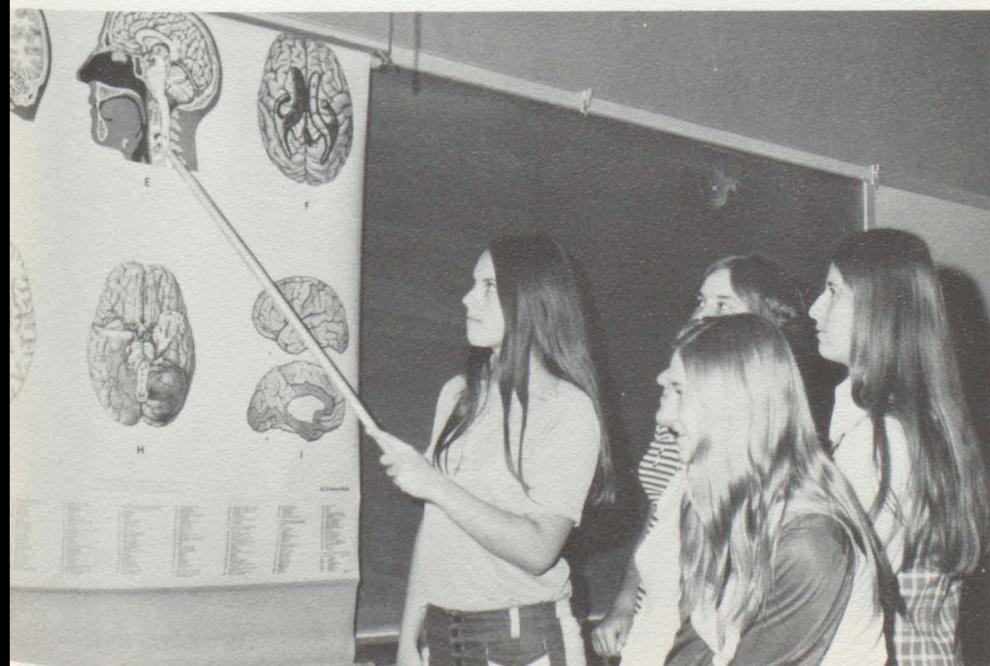

(above) "I can do anything you can do," Dennis Druck seems to be saying as he tries his skill on the trampoline. (below) Judith Hull's soaring serve wins the volleyball game for teammates.

Chip Pettit impresses his audience with a back flip.

Office assistants perform essential tasks

Answering the telephone, running errands, and typing are just a few of the tasks that an office assistant performs during the day.

Besides receiving half a credit a semester, students gain many valuable assets. They learn to communicate with people by way of telephone and in person.

Office assistants learn to develop techniques that will help them handle typical office situations from day to day and cope with unexpected emergencies that arise. They learn to make decisions independently and to act upon these decisions.

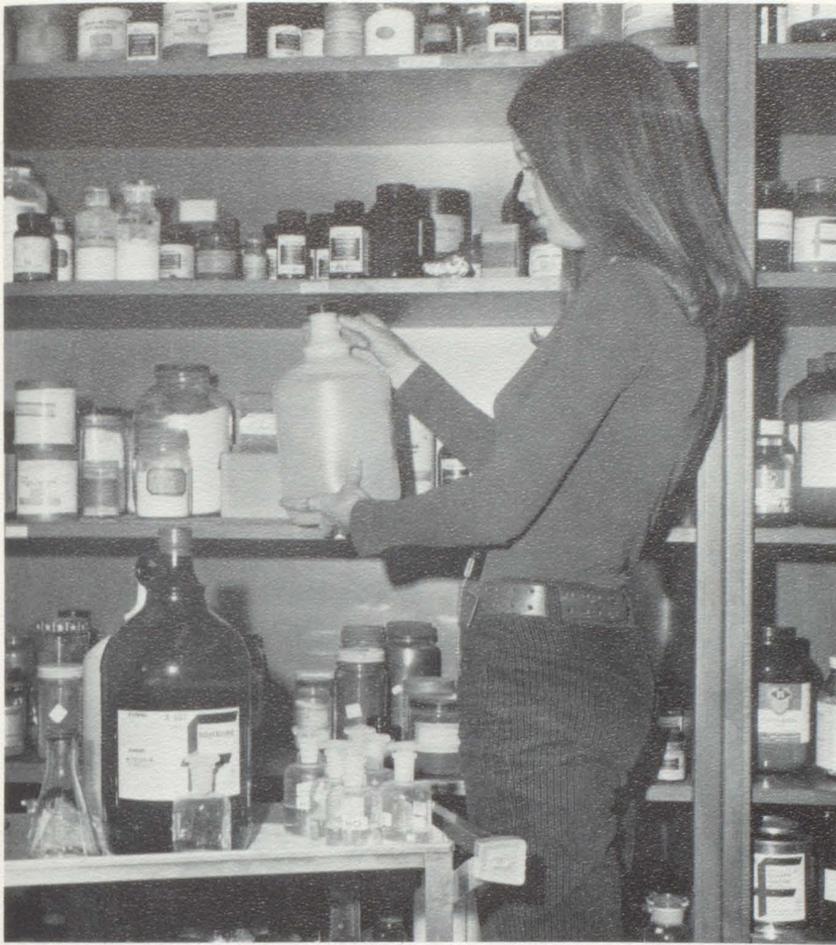

Doctor Ron Hiatt prepares for another patient.

Greg Hiatt, lab assistant, arranges chemicals in the chemical supply room.

Receptionists and assistants give help

A new addition to the group called class assistants this year is receptionists who give visitors valuable help in finding rooms.

Not only must traditional assistants grade papers, run errands, help in lab, and assist slow learner, but they must set a good example for the students.

The assistants experience many different emotions: embarrassment because of teasing, surprise when they are hit by flying pieces of metal from an experiment, and foolishness after giving a visitor the wrong instructions to get to a specific classroom.

For half a credit a semester, assistants have to go through a lot, but they know that their jobs are important to the teachers whom they help.

Cadet teachers and library staff gain skill and experience

Cadet teachers travel daily to one of various elementary or junior high schools of their choice. At these schools, they develop their talents and techniques in the teaching field.

Cadet teachers accept any responsibility given them by the teacher with whom they are working. Making student observations, working individually with students, and assisting the teacher are only a few of the many tasks assigned to the cadet teachers.

Beginning as assistants, cadet teachers eventually assume the roles of teachers.

The library is the key to many helpful resource materials for the students in their study of various subjects. It also serves as the center for contemporary issues with its current magazines and newspapers. The library staff members are kept busy helping students locate resources for their study as well as assisting the head librarian.

Along with their duties at the check-out desk, both boys and girls are involved in running the audio-visual department. Having both male and female projectionists is a new feature at M.G.

Cadet Teachers, Larry Kurtz, Karen Jessup, Chris Bohlander, Ann Homrighous, Curt Cloud, and Debbie Reynolds, plan future assignments.

Rex Smalley and Rob Conaway observe interesting incidents in the library.

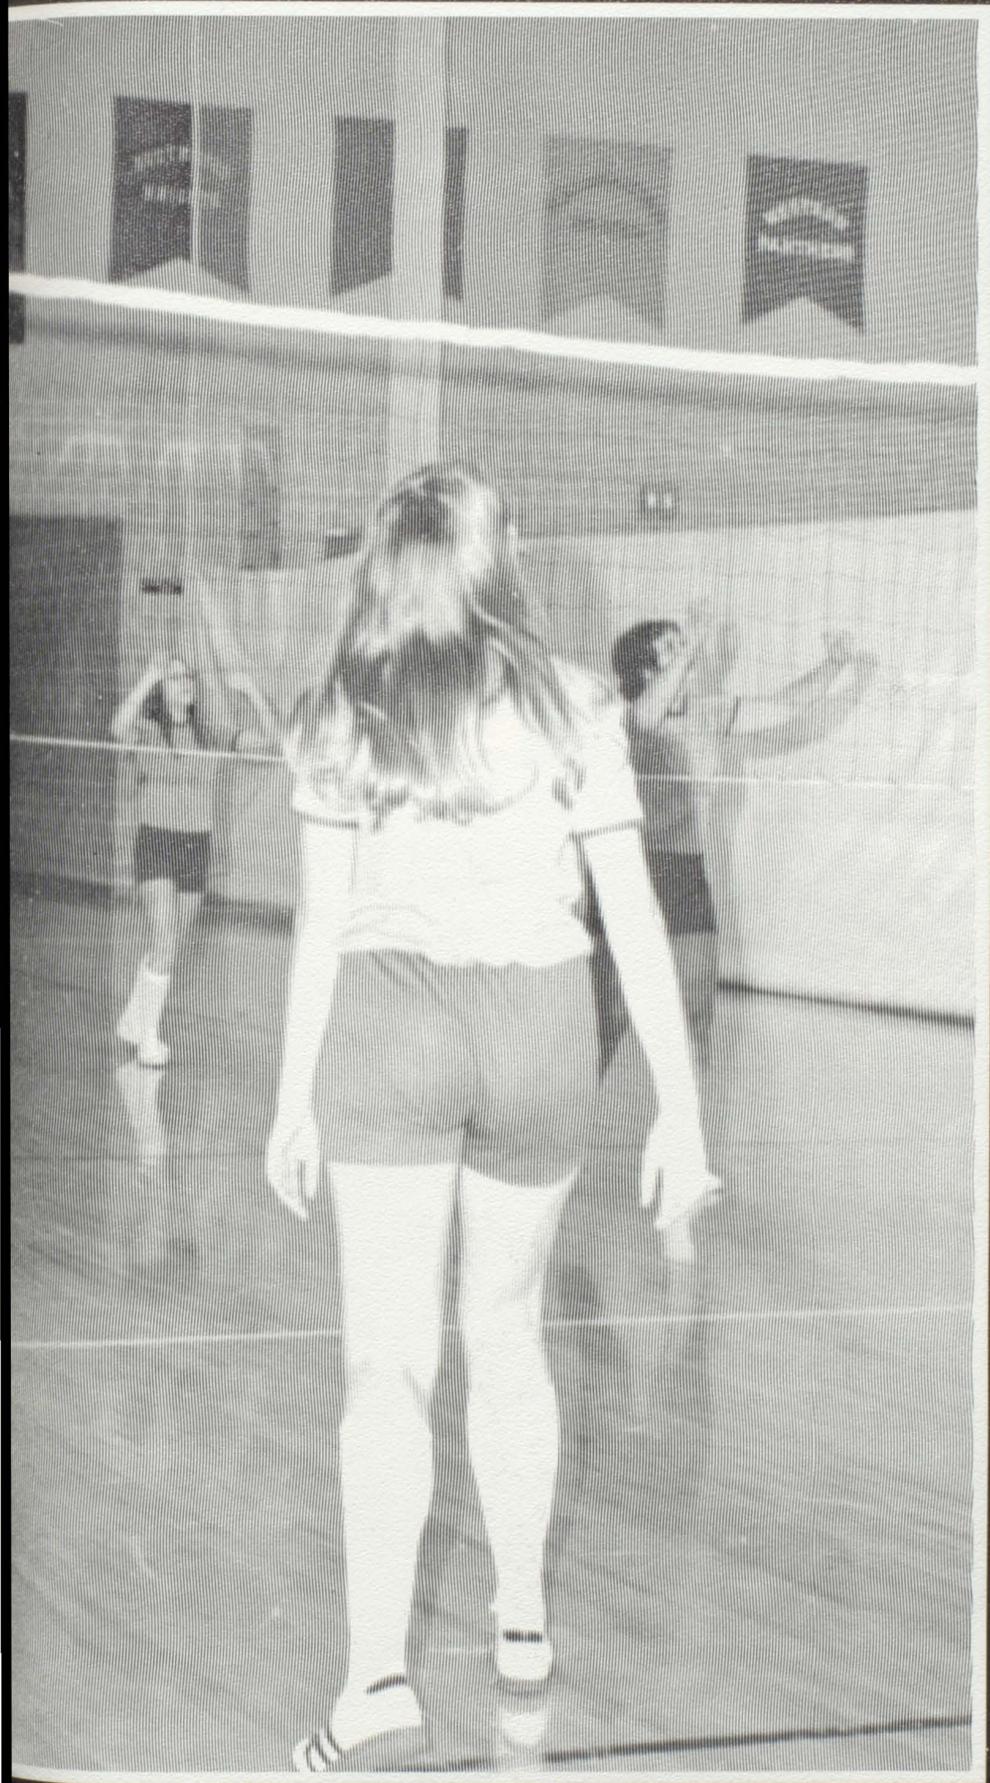

Rob Conaway discovers that librarians are always willing to lend a helping hand.

We express ourselves through involvement in organizations. Whether we sing our songs, beat our drums, scream our cheers, perform our plays, or simply be with friends who share our ideas, we are extending our interests beyond the classroom and adding new dimensions to our lives.

THIS IS ORGANIZATION INVOLVEMENT. WE WISH TO BE INVOLVED.

NHS recognizes international need

In order to qualify for membership in the National Honor Society, a student must possess such qualities as leadership, scholarship, character, and service. Based on these qualities, scholarships are granted to selected senior students. Members of the Madison-Grant chapter of the National Honor Society demonstrate their concern for others by participating in the President's UNICEF fund raising drive.

Acting as a governing unit for the student body, the Student Council functions under the direction of Mr. Wright. As well as planning convocations and a homecoming ceremony, council members transmit to the administration the ideas of the students. For Christmas, the council sponsors the purchasing of a Christmas tree.

Each activity period selected one student to be its council representative.

French and Spanish Clubs combine party

French and Spanish Club members display great enthusiasm at their club meetings and parties.

This year members of both clubs celebrated Christmas by having a combined party. During the party, representatives of each club presented information about the Christmas in the countries of Spain or France.

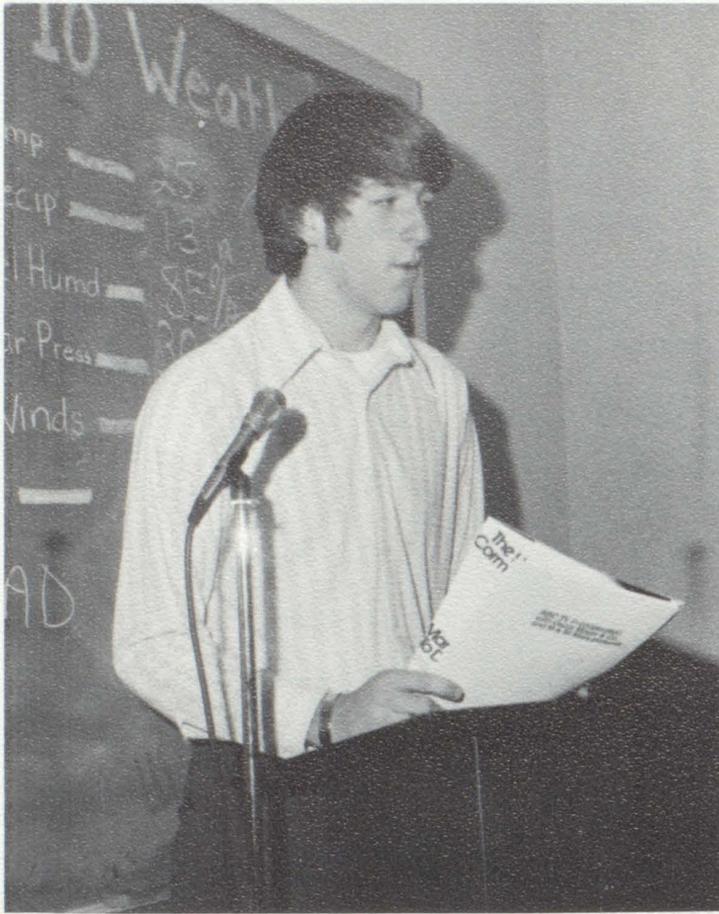

One of the most exciting moments during the party occurred when Deon Hipsher was crowned queen after she found the bean in her cupcake. This unusual custom comes from the French. After she was crowned, a king was chosen to reign with her during the party.

As the traditional Spanish pinatas were broken, both clubs were brought together as they scrambled for the goodies scattered on the floor.

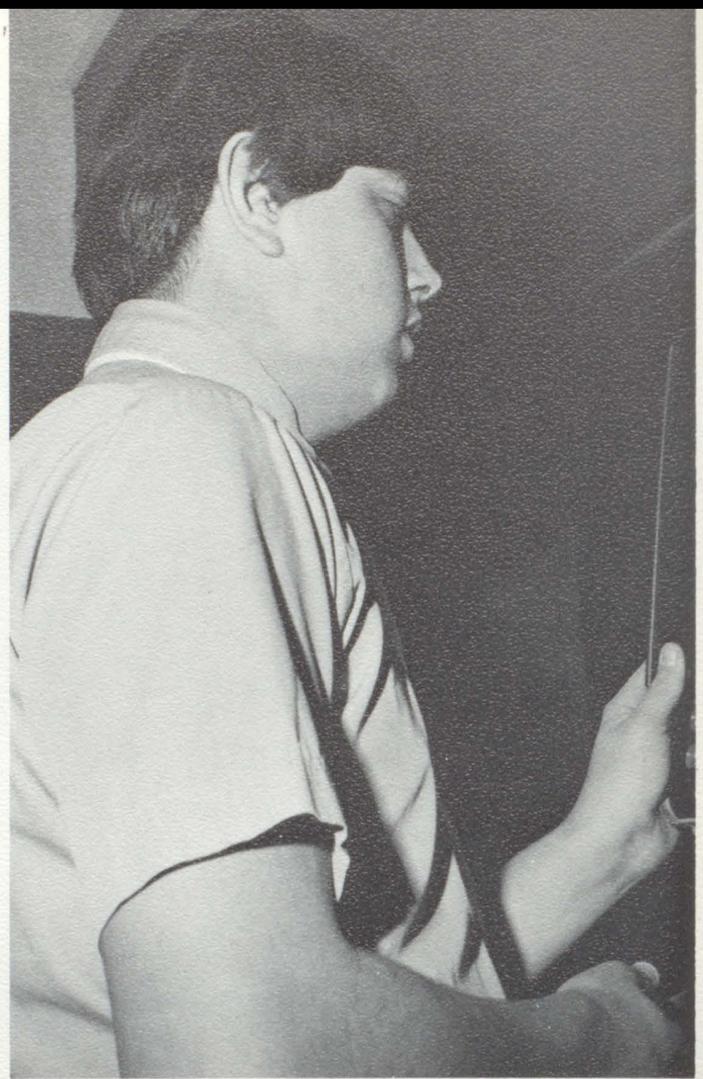

Spanish Club president, Robin Harter, and committee chairman, Becky Leckron, plan the Christmas party.

informed*

WMG commentators keep students up-to-date on the latest news, weather, and sports. Broadcasting on T.V. 10, this student operated program is directed by Mr. Strasemeier. Activity period shows are coordinated to fit a variety of student interests. High School Bowl, one of the many network sponsored programs, is interesting to students and faculty. As well as planning their daily show, the WMG crew works evenings taping basketball games and other athletic events.

The science club has a variety of activities available to students who are seeking to learn through science more about themselves and their surroundings.

Mr. Bach, Mr. Earnest, and Mr. Nesbitt advise the members and answer questions in the geology, zoology, ecology, and physiology divisions of the club.

The science club consists of those students who have an interest in the field of science.

During rehearsal for "The Odd Couple," Bill Lewis and Jack Maynard practice their parts as Felix Unger and Oscar Madison.

"The Odd Couple"

presented to surrounding communities

Speech Club members learn that catching a bus at 6:00 on Saturday mornings is one of the basic requirements of its members. These members attend several speech meets and are well rewarded for their efforts. Many times they have returned home with several victories.

Speech Club consists of a variety of different fields. Some such fields include poetry reading, dramatic interpretation, extemporaneous speaking, humorous interpretation, radio or TV, and impromptu speaking.

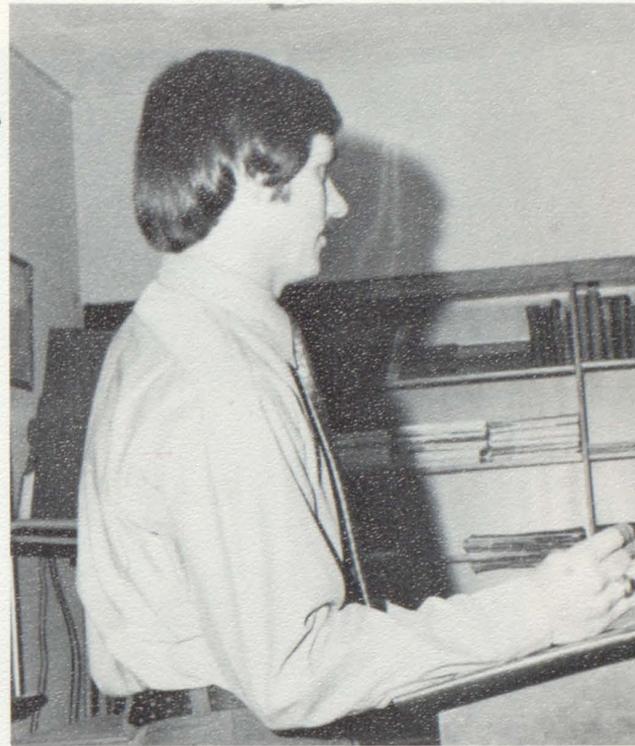

An organization closely related to Speech Club is the National Forensic League. One may become a member if he earns a total of 25 points. To earn these points, a person must speak at speech meets, be in the upper 2/3 of his class, and be chosen by present NFL members.

Membership in the National Thespian Society can be gained by earning 10 points. These points are earned by participating in school plays, gathering props for the plays, and building sets.

The Drama Club gave a magnificent performance of "The Odd Couple" to many of the surrounding communities. This allowed members to demonstrate their acting abilities.

Debate Team members, Jerry Stair, Randy Abbott, Kendra Manwell, Janet Holoway, and Jack Maynard, travel around the state to meets as representatives of Madison-Grant.

contribute to the community*

During the 1972-73 school year the Future Homemakers of America proves itself an active and charitable organization. By selling candy and running the coat check at ball games, its members are able to raise money to be used toward its first big project: the annual Christmas Ball.

The club's many charitable projects include making quilts for the needy families and visiting nursing homes.

The Future Farmers of America is the national organization for those students who study vocational agriculture. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Henman FFA members participate in various judging contests.

FFA members and FFA Sweetheart, Rhonda Carter are concerned with today's agriculture.

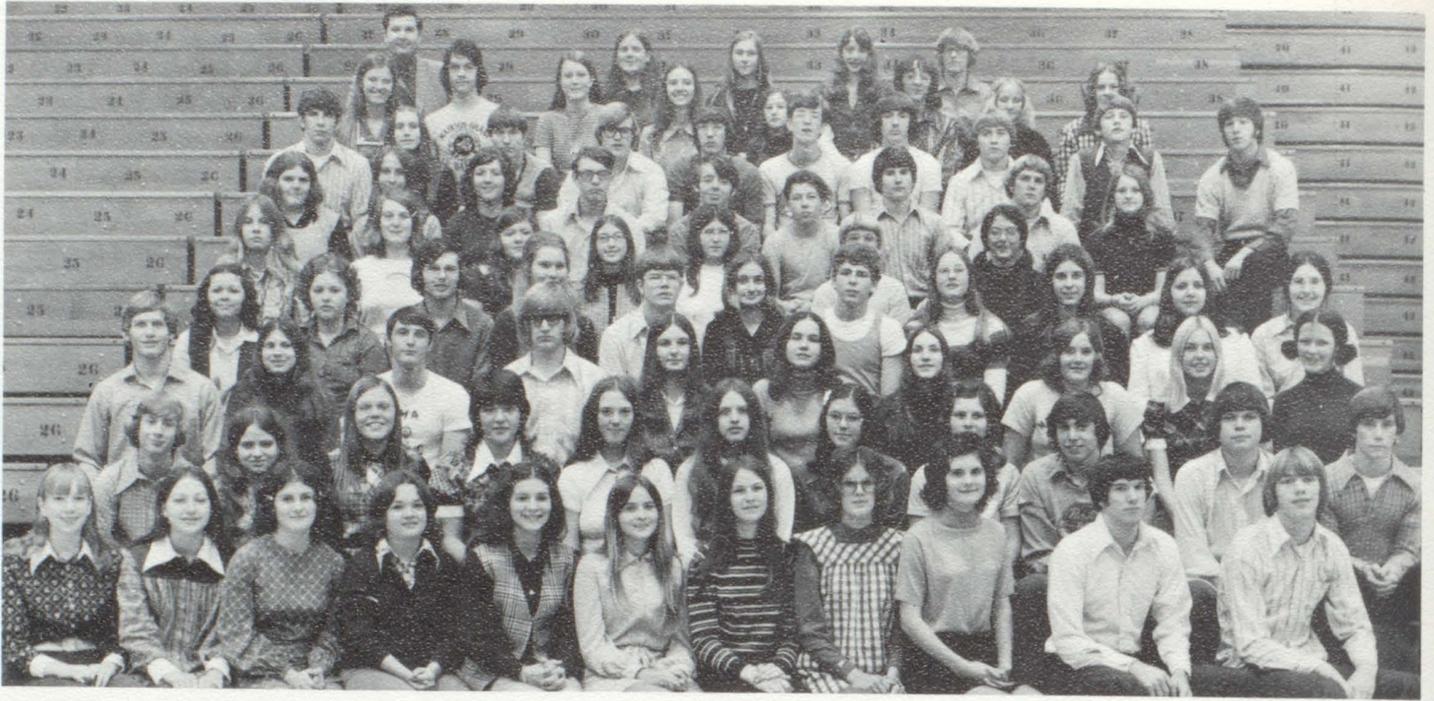

Trudy Hollingsworth is the top-prize winner for the FHA candy selling contest.

Reporter, Virginia Chapman; Secretary, Beth Little; President, Priscilla King; Vice-President, Debbie Dailey; Treasurer, Donna Holloway; Chaplain, Brenda Cook; Song leader, Kay Honeycutt; Parliamentarian, Robin Yeater; Public Relations, Susan Dickey; Historian, Tracy Poling; and Project Chairman, Debbie Rodabaugh were elected to serve the FHA.

Many Home-Economics students join FHA which is sponsored by Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Clevenger.

Campus Life members smile in anticipation at the thought of attending "Scream in the Dark."

*Campus Lifers
become involved with others*

"Scream in the Dark" and attending "Riots" are only a few of the several exciting activities of Campus Lifers. Other activities include going to impact and insight meetings held at the homes of different students, going to Taylor University, and going to Chicago.

Mr. Leon Earnest, faculty sponsor, and Taylor University students attempt to help students involved in Campus Life in their personal, school, and religious problems.

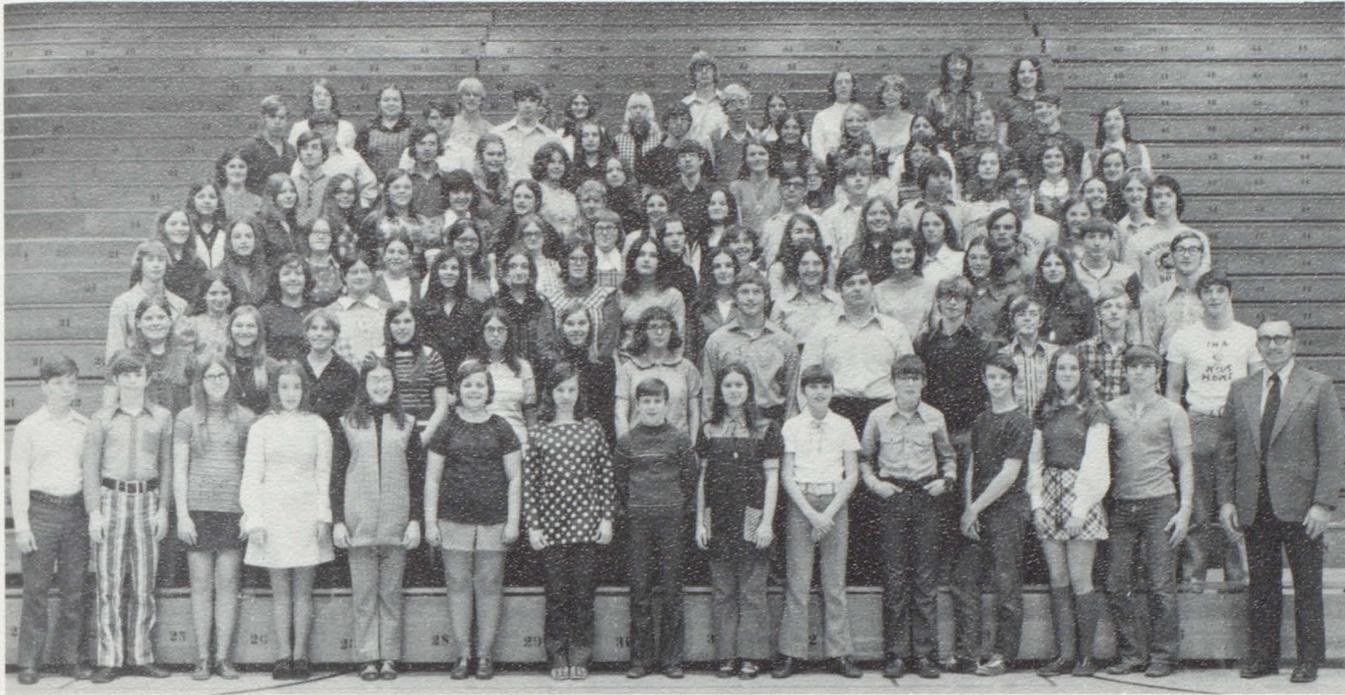

The Fellowship of Christian Students is a new organization now headed by Mrs. Bethany Walton which allows students to get involved with God.

An organization designed for boys interested in fellowship with God and with others is the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. The officers are Larry Kurtz, Greg Hiatt, Rob Ricks, and Vic Dean.

Students gain understanding through music

Each person has his own concept of what music is. To some people music is a form of entertainment; to others it is a kind of Utopia in which to shelter one's self. Others believe that the lyrics of today's songs contain possible solutions for many of today's problems. To the Madison-Grant choral department and to Mrs. Walton, M-G's choral director, music is a way of life, a profession, something that each person lives with.

Jane Peacock concentrates to her fullest as she practices for the Christmas program.

Various Argyll bands entertain community

Madison-Grant Band members proudly display their band uniforms when they represent our school at concerts, at school ball games, in State Fair competition, and in other types of band competition.

The Marching Band performs at football games while Pep Band members perform at home basketball games.

During halftime, the Pep Band plays many numbers to entertain the basketball fans.

Ranking 50th at the Indiana State Fair this year, the M-G Argyll Band is hoping to place much higher when they attend next year.

M-G lettermen purchase camera

Realizing the important role which photography can play in sports, the M-G Lettermen's Club purchased a movie camera. Sponsors Coach Miller and Coach Gallo realize that being able to watch films of the games and allowing each player to learn by his mistakes is a great asset to any team. Club members did such things as sell Argyll bumper stickers and sponsor a faculty basketball game in order to raise money for the camera.

The Pom-Pom Corps spends many hours practicing its routines. Mrs. McIntosh, the corps sponsor, makes sure that each member of the group is in step with the other members. Working with the band, the Pom-Pom Corps presents halftime entertainment at football and basketball games.

Planning a faculty game with Canada's Harlem Diplomats was a big job for M-G Club officers, Treasurer Denny Druck, President Larry Kurtz, Vice-President Mark Childs, and Secretary Rex Smalley.

Booster Clubs back Argylls

To us Ford means victory. Basketball coach Jack Ford has brought to Madison-Grant a new concept of what winning is. Getting caught up in the Argyll beat with Coach Ford, booster club members cheer the Argylls on to victory. Not just indoors but at the field as well, Argyll backers have spirit. Coach Gallo's perseverance and strategy meet with the approval of the club members as they sit through rain and snow watching their team defeat opponents.

Just as the team needs a coach, so does the booster club need an advisor. Mrs. Denny is the club sponsor and answers any questions the officers have. President Peggy Meyer leads a team of officers who include Vice-president, Ann Homrighous; Secretary, Sue Ellen Buroker; and Treasurer, Barb Meyer. Class representatives Linda Leckron, Lea Fitzjarrald, Debb Hackney, and Jane Peacock assist the officers in planning pep sessions.

Cheerleaders arouse M-G school spirit

Madison-Grant cheerleaders lead an all out effort to arouse the school spirit in the Booster Club and in all other fans. These cheerleaders boost our team on to victory with their yells throughout the year.

Each year our cheerleaders attend Cheerleading Camp where they have won many awards for their performances. Included in these performances are aerials and other such gymnastic stunts which require a great deal of practice.

Whether our team is winning or losing, our cheerleaders always manage to show good school spirit and good sportsmanship.

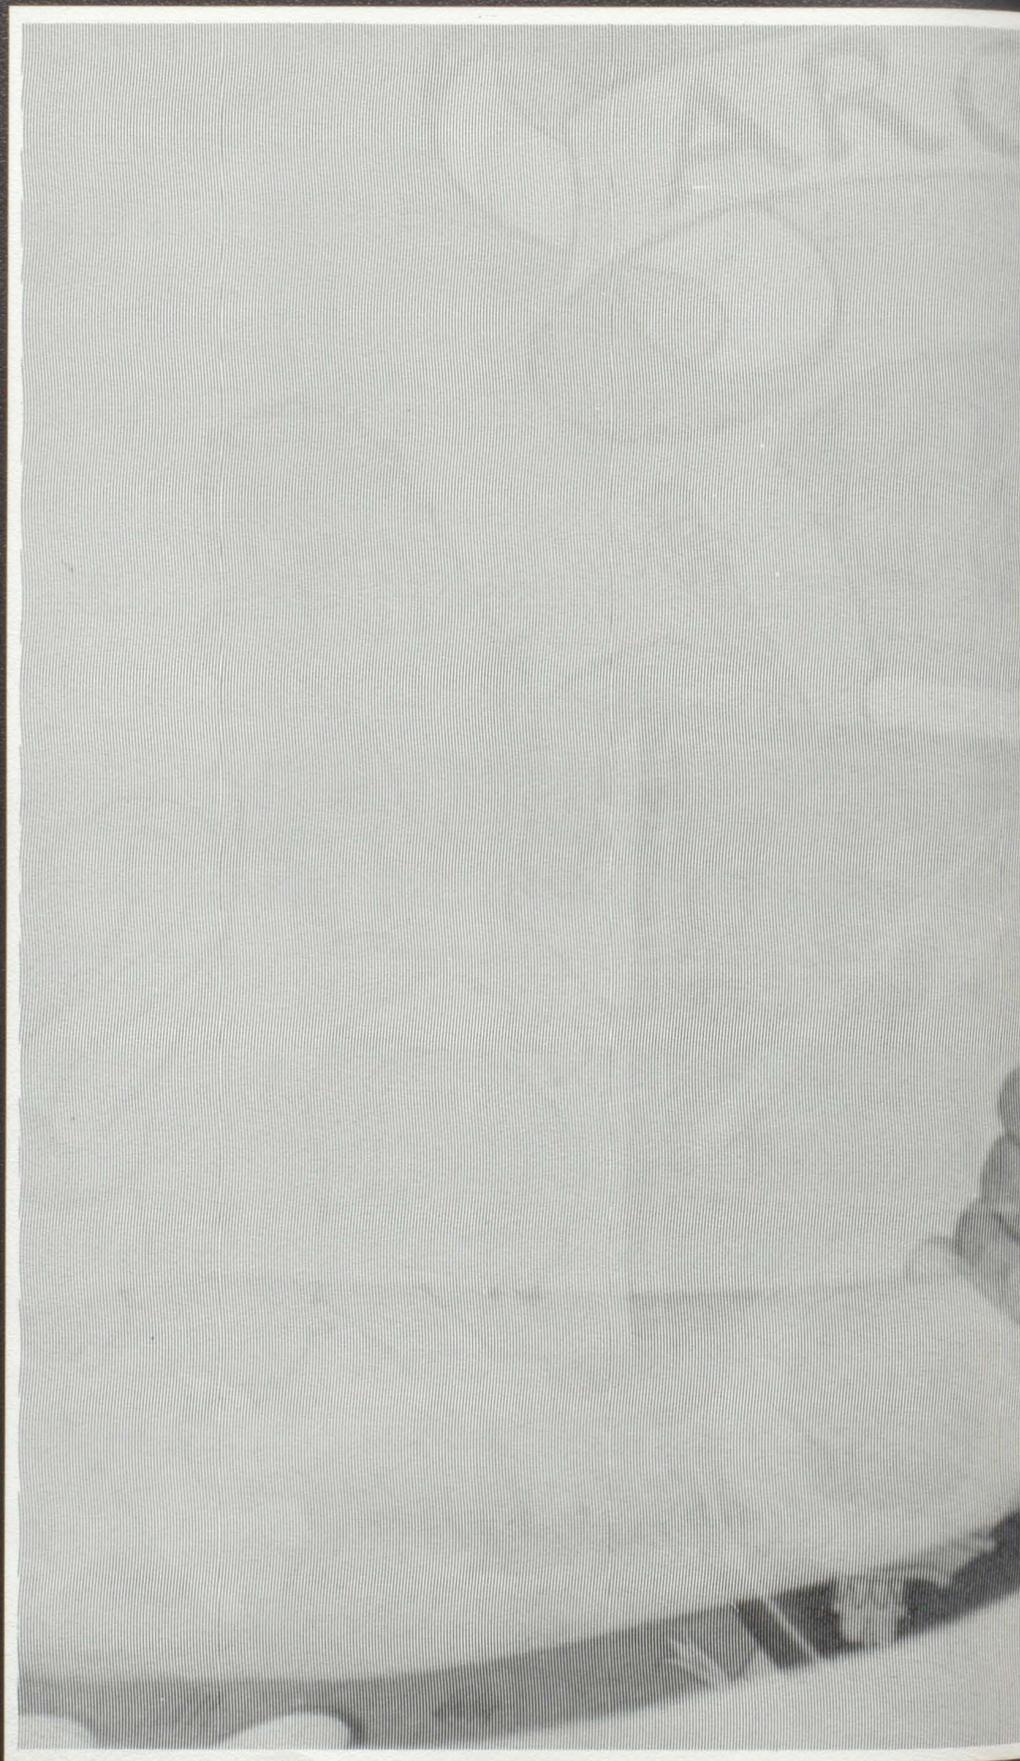

(left) Debbie Reynolds convinces Greg Dixon that the purchase of an M-G sticker will lead the Argylls to victory. (above) Argyll cheerleaders go "straight to the top" symbolizing their goal for the MGHS athletes.

With spirit, drive, and determination, our athletic teams work with the expectation of many victories. Spending endless hours in practice, these athletes not only strive for team perfection, but they also learn to win with honor and lose with dignity.

G.A.A. has busy year

This year's Girls Athletic Association at Madison-Grant proved to be even more active than past G.A.A. organizations. Starting the year off with tennis, the girls posted a record of two wins and two losses. Volleyball was quick to follow as Madison-Grant hosted the first sectional in school history. Volleyball caught on with the fans and proved to be a very exciting sport to watch. Our girls lost to the eventual sectional champ but gave a fine showing of enthusiasm, spirit, and teamwork that let people know that they were from Madison-Grant. Gymnastics and Track and Field kept the athletically inclined girls busy in the winter months. Coach Denney handles the entire G.A.A. program and does a very efficient job.

Although the boys still have the major interest in athletic competition, the girls sports are gaining popularity and will prove to be a valuable asset to the athletic program at Madison-Grant.

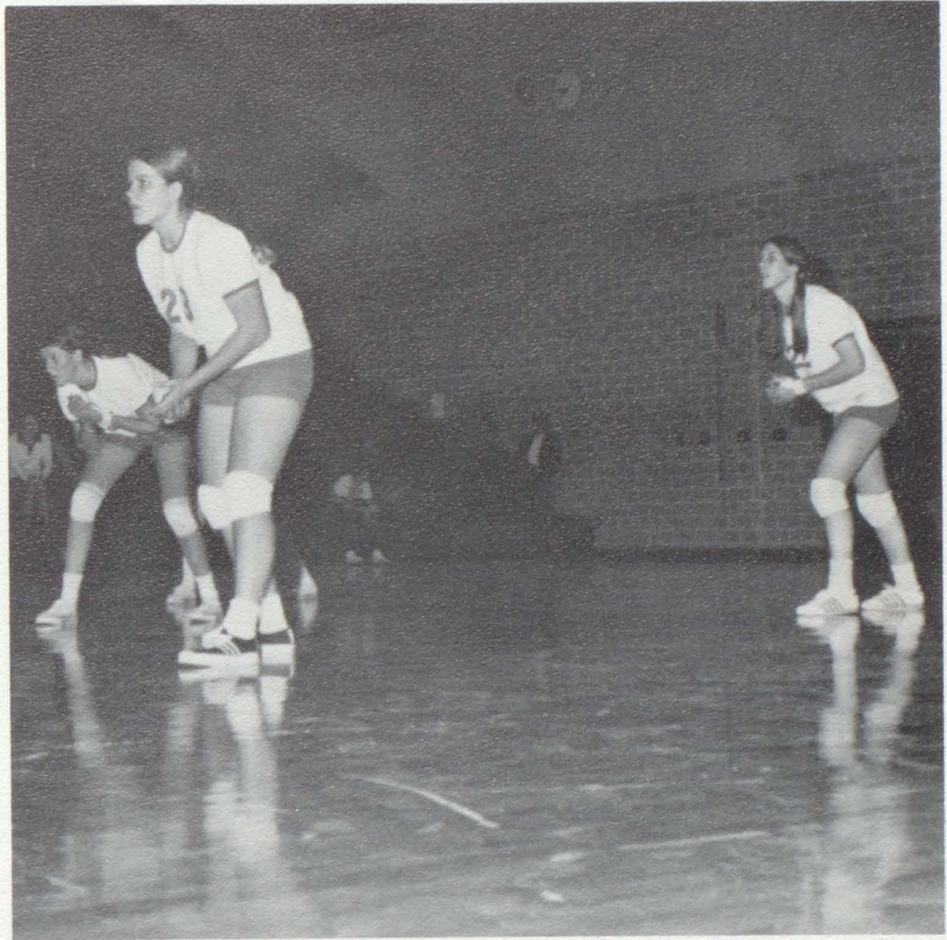

Concentrating on the opponent, Ann Homrighous prepares to win another match.

Football is a contact sport. Ask any Argyll Footballer and he will quickly agree.

Coach Paul Gallo guided the third edition of Madison-Grant gridmen to their best record in school of seven wins and three losses.

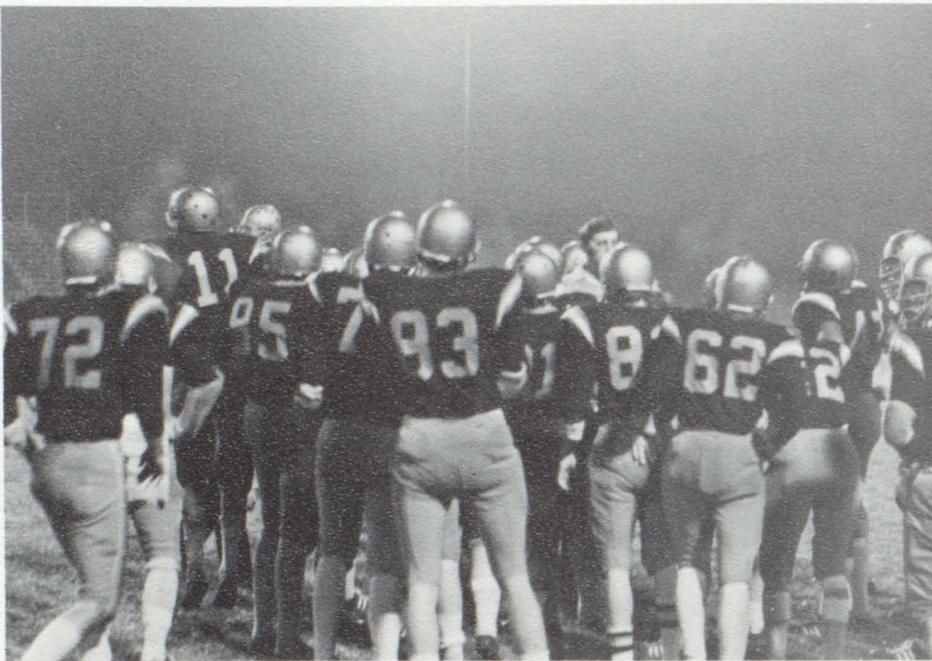

The M-G Football Team was made up of men who possessed determination, pride, enthusiasm and made many sacrifices to achieve success.

Five players made the All-Conference Team as the result of these qualities. The Argylls finished third in the MIC. Gogie Hohiemer again led the team in scoring.

The people who viewed the play of the Little Argylls would have to admit that Madison-Grant will have some fine football action in the future.

CROSS COUNTRY

M-G hosts county meet

Cross Country is one of the most demanding and grueling sports at Madison-Grant. It takes a special type of athlete to push his exhausted body over the 2½ mile course to the much sought after finish line and blue ribbon.

Coached by Jim Stone, the CC men posted three wins and six losses.

Jim Justus and Brian Kirkwood led the team this year as each at one time held the school record for the new course distance.

For the first year, the Grant County Meet was held at Madison-Grant where the Argylls placed third and a high fourth place in the Mid-Indiana Conference.

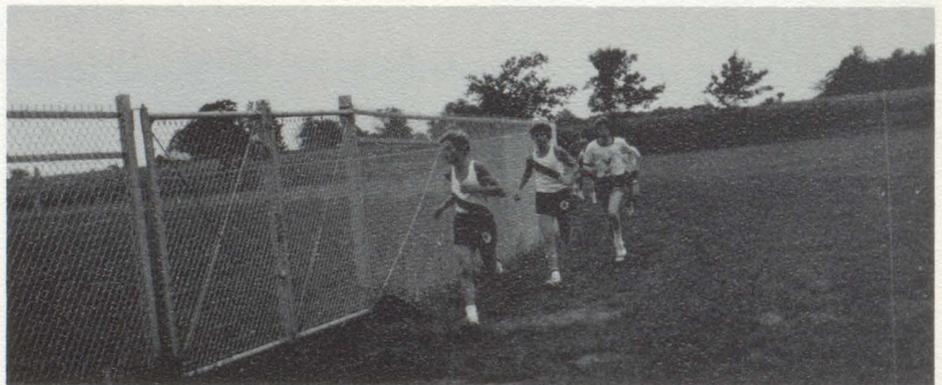

Brian Kirkwood runs the rugged two and a half mile course to the finish line.

School record holder Jim Justus shows the form which led the CC men.

Tennis team achieves a fine season

The Madison-Grant Tennis Team, guided by Coach Ford, had a successful season with a record of four wins and two losses. The netmen started quickly with three straight victories, but then found the competition to stiffen.

The double duo of Jeff Harrold and Curt Cloud became the first tennis players from M-G to advance to the semi-finals of the sectional, but lost to the eventual sectional champions.

The Reserve Tennis Team, playing a limited schedule, gained the valuable experience needed to compete on the varsity level.

Argylls take county and sectional titles

When Head basketball coach Jack Ford came to Madison-Grant, things began to happen. A few of these happenings were capturing the Grant County crown, the Sectional crown, regaining the County Keg, and establishing the best basketball record in M-G history.

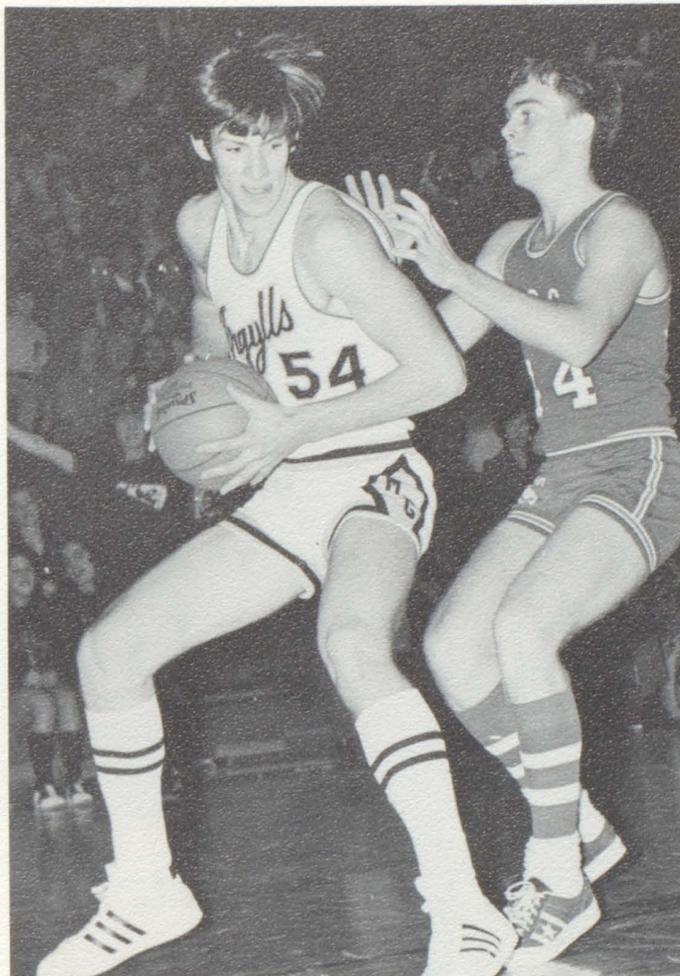

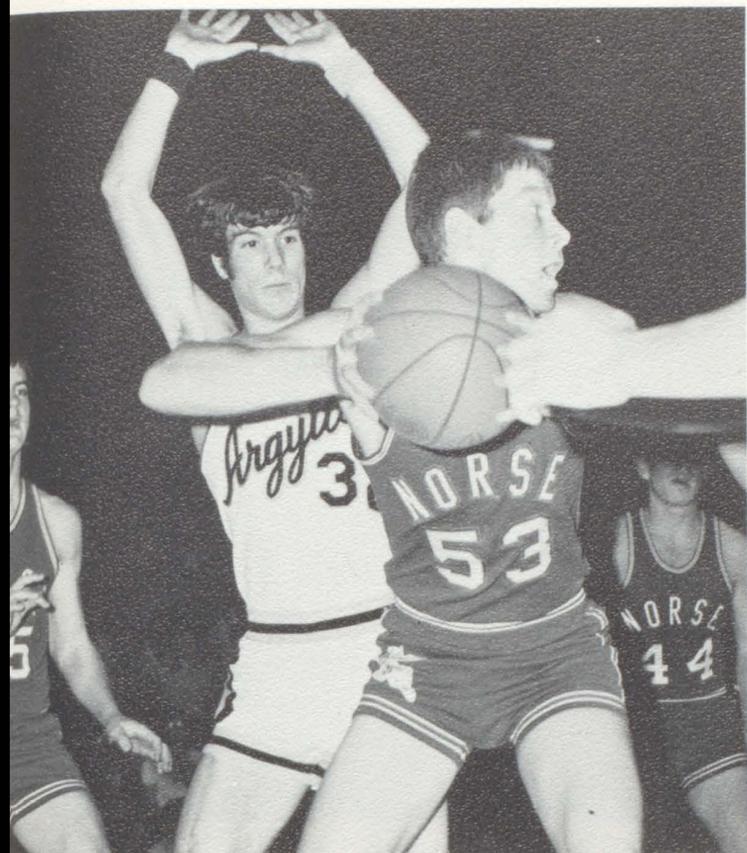

The season passed quickly with the Argylls showing the ability that would lead the team to their goals.

Craig Sullivan, Larry Kurtz, Ron Small, Bob Starkey, and Robb Ricks formed the starting line-up throughout the season with strong help from the bench.

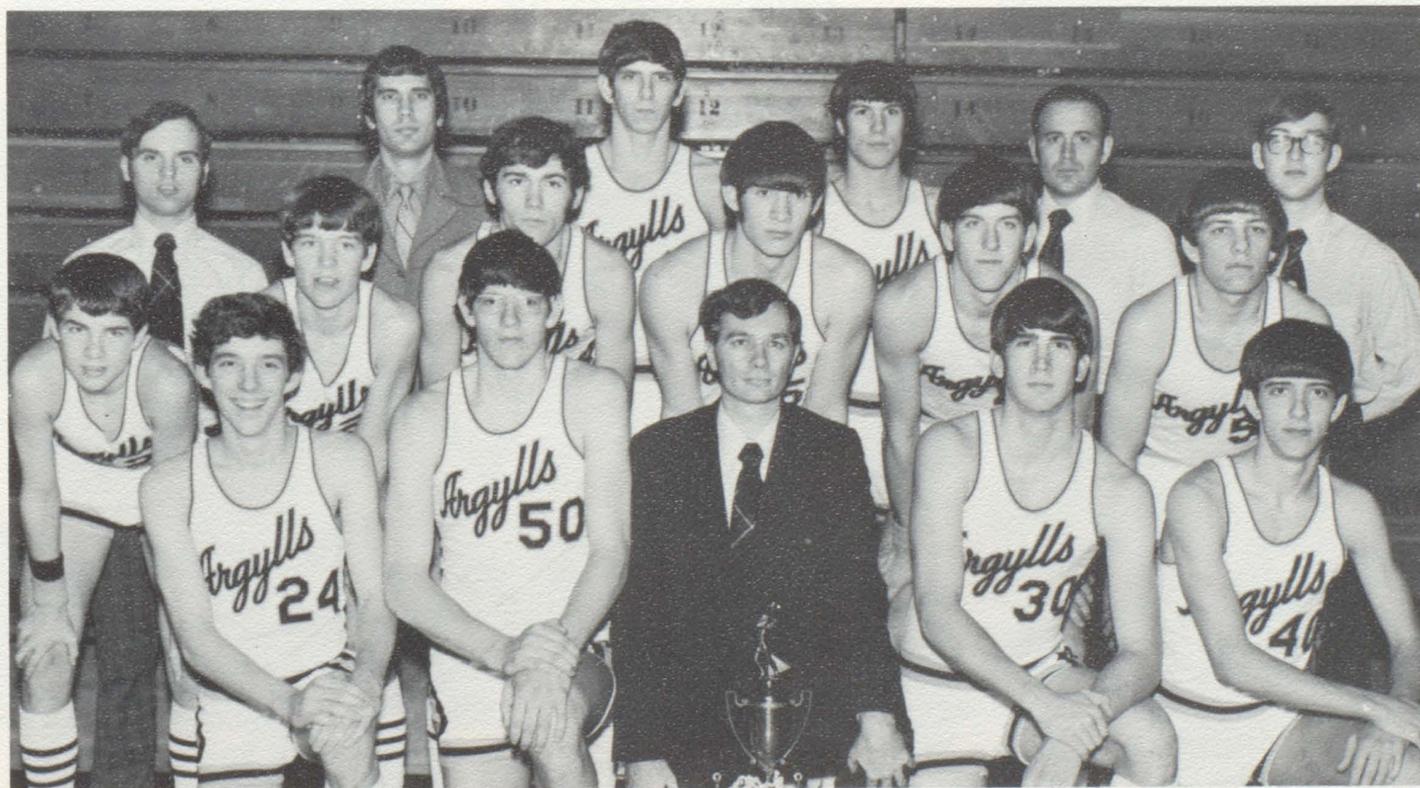

With only four seniors graduating, the Argylls will have a veteran team to return next year and defend their titles.

B-Team takes county title

For the first time in Grant County history, a Reserve Basketball County Tourney was held this year and our own Junior Varsity Team walked away with the trophy and title.

This year's edition of the J.V. team excited the fans, cheerblock, and also their coach Jim Miller who guided the team to a fine record of 11 wins and 9 losses.

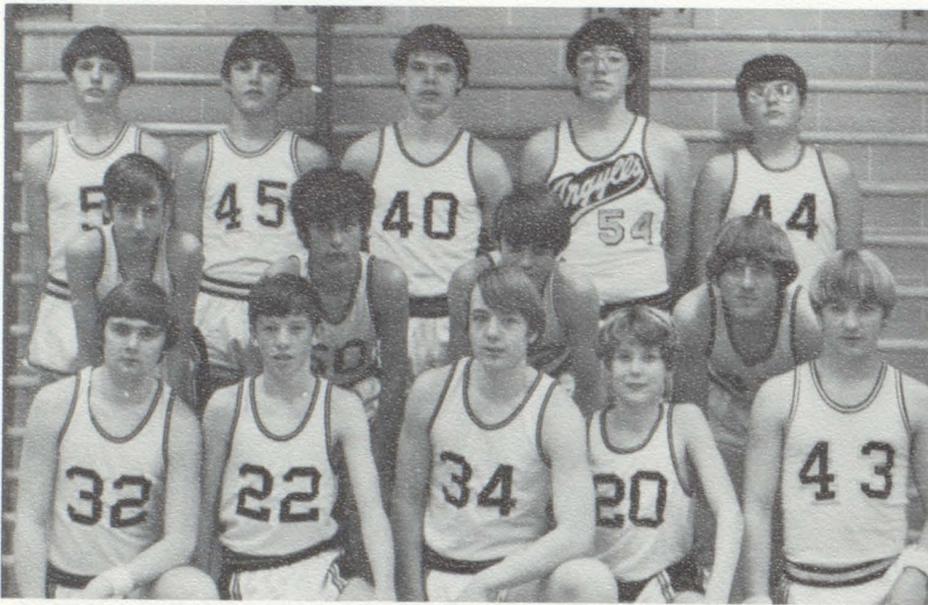

Many long and strenous practices were put in by the members of the Reserve Team, but the result is easily seen in the victories over their opponents.

Followers of the Argyll Varsity Team can breath a little easier knowing that this year's Junior Varsity will add greatly to the success to Argyll winning tradition.

Freshman show ability

The Argyll Freshmen basketball team had a disappointing season with a record of 4-11, but the freshmen had many down-to-the-wire games that they just couldn't pull out.

Coach Linville guided the little Argylls and added much by teaching the fundamentals to the freshmen, preparing them for the rough Reserve and Varsity ball that is ahead for the future Argylls.

M-G managers assist athletes and coaches

Being a manager at Madison-Grant high school is not an easy job. Many hours of hard work are put in by each manager as he does his best to make the athletes look their best so they can do their best.

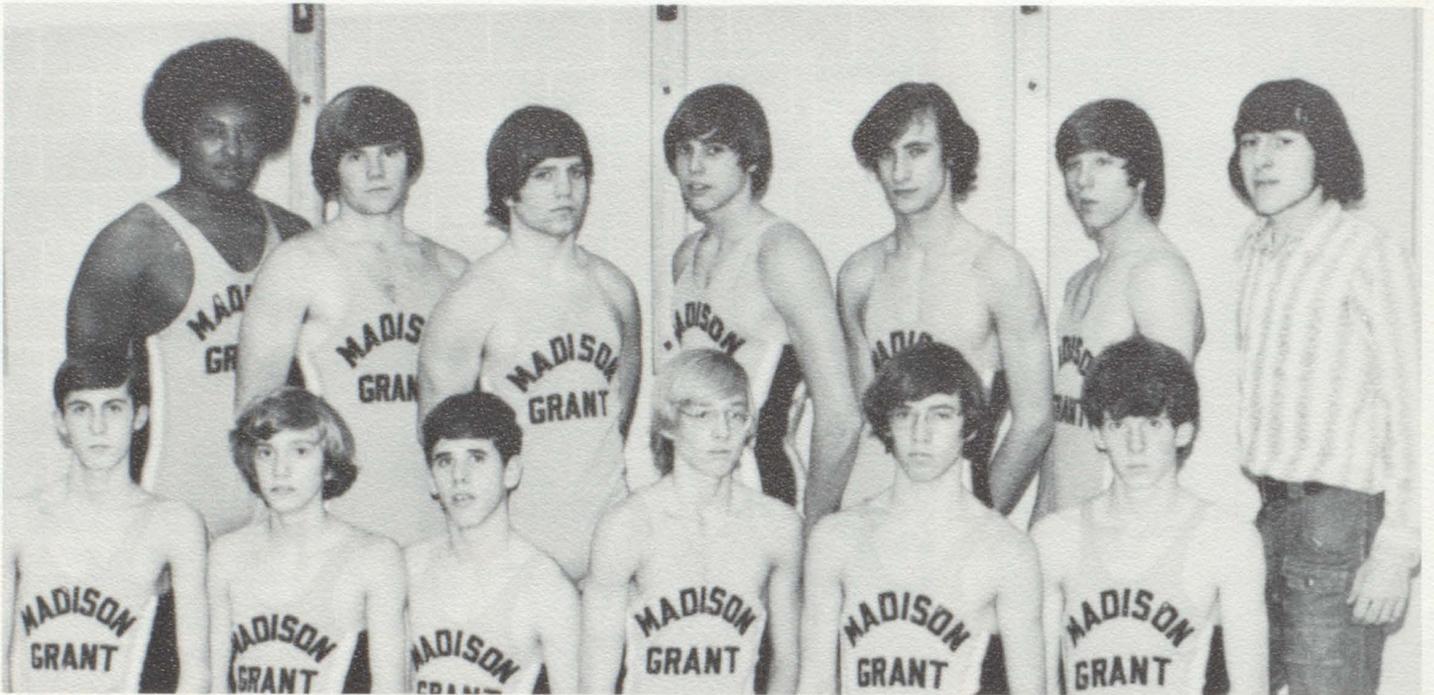

Some of the jobs a manager may be found doing are washing of uniforms, keeping statistics for the coaches, taping ankles, and many more jobs that are important go unseen. The manager is always accused of not doing anything, but the M-G athletic program could not function without the help and service of our M-G managers.

Wrestlers win County Title

The Argyll Wrestlers experienced a successful season with a record of 4 wins and 5 losses and 1 tie.

Wrestling is considered the manly sport of all sports in the M-G athletic program. Many hours of rigorous training in a humid workout room and the self-discipline in making weight paid off for the grapplers this season.

The highlight of the season was capturing the Grant County Wrestling crown. Five county champions from M-G paced the Argylls to victory.

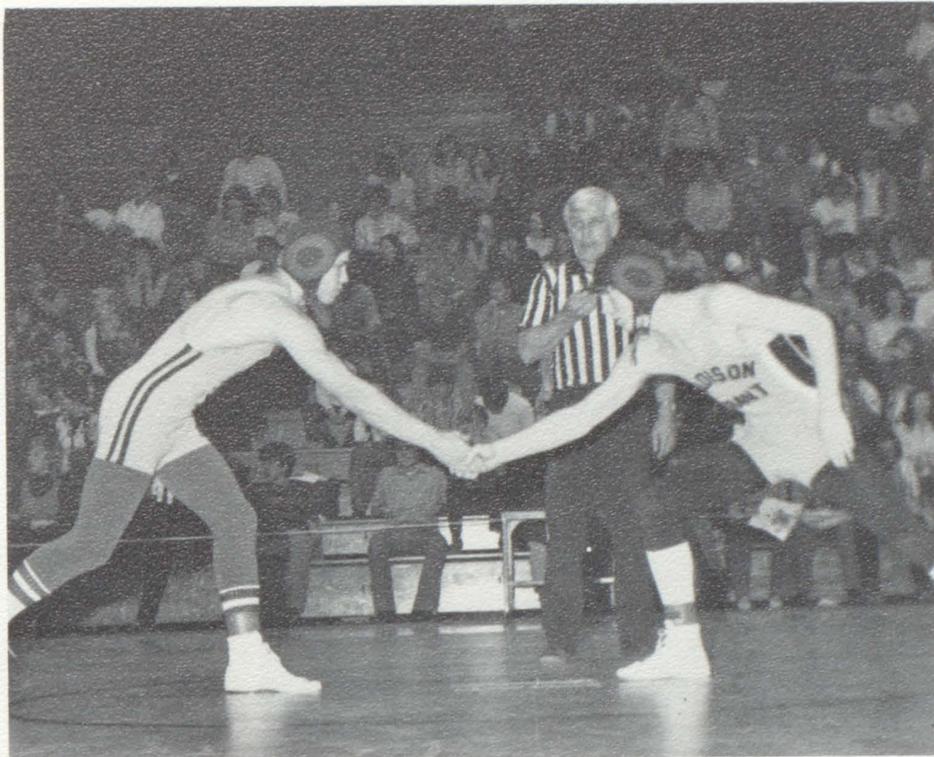

Led by Coach Gallo, the matmen placed fourth in the MIC conference.

With only a few seniors graduating, the future looks promising for next year's team.

Trackmen have exciting season

Track and Field is a sport that requires a great deal of desire, determination, and dedication. Except for the relays, track is an individual sport for the athlete who participates in his event for the first place finish and the blue ribbon.

The Trackmen train long and grueling hours to be at their best when the day of the meet arrives.

The Argyll cindermen finished the season with a respectable record 6 wins and 2 losses.

Many fine performances were turned in by our trackmen. Coaches Jim Miller and Gary Rickard added much to the success of the athletes with their valuable help.

With the addition of the new all-weather track ready for competition this year, many people came to watch their first track meet and cheer on our athletes to victory.

Golfers defeat all challengers

Golf is known as a sport that one can take with him after high school days and still participate quite effectively in later life.

One would think that the golfers from Madison-Grant had been playing golf all their lives as they posted a perfect record by turning back all opponents in 13 straight matches. Again the linksmen captured the Grant County Title, but came up one stroke short of winning the conference championship.

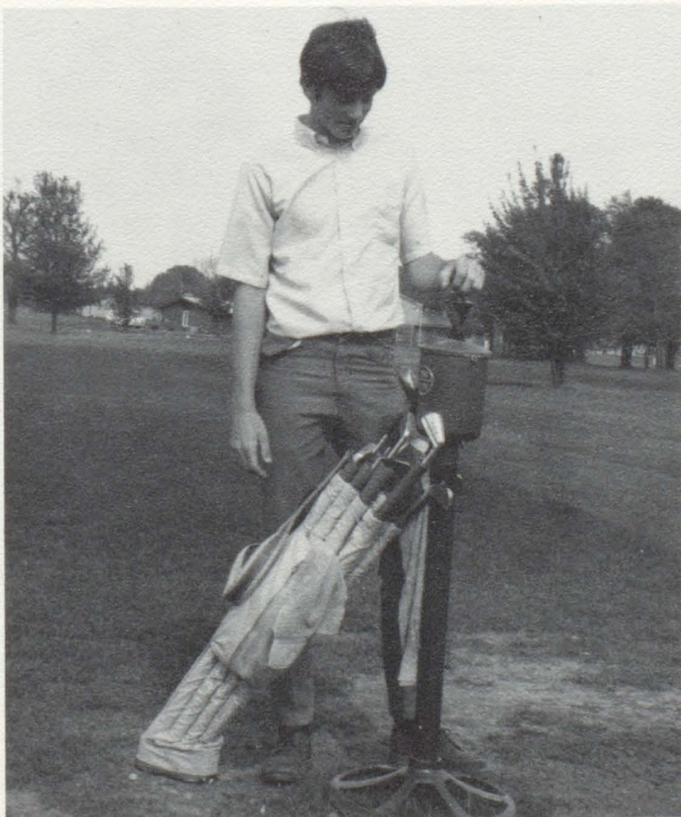

Coach Wright will have a rebuilding season as only his No. 6 man returns for action, but many Reserves have shown promise and the linksmen will be after their Grant County Title.

The Madison-Grant Baseball Team, coached by Charles Kenworthy had a so-so season with a record of 5 wins and 11 losses. Fine team play was demonstrated much of the season, but the Argylls couldn't get the runs when they needed them.

In the county tourney, the team finished in the runner-up position as Missisnewa nipped the baseballers in the championship game. The Argylls finished a strong third in conference play.

Intramural basketball at Madison-Grant offers a boy the chance to get up on a Saturday morning and play some basketball with his classmates.

Sponsored by Dennis Stroup, the organization now goes by the name of the Intramural Basketball League. Approximately thirty boys and four teams make up this league that has challenged both the ABA and NBA. The intramural program has been growing each year due to the better facilities offered at Madison-Grant and will continue to grow in the future.

INTRAMURAL BOWLING

Bowling offers competition and relaxation

Every Wednesday, the future bowlers of America leave Madison-Grant and venture to the Plaza Bowl for fun, the chance to practice their bowling, and heated league competition.

Mr. Bach is the sponsor and long-time pro and is always ready to give a few bowling tips.

At the end of the year on Awards Day, trophies are given to the bowler who has the highest score for a game, the most improved, and also to the members of the team that captured the league championship.

Missing on a spare is Tom Siple.

Many new trophies were added to our trophy case this year by our athletic teams. (Left) Fellowship of Christian Athlete member Chris Joyner gives the pre-game prayer.

Both the football and wrestling teams had successful seasons. The Wrestling team won the county meet, and the Football Team posted the best football record in school history.

First sectional finalist in Tennis for M-G was Jeff Harrold and Curt Cloud.

MEMORIES 73

It was a very good year for the Argylls.

As one Argyll follower speculated, this may be the year of the Argyll, and the year of the Argyll it was.

Madison-Grant experienced the most successful year of athletics in the school's history. The Argylls gained much respect from other schools and also gained many new additions to the trophy case.

The Football, Basketball, Wrestling, and Golf teams all captured the title as Grant County's best. The Cross Country, Tennis, Track, and Baseball teams enjoyed very successful seasons. The highlight of the year had to be the Argyll basketball team winning the Marion Sectional and the victory celebration that followed. The GAA became very active this year and added two trophies to the Argyll trophy case.

All of the Reserve and Freshmen teams are to be congratulated for the fine seasons they experienced during the year.

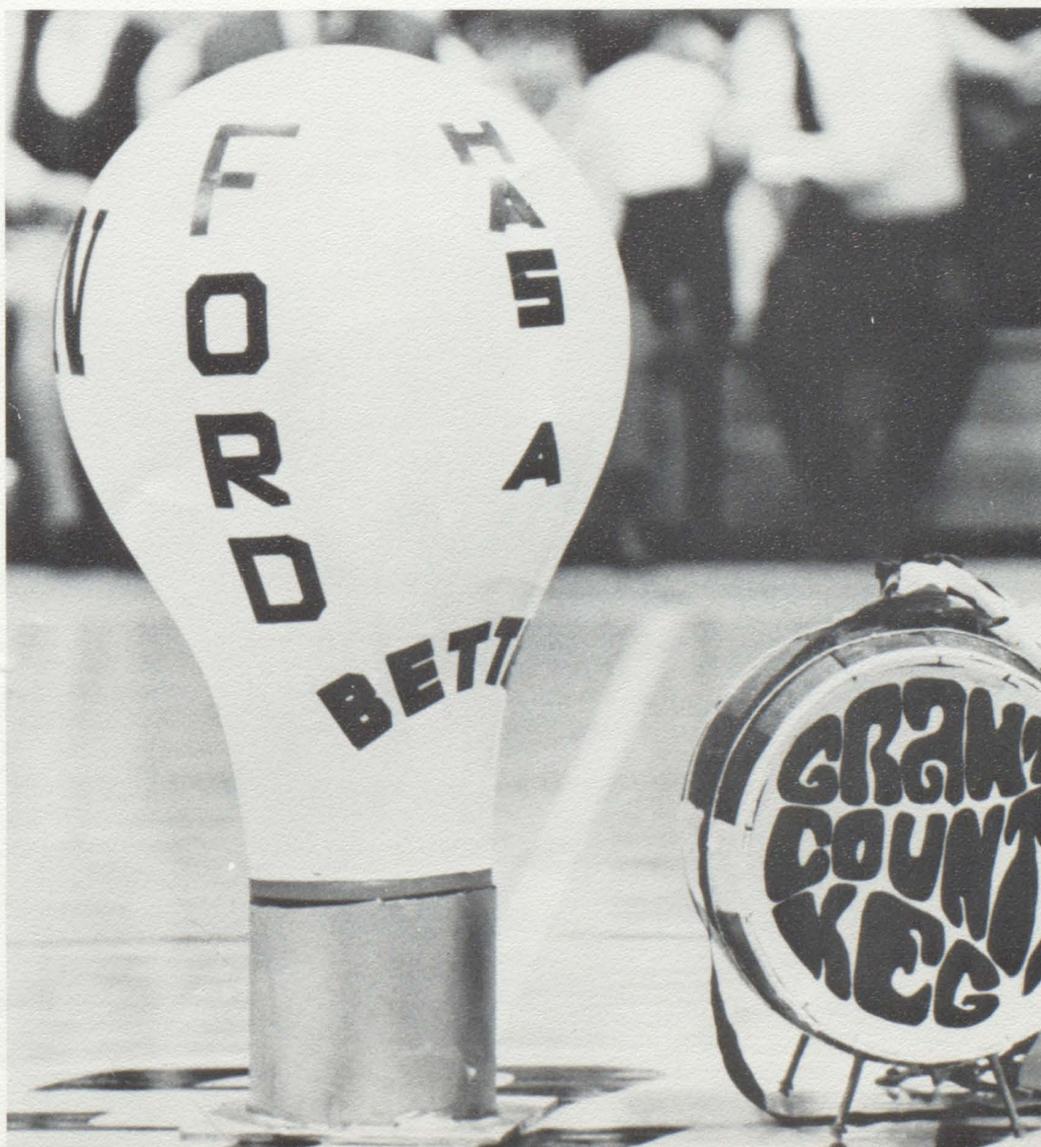

Madison-Grant has a right to be proud of its athletic teams because each team represented the school well and each member wore the Argyll uniform proudly.

To be an Argyll is an honor that is bestowed upon a fortunate few, and along with this honor is the pride and determination that every M-G athlete possesses to do his very best for the Argyll cause.

The Madison-Grant Argyll athletic teams accomplished many goals this year and brought much fame to Madison-Grant, but this only the beginning. Many M-G athletes will graduate with the proud satisfaction and feeling of once being an Argyll, but there are many more athletes to come in the future, and these Argylls will carry on the winning tradition that is becoming so prevalent at Madison-Grant.

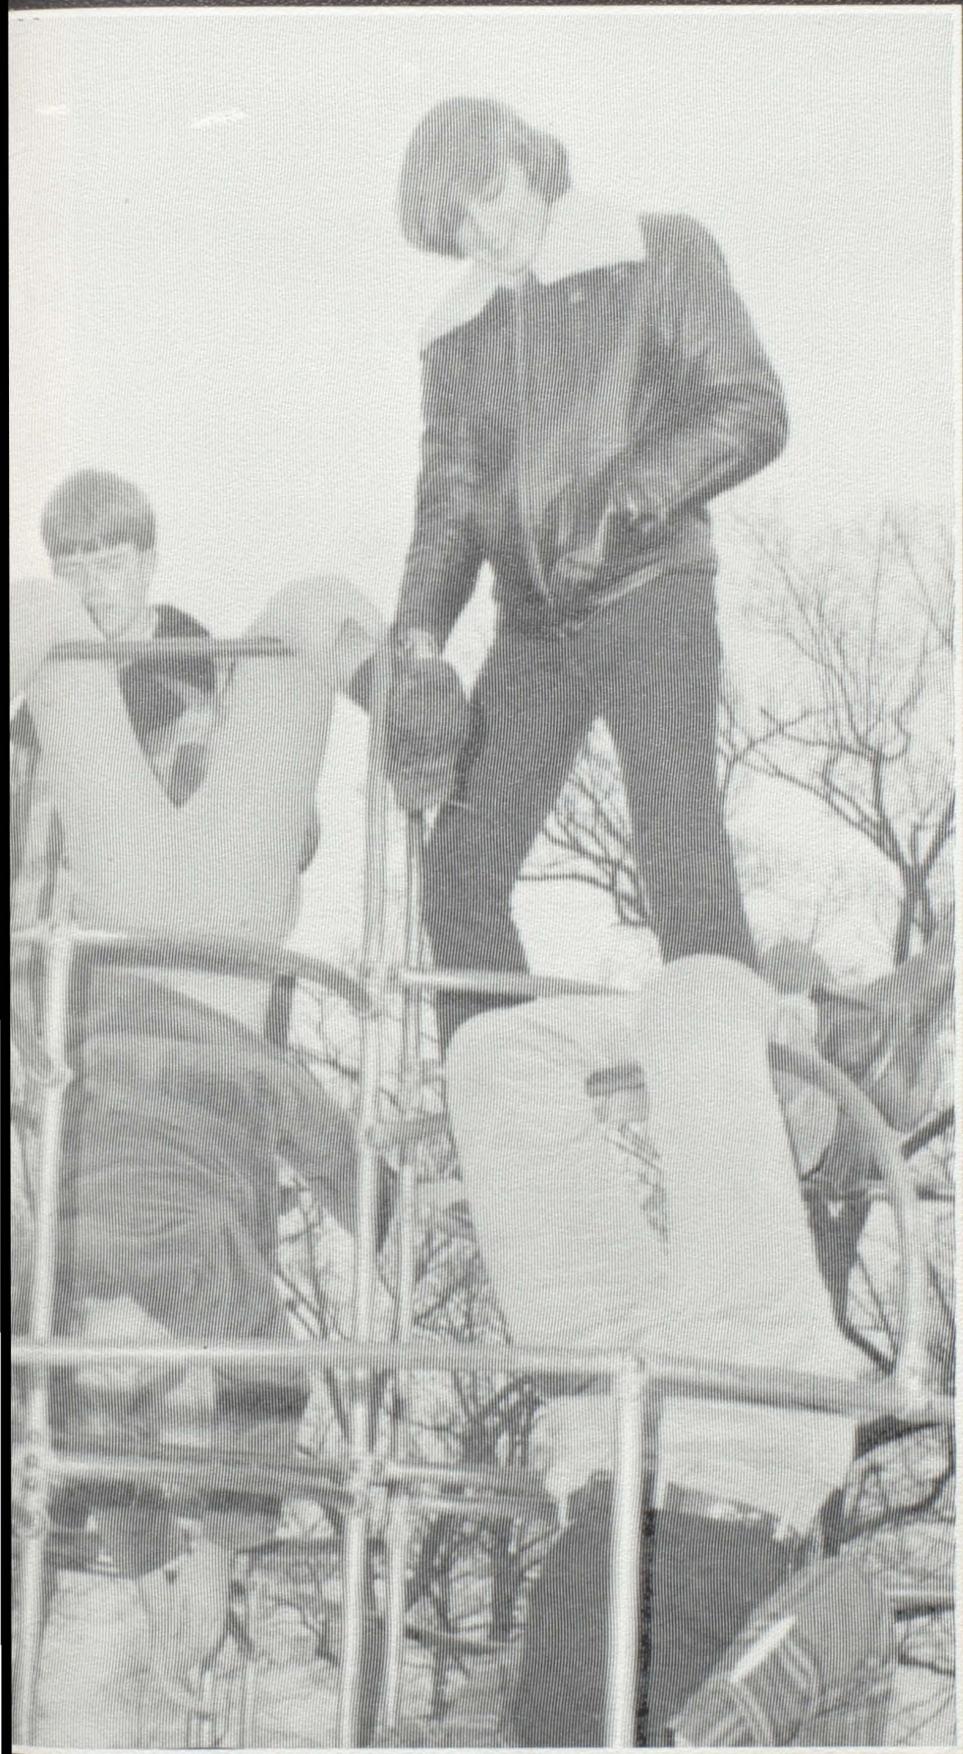

Coach Jack Ford brought many new ideas to Madison-Grant such as a preview of the ballplayers in a soap game. Coach Ford also came with the knowledge of how to get the Grant County Keg back to Madison-Grant.

As we leaf through the album of MGHS, we see pictures of people. Faces of the administration, faculty, staff, and students are portrayed. No two are alike. Behind each of these faces lies different emotions, talents, interests, and moods. These faces represent the spirit of MGHS.

THIS IS SOCIAL INVOLVEMENT.
WE ARE INVOLVED.

Administration

functions

efficiently

The primary responsibility of making the Madison-Grant School Corporation function properly lies in the hands of many people. Superintendent Harold Dick has a number of endless responsibilities as head of the corporation, and Don Inglis has various responsibilities as Assistant Superintendent.

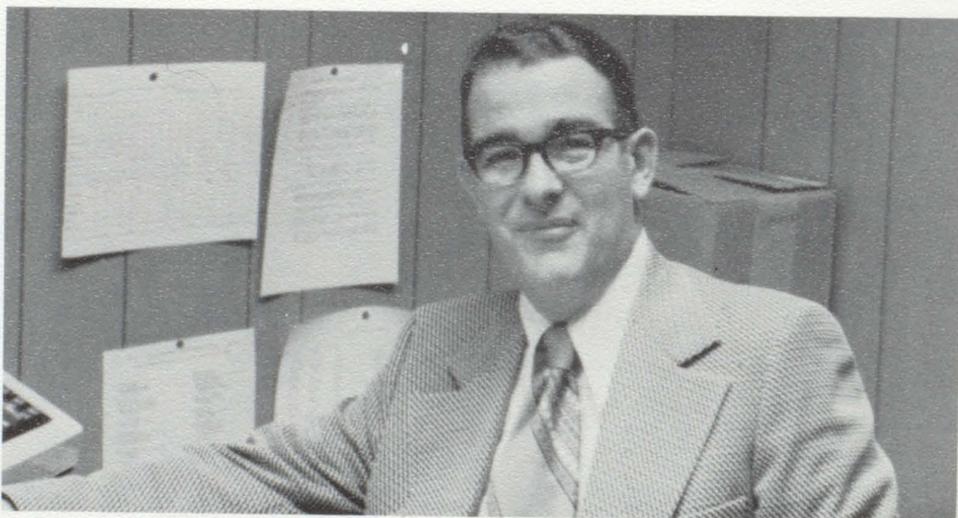

Among the main goals of our school administration are establishing guidelines, making decisions about faculty and curriculum, and supervising various school staffs.

Heading Madison-Grant High School are Mr. Merrill Holloway, principal, and Paul Davis, assistant principal. Mr. Holloway councils faculty members and also works to help improve curriculum changes. Mr. Davis, who is also athletic director, plans athletic schedules, selects equipment, and supervises ticket sales, in addition to his other duties.

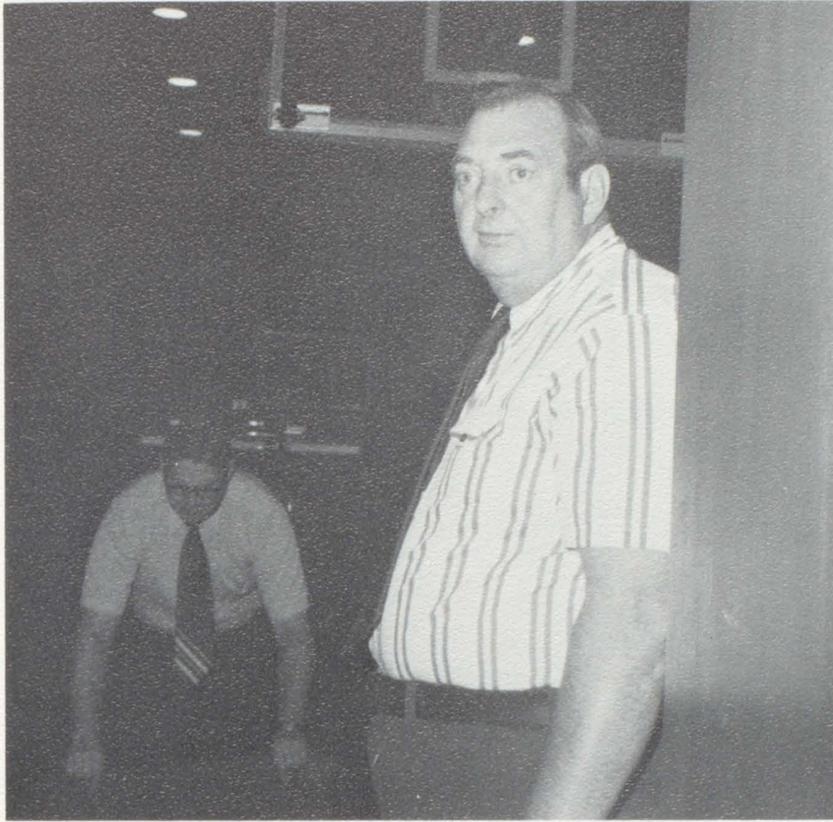

Secretaries for the superintendents and principals help to keep the school operations functioning smoothly by handling records and correspondence.

Mrs. Norm Johnson efficiently handles daily secretarial activities.

Staff functions accumulatively

The cooperation of many people is needed in making Madison-Grant High School function as an efficient and effective unit of education.

The cooks at MGHS spend many hours preparing and serving well-balanced and nutritious lunches for both faculty and students which helps these people when they return to the classroom to resume study.

The school is kept clean through the combined efforts of the school's matron and the janitors at Madison-Grant High School.

Students are transported to and from school, as well as to and from athletic events, by the Madison-Grant High School bus drivers.

The school nurse, Mrs. Lewis, is helpful if any student is injured or becomes ill.

Mrs. Jim Grindle and Mrs. Xen Todd, study hall supervisors provide a quiet atmosphere for study.

Mrs. Billy Ulery is engrossed in her daily tasks of cleaning the school kitchen and other facilities.

Mrs. Melvin Blackburn, Mrs. Bill Silvey, Mrs. Howard Tolle, Mrs. Billy Ulery, Mrs. Glen Hoppes, Mrs. Howard Keefer, Mrs. Larry Payne, Mrs. Max Frazier, and Mrs. Francis Armstrong delay the three lunch preparations to pose for a picture.

Mrs. Hoppes and Mrs. Armstrong take a break from their vigorous duties as cashiers to pose for a picture.

Mrs. Silvey is surprised at the idea of being photographed while cleaning kitchen utensils as is Mrs. Blackburn.

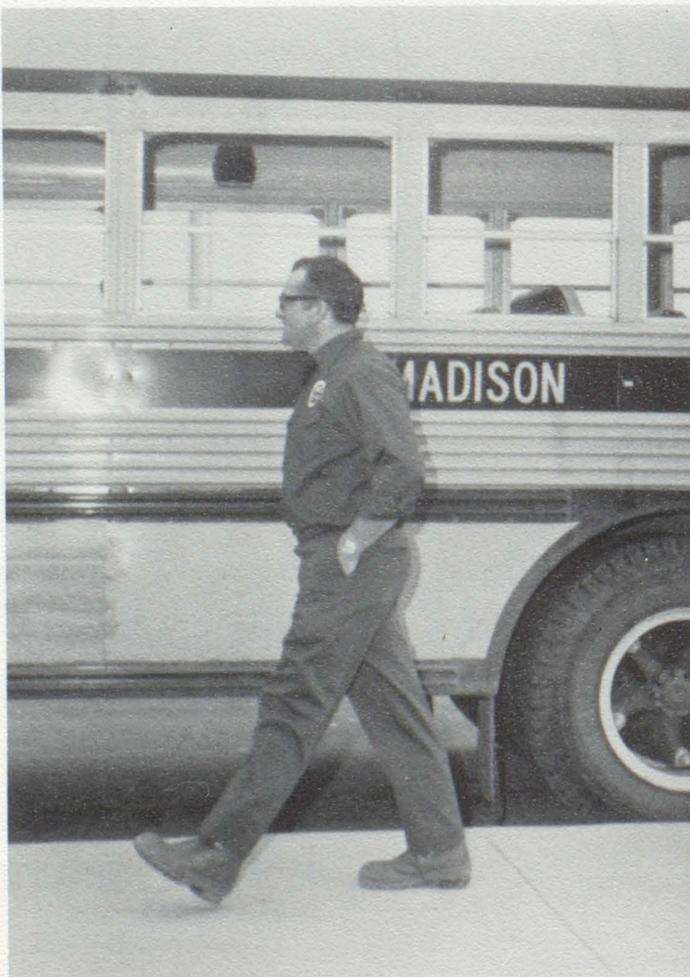

Mrs. James Grindle and Mrs. Xen Todd exchange tales of amusing incidents occurring in each of their study halls.

Mr. James Morris, Mr. John Powers, Mrs. Eugene Bouge, Mr. Bob Bainhart, Mr. David Simpson, Mrs. Max Leach, Mr. John Mitchener, Mr. Gerald Holloway, Mr. Oren Record, and Rev. Lloyd Hall transport M-G students to and from their various schools.

Faculty stimulates courses

The MGHS faculty is a very important part of our school body. The teachers strive to stimulate the many students' interest and to help the students profit greatly from their various courses.

Teachers are confronted with new problems every year. These problems vary from the serious to minor, but they are all a part of the faculty. To solve the many problems that face them, teachers must make many decisions—many of them minor and somewhat routine; others are of extreme importance; all are necessary in the career of teacher, and all are needed for the improvement of the students' understanding.

Teachers also find time and energy to sponsor classes, clubs, and the many sports activities offered their students. Some teachers also devote their spare time chaperoning dances, and many spend their free time helping students improve their understanding of difficult assignments.

Seniors meet the World

This, the final year for the numerous MGHS seniors, is one of the most important times of their lives.

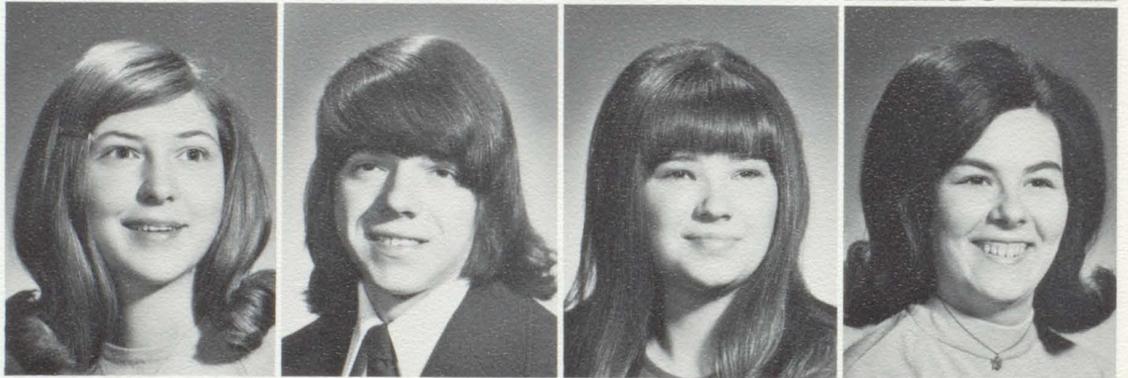

It is the year when the students are forced to actually meet the world for the first time by getting jobs, going to college, and, in many cases, taking on the responsibilities of married life.

Though there is much work to be done and there are many decisions to make, there are still many exciting and interesting times to be spent at school activities and with friends.

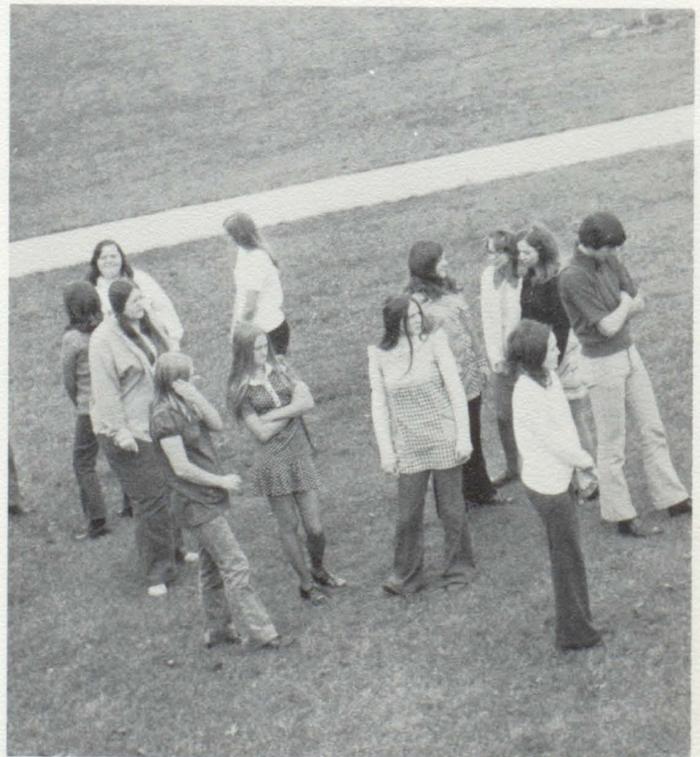

At the close of the senior school year, to many students, the long-time dreams for the future become realities.

Juniors make decisions

As with tradition, the junior class finds themselves caught in the midst of a crucial part of their lives. This is the year these students make the decisions involving their life's work and where they should go in search of finding an appropriate career.

These students also find themselves busy with the normal school activities, such as the task of choosing a prom theme and projecting that theme into a successful event.

The junior year is one compiled of not only PSAT and SAT tests, but of the many complicated, yet wonderful things that make school life best.

Junior class officers Greg Hiatt, President, Vic Dean, Vice-President, Karen Jump, Secretary, and Nancy Smith, Treasurer, take time out of their busy schedules to have a picture taken.

Involvement is the foundation on which our school is built. Without it our lives would become dormant. We became involved in 1973 at MGH—it was a great year.

We, the 1973 ne Obliviscaris staff, would like to thank these people for helping make this yearbook possible. These include Mr. Holloway, Mr. Davis, Mrs. Kathy Johnson, Mrs. Margaret Hummer, the faculty, and the administration for their help and cooperation. Also we thank Jim Parks, Bruce Abernathy, and Larry James for taking and developing many of our pictures; Mrs. Janet Gough for proofreading; Mr. David Nesbitt for giving us many of his pictures; Mr. Ken Hill for lending us pictures; the Marion Chronicle-Tribune for giving us many of their pictures; Mr. Gayle Tutterow for taking senior and club pictures and for developing our pictures; Mr. Larry Glaze, our Paragon representative; Paragon Press for printing our book; the Journalism class for writing captions and typing; Dennis Eaton for writing captions and copy; and especially we thank our advisor, Mrs. Linda Bragg.

To look up and not down,

To look forward and not back,

To look out and not in . . .

To lend a hand.
