And Its 365 Students

--- Who attended there in the school year of 1941-42. It is to these, the sixty seniors of 1942, and the three hundred-five underclassmen that we, the members of the journalism class, dedicate this, the 1942 Black and Gold. May it live up to your expectations. And now we ask you to meet the school --

Whether It's Classes . . . Sports

. . . Activities . . . or Fun

--- in which you were especially interested this year, we will bring them all to you in pictures throughout the following pages. The classroom is the basic unit of the school, but realizing that there is much more included in a well-rounded year, we also bring you the extra-curricular activities that you have participated in and will remember.

1942 BLACK AND GOLD

NOW WE INTRODUCE

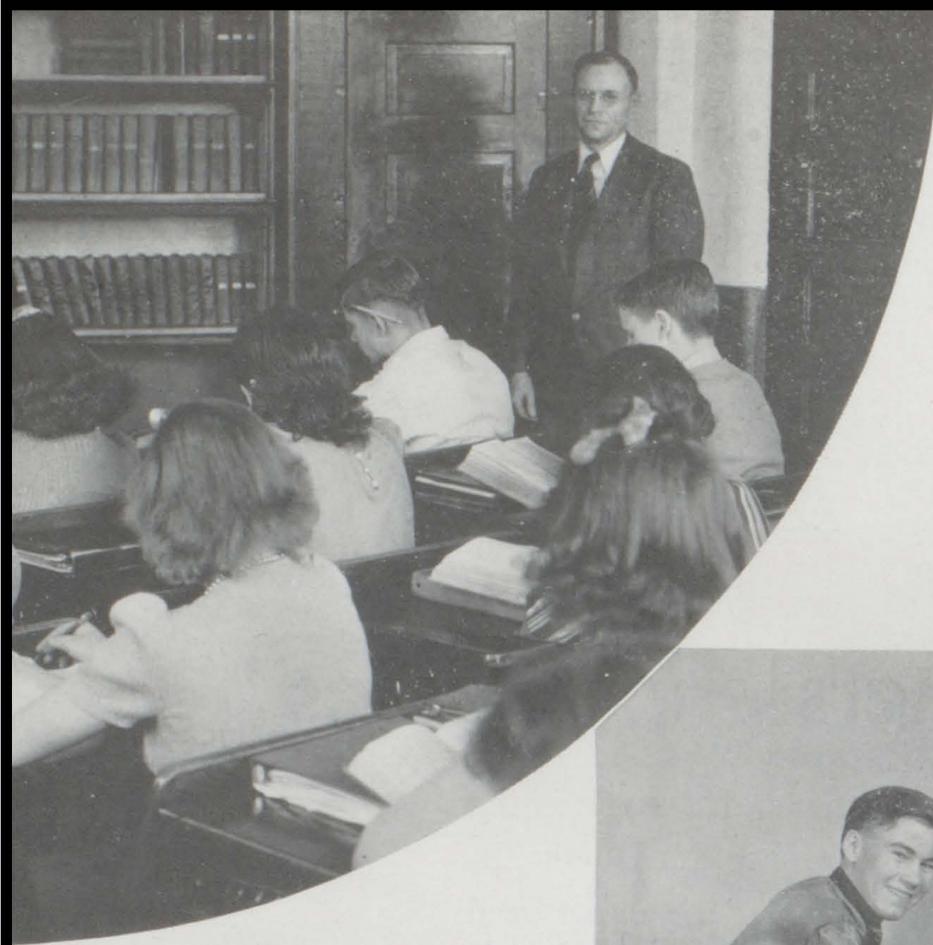

Our Teachers and Classes

- - - As we have said the classroom is the foundation of the school and it is only fitting that we first consider the classes and the teachers who have more or less successfully instilled in us, the students, our quota of the proverbial three "R's." And now we take great pleasure in - - -

Yell Leaders

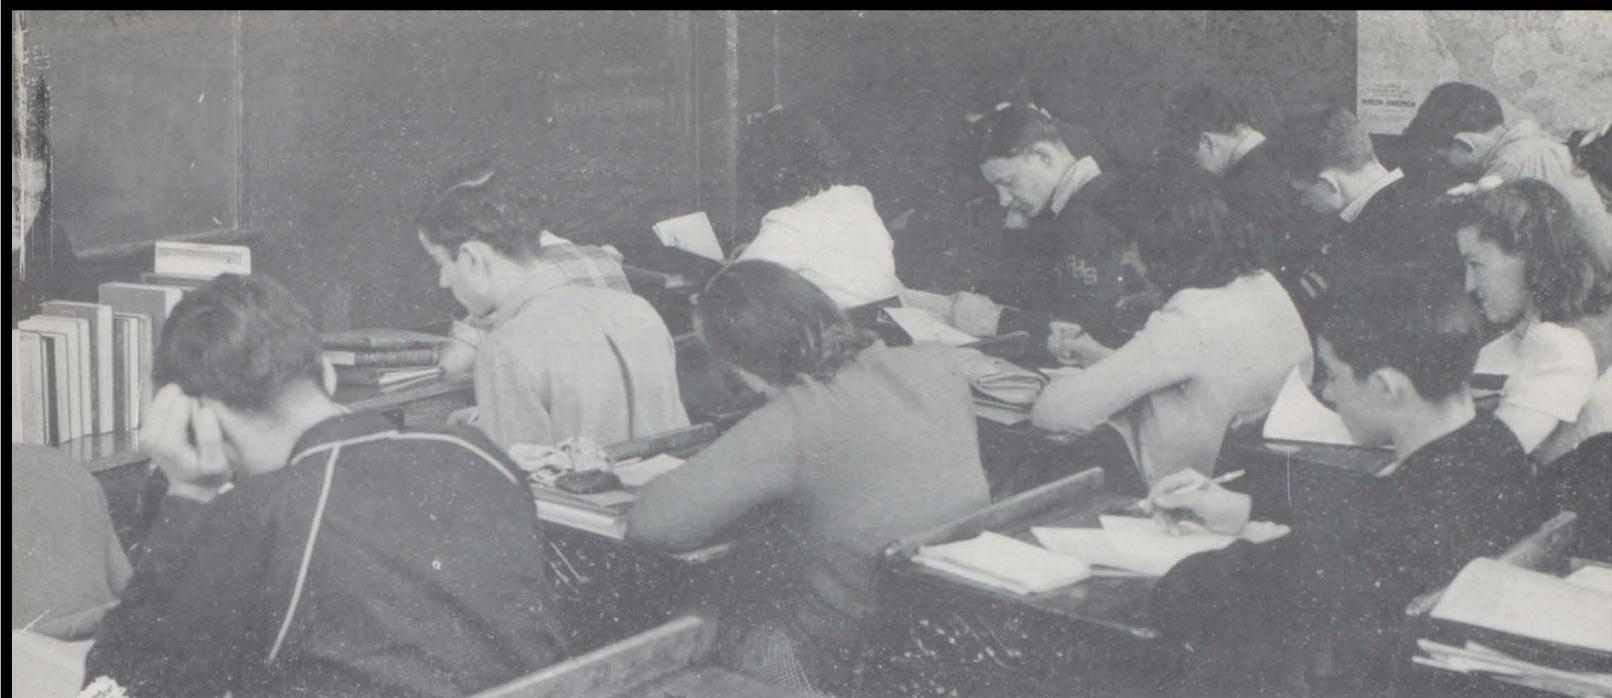

In the corner above we have Mr. Elliott's sixth period United States history class. This is a subject required for graduation and is usually taken during the junior year.

The yell leaders are pictured in the center of the page. These are the "kids" who did such a good job of boosting this year's sectional winners. They were chosen in the fall by student vote following tryouts. Fairmount gained a lot of publicity through the fact that Ronnie Rhoads, two-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rhoads, participated in leading yells at the games. As pictured from left to right the yell leaders are Jack Fox, Ronnie Rhoads, Willie Peterson, and Milford Adams.

On the page opposite above is a class affectionately referred to as government and which every graduate of Fairmount high school is certain to remember. This picture happens to be of Mr. Walter's seventh period class. U. S. Government is usually taken during the senior year and passed, or else - - .

Below we proudly present one of the places dear to the hearts of most Fairmount high students, study (?) hall, often called Library. This happens to picture the eighth period. The Library is the place where the ambitious ones study and the others, well, need we go any further?

- - - which go to make up what you wish to remember about Fairmount high school during the past year. We want you to remember your friends as they were in all their activities. Keeping this in mind as we took the pictures we attempted to get some that would stand out in your memories.

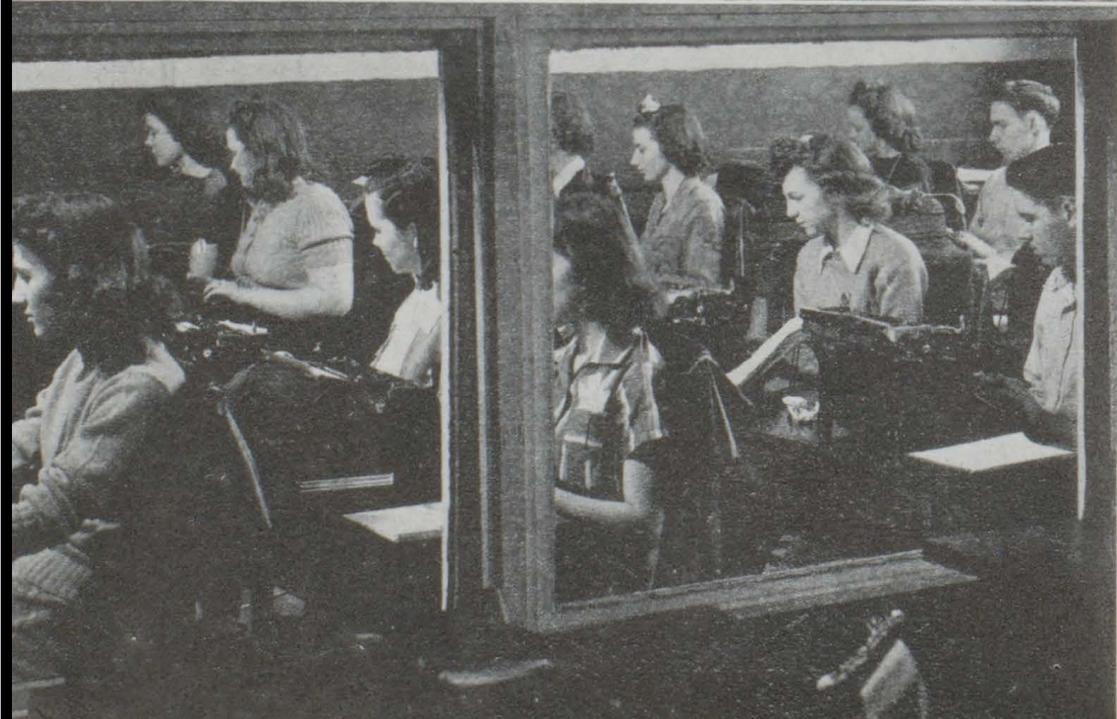

Below we have a shot of the kitchen in the home economics department. The girls are modeling some of their own creations. As we took the picture we asked the girls to appear busy, but with all of those nice, new dresses on, we couldn't expect too much.

In the bottom picture below we present the seventh period beginning typing class taught, as were all commercial subjects, by James Monahan.

Shop

In 1940 the high school purchased a sound motion picture projector. Below are the boys who operated and cared for it during the past year. This group is generally known as the Radio club.

In the bottom picture on this page we have a photograph of the seventh period shop and mechanical drawing classes. In May the boys in the eighth periods of shop and mechanical drawing displayed their masterpieces in a show window uptown.

Superintendent

F. Stanton Gale

Principal

Myrtle E. Gilbreath

Our superintendent, F. Stanton Gale, received his B. S. degree from Purdue in 1916. He attended Terre Haute Normal in the summer of 1924 and Ball State in the summers of 1926 and 1927. Mr. Gale received his M. S. degree at Indiana university in 1935. From 1924 to 1927 Mr. Gale taught biology and agriculture classes in Fairmount high school and from 1927 to 1929 he was principal and also had charge of the agriculture classes. In 1929 he took over his present job as superintendent.

Mrs. Myrtle E. Gilbreath attended the Fairmount Academy and Earlham college. She received her A. B. degree from Marion college in 1924 and her A. M. degree from Indiana university in 1935. She also attended Wisconsin university in 1925. Mrs. Gilbreath has taught in grade schools at Fowlerton, Sweetser, at Marion Central and our own North Ward. In 1926 she took the position of junior high principal in Fairmount where she remained until 1930. A year later she took the position as high school principal.

INTRODUCING

The School Board

Below is pictured the Fairmount school board whose duty it is to decide the policy of the school. They are also responsible for the selection of the teachers and for determining their salaries. The school board consists of Xen Edwards, elected in 1929; Lea McTurnan, elected in 1930; and Charles E. Carey, elected in 1931. Superintendent F. S. Galey and Township trustee, Ora Florea also attend the meetings of the board. All three of these men have served on the board since their first election.

As provided for by law, a school board official's term lasts for three years. The system is worked out so that every year one of the members is brought up for election. This plan insures that two experienced members will be left in office in the event that a new member is elected.

Senior Prophecy

As we went into the auditorium to attend the senior class play, the first person we recognized was Mrs. George Harting, formerly Janis Helms. They were both schoolmates of ours. While talking to her we discovered that her son, as well as our children, had a part in the play. George, jr., played the part of a young lawyer. As we looked over the cast we recognized another of the players. The leading girl was none other than Fanny Ford. Her mother was, of course, Marjorie Trice.

After the play we bumped into Ralph Spence and his wife, Evelyn Jervis, who were classmates of ours. We started talking about the rest of our schoolmates and discovered that Bob Winans and Charles Voorhis had become professional ball players, Bob being a "short" stop. We learned that Lois Jane Parks had landed Gail Mason and that they lived near here. Mara Belle Haisley had become a nurse and was now running a nursery for babies whose parents were busy during the day. Doris Jessup and Wilma Couch were assisting her. Herman Spahr and Charles Draper have seemed to like the navy so they're still in it. They are now chief petty officers. Ruth Brown has her own private airplane and air port and is helping train pilots. Martha Jean Cooper became world's champion baton twirler and is now teaching twirling at Indiana university. Joan Fields is advertising manager for the New York Times and is supporting her husband, Jack Fox, who is doing absolutely nothing.

Homer Dale and Betty Owen are married and run the Rigdon Rat Race. The orchestra featured there is John Lambert and his Lullabyers. Other members of this orchestra are Charles Buck, Paul McCracken, Charles Yale, and Charles Slaughter. Don Rhoads and Barbara Riggs are the vocalists. Eileen Bannon and Bill Beasley, America's No. 1 Rugcuttin' team, are often featured in the floor show. The mayor of this town, incidentally, is James Baker. Several members of the class have made their way to Hollywood and have gained fame there. Margaret Roberts and Milford Adams have become a famous comedy team and have even surpassed Gracie Allen and George Burns of our time. Delores Ricks is known as the Singing Cowgirl of the movies. Gene Peterson is the newest glamour man in Hollywood. Johnny Painter is featured in the Dr. Kildare series and his leading lady is Marjorie Crow. Alvin Ferree is publicity manager for Betty Coffman who is now a famous singing star of the Metropolitan Opera House. Gerrald Underwood and his brother, Clyde, have received an award for having the model farm in the U. S. This farm is located near here and much of the credit for their success must be given to their devoted wives, the former Mary Helen Duling and Lorene Titus, who worked and slaved to raise the money for the project in the first place.

Mr. Philip Sellers has become a famous speaker and now speaks before ladies organizations on "The Care and Bringing Up of Children." Robert Smith is a mechanic in the large Interstate Garage located in Fairmount. Leland Compton is teaching Social Science to the students of the East Ward, the new school building in Fairmount.

Francis Hiatt and James Everhart are noted scientists and have invented a new type of hair pin which not only holds hair in place but also curls it as well. Jack Gift, one of the husky basketball players of our class, now works in a toothpick factory. He is the official tester of all makes and sizes.

Calvin Rybolt inherited $1,000,000 from his rich uncle as well as a large home and he is taking life easy. His butler is Dale Reader who seems to be happy about it as is Donna Jean Huston, the maid. Dorothy Smith is a mountain climber and she and her husband have traveled all over Europe and have climbed the highest peaks. She often speaks of her adventures in public meetings. Sam Leer and Harry Mahoney run a restaurant in Hackleman and are noted for their famous "Onion Soup Special." Many Fairmount people drive out there just to enjoy the delicious food. Carrie Opal Miller was secretary to the president of a large business firm and did all right for herself as she married her boss. Dale Metzger plays a bass horn in a symphony orchestra in Chicago. Helen Bright is a Physical Education teacher at Ball State Teachers college.

As we were leaving the school the janitor came by with his broom and dust pan to clean the place up. He turned around and we discovered that he was Ray Lynch and that he had been at it for about 10 years.

What an evening! When we started to the play we never dreamed of hearing about all our old classmates and where they are and now, here we are, driving home in a world of memory, not thinking about anything else when — — what's that? A State cop. "Pull over to the curb!" "Yes, sir." Now who do you suppose it was? Charles Gaddis. He let us go on without a ticket, too. It's nice to have gone to school with a State cop.

Who am I? Oh, I almost forgot. My name was Tootie Sutton before I was married. I'm the local society reporter.

Class History

On September 6, 1938, eighty small, innocent, little kiddies entered into Fairmount high as freshmen. After a thorough initiation, which made them full-fledged members of F. H. S., the class members met to decide on officers for the coming year. Leland Compton was named president; Bill Beasley, vice-president; James Everhart, secretary-treasurer; and Ruthanna Sutton, social chairman. Miss Helen Hile and Leonard Nolte were class sponsors.

The freshman girls lost no time in making a name for themselves by coming through with the title of inter-class soft ball champs.

The first class social gathering was a Halloween party at the home of Mara Belle Haisley. Late in the second semester the skating rink and theaters in Marion were invaded by Fairmount freshmen. This completed the parties for that year. After a number of meetings concerning freshman flag day, the president, Leland Compton, appointed Wilma Couch, Janis Helms, and Marjorie Crow to make the flag, and on April 4, it waved over the building declaring a half-holiday for everyone in school.

In the fall of '39 the class of '42 entered as sophomores. As we look back we find that class officers elected were as follows: President, John Eastburn; vice-president, Gene Peterson; secretary-treasurer, Paul McCracken; and social chairman, Ruthanna Sutton.

This year the class started to work to earn money to put aside for coming years. A movie entitled "Romance in the Limberlost" was sponsored. As usual there were two class parties consisting of a skating party at Idyl Wyld and a Leap Year party in the gym late in the second semester.

Nearly the same group entered in the fall of '40 as the jolly juniors of F. H. S. This seems to have been a bigger and better year and they chose their class sweaters, which were to be blue and gold, as well as different types of class jewelry.

Still trying to think of ways to earn money so that they could entertain the seniors in the spring, they sponsored a show in which a magician who called himself Murdock baffled the people of Fairmount.

To prove to the other students in high school that they were growing up but could still have a good time they held a class party in the gym and everyone came dressed as a kid. The next spring the juniors were seen and heard on a hay ride going out to Mara Belle's where they were to have a weiner roast.

Soon came the junior play entitled "Our Girls" and directed by Adeline Mart Nall. This proved to be quite a success and the cast and production staff held a party in the home economics room after the play. The class sponsors for this year were the same as last, Miss Eleanor Chapman and Leonard Nolte.

Bill Beasley was honored with the presidency and Wilma Couch assisted him as vice-president. Mara Belle Haisley took care of the finances for the year as well as acting as secretary. Joan Fields, social chairman, took care of the parties for the year.

The junior year came to a close with the juniors entertaining the seniors by taking them to Turkey Run.

The class of "42", now numbering 63, entered F. H. S. as dignified seniors on September 7, 1941. Their officers were chosen immediately and the books show that Bill Beasley is president again; Mary Helen Duling is vice-president and Marjorie Crow, secretary-treasurer; Gene Peterson and Ruthanna Sutton were elected social chairmen. Miss Eleanor Chapman and Leonard Nolte are still acting as class sponsors.

After initiating the freshmen the seniors settled down to work for the year, of course, not forgetting their parties. The first party was held in the gymnasium. Dancing and games were the entertainment for the evening, and refreshments were served in the home economics room.

Charles Draper and Herman Spahr enlisted in the navy shortly after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Several seniors and faculty members held a farewell party for the two boys.

In the spring the seniors chose as their class play, "Seven Sisters." Ruthanna Sutton was elected Relay Queen and, with four junior girls acting as her attendants, she reigned over the Fairmount Relays.

This was a big year for the seniors what with choosing invitations, name cards, deciding what they would wear to graduation exercises and trying for scholarships.

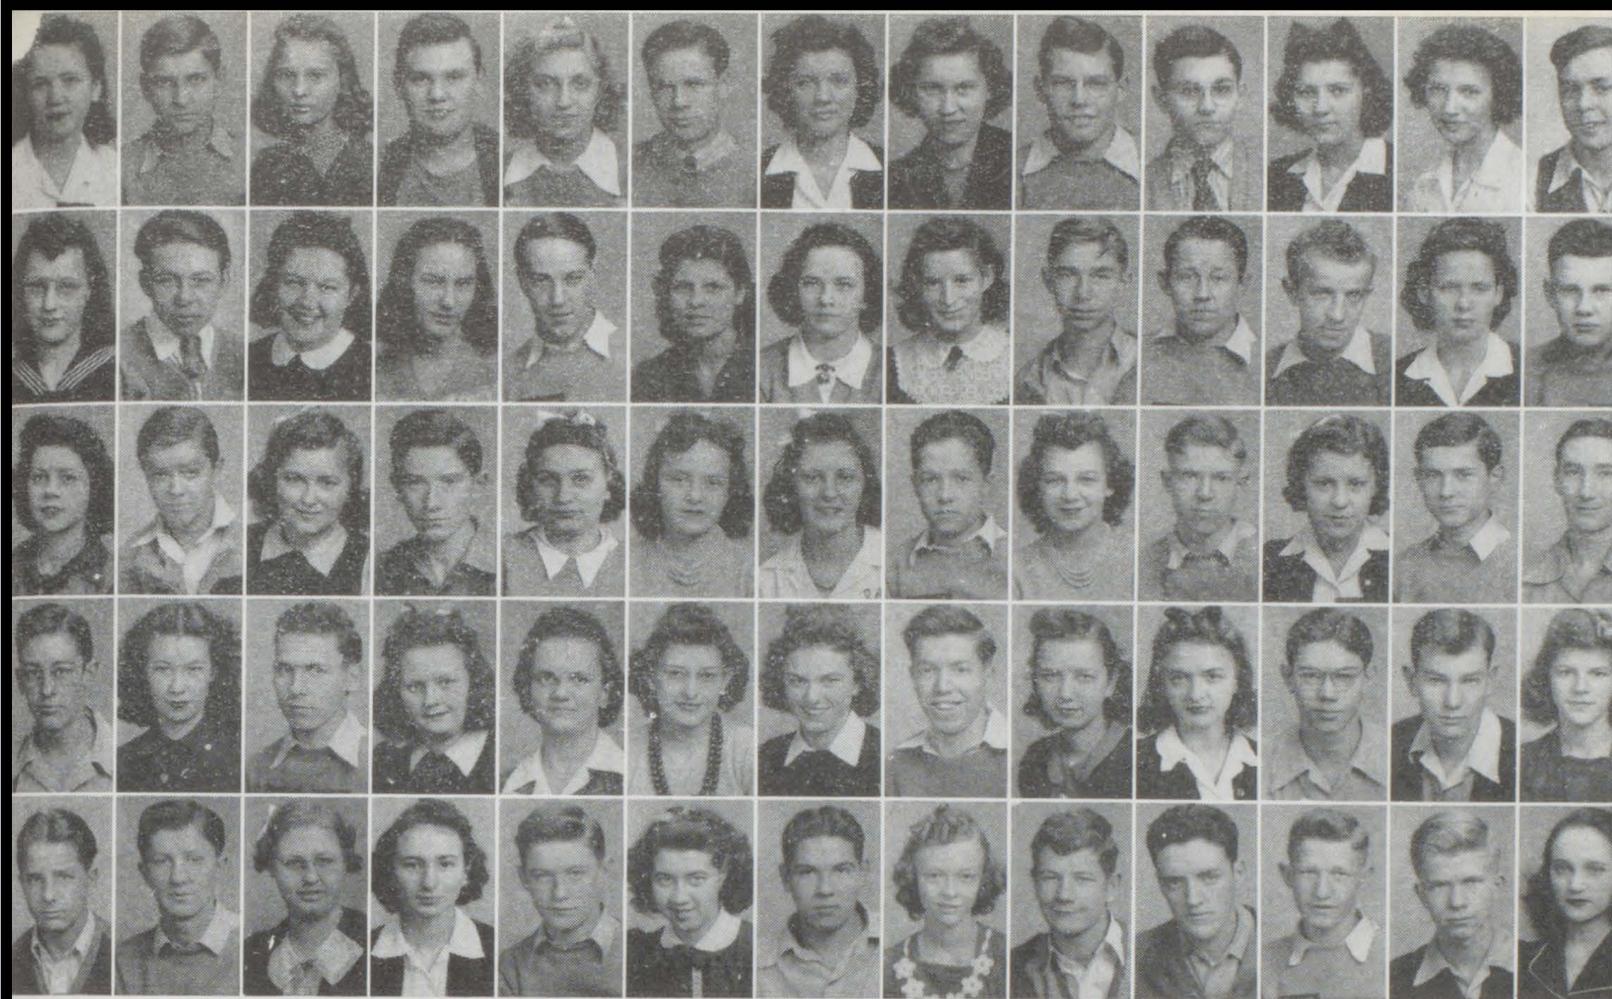

On March 27 the seniors went to the Marion high school where they attended the annual Grant County Guidance conference.

In accordance with an old school tradition the seniors donned kid clothes and came to school on April 17 officially holding kid day in F. H. S. when they bothered the teachers all day long with their childish pranks. At the close of the day they presented a convocation in which each one took part.

Laying their stacks of books away and forgetting all about the tedious home work which they had done so faithfully every night, the seniors, and with the idea of having a good time, went for a hay ride to the old Boy Scout camp for a weiner roast.

On May 17, Baccalaureate was held at the Bethel Tabernacle and the following Thursday, May 21, Commencement exercises were held.

So they take their leave, the class of "43" taking their places as the seniors of F. H. S.

Going into one of the hardest years of school life the sophomore class of 1940-41 advanced to the rank of junior class members during this last year. After working diligently for some weeks the class called a meeting for the purpose of planning a party which turned out to be held in the gymnasium. Games were played, refreshments were served, and dancing concluded the evening. After a few weeks more it came time for the annual junior class play. Students taking part in the play, "Mad March Heirs" given on November 6, were Bob Ribble, Norma Mattson, Martha Leer, Kathleen Jones, Clyde Mittank, James Eastburn, Charline Craw, Merrill Cooper, Orville Mason, Shirley Winslow, O. H. Rigsbee, Kathleen Lynch, Donna Carey, Marvin Gaither, Jane Jones and Junior Scott. Adeline Mart Nall was director.

Then the matter of junior class sweaters, rings and pins was brought up in another class gathering. All juniors who so desired, ordered a class sweater and a ring or class pin.

During the closing weeks of school a second and final party was held at the home of Willie Peterson. This party included a hay ride and wiener roast.

As a conclusion to their junior year the class members entertained the seniors at a banquet held in Marion at the Hotel Spencer on May 15. Because of world conditions the annual junior and senior trip had to be canceled.

Above are pictured the sophomores who first entered this high school in September, 1940. At that time there were 68 of them.

In September of this year 65 of these students came back to the halls of F. H. S. and elected their officers as shown above.

During the year the class members took a hay ride to the Log Cabin on the Muncie Pike, where they had a wiener roast.

In order to raise money the sophomore class presented a movie, "Riding on Air," starring Joe E. Brown and Guy Kibbee. A one-reel comedy,

"Grand Opera," was also shown. Those appointed on the committee to select the show were Max Walker, Leah Hiday, Stanton Galey, and Barbara Brown.

Hand-in-hand the sophomores and seniors won the inter-class track meet held on Freshman flag day in April by defeating the freshmen and juniors 56 to 29.

Because of the shortage of wool and feared unpredictable price levels next year, the sophomores ordered their class sweaters in late spring instead of waiting until their junior year as has been customary in the past. The sweaters are bright green and white.

On their last party this year the sophomores took a hike to the Adams' Dutch Mill where they played games and had another wiener roast.

The class sponsors are James Monahan and Miss Lorene Robinson.

On Tuesday, September 2, almost one-hundred freshmen started their high school careers. At first they were continually underfoot and running around not knowing what to do or where to go, but after a while they became accustomed to their surroundings and began to belong.

On September 11, these freshmen were properly initiated into high school life by the seniors. Throughout the day the freshmen could be seen running around with lipstick on their faces, their clothes on wrong-side-before, and doing just as the seniors would have them do. After this initiation, they became full-fledged members of Fairmount high school.

In October the freshmen decided to have a class party. A vote was taken and a Halloween party was held in the gym on October 17.

The Citizenship and Vocations classes, one of which every freshman is a member, wrote one-act plays on "The Importance of Home Life." The three best were presented before the student body on January 23, and included: "Who Wouldn't Obey" by Treva Davis; "The Problem Child" by Barbara Murray; and "The Importance of Home Life," by Betty Pattison.

In March the freshmen decided it was time for their last party of the year. The result was that a chili supper and a party were held in the gym on March 27. As the basketball team had won the Sectional, the first team and the student manager were special guests invited to the party.

On April 2, the green and white freshman flag went up signifying the day for the annual inter-class track meet. This proud banner was made by Norma Bright, Barbara Winans, Catherine Turner, and Phyllis Wigner. The seniors and sophomores won over the juniors and freshmen, taking all but two firsts. After the meet there was much scrambling and running to get a piece of the badly battered flag.

Mrs. Myrtle E. Gilbreath has had personal interviews with all members of the freshman class. With each she discussed vocational ideas and aspirations. Also, as is the custom for every freshman class, each person made a career book containing an outline of a chosen career and information about it.

With this activity, ninety-two freshmen closed a most successful year.

Class sponsors were Adeline Mart Nall and Everett Chapman, resigned, and Forrest G. Witsman.

INTRODUCING

The Honor Society

OFFICERS OF HONOR SOCIETY

President.....Leland Compton
 Vice-presidentBill Beasley
 Secretary.....Wilma Couch
 Treasurer.....Mary Helen Duling

The Fairmount chapter of the National Honor society was established in 1927. Since that time the local organization has been an active group, adding new members each semester.

The faculty chooses members for the Honor society from the junior and senior classes. This year an amendment to the local constitution made it possible for five per cent of the junior class to be elected at the completion of the fifth semester; then ten per cent at the end of the sixth semester; and fifteen per cent of the first-semester seniors. All those making the honor roll at the time of graduation are eligible for election to the National Honor society.

Symbolical of character, service, scholarship, and leadership are the red and white ribbons which are presented to each new member at a special convocation. The main function of the organization is primarily to give honor to those students who have distinguished themselves in their high school careers. As a secondary purpose the Honor society exists in order to stimulate students to be good students, upright citizens, and strong leaders in high school.

Each spring, following the election of new members, the society has a party at which the new members are informally initiated. Since 1938 Frederick E. Wood has been the faculty advisor for the Honor society.

INTRODUCING

The Journalism Class

It is the journalism class of Fairmount high school which publishes the weekly school paper, The Ereeze. This same class annually publishes the high school year book. This Black and Gold is the 1942 edition. It is Miss Eleanor Chapman's job as faculty advisor to supervise the writing and publication of both.

In order to raise money for the Ereeze fund members of the journalism staff sold candy, ice cream and cokes at the home basketball games and during noon hours throughout the year. In addition the class also sponsored a Halloween carnival; booster plates were also sold.

The Black and Gold is the traditional name for the Fairmount high school annual. Last year that was departed from and a different theme was tried. This year we have reverted to the traditional title. The journalism class believed that by bringing the traditional Black and Gold up to date it would be possible to give you more of what you wanted. It is the sincere wish of the members of this class that you will get as big a "kick" from the 1942 Black and Gold as they did in working on it.

Below you see pictured the thirteen members of the class with the exception of Herman Spahr who joined the navy in December.

The Girl Reserves held a business meeting every Tuesday except the first Tuesday in each month at which time the girls participated in sports in the gymnasium.

On October 9, 1941, Miss Lorene Robinson, advisor, the club officers, and Doris Jessup attended a Marion Girl Reserve meeting at the Y. W. C. A.

Thirty-one new members were initiated in the organization by the old members in a candlelight service on Tuesday, October 28.

The first party was held in the gymnasium on November 11. Games were played and a scavenger hunt was held.

The group joined and contributed $2.00 to the Red Cross in November.

The club purchased and decorated a Christmas tree to cheer the halls of the school.

On the bright Sabbath morning of May 3 the organization assembled and went to the Friends church.

Since in the month of April is the birthday of the Girl Reserve organization, members sponsored a convocation on Thursday, April 16.

For their defense project, the club sold war stamps during the last five weeks of school.

Future Farmers

The Future Farmer club of Fairmount high school with Melvin Stevens as faculty advisor held two contests during this year. A corn husking contest was held in the fall and was won by George Ice. Later in the year a pest contest was held with honors going to Earl Grim.

The club also had two night meetings during the year. One was for initiation services and the other was an evening of fun, and basketball was played.

Members of the F. F. A. were heard on the air in a quiz program held over station WOWO at Fort Wayne in the winter.

Club boys raised money for the organization by selling seed corn.

There were nineteen active members at the close of school.

The Hi-Y club has just completed its sixteenth year of existence in Fairmount high. The local club is affiliated with the state and national Y. M. C. A. organizations and its purpose is to maintain high standards of Christian character among high school boys. Membership is open to all boys in the sophomore, junior, and senior classes who qualify. Usually 30 to 40 boys belong.

Projects for the past year have included: Operating a book exchange, donating toys at Christmas, printing and distributing basketball schedules, sending two delegates to the state Older Boys Conference at Kokomo, observing the season of Lent by special study of the Sermon on the Mount. The work of the year was climaxed by the annual banquet and second degree initiation services at the Friends church.

INTRODUCING THE STAMP CLUB

Milford DailyPresident
Max Shrontz . . .Vice-president
Howard Lewis . . .Sec'y-treas.

Boys interested in stamps, organized a Stamp club under advisor Paul D. Walter this year. The purpose of the club is to trade, buy, and study stamps of all origins, colors and designs. In doing this, the members purchased seven new stamp albums and several United States and general stamp catalogues. Mr. Walter was host at a spring party held for the ten members of the club. Several boys outside the club became interested in this hobby toward the last of the year and consequently the club has a good future. Meetings were held each Thursday and Friday during the third period.

MODEL CLUB

One month after school started a new club was organized. It was the Model club sponsored by Leonard H. Nolte, shop instructor. The club met third period every Thursday, and occasional meetings were held in the gym on Wednesday nights. One of these meetings featured an indoor airplane model flying contest. A flying model meet at Purdue was entered by Charles Wesco. Several other members attended this meet. As a climax for the year, the members built airplane models for the government, a job which proved to be an interesting test of the ability of the model builders.

TWIRLING CORPS

A twirling corps was formed this year with Martha Jean Cooper, majorette, responsible for starting it. She was appointed student instructor and much credit is due her. Charles Nesbitt, drum major, was the only boy to twirl the baton this year.

The corps presented a floor show, accompanied by the band, at each of the eight home basketball games. Twelve twirlers and the majorette participated in the County Rural Youth Amateur contest and received third place. Eight twirlers and the majorette performed at the Stamp and Bond shows held in Fairmount, Summitville and Alexandria in the spring.

Each girl made her own uniform excepting the majorette whose uniform was presented to the school by the local chapter of Veterans of Foreign Wars.

INTRODUCING THE DEBATE CLUB

From this group on the right came a sectional winning debate team. This team, composed of Wilma Couch and John Winslow, affirmatives, and George Harting and Bill Beasley, negatives, won the Indiana High School Debating League sectional held at Elwood in February. From there the team members went to the Regional debate at Earlham College where they were defeated by a strong Rushville group. During the year the Debate club attended tournaments and conferences at Rushville and at Purdue university, in addition to several practice meets with Wabash, Sweetser, and Greentown. All club work was carried on outside school hours. Frederick E. Wood is faculty advisor.

BOY SCOUTS

This is Troop 20 of the Meshingomesia area council of the Boy Scouts of America, sponsored by the Fairmount school system. During the past year these boys have taken the responsibility for collecting much needed waste paper by making a house to house canvass of Fairmount and vicinity. So that this could be done more economically the school board financed the purchase of a truck for joint use by the Scouts and the school. Several boys have taken special emergency training this year.

The Scouts furnished a color guard for all the home basketball games. Each Armistice day they place a wreath on the monument honoring Fairmount's World War dead.

CAMERA CLUB

Founded and sponsored by Rupert Kilgore, the Camera club has concerned itself with taking more and better pictures. This group has studied the operation and care of the camera and the technique of taking good pictures. Members of the club have exhibited their prize photos in several contests during the past year. We wish to thank Mr. Kilgore and those students who provided pictures for the snapshot page of this annual.

INTRODUCING

The Fairmount High School Band

The high school band became the "best dressed" organization of our high school by acquiring its new uniforms shown in the above picture.

Fairmount business men engaged the band to play concerts on Saturday nights during the summer of 1941. Proceeds were used to pay for the new uniforms. Other methods of raising money were used with hearty cooperation of the entire community. The local unit of the V. F. W. presented our band with its majorette uniform.

Following is an account of the activities of the band members since September, 1941. Shortly after school started, a concert was given at the evening session of the annual convention of the Grant county Y. W. C. A. The Halloween festival parade was led by this group. On receiving the new uniforms in December, a dedication concert was presented and martial music played during eight basketball games. They played during intermissions at the county basketball tournament held January 16 and 17. On January 28, the band traveled to Muncie to hear a concert by the Ball State band. In honor of William Dare's one hundredth birthday, the band paid him a musical tribute. On April 15, these boys and girls were privileged to see a performance of the comic opera, "The Barber of Seville," in Hartford City. An ensemble from the band provided music for commencement exercises at the Fowlerton grade school. The T. N. T. musical revue was a program presented entirely by the music department. It was the largest music performance of the year within the school, and the band played an important part in its presentation. Two "Stamp and Bond" shows were given with this group participating in both.

As in previous years, the band participated in the Ball State music festival in Muncie on May 4. The annual observance of Hospital Day at the Veterans' hospital in Marion on May 17, found our band marching and playing. On May 21, the last concert of the school year was played at Commencement exercises.

A high school orchestra, composed of members who are in the band, completed a busy year also. The orchestra provided music for the junior and senior class plays, the Sectional winner's banquet, and participated in the T. N. T. Musical revue.

INTRODUCING THE CHOIR

The high school choir, twenty strong, met every Thursday and Friday during the third period to practice in the auditorium.

Selected tenors and basses from the Boys Glee club and selected sopranos and altos from the Girls Glee club composed the choir.

Since the very beginning of the school term, the choir has been popular throughout the community, singing at various churches and before other organizations. The first public appearance was made at the Friends church, February 15. On February 22, Rupert Kilgore, director, took the group to Center church. The next appearance occurred at the Easter service, held in the Friends church on Friday afternoon, April 3. On that afternoon the entire student body attended the Easter service. April 5, saw the group at the Methodist church in Fowlerton and April 12, at the Methodist church in Fairmount. The choir also participated in the three Stamp and Bond programs held April 20, April 29, and May 1. On May 3 the choir sang once more at the Friends church and May 4 found this group participating in the Ball State music festival in Muncie.

The last public appearance this year was at the Baccalaureate services held on May 17.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

Each Monday morning the Girls Glee club met in the auditorium to sing.

On March 17, these girls sang "Song of the Bayou" at TNT. On May 21, Commencement, both Girls and Boys Glee clubs sang "When Day is Done."

Rupert Kilgore was in charge.

BOYS' GLEE CLUB

Members in the Boys' Glee club met every Tuesday with Rupert Kilgore directing.

On March 17, this group participated in TNT, a musical revue put on by the school music department. In TNT these boys sang several songs of the old Southland.

This group sang "When Day is Done" along with the Girls' Glee club at the Commencement exercises on May 21.

INTRODUCING

The Varsity

Gene Peterson, a senior, has played two years as a regular on the varsity squad. He plays in forward position and is known as a left-hand-hook-shot artist. "Pete" was high scorer for the Quakers during the 1941-42 season.

Clyde Underwood, a senior, advanced to the varsity in his last year to play as the regular in center position. Clyde had an eye for the basket and was hard to stop.

Jack Gift, a senior, has earned three stripes on the varsity by playing in guard position for three years. "Gifty" was a good passer and his "fakie" dribbling baffled opponents.

Charles Voorhis, a senior, leaves the team after playing on the squad as regular for one year and as reserve for one year. Charles is a "dead eye" shot from any place on the playing floor.

Second Row:

Leland Compton, a senior, has been reserve center for two years. Leland was known as the team's general utility man as he could play any position in which he was placed.

Max Walker, a sophomore, played as reserve forward during the last season. Max has a lot of basket ability and will be hard to handle next year.

Don Rhoads, a senior, played as a regular forward during this season and was a reserve forward during this season was a good ball "handler" and could hit from the side of the floor.

Charles Gaddis, a senior, was one of the reserve guards. "Chick" was another of Fairmount's southpaws.

Everett Chapman, coach, resigned in April and was replaced by Forest G. Witman.

Jeff Titus, a junior, was reserve forward and his height will be helpful to the squad next year.

George Ice, a junior, filled the other reserve guard position. George's speed and accuracy for the basket will be welcomed next year.

Gerrald Underwood, student manager.

INTRODUCING

The 1942 Sectional Winners

To your left are pictured the boys coached by Everett Chapman who carried off the honors when they won the Marion Sectional tourney for Fairmount high school this year by defeating the Gas City, Marion, and Swayzee teams.

In the game with the Marion Giants the Quakers were at the highest peak in their playing ability and were hitting a large percentage of their shots, which the Giants were unable to prevent.

Defeating Marion was a great honor for these boys since Marion had not been defeated by any county team for twelve consecutive years. Fairmount has been the only school in the county ever to defeat the county seat team.

After winning from the Giants the Quaker team went ahead and won the first game in the Regional against North Manchester but was eliminated by the Tipton Bluedevils in the finals.

The Quakers ended their 1941-42 basketball season with a total of 21 wins and 7 losses.

Fairmount participated in the finals of the county tournament after defeating Swayzee and Sweetser and was defeated by the Jonesboro Zebras in the finals by two points. Our team was forced to play a double-overtime game with the Sweetser Braves in the semi-finals in order to advance to the finals.

The local team also shared the honors in a three-way tie with Swayzee and Van Buren for county conference title this year. All three teams ended conference play with a .666 percentage.

Next year's squad will be chosen from the three junior boys on the varsity and the boys pictured at the bottom of this page, who make up the Quaker second team. These boys have also had a very successful season and won 15 games of 20 played. O. H. Rigbee held scoring honors with a total of 93 points.

The seconds participated against the St. Paul's first team of Marion and won. The score was 39 to 20.

INTRODUCING

The Baseball Team

Fairmount's baseball team hit an all time low this year and lost every game played but one which was a tie with Jefferson Township when the game was called because of rain. Our boys participated in 6 games.

Sweetser won the round-robin title in Grant county play.

Hardball was instituted this year in place of softball.

Schedule of the year with scores of the games for the Fairmount "hardballers" were as follows:

Runs	Runs
Fairmount.....7	Jonesboro 18
Fairmount.....3	Swayzee 14
Fairmount.....1	Gas City 6
Fairmount.....2	Upland 2
Fairmount.....3	Sweetser 17
Fairmount.....1	Van Buren 13

The Track Team

Total statistics concerning the track team's season cannot be given as all meets in which the Quakers participated had not been run when the annual was printed.

Fairmount's track team started its schedule by meeting Gas City there. The Tiger thinlies piled up a large score against the locals. Sweetser also participated at Gas City. Next, on the Sweetser track, Fairmount downed her, 67 to 21 points. The Quakers then entertained the Alexandria Tigers at the fairground and won, with 77 points to 23 for Alexandria. Fairmount placed third in her next competition which occurred at the Grant county track meet, won by Gas City. In the Muncie relays, last event for which we have results, the only scoring for Fairmount was done by Bob Ribble who took second place in the high jump

The Relay Queen and Her Attendants

On Monday, March 30, members of the senior class nominated five girls from the class for Relay queen for the 1942 annual Fairmount relays which were held at the Fairmount fairgrounds on May 8.

Girls nominated were: Ruthanna Sutton, Mara Belle Haisley, Marjorie Crow, Janis Helms and Martha Jean Cooper.

After the student body had voted to determine the favorite, votes were counted and it was found that Ruthanna Sutton would be the 1942 Relay queen. She received a large number of votes which proved her popularity among her school mates. "Tootie" was one of the attendants to the 1941 Relay queen, Maxine Moon.

The queen was escorted to the Fairgrounds behind the Fairmount high school band and the student body followed in class groups. She presented all first-place winners with blue ribbons.

For her attendants Ruthanna chose Willie Peterson, Martha Leer, June Crow, and Norma Mattson, all from the junior class, as is the custom. These girls presented winners under first place with their respective ribbons.

When the annual went to press the Relays had not been held and the outcome was unknown.
