Looking Through Our Eyes

Katie Hobbs '07

Welcome to Frankton Jr./Sr. High School! We are a small group of students, but still want our story heard. We want you to see how we live day in and day out through our eyes.

Every year, students complain about how parents are teachers just don't understand them. All we ever want is for them to see our world., to look through our eyes for once. We have many interesting things that go on all the time, and nobody ever stops to take notice. This is how our world looks, when Looking Through Our Eyes!

Katie Hobbs '07 - "Since we are in middle school, we now have more freedom which comes with more responsibility. I'm looking forward to growing up and experiencing everything.."

Victor Foster '06 - "With a small school it's easier to be close with the teachers and they are always there when you need them.."

Chelsea Smith '05 - "I can say that our class has grown up a lot, and now our theme song is 'No More Drama' by Mary J. Blige."

Dustin McPhearson '04 - "I would like to say that although Frankton is known as a big gossip school, there are some really nice people."

Jacole Mattingly '03 - "With our student body being smaller than most other schools, the closeness is always there. My friends and I have been through so much together this year and we are ready for whatever comes in the future."

Danny Embry '02 - "I see all the hard work that Mr. Morton puts in and the intelligence that he has."

Senior, Tiffany Johnson, shows her school spirit and cheers on the fans as the school mascot.

Seniors Rule says Steve Ulery as he stops to smile and pose for the camera during a passing period.

Traditions will always be around! These junior high students take a time out to sign each others yearbooks during lunch.

Posing for their last prom memory, Tiffany Whitworth, Briana Butcher, Sarah Greene, Shelby Stinson, Amelia Mott, Brittany Ricker, Tiffany Johnson, Megan Summers, Celliena Swigeart and Alissa Thomas will be friends forever.

Having lots of school spirit, Tara Holt, Jacole Mattingly, Kristen Kunce and Joey Mahoney support the Eagles during the girls sectional basketball game.

This Eagle, donated to our new sports complex to be displayed, proudly stands tall and lets everyone who enters know that we are the Eagles!

Through our eyes

Trying to keep dry and warm, Mary Graham and Kyle C. Lacey share an umbrella at a football game during Senior night.

Full of energy and enthusiasm, Tony Marshall shows off his skills and entertains many at the athletics field.

Krystal Courtney, Jarren Mattingly, Kylie Hudson, and a helper cheer at Carnival Daze for the cheerleading booth.

Shelby Stinson sits and concentrates on finishing the junior hallway for Homecoming. The juniors theme was "Pancake the Panthers."

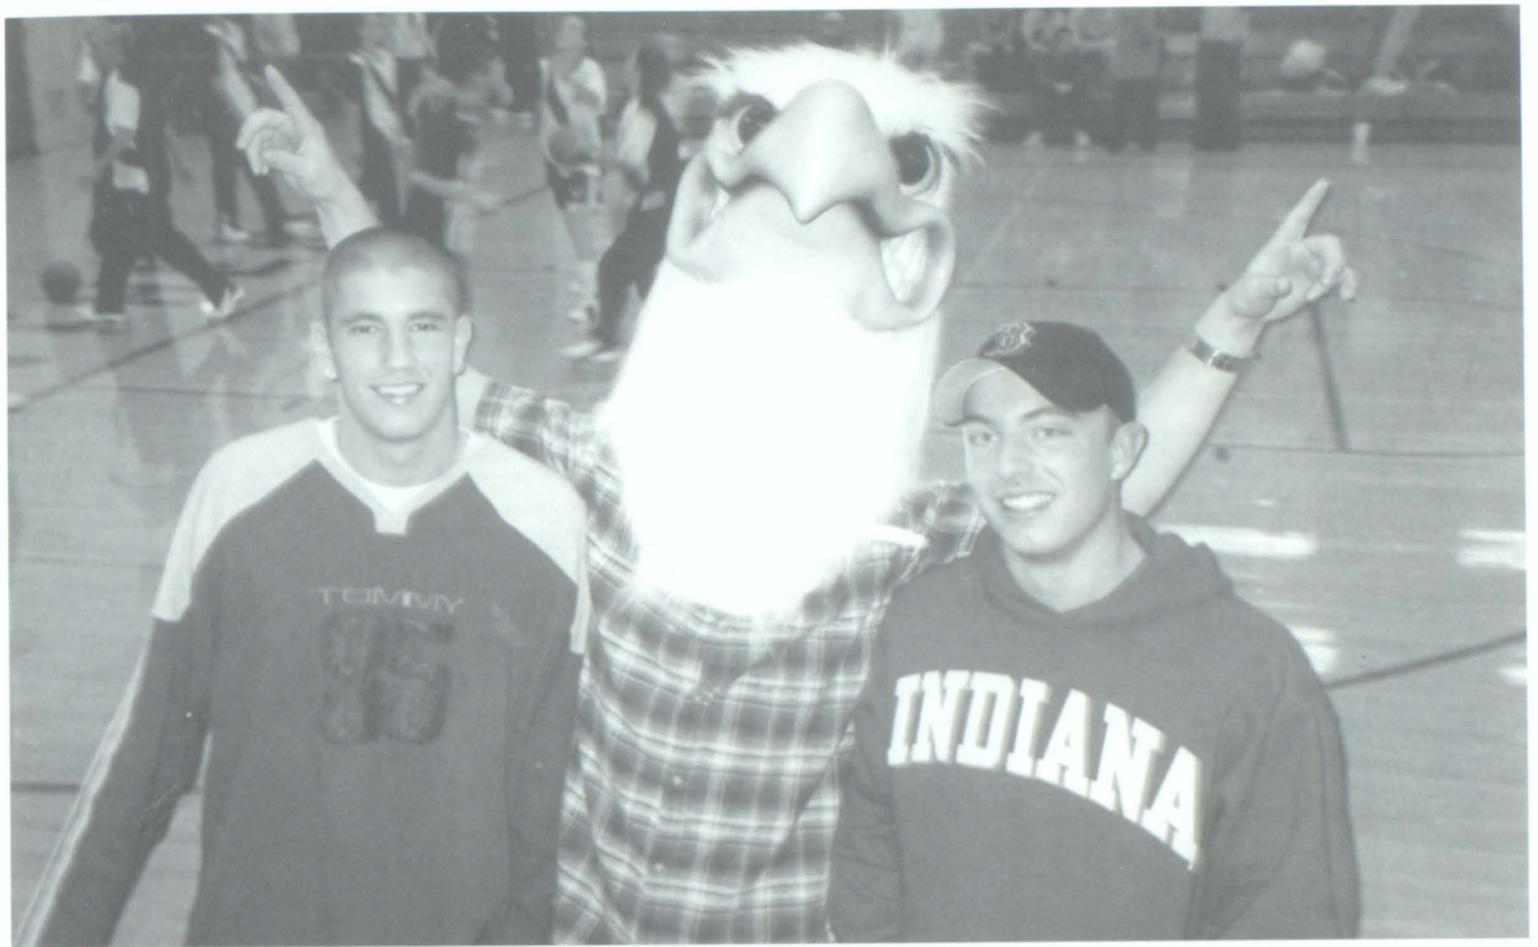

As an active member of the student body, Briana Butcher not only sings in the choir, but she also helps decorate the props and equipment.

Along the side of Mrs. Coppess, Tiffany Whitworth has prepared a speech to present to her fellow SADD members and to discuss new business.

Seniors Joey Mahoney and Kyle C. Lacey pose with the Eagle mascot during a girls basketball game. Many students came out and supported the girls this year.

Craig Betz, Sara Rodewald, and Evan Covington sit and try to stay entertained during a school dance.

Look at them go! Nick Lozo and Jessica Benefiel bring back 'swing dancing' at one of the school dances. This particular dance was sponsored by the junior parents for the purpose of raising money for Post Prom.

HOME COMING 2001

Homecoming is an annual event at FJSHS filled with many traditions. This year was a very non-traditional Homecoming. For the second year in a row Homecoming had to be postponed one week due to the ISTEP testing of many of our students. The powder puff game and the class games were held on Thursday October 4th instead of Friday due to a teacher in-service day. The Homecoming football game and the parade were scheduled to remain on Friday.

The Student Council sponsored the class games which ranged from musical chairs to the toilet paper mummy contest. Juniors won the class games for the high school, as did the 8th grade for the junior high.

Due to rain on Friday the Homecoming parade was cancelled, but the football game would go on. The rain and cold temperatures did not put a damper on the fan's spirits. The Homecoming court was announced and they graced the field with their umbrellas. The Eagles fell short of their Homecoming victory hopes with a loss to the Eastbrook Panthers, but later in the year, the Eagles went on to get a sectional victory.

7th graders Robert Martin and Walter Stamp wrap Megan Chambless in toilet paper during the homecoming games.

What was the best part about your homecoming?

Devin Brown- "The celebration before the game."

Laura Radcliff- "The game because it was fun to watch."

"Jacob Woodard- The game because it was a really good game."

James Murray- "The game because it was fun."

Part of the Homecoming Court stops in the rain to get their pictures taken. Their names were announced at halftime of the Homecoming game.

CARNIVAL DAZE

For the first year ever, the Frankton Carnival Daze hit the streets. The fun began on the night of Thursday, May 23 and ran until Sunday, May 26.

The carnival was at the new FJSHS Athletic Complex located southeast of the Frankton Elementary School. The Daze offered 16 carnival rides by Wabash Valley Shows, festival food and games.

Live entertainment was provided Thursday by the Junior High, Friday by the High School and Saturday by a Country singer and the Battle of the Bands.

The carnival was a fundraiser sponsored by the school clubs and athletic boosters. The Memorial weekend was chosen to accommodate the carnival group.

Although the weather did not cooperate with rain present Friday and Saturday, many are hoping that the carnival will become a tradition for the school and the town of Frankton.

Using her teeth to tear the tape, sophomore Mike Fountain helps put up a sign for the sophomore sponsored pizza booth.

Weeeee! Mr. Sipe puts both hands up as he flies down the "Wild Thing" slide.

Getting wet! Mr. Shortridge laughs as he sits in the dunk tank sponsored by the girls softball team.

With a determined look on his face, freshman Nick Metzger throws a softball at the Girls Softball sponsored dunk tank.

Wipe-out! Mr. Sipe and Mr. Vitori try to get up after taking their turn on the "Wild Thing" slide.

Keeping an eye on everything and taking cruise in the golf cart is Principal, Bill Morton and Security Guard, Rob Amick.

Working at the concession stand is Ms. Fields, freshman, Courtney Reger; and senior, Tiffany Whitworth. They raised money for the Girls Track Team.

Dancing the Night Away!

Tiffany Whitworth and others take over the dance floor during the 'Electric Slide.' This song always seemed to get people moving during dances.

Katherine Stiers and Phillip Best take a break from dancing and sit down to talk.

Mr. Vitori

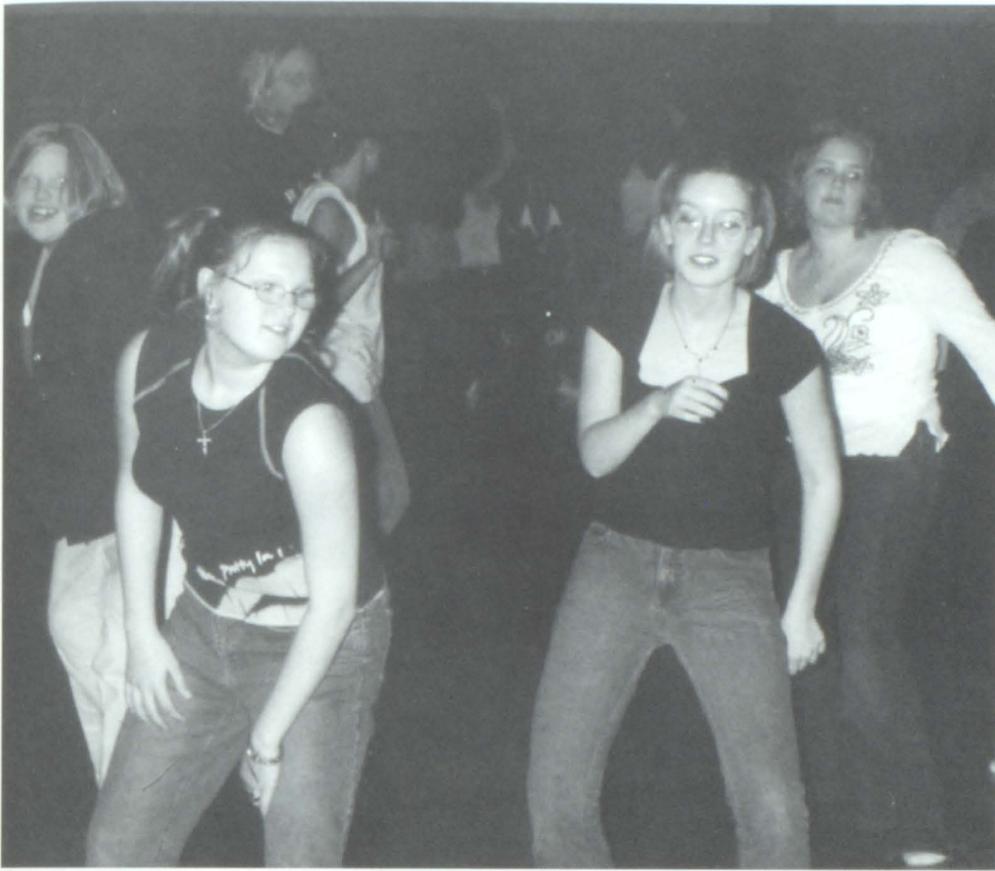

Lindsay Meiser

Kaci Brummett

Stacey Blackmond and Sydney Borum dance and have fun with friends at the Sweetheart Dance.

What was your favorite dance of the year?

Elliot Whitson-"Sadie Hawkins Dance, because I had a good time."

Audrey Guthrie-"Sweetheart Dance, because I actually danced and all of my friends were there."

Jessica Eastman-"Valentine's Day, because it was fun."

Being a teenager is strenuous! We have so many things to do! Such as having too much homework and as a result no social life because of responsibilities. Every day we wake up early in the morning just so we can spend seven hours a day in a chair or our nose in a book. Our day doesn't end there. It's not even close to being over when the bell rings. Our busy lives continue.

Many of us have jobs to go to after school. There are a variety of positions that students hold, such as fast food, department stores, veterinarian hospitals, ice-cream shops, and grocery stores. People may say jobs are not necessary for people our age, but we have things to pay for such as a car and we need money to do things on the weekends.

We also learn great skills when we have jobs, like being on time and learning to manage the money we earn.

"Please don't touch the lettuce!" Damian Etchison as assistant produce manager at Marsh Supermarkets.

Why did you get a job and what did you do with the money?

Erin Hendricks- "So I can have money to do stuff. Save money for college and spend it on shopping."

Dustin Etchison- "For money. Save money for college."

Drew Alexander- "To pay for my car. I pay for my car with the money."

Ashley Wincone- "So I can work out and tan for free at the Sports Center and spend it on clothes and makeup."

Evan Baker reads a listing of future movie dates while people are watching the movies at Showplace Theatre. Evan could be seen many nights working at Showplace.

Shelby Morgan prepares to make a shake at Maucky's Dairy Barn. This is the second season Maucky's has been open, and the first year Shelby has worked there.

Service with a smile! Daniel Norviel greets the customers with a friendly smile as he bags their groceries at Marsh Supermarkets in Anderson.

Seeing Eye to Eye

When all the things of the world become unbearable, it is only human nature to need someone to talk to. Frankton students, each have their friends. They are the ones that we relate with, vent to, have fun with, cry with, and yes, even sometimes get mad at. But the beauty of true friendship is that although you may get annoyed sometimes, you know that when you need them the most, they will be there for you.

Friendship goes beyond age, gender, color, and all of the things that make us individuals. It is a common bond that people develop that is impossible to explain. This bond also grows stronger with time and is able to withstand the strongest forces, such as death, divorce, guy/girl problems, parents, etc...

These friends we make during our years at Frankton are the most important ones we may ever have. It is here, in high school, that people experience some of the best memories they will ever have. When we look back, high school will be a big blur, but the one thing that will stand out above everything else, are the people who went through it with you-your friends.

Jacole Mattingly, Kasey Combs, and Sara Rodewald

Cortney Reger, Taylor Linville, Shelby Borum, and Brittany Boyland take time out from eating lunch to show the camera how good of friends they are.

Jordan Sipe, Claire Jenness, and Megan Kissanne are such good friends that they even wash each others cars!

Ms. Edwards, Mrs. McClintick, Mrs. Hendricks, Mrs. Busby, and Mrs. Small work together and are friends.

What are the best qualities that you find in your friends?

Jessica Hosier-
"They're loyal and just great!"

Damian Etchison-
"They are fun to be with, and easy to make fun of."

Mindy McIntyre-
"They are trust-worthy and loyal."

Andrew Zion- "They are nice, trust-worthy, and honest."

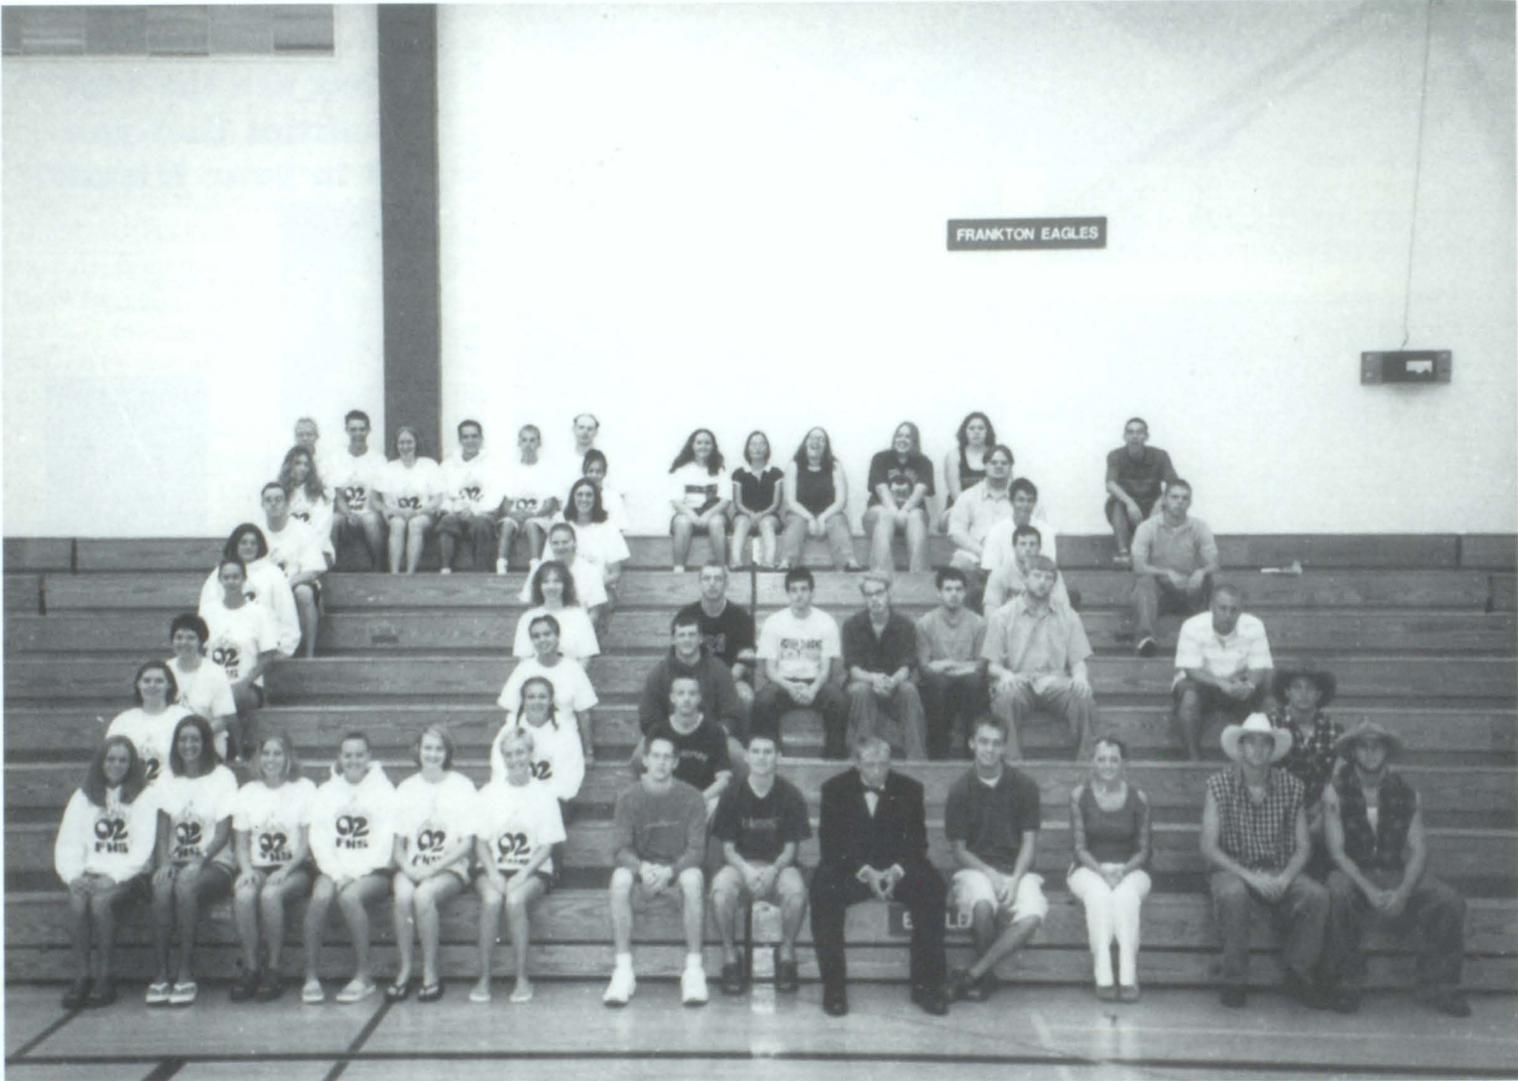

Kevin McKeon, Billy Salazar, Joey Mahoney, Arik Flanders, Matt Guthrie, Evan Covington, Jeremy Idlewine, and Zach Idlewine pose together before the Homecoming parade. They are friends both on and off the field.

What was the most important thing you learned while in high school?

The one and only thing I learned and will take with me from high school is that "Life is not fair!"

Keith Boston

I've learned that life won't always go my way, but taking things in stride is the best thing I can do. Hindsight is always 20/20.

Pamela Miller

As an active member of the senior class, Tiffany Whitworth spends some of her extra time designing banners to support her school.

Keeping Busy

A classroom full of nothing but seniors listens closely and take notes while being taught a new lesson.

During a SADD meeting, President, Tiffany Johnson and vice-president, Tiffany Whitworth go over ideas and new business to the other members.

Being a senior means lots of questions. Mandie DeLong and Katie Bodkin ask their share when receiving their caps and gowns.

Good friends, Chelsea Masterson and Erin Hendricks help misfortunate families during Christmas time by supporting the Tree of Life.

Sarah Brunzman, along with other seniors, receives her cap and gown during lunch.

The most important thing that I learned is ...you do NOT need Trig!

Briana Butcher

The key thing to having the time of your life is becoming comfortable in your own skin.

Graduation, "2002 Style"

Once again the seniors walked the aisle towards not only an end, but a new beginning. This year graduation went as many have before. Diplomas were passed out, speeches were made, and everyone threw up their caps at the end.

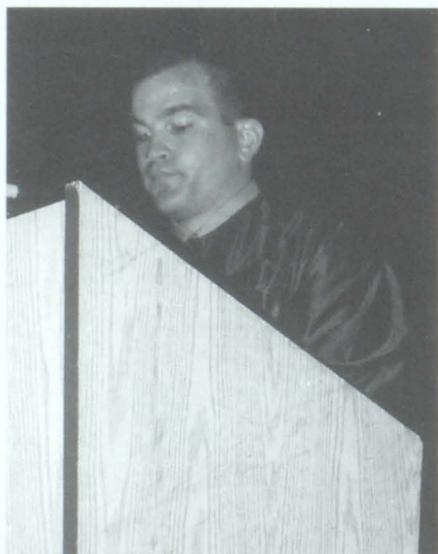

However, the class of 2002 added their own twist to the ceremony. Being as blessed as they are with musical abilities the class of '02 provided much of their own music for the ceremony. Celliena Swigert started the ceremony off with a piano solo. Then after the class processed Chelsea Masterson sang the National Anthem. Following opening remarks and a statement by the Class President, Rachel Woodard; the trio of Ashley Hymes, Bethany Rhodes, and Rachel Woodard sang "Seasons of Love."

After the presentation of diplomas, a speech from the Valedictorian, Ashley Hymes; and closing remarks, much of the senior band and choir members presented "Closing Prayer."

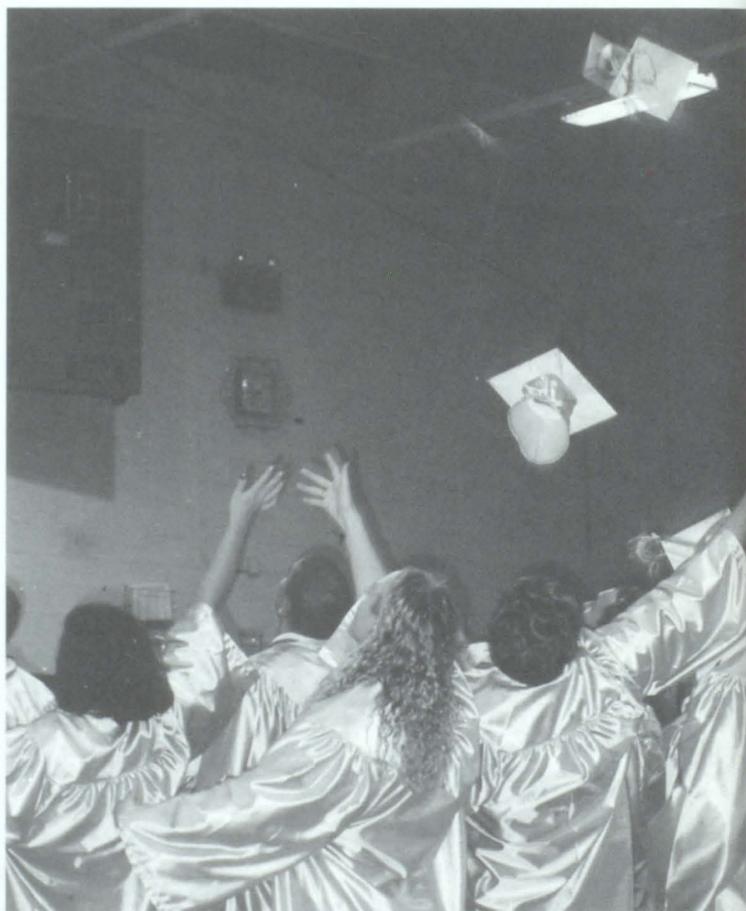

Following that, the class recessional began and the ceremony ended. This year's graduation took place through the eyes of the class of 2002.

Mary Graham, Rachel Woodard, Erin Hendricks, and Ashley Hymes await their time for speeches. Being the top scholars in the class they have the privilege of making speeches.

PROM:

"IT'S YOUR LOVE"

Prom was at the Paramount Theatre Ballroom from 9 p.m. to 12 a.m. Friday, May 3. The theme was "It's Your Love." As the couples were announced and walked in, many friends and family members gathered outside. RMDJ provided the music. Operations Director for the Paramount, Ken Cobb said, "It was one of the most beautiful events and decorations that we have had for prom. It was absolutely awesome."

Reid Lacey and Corrie Goshert were crowned King and Queen. The Queen candidates were Jacole Mattingly, Sara Rodewald, Whitney Harrison, Corrie Goshert, and Erin McLaughlin. The King candidates were Craig Betz, Billy Salazar, Kevin McKeon, Reid Lacey, and Curtis Whitworth.

POST PROM AT COOPER'S

Post Prom is a great opportunity to hang out with your friends and just have fun after all the stress of Prom. Frankton High School Post Prom was at Cooper's Sport Bowl in Anderson.

The event started after Prom at 1A.M. and lasted until 4A.M. It was sponsored by the parents of the Junior class. "It was really fun, the door prizes were the best part," said Kevin Adams, Junior.

Karaoke, bowling, the bungee run, the ladder balance, and the traditional "Chapel of Love" were some of the activities offered at Post Prom. Refreshments were provided along with prizes, cash gifts, a t-shirt, a gift bag and a disposable camera.

Ashley Hymes goes for the win on the bungee run.

Seniors Dustin Shannon and Matt Doan show just how coordinated they are by competing in the ladder balance.

Singing "Baby Got Back" on karaoke in a side room at Cooper's is Rachel Woodard, Amber Gentry, and Kalee Pratt. Post Prom goers could choose from over 100 songs to sing.

What did you think about your first Post Prom?

I had a lot of fun. I thought giving out shirts and cameras was a good idea.

Heather Waymire '04

THE JOURNEY TO WASHINGTON

The annual 8th grade trip class to Washington, D. C. took place from May 17-21. Members of the class of 2006 stayed at the National 4-H Center in Chevy Chase, Maryland.

The trip was highlighted by visiting Gettysburg and Alexandria and viewing attractions such as the White House, the Capitol Building, the Holocaust Museum, the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial, the Jefferson Memorial, George Washington's home at Mount Vernon, Iwo Jima, the Smithsonian, and attending Toby's Dinner Theater, where they saw "The Wizard of Oz".

At Arlington National Cemetery, Brittany Gore and Calee Etchison were selected to place a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Arlington is the site of the JFK's burial and the eternal flame.

This trip involved almost two years of fund-raising through Market Day, selling candy bars, t-shirts and cookie dough.

It is no understatement to say that through Mrs. Miller's leadership that this is the highlight of the junior high years here.

"Falling for You"

The class of 2003 started the year well. They swept the competition away by winning the Homecoming games. They took third in the hallway decorations. The homecoming princess was Jacole Mattingly and was escorted by Curtis Whitworth as her prince.

They reversed an earlier trend where they lost the powder puff game. 7-0. The juniors didn't seem to know what to do with the side run duo of Katey Bodkin who scored a touchdown and Mary Graham who scored the extra point.

Magazine sales seemed to remain the favorite way to raise money for their prom and senior graduation. The class raised over 4,000 dollars a "Good amount", Said Sponsor Pam Clark. Todd Campbell was top salesperson.

"It's Your Love"

This year ends a 15 year run for Mrs. Clark as a prom sponsor. "I would keep doing this forever, but it is stressful, and I was told to get rid of the stress," Mrs. Clark told the prom committee class.

The prom was at the Paramount Theatre Ballroom in Anderson at what is becoming a traditional site for the event.

The day of prom was an early release day for the high school. Promgoers could leave at Noon instead of 12:40 P.M. to prepare for their night of activities. Juniors and seniors alike left school, legally and went to get flowers, wash cars, pick up tuxes, get the dress back from the final alterations, get their hair trimmed, braided, upswept or whatever.

Then there were pictures: Pictures at home, alone, with friends, at friends' houses, at the dates house or agreed meeting place to ride with your friends. Also, pictures outside @ the Paramount where everyone is announced as they enter.

Ashley Smith said, "The prom was fun and the decorations were nice!"

Valentine's Day Test

The majority of the student body participated in the class-sponsored Compatibility Test. Here are the surprising facts: out of the thirty-three survey questions nineteen of them were answered identically by both groups of the respondents. Which means that the people who seem to never get along, boys and girls actually agreed fifty-eight percent of the time. Is this possible? The questions that were answered the same were in categories such as: cleanliness of your room, laughing, having a true friend of the opposite sex, sports, classes, and being embarrassed.

In questions where they didn't agree:

Girls feel that the happiest people in life are those who have many successes. They look at the inner qualities when looking for a person to date. They feel happy when they dance and enjoy cards from their parents. They wouldn't have a problem with going on a blind date and their feelings are easily hurt. They go to the beach to get a tan and sometimes diet. They feel that money is useful, but not important and are somewhat knowledgeable of computers. Finally, they express themselves by painting, sculpting, or music.

Guys on the other hand feel very differently. They feel that the happiest people are those who give much to others. They look at the outer qualities when looking for a dating partner. They don't dance and don't want a card from their parents for the holidays. They don't want to go on blind dates and their feelings aren't easily hurt. Also, guys express themselves by playing sports.

This year the sophomore class participated in a mentoring program for the students of the Jr high school that was sponsored by Mrs. Coryell and Mrs. Fox.

The students met every Tuesday and Thursday during the Jr. High lunch period to form lasting relationships between grades and individuals. This made for an enjoyable experience for all who participated.

"I think it was a success even if we helped one kid. I would do it again if the timing for the classes was right," commented Mrs. Coryell on the program's success.

Rings from many places

Freshman year is the year that students buy class rings. The school representative for rings is Herff Jones, Inc. from Indianapolis. The class officers met with their representative and selected a style and design including an exclusive school design. Some students bought from many different sources: J. Lewis Small in Elwood, malls, or even at the Target department store. The cost of the rings varied from $70-$400. Katy Betz said, "They are a good memory of our school and class, but I didn't buy one." Jacob said, "I bought mine from Herff Jones for about $350..." Students had their rings inscribed with: name, initials, sports signs, music, art, drama and other designs.

The Homecoming parade was rained out and many parade entries looked like this one, doing their best to brave the rain.

Traveling to Indy

The freshman class went on a field trip to Indianapolis' Hilbert Circle Theatre to see a series of plays. It included, The Monkey's Paw, Sleepy Hollow, The Tell Tale Heart, The Incredible Jumping Frog of Caliveras Co., and The Necklace. Not too long after they left the school, one of the two buses died. Everyone got onto one bus and went back to the school, got a new bus, left, and finally arrived.

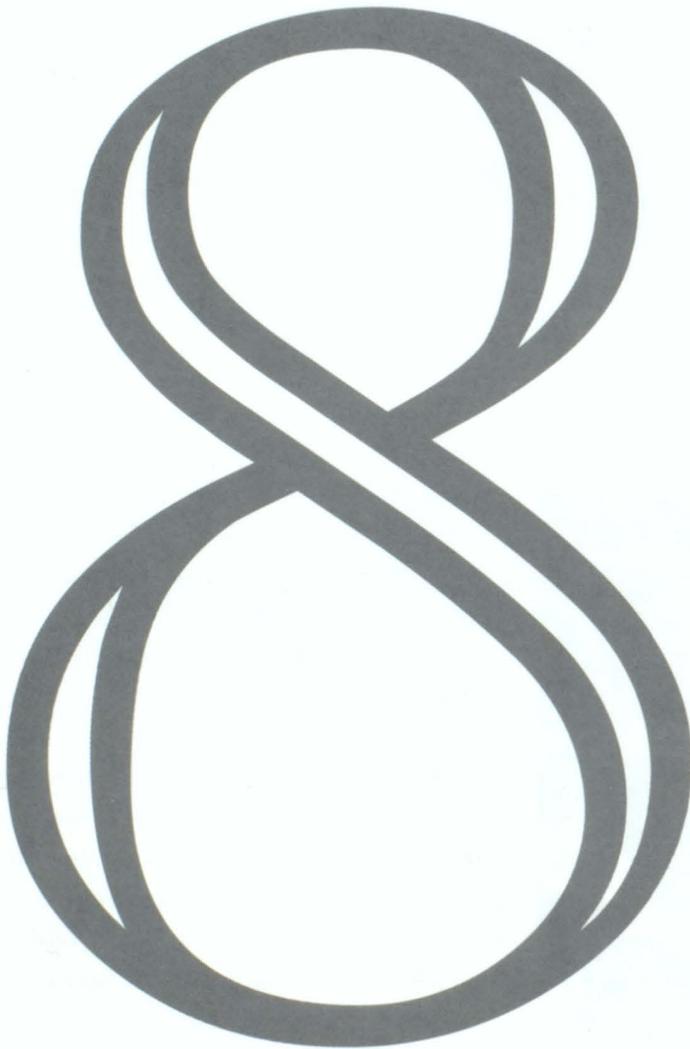

Sydney Borum and Bobbi Clendenin had different opinions about the plays. Sydney said, "I liked The Tell Tale Heart the best, but the better part was getting out of school and eating lunch at the City Market." Bobbi said, "I enjoyed the Jumping Frog story. It was dumb, yet funny."

Most students liked at least one thing about the fieldtrip to Indianapolis.

Preparing For The Trip

The annual 8th grade trip to Washington D.C. was in May. The students left the school at 10:00 p.m. on Tuesday, May 14th and returned Sunday morning at 12:30 A.M. They stayed at the National 4-H Center in Chevy Chase, Maryland.

The students sold home interior candles, environmental t-shirts, candy bars, and cookie dough to raise money for the trip. Market Day was also a way to raise money. Students could start selling Market Day in their 7th grade year. and could also work at Market Day pick-up.

Jena Ball was one of the top sellers for Market Day. She said, "I thought it was a good idea to sell Market Day to help my parents out by raising some of the money for the trip." The cost for the trip this year was $520.00.

Classes and Periods

The eighth grade students are the top dogs of the junior high. Being bigger and older does have its advantages. They often feel they are the ones in charge. Thinking they are more powerful because they are older, they rule the junior high. Or, try to anyway.

Next year will be a different experience for them. They will be going from "top dogs" to the bottom of the heap. As Freshmen, they will have to earn their respect yet again.

First class from the same elementary

The class of 2007 is unique in that they all came from the same elementary school, The new Frankton Elementary. In recent years seventh graders would enter FJSHS having come from two separate elementaries: Leach and Frankton. The consolidation of the two elementaries into the one new one last year year made this group of seventh graders different.

"The difference from one class to another is very hard to explain. We are talking about a collection of 100 very different people. The one thing that I can observe, is that the students did already know each other. In the past there was a longer period of time for them to get to know each other," said Mr. Fry, math teacher.

A Year of Firsts

Seventh grade is unique. It is the first time for most students to change classes seven times a day. The first time for them to have lockers and combinations and to dress for P.E.

Home Room is now Flight and there are many choices for lunch including ala-carte, salad and even a pizza bar.

It's a time for maturing, leaving the young child behind as they move toward being young adults.

It's also a time for some to see the others growing taller and for others to catch up.

Also they feel more at home at high school events because it's their building.

There appears to be no lack of enthusiasm from this group of cheerleaders at a game in the West gym.

Five faculty, 140 years of experience, retire.

There were at least ten teachers that left this year. Five of those teachers are retiring after over 140 years of teaching combined: Mr. Owen Fry, Mr. Ivan Lamaster, Mrs. Cheryl Dunlap, Mrs. Jean Mills, and Mrs. Fran Folsom.

Owen Fry has been teaching for twenty-eight years. Twenty-six of those years were spent here. Mr. Fry taught seventh grade math. He said that his fondest memory was the large amount of students that spent time after school just to learn. Mr. Fry explained that the thing he will miss the most is the students, and all of his friends in the faculty.

Ivan Lamaster has been teaching for thirty-one and a half years. He has been at Frankton for twenty-six years. Mr. Lamaster was the school guidance director and in the past had been Honor Society sponsor and math teacher. His three children, Kris, Kara and Andy graduated from Frankton. After he retires he plans on building a new house on his own, fishing, and spending time with his grandkids. When asked what he would miss the most he said that it would be the kids and the friends he has in the faculty. He also said that he won't miss getting up early.

Fran Folsom has been teaching for thirty-three years. She spent eight at Leach Elementary and twenty-five here. Her two children Jim and Susan graduated from Frankton. She plans on traveling, working at her church, and spending time with her grandkids after she retires. The things that she will miss the most are all the friendships formed with the faculty and students.

Cheryl Dunlap was the Spanish and French teacher for Frankton and had sponsored Spanish and French clubs and honor societies. She has been teaching full time for around twenty-three years and all of those years were spent here.

Jean Mills was the English teacher for the senior class and she was also the student council sponsor and used to be sponsor of Drama Club. She came here after teaching jr. high home-ec. at Elwood for over 12 years. She taught here for 15 years. Her two children, Jan and Mark; graduated from Frankton.

David Child, Physics; Tom Ferguson, Physics; Lisa Hagan, English; Chris Mettert, choirs; and Charles Sims, Social Studies also were moving on, or had moved on by the end of the year. Kris Harney, band; became guidance counselor.

Changes start the year

Many changes were made at Frankton Jr./Sr. High School this year. Among those changes were new faculty members. There was a new Activities Director, Mr. Brad Shortridge, and a new vice principal, Mr. Vince Vitori. Also new to Frankton were Mary Ann McClintick and Theresa Edwards, as secretaries in the main office. The new teachers were Jennifer Fields, Dr. David Child, Jeff Thurston, Chris Mettert, Nan Coppess, Tom Ferguson, and Loraine Knotts.

There is a newly-remodeled main office that was remodeled after the fire that occurred last year. The nurse's office was moved from the guidance office to the main office.

The scheduling at Frankton was completely different this year. All high school students were on a trimester schedule and had five classes a day instead of four. The Jr. High students had seven classes a day and the same classes every day. In addition to all of that, the days were longer also. The school day was from 7:45 A.M. to 2:55 P.M.

Ms. Fields aids students in a lab during her Chemistry One class.

A Successful Season Inspite of Hardships

Despite a season riddled with complications, the Varsity Football team won their final home game against Clinton Prairie to gain the title of sectional champions for the sixth time in Frankton Football history. One look at this year's season might indicate that the Eagles had been cursed by some greater force. The season started with a loss in defensive force, losing two seniors. Then the Eagles were bombarded with injuries from all angles. Todd Campbell was out for the season with a knee injury that resulted in surgery, Arik Flanders dislocated his shoulder, and then Ryan McClintick did the same only a few games later. Then seemingly half the team was in and out of games with pulled muscles. In a conference challenge against the Wabash Apaches, the town of Frankton was suddenly without power or lights, sending the game seven miles northeast to the Alexandria playing field. In addition to this, the Madison-Grant game was postponed until Saturday due to a heavy storm that flooded the field.

The carved Eagle must have been looking over them, for although the Eagles appeared to be destined for defeat, they rose above adversity to defeat the opposition with a 10-3 record and be able to now call themselves Sectional Champions once again, extending the winning tradition of Frankton Football to another generation of talented and extraordinary athletes.

2 out of 6 ain't bad

The seniors that participated in four years of football at Frankton can say something that very few others can. In the years past Frankton football has won a total of six sectional championships. The class of '02 football players have been part of the team for two of the six. This year's senior class is one of the only classes at Frankton to see the team victorious in two years worth of post-season competition.

Overall the seniors had a very successful year:

- Joey Mahoney made All-Conference and All-State first team for the quarterback position.
- Arik Flanders was added to the roster for All-Conference, All County, and All-State first team for wide receiver.
- Matt Guthrie was named All-conference defensive end.
- Zach Idlewine also made the list for offensive lineman.

Girls win County

The Cross Country season was a great success for the girls team. Top runners Ashley Hymes, Amanda Mills and Cortney Reger led the Eagles to the County championship and two other victories in Lapel and in Elwood. They made it through Sectional, but were stopped in the Regionals. At the end they finished up being 3rd in the Conference standing with a record of 51 to 41. The inexperienced boys team didn't have too much luck this year, but with the support of Coach Brian Williams, they still made it through the season.

The team consisted of 1 senior, 3 juniors, 3 sophomores and 3 freshmen. Brett Sanders played as the number 1 singles player on the team, Matt Miller played as the number 2 singles player. Miller is the only senior on the team, and also is the only player that Justin Shirley has coached for four years. Following Miller is Evan Baker playing the number 3 spot for singles.

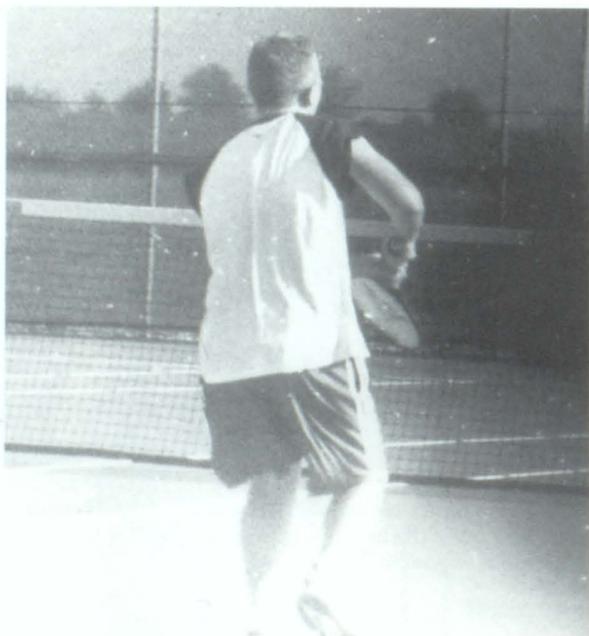

The doubles teams were Eric Davis and Nick Stohler playing the number 1 doubles, and Alex Davis and Spencer Pettit playing as the number two team.

The tennis team has been treated pretty well for the last two years with new courts last year and new wind screens this year.

Even though the team had a difficult year they still managed to have lots of fun and that's part of the reason that sports exist.

Cheering for Victory

The Frankton cheerleaders cheered for our football boys despite cold, rain, and an electrical blackout that forced them to move to Alexandria to finish the game. They showed school spirit all throughout the year. Varsity cheerleaders Kristen Kuntz and Jarren Mattingly both agreed that the best part of the season was cheering at sectional and regional and seeing the fans show their support for the team. Along with the cheerleaders, the Eagles gained a mascot, Tiffany Johnson, to help get the crowd going. She performed many stunts and rode a scooter up and down the track. At the end of the season when Tiffany was practicing for basketball, math teacher, Jeff Thurston wore the Eagle suit.

This year was quite different from years before, in that the cheerleaders got a new coach, Mrs. Hagan, and a new assistant coach, Dawn Truex. The girls also stunted on the track which was a first for the squad. They conducted pep sessions for the football team and led the school assembly in cheers and chants. They had a very successful and fun year.

Season Record Doesn't Reflect Effort

The JH Football teams struggled in an attempt to get winning records this season and almost did, with the 7th grade finishing 4-4 and the 8th grade ending the season 2-6. For the 7th grade team, Jeff Stansberry's 62 tackles, along with Billy Huntsinger's 66 tackles, helped lead the defense. Leading the offensive charge were QB Aaron Tuttle, RB Billy Huntsinger ( Also the team's MVP), and WR Austin Jenness.

The 8th grade experienced a more difficult season. Team MVP Levi House, who was the engine that ran the team, was quoted as saying, " We've improved greatly from the beginning of the season; even though we didn't finish strong". Both teams were led by Frankton graduate Brook Robinette.

Young Eagles do well

The 2001 season was a good teaching tool for the next season. The girls team finished strong at 5-5, even though they had a young team this year. This year's only eighth grader was Bobbie Murray in her second season. Besides her they had four seventh graders and three sixth graders on the team. The season got off to a bad start with an incomplete against Alexandria and two losses vs. Madison-Grant, Hamilton Heights and Elwood. The team progressed later in the season, but still had troubles in big invitationals, where they finished thirteenth in both. The boys were exactly the opposite with an experienced team. But they still didn't have the same success as the girls. They ended up with a disappointing record of two wins and ten losses.

Bringing in the Eagle Spirit

There weren't a lot of football cheerleaders, but they made sure to get a lot accomplished. One of the first things they did was a car wash at Rickers. It raised them a lot of money that went towards purchasing new football uniforms.

They made sure to get a lot of spirit into their classmates and all the fans. They started that inside the school. They made and hung posters around the hallways and decorated all the players lockers. They also made signs for their own lockers.

The girls also made different decorations to use in action at the games. They had small plastic footballs that were donated by Calee Etchison's grandmother. They threw them out into the crowd during the home games.

Shanna Seegraves helped out with the school spirit by being the mascot for the girls. Another thing the girls did was the Heritage Days parade. They decorated a truck to ride and cheer in, but part of the time was spent walking.

The girls had a really good season and did a lot of things they will definitely be able to use when they are in high school. Shelly Leisure was the coach for the squad.

The Boys Varsity Basketball team got off to a slow start, but finally they engaged in a winning streak. The Eagles finished their season at 9-12. The starting lineup for the boys were freshmen, Brett Sanders and Tyler Riddle, and the rest were seniors, Matt Guthrie, Joey Mahoney, and Arik Flanders. Although these senior's worst memories were losing Sectional three years straight, these boys led their team in every way.

Joey Mahoney played center, but shot as if he was a guard, which often fooled the defense. He received All Conference and led the team in scoring.

Arik Flanders played forward and was effective in the post and from mid-range jumpers.

Matt Guthrie played point guard and ran the team well. He was a great assist man and was clutch from outside.

Other members of the team that contributed to the game were Joe McPhearson, Billy Grinstead, Ryan McClintick, and Charlie Breckinridge, all of whom were sophomores. Another freshmen that aided the team was Aaron Gardner. The Eagles were coached by Rex Bauchert.

Winning records

The seven member Junior Varsity team had an impressive 15-5 record. The primary purpose of this team is to get more playing time in preparation for the future and to hope to get to dress Varsity and see some playing time. But this team did more as they played as a team and went for an impressive record too.

The team was under the guidance of several year coach Mickey Foley, a Frankton graduate and teacher at Alexandria.

The freshman team under the direction of Mark Drake took an impressive schedule of schools their size and many much larger and finished with a 10-6 record. Five of the six losses came to schools that are larger, some even two classes ahead of Frankton.

Many team members moved on up to the junior varsity team and some even further up and saw some action from the varsity bench or court.

Lady Eagles Determined

The Frankton girls basketball team ended the season fairly well. They made it to the championship round, but unfortunately were defeated by Mississinewa. Despite this loss, the girls had a good season. They were a very determined and motivated team and always gave their best as soon as they stepped out on the court. The girls proved this time and time again, even with low attendance at their games. Senior, Tiffany Johnson, led her team through victories and even some losses, but always kept the girls up. Freshmen, Chelsea Smith and Amy Huntsiger, helped the Lady Eagles with the offensive end while Amanda Veach, Briana McLaughlin, and Erin Hendricks contributed in the post by working their moves. On the defensive end, junior Sara Rodewald came in and got the job done.

The Junior Varsity girls also had a good season. They worked hard and had fun while playing. The girls went on to place 2nd in the JV County Tourney.

There were few changes this season. The girls got a new assistant coach, Jerry Scott, who helped out with the lineups and aided Dean Riddle and Jeremy Parker. The team also had to say good-bye to four seniors, Briana McLaughlin, Kaci Brummett, Erin Hendricks, and Tiffany Johnson. These seniors will be greatly missed. Overall, the girls had a good season and worked well together.

Cory Boyland, and Curtis Whitworth proudly display their awards after a hard days' work at the Frankton Super Dual on December 1. The Dual included four other teams; Wes-Del, Carroll, Southern Wells, and Monroe Central. Top finishers included Cory Boyland 4-0, Curtis Whitworth 3-0, Zach Konkle 2-0, Andy Sumner 3-1, and Zach Idlewine 2-1. Nate McKeon broke even with a record of 2-2. Top freshman included Gabe Shiveley, Max Haines, and Eli Whitesel.

Small, but Working Hard

The wrestling team had a strange season, this year. They started out with a very full roster, but by the end of the season, they were struggling to fill weight classes. This had to do with people not receiving good grades, and having injuries. Despite the low numbers, the team posted a record of 6-13, and had several boys do very well individually.

Cory Boyland, led the team in having the most pins (16), the most near-falls (22), the most points (124), and was also named the team's most valuable player. Other award-winners included Zach Konkle, with having the most takedowns (33), and Nate McKeon having the most reversals (9). Also, Eli Whitesel, and Zach Idlewine tied for the most escapes, each having 17.

There may have been a shortage of wrestlers, but not managers! Brittany Boyland, Tiffany West, Megan Harmon, Jessica Wire, and Ashley Winconek took over those duties.

Rolling Into Victory

This is the second year for the Frankton bowling team. Actually, the team is more like a club than a sport because it was started by students and practices separately from school.

Coaches Clint Couch, Bill Kendall, and Mike Leer helped the team win about half of the 18-20 competitions that they had. Wells Lanes in Elwood served as the team's home and practice alley. The boys and girls bowled together, and there wasn't a varsity or junior varsity team.

The seniors bowling this year were: Heather Lindley, Matt Doan, Dustin Shannon, Amelia Mott, Tony Marshall, Andy Ferguson, Kyle P. Lacey, and Jared Odle. "It was a fun experience, and I will treasure the memories forever," said Matt Doan. "Nothing will ever live up to the bowling experiences I've had," said Dustin Shannon.

"People don't give bowling the credit it deserves. It's a lot harder than it looks," said Nicole Heath.

Well, it looks like the team did well for their second season. Hopefully we will see them bowling again next year.

Kylie Truex

The Dance

For the dance the cheerleaders all got matching outfits and performed to an original Britney Spears' mix. It was definitely a great start in the direction the cheerleaders wanted to go. The dance started with the whole group in a huddle, each girl with her own assigned pose. After that they moved into three separate lines and the positions changed throughout the dance. Then each girl fell to the floor for a dramatic ending. They performed it at quite a few home games.

Changing Things

This year the Varsity, JV, and freshman squads did a lot of things as one big group. Everyone participated in performing the school song, their dance and attending all JV and Varsity home games.

Things were done a lot differently than in the past. A lot of credit for this season should go to the girls coach, Mrs. Hagan. She did a great job at keeping the girls motivated and pushing them to do more. The girls sold candles and seat cushions in attempts to raise money for new uniforms for next year.

The girls favorite thing was probably their new dance they learned taking classes at Anderson Athletics. They took stunting and tumbling classes to improve their skills. They learned many new stunts and towards the end of the season even added a few male stunt partners, including: Curtis Whitworth, Nate McKeon, Billy Whitworth, Dustin Nivens, Scott Morgan, and Max Hains.

Mr. Thurston and DeeDee Howard took turns in the part of the mascot for the Eagles. Everyone thought it was a really good season. Jayda Rushton, freshman, said, "We got a lot accomplished and it was a good season."

8th Grade King of County

This is not the first year for Larry Davis to be eighth grade boys basketball coach. Surely it showed in the record that the team compiled. Fourteen wins and four losses is a great season for any team.

The team traveled to Jay County for their tournament and showed them that basketball is king in Madison county. They won the tourney including beating host Jay County.

Next on the tournament list was Madison county, where the team showed them who was king of basketball in the county, by beating much larger Pendleton and arch-rival Lapel.

Top offensive player was Lucas Etchison. The free throw award went to Austin Leisure and Jacob Hudson won the Hustle Award.

The B-team completed a record of one win and six losses. There are no stats. for seventh grade.

An Impressive Year

The eighth grade girls had an amazing year. With a record of 17-1, they are something to be proud of. The team was made up of only nine girls. This included Kelsey Davis, Sarah Kelich, Teaira Graves, Mandy Moore, Kyrie Rhodes, Shanna Seegraves, Bobbi Murray, and Lillie Foust. This is Mr. Huntsinger's third year coaching the eighth grade girls basketball team. Although the girls had a good year last year they have improved a lot. The team also achieved first place in the Wes-Del Tourney. They defeated Knightstown and Shenandoah for the title.

The seventh grade girls had a very impressive year also. Their coach this year was Melissa Phillips. The girls proved just how impressive they were when they won first place in one of their tourneys. Both teams were really something to be proud of.

For the second straight year, junior high wrestling was coached by Mr. Charlie Sims. Not only was he a teacher at the the high school, but he also took time out every day after school to teach students all the basic wrestling skills that they will need for high school. He had to work with students that had little to no experience with the sport of wrestling. He had to teach them the rules, the proper way to train, and actually how to wrestle. This was a often difficult task, but it makes it a lot easier on both the kids and the coaches when they get to the high school level.

It is important for the students to learn all that they could from their junior high wrestling years. For, when they get to high school, the coaches expect them to be prepared, and know what they are doing. These students are the future of our wrestling success, so let's hope that they did indeed learn all that they could!

Flying High

The 8th grade squad had the chance at some great memories for their last year of junior high cheerleading. They started in the fall, selling personalized rings made by Calee Etchison's mom, Denise. They sold them at games and Heritage Days. This was to raise money for uniforms.

Then, they got outside help and mastered a lot of very difficult stunts. Then the boys basketball team won the county championship and after cheering their hearts out, the girls helped them celebrate by going to Pizza King in Alexandria. To end the season the girls had a lock-in at school which they thought was a lot of fun.

For the 7th grade cheerleaders, this year was a new way to look at cheerleading. They got in on a lot of the things the 8th grade squad did, including decorations, stunting, and celebrating the county championship. This season they mastered an elevator, which was a big step for first time stunting.

For most of the games Lauren Leisure took on the part of the mascot and Shelly Leisure was the coach.

Season of Seniors

The Frankton Eagles boys baseball team started the season strong, but were riddled with a few setbacks during the end of the season. Problems ranged from injuries to personal problems.

All in all the season did not turn out badly, with having to live up to the performances in the years past. The team knew the standard set, and had goals to follow it. In the end, the baseball team finished with a decent, but disappointing record of 13 wins, and 11 losses. They also placed third in the Conference.

The team will be hurting next year with the loss of a great senior squad: Jared Odle, Kyle Lacey, Zach Idlewine, Arik Flanders, Matt Guthrie, and Joey Mahoney. The underclassmen will have big shoes to fill due to the loss of these seniors, but many will have had varsity experience, and be ready to step up to the challenge.

Falling Short

The girls softball team had some big goals to reach this year. to be like the seasons before, but they fell a bit short.

The team ended with a record of 14 -12, and had a Conference standing of 4-3. They never did really find their comfort level until the end of the year, when they made it to the final round of the sectional tournament. They ended up losing, which put an end to their frustrating season.

The team will lose five seniors: Katie Bodkin, Kaci Brummett, Mary Graham, Brianna McLaughlin, and Amelia Mott. Each of these girls contributed greatly to the team's success, and next year the team will have to work hard to fill the spaces.

Even with having five seniors, the team was so small, that almost every single girl was able to get some varsity playing time. We look forward to seeing what happens in the coming years!

The golf team had a great season. Frankton had a young team, which means that all five Varsity players will be returning next year, and they will hopefully be even more successful next season.

Since there were no seniors, it was dominated by five Juniors: Daniel Hutton, Michael Reed, Doug Furnish, Zach Konkle, and Travis Wise. Konkle was very successful, making all-conference by placing 4th at CIC.

The team started the season strongly with a record of 3-0 in 3 days, with victories over Hamilton Heights, Madison Grant, and Mississinewa. They kept their determination and went on to defeat other teams throughout the season such as Lapel, Wabash, Alexandria, and Muncie Burris.

Dustin McPhearson, Brian Etherington, Michael Silvers, Toby Bodkin, Nathan Mumbower, and Elliott Whitson were the members of the JV team. Both teams were coached by Mark Konkle, and they held their practices and home meets at Grandview in Anderson.

Track has tough season

The boys track team was very small this year. There were only two seniors, Scott Morgan and Kolja Plegt. Mr. Jimmy Morehead was the coach who was assisted by Mr. Brian Williams.

The boys track record for all of their meets ran was 3-37. It was a tough season with injuries and sickness. Scott Morgan one of the key members of the team couldn't run the sectional meet due to illness. A key sprinter, Curtis Whitworth, was out a major portion of the season due to a pulled groin muscle.

The team did have two new members that moved into the area. Jazzmar Pearson moved from the Highland district and ran sprints. Kolja Plegt was our foreign exchange student from Colgne, West Germany.

Junior, Cory Boyland was the lone Eagle member who made it to regional. Cory was picked as the overall MVP and most valuable in field events. Scott Morgan was picked as the most valuable distance runner and the most valuable sprinter was Jazzmar Pearson.

The girls track team started out with a new coach Ms. Jennifer Fields. The team had a season with nine meets, but three of them were cancelled due to weather related problems and complications. The team started their season with their first meet being the County at Alexandria. The team got 6th out of eight and thought it was a hard way to start a season with such an important meet.

The team went on to have a difficult season. The track team had many individuals that were very good, but coming together for the win was the downfall. The girls lost to Elwood by a half a point. They got second in two different three way meets. One of those three way meets they only lost by three points to Blackford.

The last official meet for the entire team was sectional at Pendleton. Three Eagles, two freshmen and one sophomore made it to Regional.

Freshman, Katey Betz qualified in the 100 M, 200M, and high jump, but chose to only do the running events. Cortney Reger, freshman, qualified in the 1600 M run and Amanda Veach, sophomore, qualified in the shot put.

The team was led by Senior Chelsea Masterson playing number one singles, with a record of 6-5.

Shelly Hosier was successful at number two with a record of 5-6. The number three position was shared by Jill Harrison, Megan Kissane, and Celliena Swigart.

The number one doubles team of Corrie Goshert and Lindsay Meiser ended their season with a record of 5-6. The number two doubles team of Claire Parker and Mandy Mills was also successful with a record of 6-5.

The JV team had a very successful record of 5-5, which is the best it has been for a long time. The girls were coached by Justin Shirley, and their home courts were at Frankton Elementary.

Senior Night was against Wabash. The team graduated 4 seniors, Chelsea Masterson, Celliena Swigart, Claire Parker, and Heather Lindley. In sectional action they were defeated by Anderson 0-5 at Southside Complex. Chelsea Masterson took her match to 3 sets, but was eventually defeated.

Not the best season

Charlie Sims completed his third year as head coach for the jr. high track program. It is a daunting task to have so many athletes, two teams, two different sets of events to place students and two sets of parents to deal with. But the ever organized Sims was ready for the task and was assisted by 2001 Frankton Graduate Brody Davis.

The original home opener against Shenandoah was canceled due to weather. Early in the season Sims said after their first loss, "The team has a lot of potential and will definitely improve in the next meets" No doubt they improved, but did not rise to the winning level as they lost to Alexandria and Burris.

Unfortunately, the final season results were not available.

The Spanish classes did a variety of activities. The first year class devoted a whole trimester to learning new vocabulary. They also learned Spanish greetings, how to tell time, the days of the week, and how to count.

The second year class spent most of their time learning the past tense. They worked on reading two Spanish novels and spent some time watching a Spanish movie series called Destinos. Some students also learned about Spanish foods and weather terms.

The third year class learned about the future tense, studied Spanish culture, and talked about bullfighting. They also watched a Spanish soap opera called La Catrina and ate popcorn. The favorite activity of most people in Spanish was matamoscas, the fly swatter game.

Classes also spent time learning and telling stories, learning vocabulary, playing bingo, and cooking. James Minnear, who is a second year student, said that he enjoyed playing matamoscas, acting out the stories, and playing bingo.

Junior Erin McLaughlin enjoys the food that her group cooked during her Spanish 3 class. Students brought in ingredients to cook Spanish dishes.

French classes have devoted a lot of their time to learning vocabulary and telling stories. The first year class learned their vocabulary by doing gestures. They also learned and told stories. They spent their time learning the present tense. They played bingo and the fly swatter game, which is called chasse-mouches in French.

There were no second year classes this year because there weren't any French I classes offered last year.

The third year class learned more difficult vocabulary that was in the form of phrases instead of single words. They worked on reviewing the past tense and they spent time working on the future tense. Third year students also enjoyed playing the fly swatter game.

First year student Jill Harrison said that her favorite part of the class was acting out stories and getting candy. Third year student Heather Lindley said that French was fun because they didn't have much homework and she liked playing games like bingo, football, trivia, and hangman.

The high school Family and Consumer Science (FCS) classes are taught by Polly Pruitt. The classes are Interpersonal Relations, Nutrition/Wellness, Adult Roles/Responsibility, Human/Child Development, Advanced Nutrition and Foods, and finally Textiles and Fashions. Interpersonal Relations class is all about getting along with people in school, and at work, and creating healthy relationships with family and friends. The Nutrition and Wellness is the introductory class to Foods. Preparing foods correctly is what the students learned in Advanced Foods class. The students in the Adult Roles/Responsibility class were taught how to prepare for after graduation, and how to live independently. The Human/Development class is about the development of a person physically, mentally, and socially. The students in Textiles and Fashions got to learn hands-on by sewing and making their own crafts. They also learned how to construct their own clothes. Peggy Andis taught seventh grade FCS.

- "It is a great opportunity to explore different communities," said Jackie Davison, sophomore.
- "I think it is fun helping out the little kids and the older people because they are so sweet," said Brittany Shively, sophomore.
- "I enjoy FCCLA because of all the different things we get to do. I really liked working with the little kids," said Jackie Milam, sophomore.

Being Healthy

The Health Education classes that are offered here at Frankton are P.E. 7, 8, and 9, Health Education 1, Advanced Health Education, Elective P.E. Weight Training, Current Health Issues, and Elective P.E. Body Maintenance. For P.E. 7, 8, and 9 the student is required to learn about sports and fitness. The Health Education 1 class covered mental, social, and physical health, as well as CPR. Advanced Health, otherwise known as anatomy, is all about the body systems and sports training. The Current Health Issues class concentrated mostly on first aid certification and responding to emergencies. As for the Elective P.E. Body Maintenance class, they mostly studied physical fitness. These classes are for students who would like to go into the medical field.

Classes offered this year in the Agriculture Department were Ag. Mechanics, Supervised Ag Experience (SAE), Ag. Business, and Animal Science.

The Animal Science class concentrated on preparing for livestock judging. They advanced one team to the State for the second time in two years. Students travelled out of state for these competitions. They judge cows, pigs, and sheep, and depending on how well they did, they receive a certain number of points.

The Ag Mechanics class worked on building a miniature Putt-Putt course and preparing the grill for the FFA cook out. The cook out was held during school hours and any class member and teacher could attend.

SAE members were able to get hands-on experience in the agriculture field. They learned how farmers run every aspect of their operations.

This is the second year for Carey Aubrey to serve as ag teacher both here and at Lapel. He teaches at Lapel in the morning and Frankton in the afternoon.

Amy Linville, Megan Summers, and Brittany Simmons show how girls can work farm equipment too.

NEAR OPPORTUNITIES

Cadet teachers were given several opportunities this year to acquire attributes which would help them in their future aspirations.

The students were able to:

- Interact positively with elementary students.
- Prepare an age-appropriate bulletin board.
- Teach a lesson in various subject areas.
- Experience positive learning.
- Tutor students.

CAREER INFORMATION & EXPLORATION

CIE students this year were given several different requirements to meet:

- Complete 2 reports
- A web review
- Complete 8 hours of community service (i.e. Heritage Days)
- Keep a daily log regarding each day's experiences
- Work in a peer help situation

Students were evaluated by their separate employers on a daily basis.

18 students participated in CIE this year.

In keyboarding class, students learn basic computer skills such as the correct way to type. In the Computer Applications class you learn an assortment of programs including Microsoft Word, Excel, Access, and PowerPoint.

The advanced computer class is just more extensive learning of the same programs. Also in the advanced computer class, students are in charge of creating the video announcements that are seen throughout the school. They also write the school newsletter that goes out to all students' families.

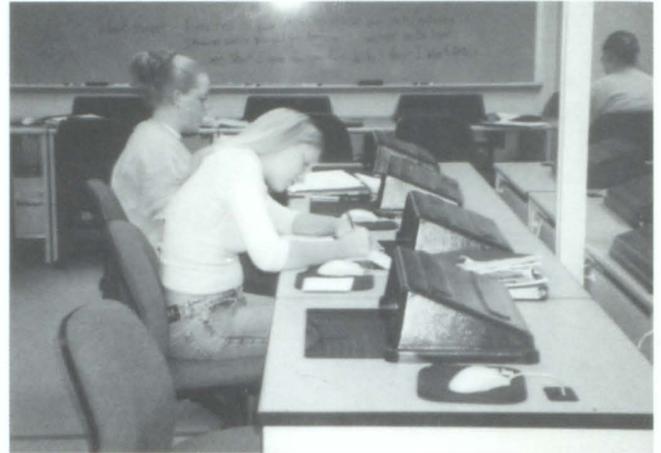

The computer applications classes are very beneficial to students that are planning on going to college. You can even get college credits from some of them. Other classes that deal with business are accounting and of course, business. Both of these classes are taught by Mr. Morehead.

Computers are now a part of everyday life and students need a working knowledge about computers to excel in life.

Jr. High Computer Classes

Most students remember the basic computer classes that were required in Jr. High. That's what this section is all about. These classes are the stepping stones for the classes you take when you get into high school. They teach you basic computer skills so you have some idea of what it is going to be like in High School. Mr. Keck and Mr. Shelton teach the classes for the Jr. High. Mr. Keck is one of the new teachers this year so this is his first year teaching Jr. High Computer.

Shanna Seegraves logs in to start work in her Jr. High computer class. The junior high just acquired a new computer lab in recent years. This allows keyboarding and other classes to use an up-to-date lab.

Technology

Mr. Huntsinger explains technology as what keeps the world working and that it is all around us. It also helps the economy work. In the basic tech. systems class, the students are taught problem solving skills. Creativity and creative thinking is also something that is stressed in this class.

H

In the manufacturing class students learn how products are made and designed. The construction class studies on-sight structures such as buildings, houses and roads. This the technology class built two storage sheds and also helped with designing the sets for the school plays.

Mr. Scholl teaches the computer drafting and the junior high technology classes.

Ryan McClintick, Zach Idlewine, and Jacy Cook show you can use power tools and carry on a conversation at the same time.

Cody Martin works on a project in Mr. Huntsinger's technology class. He is using one of the many power tools that are available in is classroom. Students are taught the proper way to use these so that they can safely use them for projects.

Vocational School

Many of the high school students attend vocational school. Vocational school is provided to show students what it is like to work at a profession that they might be considering as their career. Vocational school is usually only eligible to juniors and seniors.

C.

Students can attend vocational school have two major choices: attend at Anderson at Ebbert or Elwood at John C. Hinds and attend in the AM or PM hours. The majority of the students attend during PM hours. Students go to half a day of classes at school, then go to classes at the vocational school.

In vocational school the students are provided with a variety of different vocational school choices. There is law enforcement, health professionals, business technology, building trades, cosmetology, auto mechanics, auto technology, and print technology.

High school students have a variety of math classes to choose from. When you are a freshman, depending on your math level, you take either Intro to Algebra I, or Algebra I.

From there, people usually go in this order, Geometry, Algebra II, Pre Calculus, Calculus, and if you ever make it there, the last class would be Trigonometry.

H.S.

There are three math teachers in the high school. Mr. Bauchert teaches Intro to Algebra I, Algebra I, and Geometry. Mr. Abernathy teaches Intro to Algebra I, and Algebra I, and II. Mr. Thurston teaches Geometry, Algebra II, Pre-Calculus, Calculus, and Trigonometry.

With the trimester scheduling this year, students taking math may have had some difficulty in remembering what they learned if their scheduling gave them a math class first and third trimester. The teachers were prepared though! They made sure that the students knew all the earlier principles taught by reviewing a lot before they taught new things.

Students have to have a least four math classes throughout high school. Some students are able to get out of math their senior year if they choose the option of doubling up on math either their freshman or sophomore year. This gives seniors a chance to relax just a little bit more in their last year of school.

Mr. Thurston teaches his class with use of the blackboard. He known more for using an overhead projector to convey the messages he was trying to get across to the students.

Students listen intently as Mr. Thurston talks to them. They are members of the NHS, which he is the sponsor

Enjoying Learning

Junior High math is taught by two teachers, Mr. Fry for the seventh grade, and Mrs. Miller for the eighth.

J.H

Mr. Fry teaches all the seventh graders basic math principles. He not only gets his points across, but does it in a fun way. He gets students used to keeping a folder in order by doing random folder checks. He also has a play lottery, and the students get to buy homes, cars, or whatever with their play money. This helps the students learn to budget their money.

H

Mrs. Miller follows up with the things Mr. Fry taught, but as with the rest of the eighth grade teachers, she goes into more detail. Mrs. Miller also teaches high school Intro Algebra I, and Algebra I to students that are able to understand the advanced concepts.

Eighth graders Aaron Ricker, and Jake Prince pose with their game that they created for the annual math carnival. Mrs. Miller holds this event every year, and students in her class are required to come up with an imaginative math game that elementary students can play.

Mario's Pizza Place is the name of the game that Jacob Parker, and Kelly Lacey made up. They are shown explaining how to play it to elementary students.

About the Past

Along with teaching History class, Mr. Davis also teaches an ACP college course for the students who want to receive a college credit while in high school. The ACP class is different from regular history because all the test questions are in essay form and the class requires a lot of reading. Mr. LeMaster teaches Geography, and senior Economics. Mr. Sims teaches History, as well as being active in other parts of the school.

In Geography class, students learn about continents, and locations of geographic things around the world. Students also learn some basic facts having to do with places. In this class, you have to take a lot of quizzes on locations, but you also get to have a lot of fun while studying for them.

History class starts you way back to before America was discovered. From there you go through all the important events that happened all the way up to present time. History class requires students to do a lot of extra projects. Mr. Davis requires a term paper, and Mr. Sims has a final project that his class must do before the year is finished.

Mrs. Caudill teaches the seventh grade all about Geographic locations, and interesting sights around the world. She also has many projects that she does each year to make the learning process a little bit easier. She makes sure that each student is able to remember the information learned, because they won't get any more geography lessons until they get into high school.

Mr. Ritz teaches World History to the eighth grade classes. He makes each class watch the classic movie 'Roots' to go along with his lesson on slavery. He also has to make sure to implant much information, because History class doesn't come again for many students until later in high school.

So Many Choices

There are so many different kinds of sciences available to take here at Frankton. Each student in High school is required to have at least two years of science-type classes. Students can choose from classes such as: Biology, Biology 2, Chemistry, Chemistry 2, Astronomy, Physical Science, Physics and Applied Physics.

H.S.

Each class has a different area of science to cover. In Biology, students learn about mammals, and the world around us. In Chemistry, we learn about things having to deal with chemicals, and students get to perform all types of experiments.

Physical Science teaches students about the earth around us, and deals a lot with plants, and other organic material. Astronomy is the study of the planets, stars, and other celestial bodies.

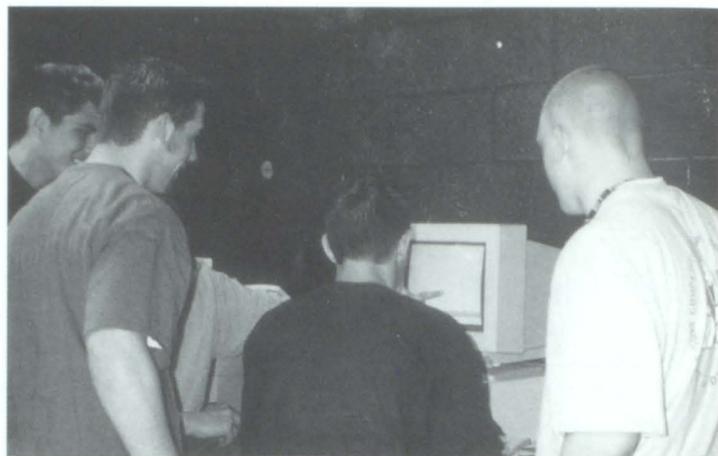

Physics and Applied Physics cover the area of the physical properties of science. Students do a lot of experiments in this class also.

So you can see that High School students have to do some thinking while making out their schedule. But as long as they get at least two of these classes in, they should be okay!

Seventh grade classes learn all the basic principles of science and learn a lot of things about the human body. Students are required to make models of the epidermis, or skin, the eye, and a cell. Each model had to have each part correctly identified and labeled. This assignment gave students the opportunity to get away from book work, and to be creative.

The eighth grade learned about the periodic tables, and each student had was to do a report on a particular element. They also had to do several other fun activities that aided in learning.

These two boys concentrate on an experiment they are performing for science class. This particular experiment required them to bring in a toy racecar.

Teachers Doing Double

Each student at Frankton is required to have four years of English to graduate. Along with taking English each year, students can also take several English-related classes such as, Speech, Etymology, and Composition.

Most of the English teachers in the school have several duties. Mrs. Coryell taught Jr. High as well as Junior 11A, Mrs. Russell, Eighth grade, and Jr. High Spanish.

Mr. Sipe Freshman English, and yearbook and newspaper advisor, Mrs. Hagan, Sophomore English, and Speech class, Mr. Cress, Junior English, and Etymology, and Mrs. Mills Senior English, and Composition.

The teachers made sure that the students were able to move up to the next level with their abilities, and have all knowledge they will need to graduate.

Jessica Wire stands in front of her speech class, and tries to inform the students of her particular speech topic. In Speech, students are required to each give four formal speeches, along with numerous informal ones.

This group of freshman pose while taking time out of class to put on the play, Romeo and Juliet. Mr. Sipe took the students out of class and downtown to the gazebo to perform this play.

Learning the Basics

Junior high students start their English career off with Mrs. Coryell as their teacher. Mrs. Coryell's duties include getting students used to writing above their level, teaching them how to use proper grammar, and how to use proper sentence structure. It takes time to get students used to junior high, but when they learn how to write properly, it makes it easier both on them, and on Mrs. Russell, the eighth grade teacher. Along with learning basic English principles, students also read several books in class, watch movies, and are required to read a book per each six weeks, and take an RC test on each one.

J.H.

When students reach eighth grade, they do basically the same as when they were in seventh, except that the grammar, sentence structure, and books they read are more difficult. Students really get into the parts of speech and do whole lessons on each one. They also learn the proper way to write paragraphs, and how to put essays together. The books that eighth graders read in class are more difficult, and they have more class discussions, and quizzes over chapters. The discussions in class help the students get a better understanding of the books, and it helps them to retain information better. By the time they finish the year, eighth graders should be very well-prepared, and feel comfortable of going into freshman English the following year.

What was the most enjoyable thing about Student Council this year?

- "Definitely State Convention because of all the people I met. It was awesome, probably the best thing about my senior year," said Scott Morgan, senior.
- "I really enjoyed the new mix of students. All were willing to help and had positive attitudes. I especially enjoyed the fact that our early fund-raisers got us so much money, that we were able to have a much less hectic winter than usual," said Corrie Goshert, junior.
- "State Convention because I enjoyed meeting new people," said Brittney Kunce, sophomore.
- "The Rep. Assembly, I met a lot of new people and had a lot of fun!," said Tammy Turner, freshman.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

National Honor Society was sponsored by Jeff Thurston. Only Juniors and Seniors are eligible for this club, and out of them, 27 members qualified. The criteria these students had to meet was to have a 3.5 GPA, fill out an application, be evaluated by members of the school board along with 5 other teachers.

"The initiations ceremony was the most enjoyable thing I experienced while being a sponsor of this club," said Thurston. The point of club is to recognize students that put in extra effort to get good grades.

They also do a lot of community service projects and students donate their free time to better the greater Frankton community.

CLUB ACCOMPLISHMENTS...

The Publications class has worked hard to make sure that things get done the right way. In the past, the yearbook has been issued at the beginning of the next school year. There is usually a signing party involved to celebrate the yearbook's arrival. This year, however, it didn't occur quite the same way. Due to last year's fire, the deadlines for the yearbook were pushed back. Last year's staff either didn't put in enough effort or just didn't have the time to finish.

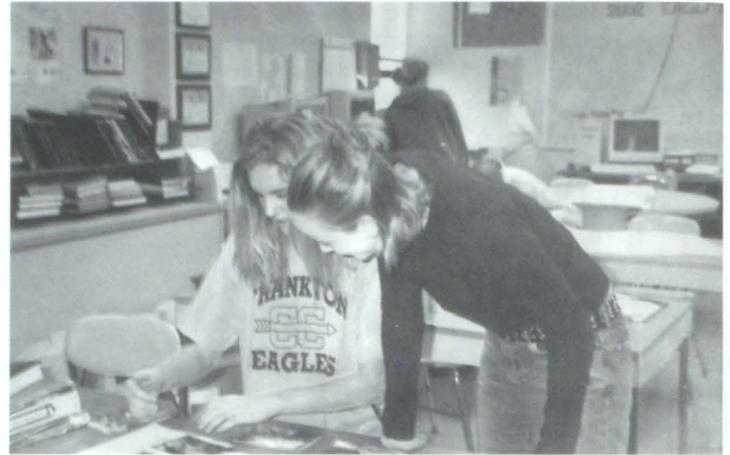

This year's staff had to not only work on this year's issues of the school paper and yearbook, but they also had to finish last year's yearbook. Fortunately, this year's staff's hard work paid off and they finished everything by late June.

This year's hard work was led by Eagles' Wings Editor-In-Chief, Celliena Swigart, and Yearbook Editor, Sara Rodewald. The trimester schedule meant that students weren't in the class the entire year and had to surrender their work to another student or arrange their time to be in the classroom when they could.

This year's Journalism class got a good taste of what the system of communications is all about. They began to put their knowledge to work, and wrote the Eagle Beats for the Eagles' Wings newspaper. They even got the chance to help with the Eaglite yearbook as they turned their beats into yearbook spreads mostly for the clubs and academics section.

The class met the last two trimesters of the school year. They also wrote letters to the editor for the Youth Forum section of the Indianapolis Star.

A highlight event during the year included some guest speakers from local newspaper agencies and others that had experienced the working field of communications and the media.

Future Frosts?

Robert Frost once said that the road not taken was the path people are supposed to follow in life. This line is from one of the most well-known poems ever written. Chances are you have heard it before whether you were forced to read it in an English class, or stumbled upon a book of poems at the library. Well this year, Frankton students took after Frost's lead and tried their own hand at writing poetry, by starting Poetry Club.

The club was started by the students for the purpose of letting people express themselves. The members met during TAG, or any other time that they wanted to get together. They read original poetry and commented on it. For the most part, the following was small, but the people were loyal, and contributions were high quality.

Listed on the page are some of the members' poems as well as some other student's poetry. You be the judge to say whether they would make Frost proud!

You
Stephanie Belesky

In the darkness you are there,
In the light you show you care,
You hold my hands when things are rough,
You are my strength when things are tough,

You are my rope when the mountain's steep,
You give your hand for me to keep,
You guide me through thick and thin,
You will always be there as you always have been.

I will never have to fear,
Because I know you are near,
You take my burdens and make them light,
You bring me close and hold me tight,

My path is already laid out for me,
Only you can help me see,
I just wait for your call,
Because you have taken care of it all!

All for You

Stephen Christopher Brown

And if I could you know I'd try
I'd give my wings
so you could fly
And if you crashed
and then you cried
I'd drown your tears
in a pool of mine
You're in my world
You light my day
when I am lost
You find my way
Words are silent
night and day
For you are more than they can say
I'll give my heart
take my soul, too
Here I am
All for you

School
Devin Brown

You may be the smart guy, bully, or prep,
But there's one thing about everyone all must accept.
That we all have feelings, sorrows, and tears,
Some speak them out, others hide in the years.
School is much more than a lesson in books.
It's more than your grades, your popularity, or looks,
It's learning life and the way people are,
Accept all that is around you and you will go far.

Discovering Me
Stacy Blackmond

This incredible energy flows through me,
That makes me feel as if I'm free,
As I run through the meadows,
And swim through the sea,
I look at all that is great in life,
I'm finally happy being me,
No more pain to lock me away,
Only happiness shines through me now,
I've found my path to self discovery.

We only have one year of school left, what will I do?
I'll look back at the past and have memories of you.
I'll think of all the parties and all the stories we would tell.
And think of all the high school sweethearts that we thought would never fail.
We can look back at the years and recall all the fun.
Or think of the guy who just had to be the one!
We will remember our friends from the memories we've made.
Whether it was the lunch table or a game that was being played.
You can look back at in your yearbooks and recall a few dances, or you may recall when you had all those chances.
I may have passed some things up, either for better or for worst, but I won't think of that later in life, I will think of my friends first!
You guys have been with me through everything it didn't really matter.
The good, the bad, and even the things that caused my heart to shatter!
You may not have agreed with me on everything I've done, but it was my group of friends who made High School fun!
Some of you may be happy that you will finally get away, but if it was up to me, I would choose to stay!
I don't want to leave you guys, I don't want things to change.
Without all my friends my life will rearrange!
You've been there for me through everything when things were getting tough.
I couldn't imagine school without you, I bet it would be rough!
All I have are the memories of the past.
I don't want to leave High School, it went too fast!
You guys were there for me through it all,
and with your help I could survive a fall.
If I was sad, you could make me smile,
you guys would always go that extra mile!
All I ask is to make the best of each new day,
and don't ever let our friendships fade away!

The High School band participated in a lot of different things this year. The first thing was the traditional Heritage Days Parade in the fall. They had a Veteran's Day Program here at the school. Then there was a Christmas Program. They performed in the Issma Concert Contest on April 20 at Muncie Central. They performed the songs March: Celebration and Glory, Romanesque, and Lead On, O King Eternal. They had a Spring Concert here at the school and performed the same songs as at the ISSMA Contest. Lead On, O King Eternal was the finale with the choir singing it as the band performed. Then they performed the traditional Pomp and Circumstance at the 2002 graduation. They also took part as the pep band and played the school song, along with other lively, upbeat tunes to keep everyone excited during most of the Varsity boys home basketball games. One of the big things for the band was taking part in marching band. It started in July and with that they got to perform at the State Fair. They had a very successful year and a lot of great performances.

WHAT MAKES BAND SO GREAT?

- "It's a great experience and you get to go to a lot of different places for contests," said Becky Welker, senior.
- "It's great to be able to come together as a class and make good, fun music," said Michael Knotts, junior.
- "It's fun, can be relaxing, and you can get a sense of accomplishment when you do good on a song," said Phillip Best, sophomore.

Mr. Harney proudly conducts the band during this year's Spring Concert.

Almost DOES Count!

The 7th and 8th graders got to do a lot of different and exciting things this year. They marched in the Heritage Days Parade, playing Rocky Top. They performed at the ISSMA Combined Concert Contest at Elwood High School on March 16. They came home with second place, but only a point away from first. The songs they performed were Hoosier Pride, New World Symphony, and Imperium. They had the traditional Christmas and Spring concerts. The Spring concert consisted of the performance of the same songs they performed at the ISSMA contest, but they also added Armed Forces on Parade and Rocky Top.

They had a good year and learned a lot of new skills they will be able to carry with them into High School or Jazz Band.

Jazzin' It Up!

The Jazz band started off the year with a performance at the Paramount Festival of Trees. They performed 25 or 6 to 4 and Frosty. Then they took place in the school's Christmas program, performing the same songs as at the Paramount. They also participated in the ISSMA Jazz Contest. It was at New Palestine High School on March 2. They came in second place with their interpretation of Green Angel Street and 25 or 6 to 4.

The 2002 high school choir participated in many things this year. First, they sang in the Veteran's Day concert, which the choirs helped create. It was a wonderful show for the veterans of Frankton. Then they performed in our school's annual Christmas Concert and sang a few of favorite Christmas songs. They also sang in the Spring Concert.

In March, they participated in Choral Fest, at Elwood High School. They learned new dance moves and sang songs during their workshops. Sandy Patty was the guest singer.

In May, the high school choir, along with all the other choirs, sang at the Baccalaureate to honor the seniors who would be graduating this year. The Baccalaureate was at Reardon Auditorium at Anderson University.

Because it was a larger area than they were used to, the choir had to be sure to prepare for it. They selected special songs to sing and presented a nice show.

The seniors, parents and family and friends that attended appeared to enjoy it very much.

WHY THEY DID IT...

- "Mr. Mettert is the bestest teacher ever. No other teacher would let you do 'Cotton-eyed Joe' during class time and "shake it" with you." said Mindy Moorman, sophomore.
- "We watched a lot of good movies," said Lindsay Meiser, junior.
- "We have fun dancing," said Brandie Hunter, freshman.
- "Choir is great!" said Kristina Rainey, junior.

Rocks the School

This year, the junior high Mixed Choir sang in the Christmas concert where they dressed up and sang Christmas songs with all the other choirs. The junior high choir did not get many chances to sing with the high school, so the Christmas concert is a big deal. They seemed to handle it well.

But, that's not all. The main event this year for the junior high was their performing their own musical called "School House Rock Live!" This little musical was a medley of songs from the old T.V. show. It was basically about a new teacher who tries to make learning fun. There was a lot of choreography, acting, and singing. They performed it at the elementary auditorium during the Carnival Daze. It was a successful production.

The Junior High Mixed Choir sings Who Would Imagine A King for the Christmas Concert.

Girl's Choir

The Crimson Bells, also known as "Girl's Choir", did a lot of things this year. First of all, they had their name changed by first year director, Mr. Mettert, from the Sapphire Silhouettes to the Crimson Bells. They performed in the Veteran's Day concert, which the entire choir department put together. They also sang in both the Christmas and Spring concerts.

In March they, along with all the other choirs, went to Choral Fest which was held at Elwood High School. They sang songs that they had learned and class, as well as doing the choreography along with them. The guest singer was Sandy Patty. The Crimson also went to the Festival of Trees at The Paramount Theatre.

All of these shows gave the choir a chance to show the public all of the hard work that they put in during the year.

Girls Survivin'

The main event this year for Show Choir was their "survivor dance." During the Fall Trimester, the choir practiced everyday for perfection. They performed this dance at the Heritage Days talent show, and for other occasions.

They sang in the annual Christmas concert. They also performed a seasonal Christmas medley, along with some choreography, at the Paramount.

During the spring time, they performed in the Spring Concert and competed in a Show Choir contest at Homestead High School in Indianapolis and came in last place. Since it was their first contest of its kind for them, it was still an overall victory for Frankton.

Doing Double Time

The Drama Club had many new things happen to them this year. First of all, they got a new sponsor, Mr. Mettert. Instead of just having one play this year, like usual, they performed two. One in the fall and one in the spring. The fall show was called "Til Death Do Us Part." It was a comedy about an odd couple getting married, but their families didn't get along. This wacky story turned into a murder mystery when some of the guests are killed by a family member who doesn't want them to get married. It was presented in the school's cafeteria. Refreshments were served so it seemed as if you were actually at the wedding reception.

In the Spring, the Drama Club performed a comedy/love story that was about the difficulties of relationships between employees in the labor union. This musical was called the "Pajama Game." A drama about a group of textile workers trying to get more wages for their work. This was the most complicated play of the year because on the last night, two of the main cast members lost their voices, so other people had to speak their lines and sing their songs for them while the actors mouthed along. This was by far the most interesting year that the Drama Club has had. Hopefully next year will be just as fun!

9/11 Loss of Innocence

The skies were blue, the sun was bright, and ISTEP had just begun. Then what was already an abnormal day for the students at Frankton Jr./Sr. High School suddenly became surreal.

Our nation was under attack. Terrorists had high-jacked four planes and crashed three of them into buildings. Specifically the World Trade Center's "Twin Towers" and the Pentagon. The fourth plane crashed into a field in Pennsylvania. All airports were closed and most governmental agencies ceased operations.

All day long televisions in every classroom were spurting out the horrific news.

Students watched thoughts were of then of anger at who horrible act of changed how many power and might. We ourselves. How happened? Who with utter disbelief. First their own safety and had committed this terrorism. This day thought about America's started to question could this have could have done it?

The immediate results of the attack became evident as long lines started forming at our local Ricker's gas station as people feared there might be a run on gas prices. As the days passed anthrax threats came about, Wall Street reopened, and eight months later "Ground Zero" was cleared of debris.

This was the first attack on U.S. soil since Pearl Harbor. Our leaders immediately took action and retaliated against the terrorists who did this.

Day to day life has almost returned to normal; however the media continues to remind us that we are still threatened by governments and terrorists organizations who will use any means to achieve the goal. As a nation we are united against these 21st century threats.

Patriotism was resurrected and Americans felt a new bond between themselves. We dismantled a terrorist organization and committed ourselves to ridding the world of terrorism. No one can predict what the future will bring, but the renewed sense of patriotism and nationalism with the help of many countries surely we will be as prepared as we can be to face the next threat that will challenge our way of life.

Looking Through Our Eyes

Now you have experienced what we go through every day. You have been able to see 180 days through our eyes.

Every day we work hard during school, go to practice, go to jobs, yet we still find time to make high school memorable.

We have had a lot of changes during the year, such as new classes, and new teachers. And we will have big changes next year, with our school being air-conditioned, and gaining at least seven new teachers. But we are a resilient student body, and will be able to carry on with our daily duties day after day.

In Eaglite 2002, we wanted to show you how we spend all of our time, and I hope that we were able to give you a little piece of our world "Looking Through Our Eyes".

Erin McLaughlin shows the proper technique of scooping ice-cream while at work at Maucky's. This is the first year Erin has worked there.

Amy Linville concentrates on "reviving" the dummy used in Health class. Each sophomore was required to learn CPR as part of health class.

Shaun Ball, Josh Hendricks, and Trevor Rich look startled as they are caught on camera during their daily game of basketball.

Brianna McLaughlin, Erin Hendricks, Rachel Woodard, and Ashley Hymes work on homework in the hallway. You could often see seniors working on assignments out there.

Hurry! Victor Foster tries to guide Lucas Etchison toward the finish line during the blind-wheelbarrow race.

Looking Through My Eyes

Well, it's finally finished! I now get to write my final words of this book. I am really happy with the finished product, and I am proud to finally let people see it. As a junior, this was my first year in student publications, and I was honored to be asked to be the yearbook editor. I had a lot to learn about the yearbook-making process, but I think that with the help of Mr. Sipe, Celliena Granger, and Lynn Pickett, our yearbook advisor from Herff Jones, I was able to pick up quite a lot, and make the most of the knowledge that I already possessed from finishing the 2001 Eaglite.

We got off to a slow start in putting together this book, but once people really sat down and concentrated, we got on a roll. With the trimester scheduling, it was difficult to get all of my section editors in here at once, but we did the best that we could. A lot of people came in when they had free time to help us, and that was what helped us in getting the book finished.

I would like to thank so many people for putting in all those extra hours that made finishing the 2002 Eaglite possible. First of all, I would like to re-mention Mr. Sipe. He was here every day trying to teach everyone in the class the basics of how to do pages. He also chipped in and helped us wherever we needed him, whether it was printing pictures, finishing pages, or getting us lunch! Thank-you for being a patient advisor! Next I would like to thank Holly Hampton, Whitney Lewis, Todd Campbell, Heather Waymire, Mika Fountain, and Amanda Steiner. They weren't on the original Eaglite staff, but they gave up part of their summer to help us in putting in the finishing touches. I really appreciate it, and know that it would have taken so much longer to finish if you weren't so gracious in helping us out. I would like to also mention the Eaglite staff, Claire Jenness, Celliena Swigeart, Kasey Combs, Jessica Benefiel, Zach Whitesel, Tiffany Johnson, and Megan Summers. They gave their best effort in making sure that they got pages done, and making sure that this was one of the best yearbooks yet. They also put up with me telling them day in and day out that they needed to get their pages done. The journalism class did an excellent job completing the clubs and academics section as well as some of the sports pages. A lot of the staff also gave up part of their summer to finish, and some even went beyond their initial job descriptions to help get other sections done. Thank-you for helping in any way that you could! And last but not least, I would like to thank my parents and friends for listening to me gripe every day when I would get done working on the book. I know that I got frustrated a lot, but you helped me out just by listening to my complaints.

I hope that you, the student body of Frankton Jr./Sr. High School, and any other readers know all the hard work that went into the making of this book. We did the best possible job we could making sure that anyone who read it would be able to see the school year Through Our Eyes.
