Preparing for the James Dean Weekend Festival, juniors Max Shutt and Jonni Parks help decorate by painting James Dean's face on the window of the Outpost restaurant for Art Club. The Arguys and Gals, as well as the M-G bands, entertained the public during James Dean Days.

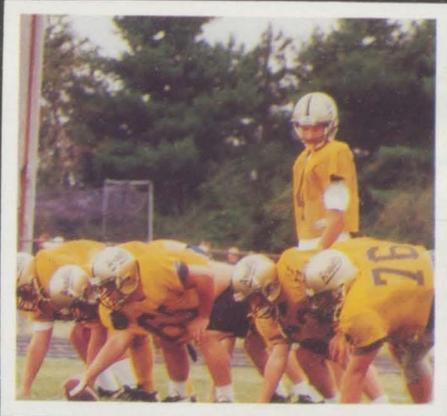

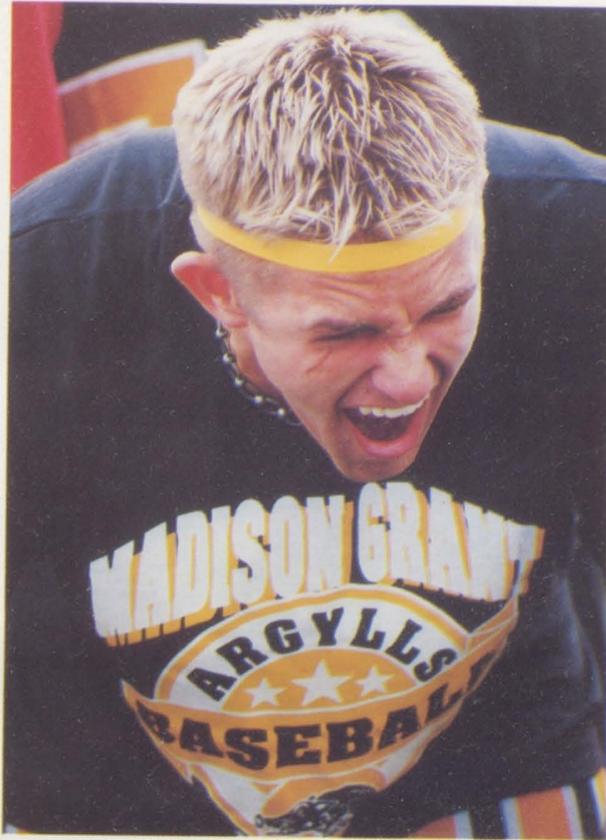

Mrs. Dosh's freshman English class listens to media specialist Mrs. Gough's annual freshman library orientation about using such things as the Internet, Athena, and Infotrac. Library behavior and library rules were also discussed during the orientation.

Just having a good time, the senior homecoming court, Katie Runyan, Brock Ricks, Seth Hollingsworth, Damon Stansberry, Jason Hiatt, and Kari Ward switch roles as the four guys wear the crowns and the sashes. Each year the homecoming court is selected by fellow classmates.

Fall

Summer activities are over, leaves are turning colors, and school is back in session. Fall has officially begun. The worries and cares and pressures of yet another school year take over the minds of every concerned teacher and student. Students return to a year filled with books and reports as well as Museum Days and Homecoming events.

by Annie Painter

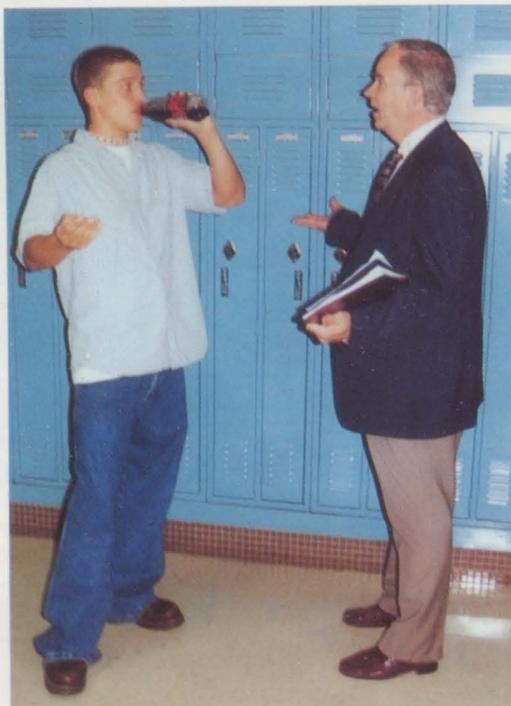

Taking advantage of some free time during their psychology class, seniors Shana Wheadon and Annie Painter enjoy a laugh while reading and discussing a magazine. Psychology class proved to be enjoyable as well as demanding at times.

Senior Mark Earnest shows his eagerness to leave school as he lines up in the Fairmount line to go home. Mark gives the camera a 'thumbs up' as he waits for the buses to leave so he can take advantage of his time away from school.

Junior Stefani Randol shows she can really 'shake 'em down' as she hula-hoops her way down the hall. Teachers were a lot more lenient with things going on in the hallways during homecoming week.

"Nous sommes parfait!" That is what senior Brady Barnes and junior Stephen Jones try to prove by showing their bilingual abilities. They are participating in an activity in French II, second period, taught by Madame Phipps.

Senior Daniel Stephens flashes a big smile as he holds the book in which his poem "The Boy Warrior" was published. The poem was a heart-wrenching depiction of a young Indian boy as he faces life and death.

Howdy Partner! Seniors Jason Hiatt and Kari Ward dress up as traditional cowboy and Indian for a Homecoming dress-up day. Students never knew what to expect to see in the hallways during Homecoming week.

Racing to a first place finish, juniors Micah Gates and Sean Pogue enjoy their roles as Grease characters. The juniors managed to tie the movie in with football and decorate the hallway with creativity.

Is this Leonardo DiCaprio and Kate Winslet or Kyle Scott and Alyssa Williams? The hard work of the freshmen in their Titanic hallway earned them a third place finish.

Down, set, hike! As fourth year football players, seniors Damon Stansberry, Mark Earnest, and Jason Hiatt know the feeling of exhilaration of those words in the big Homecoming game.

Groovy, baby. These six seniors show that they have free fun-loving spirits as they pretend to be hippies in Mrs. Herring's English class on Hippie Day of Homecoming week.

After waiting sixteen years for the opportunity to drive, junior Jeremy Pfeffer shows off his car and driving skills as he goes home after a long day of school and tennis practice.

Junior Max Shutt spends the remainder of his lunch hour indulging in a bag of chips, with senior Amanda Osborn. Lunch time gives students the opportunity to socialize. It also provides a much needed stress relief from class.

On his way to keyboarding class, junior Kevin Giselbach pauses for a laugh with a few friends. Keyboarding is a very resourceful class that is available to students.

The sophomore class concentrates on getting fired up at the afternoon pep session, one of the few pep sessions held each year. The pep session was intended to create excitement and enthusiasm among the student body for the upcoming game.

Sophomore Brock Meyer watches intently as Coach Robins tosses the football during an after school practice. Many summer hours and hours after school were spent to get the football players conditioned for their season.

Concentrating on her music, sophomore Andrea Davis plays her clarinet with the band during the Homecoming pep rally. Band was a way for the students to be involved in the pep rally and fire up the students.

Loading her typewriter to prepare for a timed writing in her Keyboarding I class sixth period, freshman Casey Masters sends a secret look to a friend across the room.

Listening intently to the lecture in Mr. Bridwell's Woods I class, freshman Doug Lewis thinks about the project he will make.

Freshmen

Enjoying a free day in band class, best friends & fellow saxophone players freshmen Debbie Lamb and Alissa Williams share a joke. Band students look forward to a day away from their instruments.

What would possess freshman Adessa Spangler to search frantically through the trash after lunch? Could it be a lost retainer?

Trying to split her attention between Mr. Small and her Algebra I assignment can be very confusing for freshman Annie Melton, but with her concentration, she can accomplish that feat.

Faculty

One of Principal R. Larry Martin's unofficial duties is to persuade these boys in the cafeteria to purchase some candy. Mr. Martin and the ladies at the bookstore have been selling these mints for the last few years to help raise money for Riley's Children Hospital.

Assistant principal Mrs. Mitchell, along with her grandson Austin Slober, enjoys the Christmas spirit of the annual Christmas auction. Several times throughout the year Mrs. Mitchell was visited by her grandson.

Mr. Strasemeier proves that teachers give more than just an education. He is one of several teachers that participated in the annual blood drive. The Student Council members have sponsored this life saving event for three years.

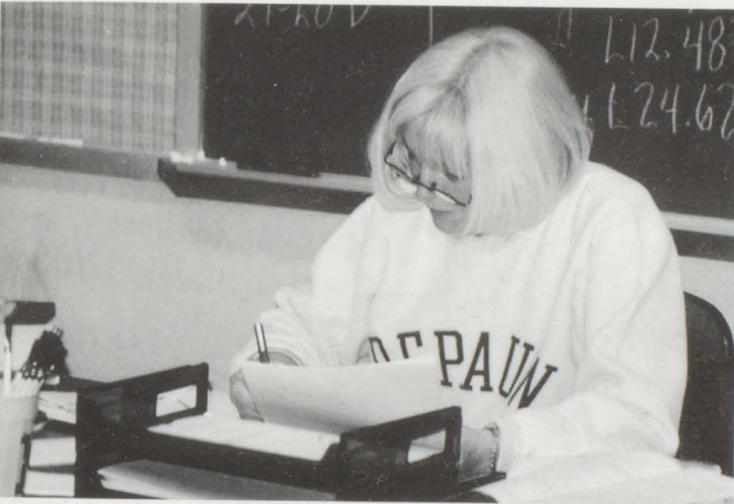

Taking a pie in the face for a good cause, Mr. Bud Badger accepts with dignity that he was bought for $50.00, along with Mr. Terry Martin. In weeks prior to the auction, donation cans floated around the school in battle to see which teacher would collect the pie in the face.

Mr. Eversman, junior and senior counselor, discusses some possible future plans with senior Lindsey Walker. Mr. Eversman keeps his day busy with schedule changes, keeping track of academics and helping students with college preparation.

Grading the days papers, business teacher Mrs. Gallo reads over the keyboarding students' typing jobs. Mrs. Gallo will be retiring after this year. She has taught in the business department for 30 years.

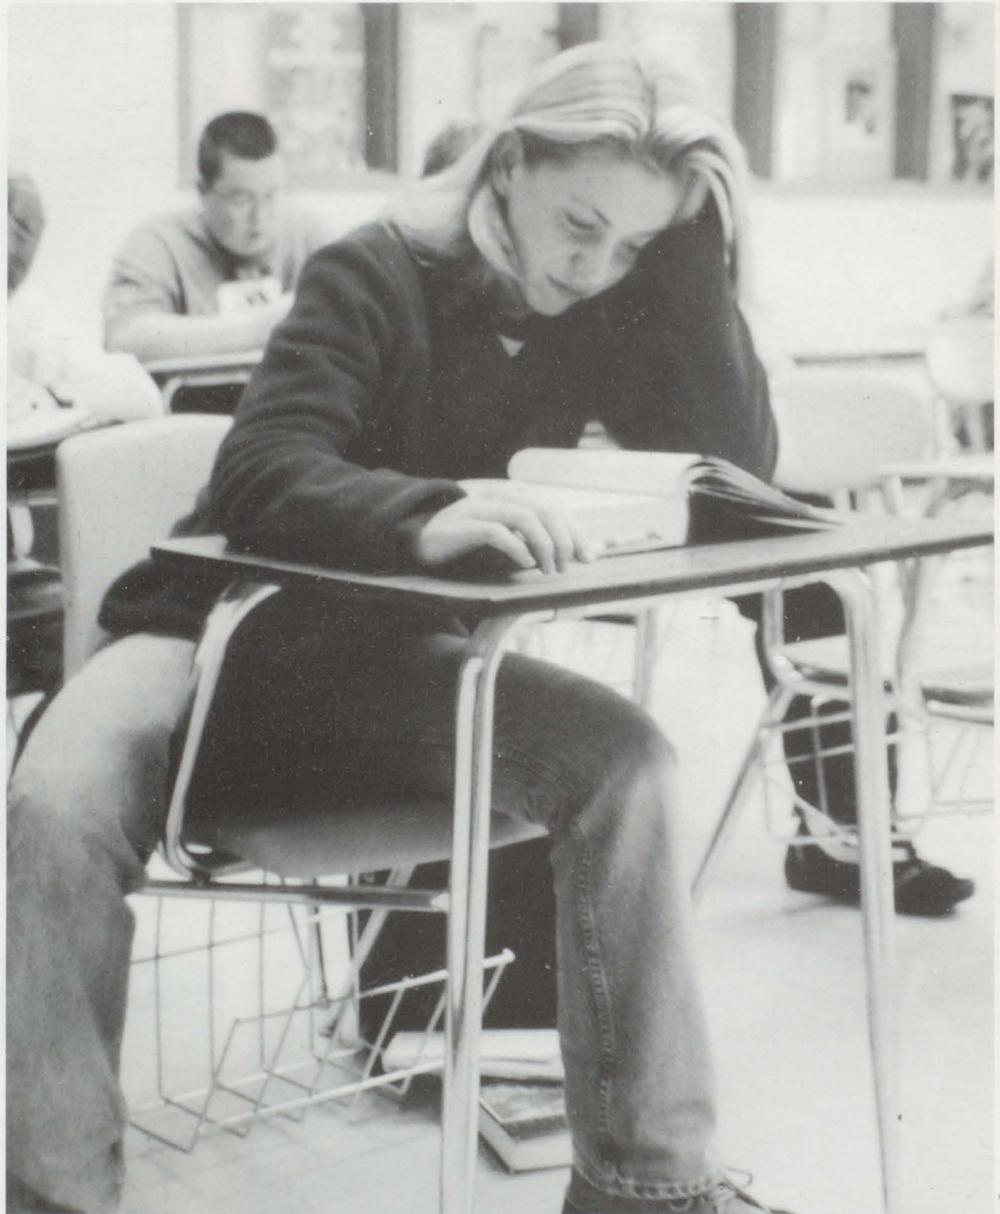

Mrs. Riggs, school nurse, takes time out to check her busy schedule to see where she will be next. Mrs. Riggs is the nurse at all three elementaries, the junior high, and the high school.

While preparing the weekly lesson plans, the newly added math teacher Mr. Wilson keeps himself organized. He is one of the new math teachers brought to M-G.

Sophomore Courtney Campbell flashes a look of joy as she dreams of tomorrow's outfit. Courtney holds the title of best dressed for the sophomore class. Courtney is wearing a long sleeved Tommy t-shirt, which is a fashion 'do' for the fall season.

Sophomore Alycia Brooker is always on the cutting edge of hair styles. Alycia goes with a short layered hair cut, and normally will pull it back in a stretch headband.

Cross Country

Senior Brady Barnes comes in first place at the meet against Mississinewa. Brady has shown great leadership in the four years he has been on the cross country team.

Boys Tennis

Hitting a good backhand at #1 singles, junior Matt Stephenson shows his skills to a visiting opponent. Matt was the most improved player on the tennis team this year.

Showing what the word TEAM really means, the Madison-Grant boys tennis team meets at Fazoli's every Wednesday night. Going to Fazoli's brought the team closer together.

In his first season as head coach, Mark Hartman led his team through many emotional games and speeches. Coach Hartman took over for Grant Zgunda as head coach for the Argyll's 1998 football season.

Senior lineman Damon Stansberry leads the way for his fellow senior Jason Hiatt during the Argyll's game against Elwood. The Argylls put up a strong fight against the Panthers but were unable to prevail in the end. This is how most of the season went for the Argylls.

A group of sophomores take time to view the gymnasium of Ball State University before they continue their tour of the campus. The sophomore Ball State field trip is an annual event in which most students enjoy getting an idea of what college life is like.

Seniors Mark Earnest, Jason Hiatt, and Gwyn Musick are proud of what their first period class has collected for the annual canned food drive in Mrs. Herring's college prep English class. However, Mrs. Sharkey's Arguys and gals class overruled the school with the most canned goods.

Business teacher Mrs. Gallo shows the student audience what her true love gave to her on the 9th day of Christmas! During the Christmas auction the teachers did a skit of the "12 Days of Christmas" that they all performed well. The teacher skit was a part of the annual Christmas auction.

Winter

Winter began. Students were going crazy anticipating snow, fun, and winter break. Many activities happened during the winter months such as the annual Christmas Auction, the canned food drive, and the sophomore trip to Ball State. Activities such as basketball, wrestling, and the academic team also took their new season beginnings.

Separated into different groups, these sophomores meet their tour guide by Emens Auditorium and get ready for the tour of the campus. The tour is a part of the busy day at Ball State University.

Sophomores Tabitha Dudley, Megan Mason, and Angie Sheperd sit down and laugh all the way from Muncie. This 45-minute bus ride was nothing compared to the full day at Ball State University.

The sophomores listen as their tour guide tells them about what Ball State University has and offers on its campus. The tour was a part of the busy day of listening to speakers and participating in a question/answer session with former M-G students who are now Ball State students. The guide also tells about the Statue of Beneficence, known as "Benny" by college students.

Sophomores learn a little more about college life from their tour guide. Chaperones, as well as students, had many questions about the college campus. The tour guide did her best to answer a question asked by Principal R. Larry Martin.

Sophomores take a break from their long tour around the campus. Some of the buildings they visited were the gym, the broadcasting building, a dorm, and the library. They chose to sit and chat by the sparkling water fountain behind the Bracken Library.

Sophomore Katy Anderson enjoys her meal in the food court. There were many things to choose from to eat: pizza, tacos, hamburgers, and much more. While in the Ball State Student Center, students had a chance to play pool, arcade games, shop in the bookstore or just sit back and relax.

Seniors Gwyn Musick and Lesli Hussey cuddle two puppies which were auctioned off to raise money to help needy families in the Madison-Grant area. Students were supposed to have parental permission in order to take home a pet from the auction.

Mr. Jeff Summers thoroughly enjoys himself as he is being pounced by a winged Mrs. Mercer. To make matters worse he is being shot in the head by a branch from a pear tree.

Santa's got a brand new bag! Retired teacher Robert Bach makes his triumphant return to the Christmas auction as jolly old St. Nick, much to the approval of the student body.

Media specialist Mrs. Janet Gough breaks away from her busy role in the library to portray one of the geese a laying. She and co-geese, English teacher Mrs. Burnett, dropped many colorful eggs on the floor.

It appears as though social studies teacher Mr. Bud Badger has made his bride, English teacher Mrs. Melody Hull, very happy this year. The teacher's skit was another success.

Sitting in C hallway before first period, juniors Kelly Mason and Clint Jump plan their day and socialize with friends. Kelly and Clint have enjoyed more than a year as a couple.

Listening to friends, juniors Kevin Cline and Dawn LaShure spend another morning by each other's side. Making time for each other during the day is an important part of their relationship.

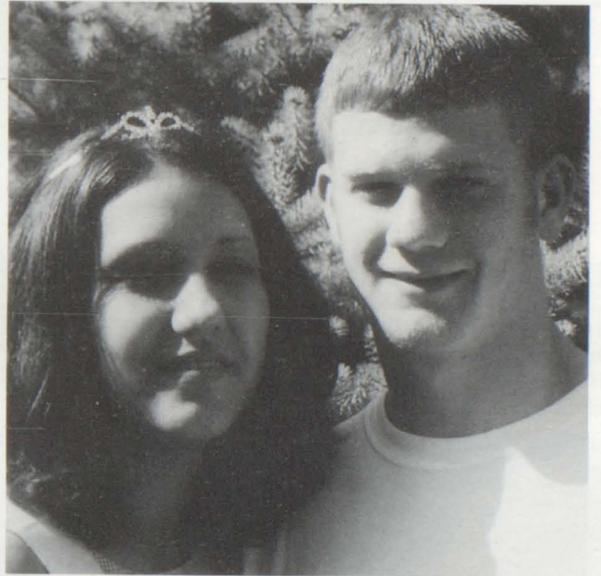

Seniors Katie Runyan and Brock Ricks gaze into each other's eyes as they share a brief moment together before the day's classes begin. Katie and Brock were both nominated by their classmates as candidates for Homecoming queen and king.

Even though they are in Genetics class, a lot of chemistry seems to be happening between juniors Jenny Dickey and Justin Tobey.

Basketball

Senior captain Kyle Feller handles the ball out front in a game against the Blackford Bruins. Although one of the quickest players on the team, Kyle fell victim to the "Great Pine Monster" towards the end of the year.

Looking for the open man, junior Kevin Cline, known as the "Club" to his teammates, gets ready to pass the ball. The nickname was bestowed upon Kevin for his club-like fouls of any nearby opponent.

Sophomore varsity player Leigh Ann Hasty slides her feet to stop the Anderson opponent from penetrating. Defense was the main key that determined the outcome for many of the Lady Argylls' games.

Waiting intently for the ball to hit the rim, senior varsity player Lindsey Walker is ready for the rebound after a free throw shot. The Lady Argylls hosted the Frankton Eagles in a competitive CIC game with the Argylls coming out on top by only two points.

Coming to a jump stop, varsity player junior Bridget Jones gets ready to pull up a shot over the Lakeview Christian Lions. Bridget led the Lady Argylls to a victory over the Lions just as she led the team the whole season as the leading scorer.

Driving the ball to the basket, junior j.v. player Kelly Mason gets the first step over her Anderson opponent. Kelly was a major asset to the j.v. team and also helped the varsity towards the end of the season.

Sophomore wrestler Eddie Ryan fights to make it to his feet in his 125 match against a Tipton Blue Devils opponent. Eddie was a second year wrestler gaining experience and hoping to have a successful career in wrestling.

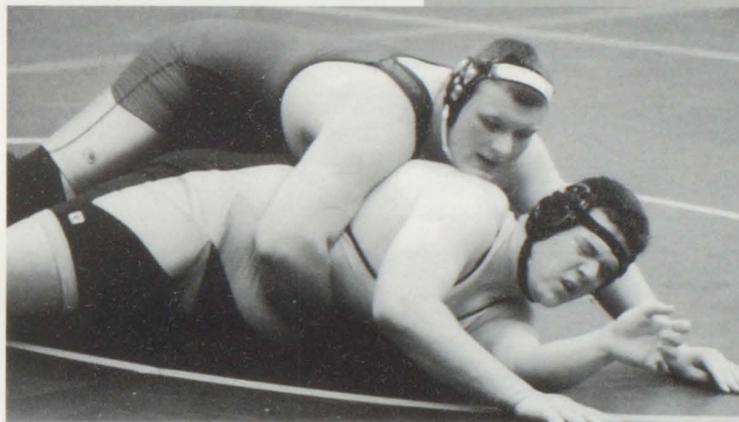

Junior wrestler Andy Stanley prepares to shoot on his Tipton Blue Devils opponent. Andy was among the leaders of Madison-Grant wrestling team. Andy was also a first year captain of the wrestling team.

Senior Damon Stansberry holds up his Grant Four championship ribbon and brackets. Damon came in first place at Grant Four and sectional. He was one of the only seniors who led the Argylls.

Chemistry teacher Mr. Earnest assists a student in a classroom experiment during the spring semester. Chemistry was a favorite science class among students because of the activities and experiments involved.

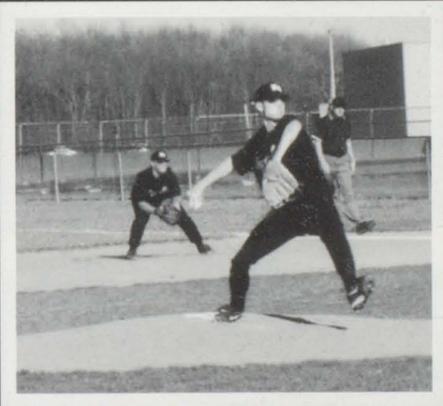

The varsity baseball team enjoys watching a game from the dugout. Baseball, softball, and track and field were sports that students enjoyed participating in during the spring season.

Boys practice the dance moves for "Be True to Your School." Madison-Grant hosted the annual Madison County Choral Festival.

Senior Cari Everett and Travis Harrington prepare to perform the choreography to "Flashdance". The theme of this year's Arguys 'N Gals spring show was movies.

Spring

Spring had sprung and began to fill student life with a newfound enthusiasm. Choral students blossomed with beautiful notes at the annual Madison County Choral Festival, held at M-G, and spring athletes began preparing for great seasons of track, softball, baseball, and golf. Spanish students celebrated the turn of spring with Cinco De Mayo, and the annual Scholastic Awards banquet was held to honor those students with excellent academic achievement.

Spanish teacher Senora Melson and junior Casey Blanton try to clean up the crushed egg shells off of the ground after the Cinco de Mayo celebration in 4th period Spanish III class.

New National Honor Society Inductees:
 Kevin Cline, Kylie Croaff, Heather Huffman,
 Brooke Huntzinger Row 2: Brooke Jones,
 Stephen Jones, Sean Pogue, Sabrina Saathoff

Proud of their son's achievements, the Pogues enjoy some cake with Sean. A parent's influence is very important in a student's ability to do well in school. The reception was held in the home ec room immediately following the ceremony.

Senior Amanda Taylor hands a candle to inductee junior Kylie Croaff as part of the National Honor Society ceremony. The induction ceremony in the auditorium was witnessed by the student body, faculty members, parents, and honored guests.

Senior T.J. Fech "passes the torch" to junior Kevin Cline. Kevin and the other inductees were overjoyed that their hard work had paid off when they were "tapped" (to indicate they were to be new members of NHS) during 6th period.

English teacher and National Honor Society co-sponsor Mrs. Herring commends the National Honor Society members for their academic excellence as well as for their leadership roles in the school and community.

Junior Stephen Jones enjoys a nice plate of cake after the National Honor Society induction. Steve looked forward to continuing on the well-respected tradition that is N.H.S.

Senior Annie Painter delivers the student response during the Scholastic Awards Program. Annie has been able to maintain a 3.5 GPA through seven semesters.

Junior Leanna Huff accepts her plaque from her father, Superintendent Dr. Robert Huff. For maintaining a 3.5 or higher GPA through five semesters, juniors received a plaque.

Juniors Dawn Lashure and Kevin Cline take a break from all of the dancing. Students danced and sang everything from the Electric Slide to the Train.

Chowing down at the senior luncheon Mark Earnest and Jeremy Freel take advantage of the wide selection of food brought in by the seniors' parents.

Pretending to hold candles as part of the graduation ceremony, seniors Damon Stansberry and Misty Timbs walk in under the lovely arch to their seats for commencement rehearsal.

Seniors Reid Bradnick and Craig Havens hold up the line as they put condiments on their hot dogs during the senior picnic.

Helping herself to a hamburger, senior Kari Ward enjoys her last day as a high school student. The senior picnic and graduation practice gave seniors one last chance to see friends.

While watching a basketball game, juniors Ross Click and Sean Callahan and sophomore Kory Gipson take time out of a fun-filled Friday night to see the Argylls in action. Attending games was one thing M-G students spent their weekends doing.

Doing what she does best, secretary Mrs. Grindle proudly shows how much work it is to keep Madison-Grant "in check". Our secretaries keep busy everyday by answering phones, typing, and making sure everything is running smoothly. It's secretaries like ours who deserve more than one Secretary's Day a year!

Every Tuesday, students from Taylor and Madison-Grant come together to enjoy a fun evening of Campus Life sponsored by Mr. Earnest. The purpose of Campus Life is to learn more about Jesus by participating in fun activities. It helps kids deal with problems through prayer and Jesus.

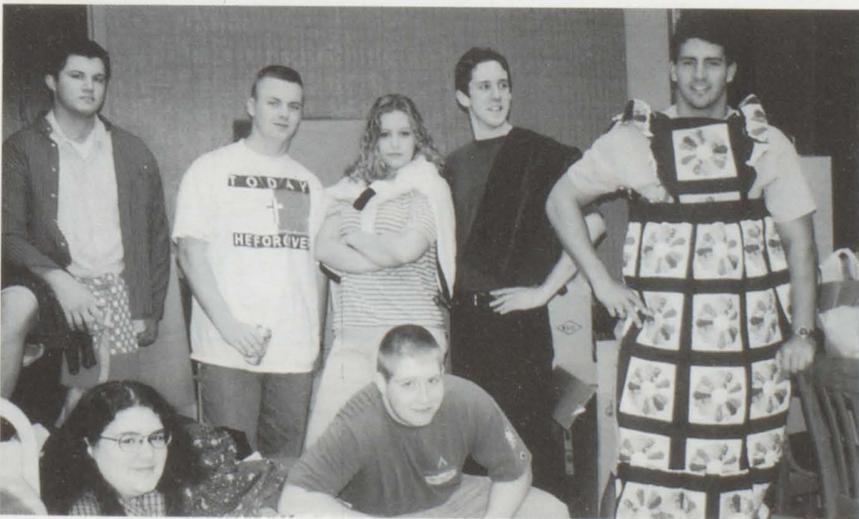

Freshman j.v. cheerleader Jerin Harvey leads the crowd in a chant. Cheerleaders brought frustration and excitement to all games, but in the end the cheerleaders always came out on top!

With a little over five minutes left in the first half of the Unified Basketball game, Marion is leading by four. Unfortunately, Marion came out with a win over Madison-Grant, but M-G put up a strong fight with defensive and offensive plays.

Giving his speech at the Scholastic Awards, principal Mr. Martin lets students and parents know how proud he is of their accomplishments. Mr. Martin is always making certain that M-G students are doing well in their classes and their extra-curricular activities.

Members of the National Honor Society show off what they have collected to give to the Salvation Army. Many students and faculty participated in the drive because they knew it was for a good cause. Madison-Grant is always looking for good ways to help the less fortunate.

Golf

Senior shot putter Seth Hollingsworth tosses himself to a third place finish at the Oak Hill Relays. Seth spent a lot of time in the weight room getting buff for his senior year, and all the work definitely paid off.

Senior track sensation Kyle Feller pulls away to finish 1st in the 400 meter dash. Throughout Kyle's 4 years in track he has qualified in state, and earned numerous other accomplishments.

Girls Track: Front Row: Kelli McDuffee, Nicole Skinner, Shawn Barkdull, Brandy Tucker, Jerin Harvey, Jessica Howard. Row 2: Annamarie Devenere, Desiree Justus, Jenny Dickey, Whitney Shultz, Adessa Spangler. Junior Beth Barnes competes in the long jump at the Grant-4. She finished second in the long jump while also winning the 4x400 meter relay and placing very high in both the high jump and the 400 meter dash.

Junior hurdling buff Jenny Dickey breaks away from the competition against Oak Hill and Elwood. Jenny has been a three year hurdler for the Argylls.

Baseball

Junior Matt Stephenson throws to a Yorktown batter in a home. Although losing to Yorktown in the baseball team's first game, it began what would be a highly successful season.

When the pitching against Yorktown went sour, first year coach Steven Shugart gives his expert advice on what to do. The players took to Shugart's coaching well this season.

Although unknowingly seconds away from receiving a hard line drive, senior third baseman Brock Ricks steps fearlessly into the line of fire. Brock was a captain and made many amazing plays this season.

Even while practicing junior, Heather Hanlon proves that she's ready to win. Heather was a great benefit to the team at No. 1 singles for JV.
